Notice of Annual Meeting

The Annual General Meeting of the Shareholders of this Company for the election of Directors, Reception of Annual Report, and other purposes, will take place at the Company's Offices, George Street Peterborough, on Friday, the 23rd, day of January 1914, at 2 o'clock p.m.

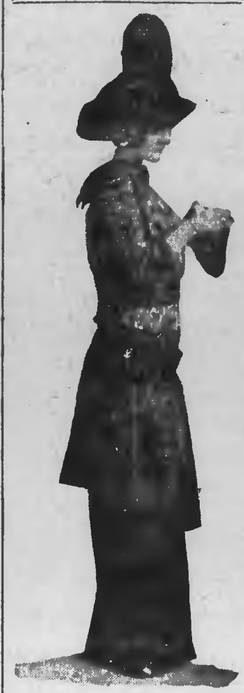
Peterborough, Jan. 8th, 1914.

ADOLESCENT TYPE.

Paris Now Creates a New Phase of Gown.



AFTERNOON FROCK OF STITCHED MOIRE.

A Parisian chronicler of fashion has dubbed the present sartorial mood of the City of Light "la mode adolescente." Surely this is a very apt description of the costumes being sent over from the other side of the pond. There is a languor and abandon about the lines that suggests the soft, pliant, yielding figure of the adolescent, and in no costume of the season is this phase of the mode more apparent than in afternoon frocks.

This costume is the backbone of every well dressed woman's wardrobe. It meets so many varied engagements of the day. It is charming for an afternoon bridge, for luncheon and for the club meeting or for formal calling.

Illustrated is a delightful example of the daytime gown, carried out in black moire. The striking feature of this model is the machine stitching done in white thread which outlines the bodice, producing a brocaded effect. This is the last cry in applied designs.

Ears Are Fashionable.

Ears are coming into fashion again. The hair, which for some time past women have worn low with bandeaux, is now brushed back from the face, leaving ears clearly revealed. Earrings are consequently in great favor, the latest thing being large tortise shell rings or huge drops adorned with bells of gold.

The tiny hat is also modified. It now grips the head under the ears and has three decks, the top one consisting of a mass of supple velvet folded. The tendency is toward the tallest headgear.

Shine on the Serge Office Skirt.

For the business woman who each day presides at a desk and uses a smooth faced office chair, and who soon finds her serge skirt getting that inevitable "shiny look," which sponging and pressing never quite eradicate, here is nothing better than this simple advice:

Always keep on the chair seat a covering of thin, rough leather. This leather sent against the cane or wood will prevent all friction when turning or getting up and down, and the skirt will keep its original finish until worn out.

IN CHANCERY.

Telling the Romance of a Much-Misunderstood Institution.

For twenty-five years a lady called periodically at the offices of the Commissioners for the Reduction of the National Debt, and presented a little claim for $6,500,000, which, she said, was in Chancery. And many other people cherish a similar delusion with regard to the great legal institution which, unknown to them, touches their lives at many points. They suppose it to be merely a deposit for derelict gold.

There are millions — hundreds of millions—in Chancery; but the proportion of this vast sum that is unclaimed is comparatively small. Owneless accounts, the records relating to which do not go back farther than 1720, aggregate more than five million dollars, and are, for the most part, relatively small in value. While not one—and in all there are about 3,000—is worth less than $250, one-half do not exceed $750 in value, and only about one-twentieth exceed $5,000.

Substantial sums, however, are frequently recovered from Chancery, in some cases after the lapse of a very long period. In 1893 a claim was successfully made to a fund which had been in court since 1753. There was another curious case in 1909 when Chancery yielded up a fund it had held for 125 years. The amount —$3,500—represented the estate of a lady who was married in 1784, and who disappeared on her wedding day.

Equally singular, but for another reason, were the circumstances connected with a claim made a few years ago. After the estate of a certain lady had been in Chancery for a comparatively short time, a number of claimants came forward, and it was distributed among them.

Four years later, a solicitor advertised for the lady, in the belief that she was still alive, and his advertisement coming to the notice of some of the deceased elatives who had not participated in the distribution, they made inquiries, and, as a result, naturally wanted their share of the estate.

Then the trouble began.

Several of the beneficiaries had spent the money they had received, and one of these was actually insolvent; so there was nothing to be got from them. But three other persons, two of them maiden ladies, had their windfalls still intact, and were obliged to deliver them up to the last cent, because they were no so near of kin to the deceased as the new claimants.

Most of such laims are prosecuted by a peculiar class of workers on Tom Tiddler's ground. Known as "Chancery excavators," they spend much time in digging among the records of the court, and strange indeed are many of their "finds."

One of them some years back hit on a clue to the ownership of $3,500 which had been lying in court for half a century, and, after numerous searches, worked out the whole history of the fund, which was ultimately paid to the executor of the man in whose name it stood.

In addition to money, many other things go in Chancery; and there has not been a time for centuries when it did not hold land and buildings.

Never, perhaps, did real estate pass into its keeping in stranger circumstances than in a case which happened about ten or fifteen years ago. In consequence of losing a law suit, a Hampshire landowner abandoned his farm in a fit of pique, and for long afterwards it was, with the exception of one field, which was cultivated by the vicar for his tithe, a melancholy waste.

Impeachment In England.

In England it was the old practice to impeach for conduct out of office. Private citizens could be impeached. Dr. Sacheverell was impeached for preaching an unpopular sermon, the Duke of Richmond for proposing an adjournment of the House of Lords and Inigo Jones for tearing down a church. But in America impeachment has been restricted to men in office for conduct in office.

Greater Longevity of Women.

The British Government's old age pension scheme is producing some remarkable figures, for the statistics of 1912 show that 693,380 women were in receipt of old age pensions, as compared with only 462,623 men.

German Gleanings.

Germany is said to have an oversupply of foresters, so that well educated men have hard work to secure even inferior positions.

HEART WAS SO BAD

Could Not Do Her Housework

Many women get run down and are unable to look after their household duties owing to the heart action becoming impaired or the nervous system unstrung.

To all such sufferers Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills will give prompt and permanent relief.

Mrs. Thomas Melville, Saltcoats, Sask., writes:—"I thought it my duty to write and tell you how much your Heart and Nerve Pills did for me. My heart was so bad I could not sleep, eat nor walk about the house. I could not do my housework at all, and what my husband could not do had to go undone. I had two small children depending on me besides three men to cook for, and it worried me to not be able to do anything. My husband had taken some of your pills some years ago, and insisted on me trying them, so I started, and before I had taken them two weeks I was considerably better, and before I had taken two boxes I was doing my own work again. Any one suffering from heart or nerve trouble should just give your pills a trial. If anyone cares to write me I will gladly give them all the information I know concerning your wonderful medicine."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50 cents per box, or three boxes for $1.25, at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

MILITANT SUFFRAGISM.

Stands For Something Which Has Nothing to Do With the Vote.

Amidst the welter of sentiment and violence that the suffrage movement has evolved of late in England one clear, plain and vital problem has presented itself for the consideration of the most thoughtful of the country's men and women. It is this: "What is to be done with the unmarried women?"

In England, no matter how many women are married off, it always seems that more and more are left over. You find them working by the dozen in every office in London. You see them swarming all over the omnibuses and crowding the suburban trains. You hear them singing and practicing the piano in the squares of Bayswater and villas of Hampstead and Streatham. You see them—these crowds of marriageable but unmarried young women—disporting themselves in the sea, listening to the band on the pier or being shown off by the matchmaking mothers.

It seems that there is scarcely anything that can be done for this restless and exacting young woman. She seizes upon a pleasure, but the end of it leaves her bored and miserable. She would like to be permanently active and interested, but there is no permanent activity of which she is capable. She has been spoiled for work; she has been spoiled for pleasure; she has scarcely even been fitted for matrimony, should chance and her own charms throw a husband in her path. She will perhaps develop hysteria; she will probably become conscious of "nerves"; in any case she will be a trouble to everyone until she gets tired of being a trouble to herself, and becomes a gossip instead.

Romance has taught them to expect much from life, whilst their educators have taught them nothing, and when life cheats them they turn to the intoxication of militant suffragism.

There is certainly no doubt that militant suffragism ought to have been examined more seriously from this point of view, which is largely pathological. After all, as it has been so frequently pointed out, men have had certain definite grievances which they thought the vote would remove. On the other hand, these English suffragettes are demanding the abstraction of the franchise more vehemently than they complain of the grievance which the vote is to abolish. And one of the wisest physicians in England explains the phenomenon on these lines:

"The unmarried woman wants something, though she does not always know what. She is dissatisfied though she cannot always tell what it is that makes her dissatisfied. If she is doing work which it is not really her function to do, her heart cries out against the unnatural condition of things. If, on the other hand, she is doing nothing, and does not know what she wants, she still cries out for that intangible something which the vote, all else failing, may perhaps—perhaps—give.

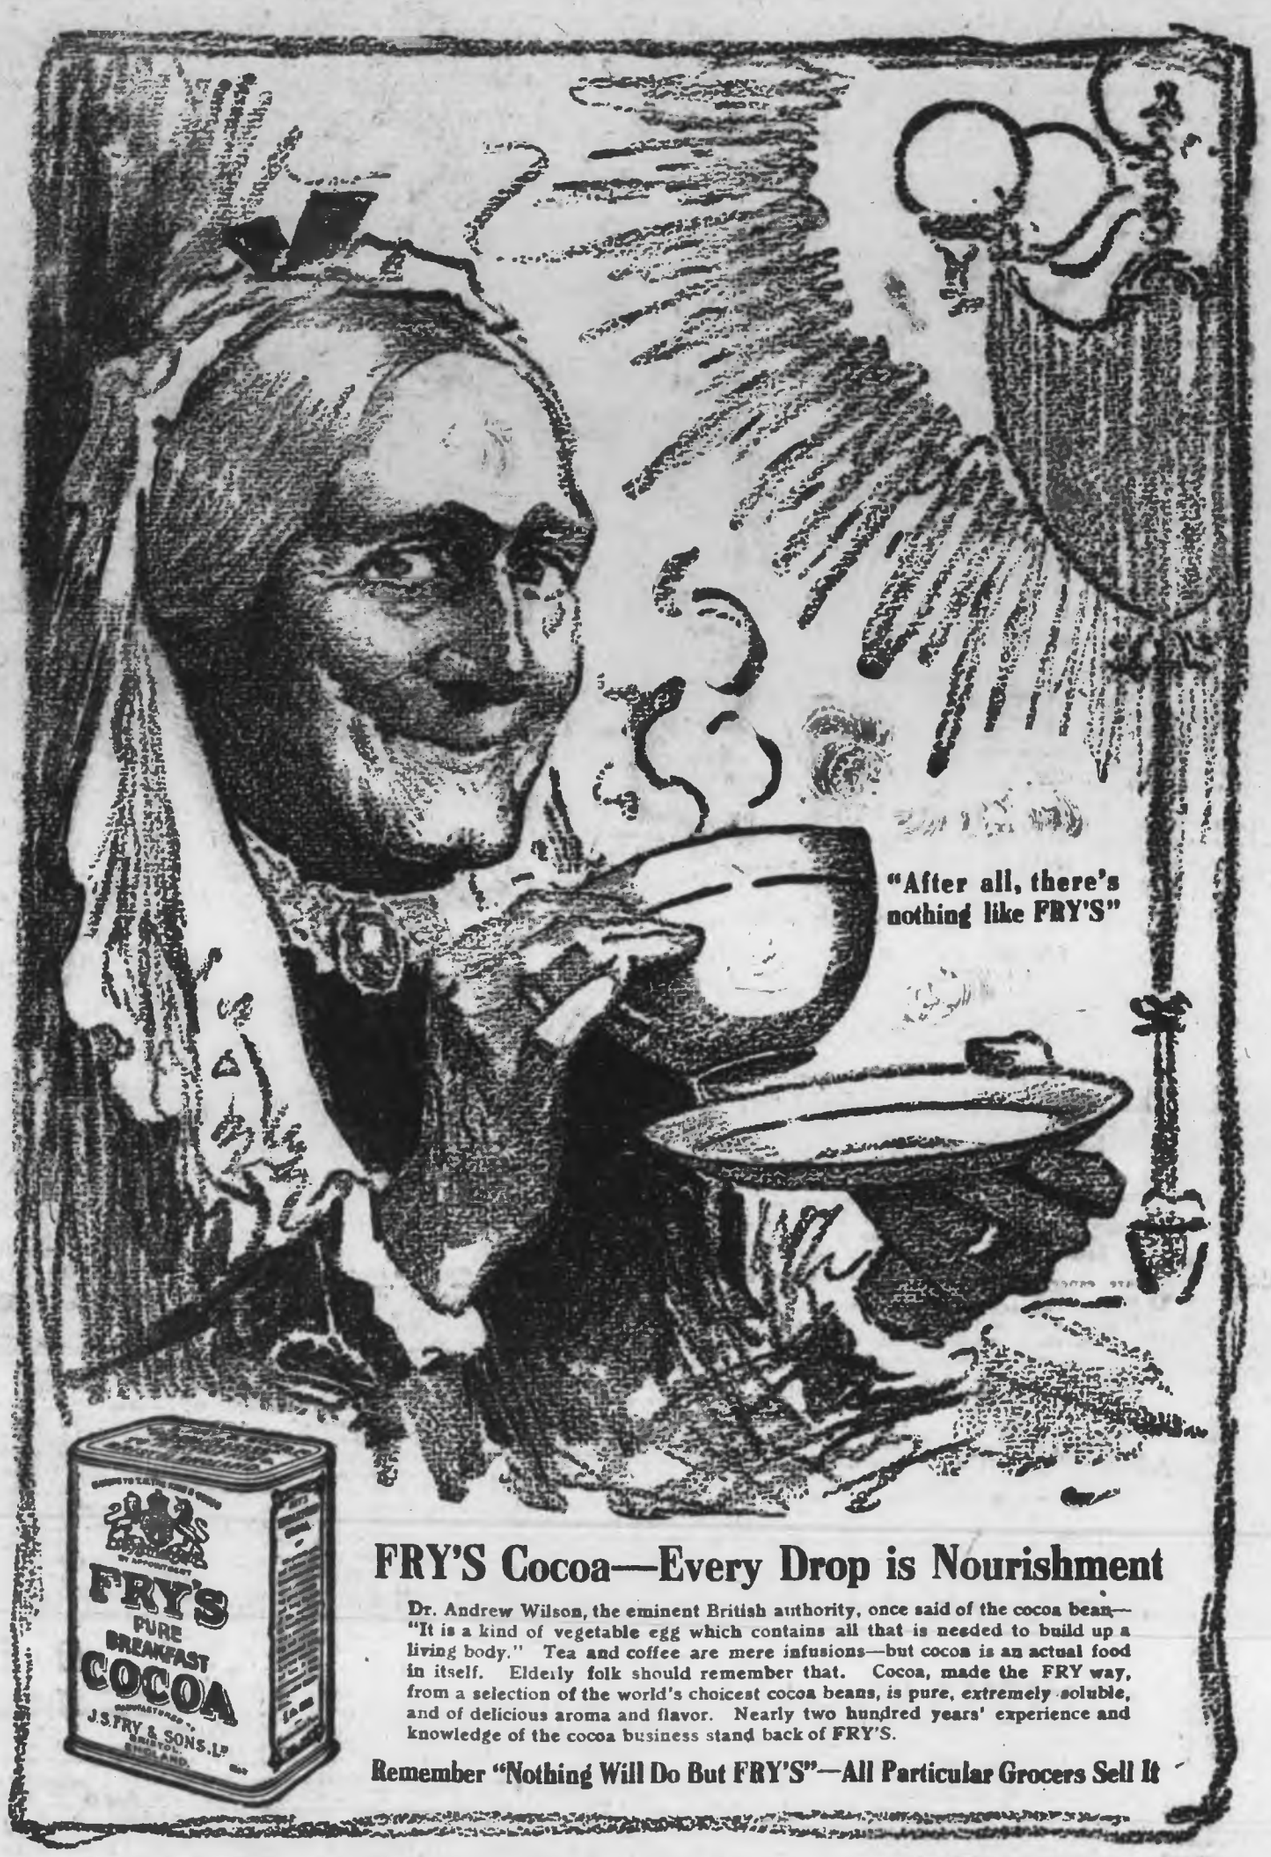
"In either case we can see the thwarted impulse, the unsatisfied desire, the divine discontent which make men and women alike fanatics on behalf of the first cause that comes to hand. In militancy is a cause to serve, an ideal, and an activity on behalf of an ideal. Surely what all these women have been suffering from has generally been either a monotonous activity without an ideal, or a romantic ideal without an activity. Militant suffragism gives both."

What should by this time be perfectly clear to every onlooker is that the violent suffrage agitation stands for something very real and that that something has nothing whatever to do with the vote. Any excuse for idealism would have done just as well. It stands, surely, for a desire for some more vital activity than is at present offered to hundreds of thousands of women; it springs from the knowledge of some function that is not fulfilled; some need for an inspired or sacrificial life that is satisfied neither by modern business nor by modern idleness.

Famous for Poor Writing.

The atrocious writing of celebrities recalls the claim once made on behalf of Baron Bramwell, a noted Englishman, that he wrote three hands: "One which he alone could read, another which his clerk could read and he couldn't, and a third which nobody could read," and the last named was his usual style.

Lord Curzon, when a young man at college, once found his bad writing stand him in good stead. Writing two letters, one to a relative, the other to a chum, he enclosed them in the wrong envelopes. It chanced that in the second letter he had made some uncomplimentary reference to his relative, and on discovering the mistake he had made he awaited developments with anxiety. There presently came a letter from the uncle: "I have tried to decipher your epistle," it ran, "but your writing is so atrocious that I cannot make head or tail of it. However, I guess the drift of it to be that you need some money, you rogue, so I enclose a check."



FRY'S Cocoa—Every Drop is Nourishment

Dr. Andrew Wilson, the eminent British authority, once said of the cocoa bean—"It is a kind of vegetable egg which contains all that is needed to build up a living body." Tea and coffee are mere infusions—but cocoa is an actual food in itself. Elderly folk should remember that. Cocoa, made the FRY way, from a selection of the world's choicest cocoa beans, is pure, extremely soluble, and of delicious aroma and flavor. Nearly two hundred years' experience and knowledge of the cocoa business stand back of FRY'S.

Butter, Eggs, And Oleomargarine

Special Wire to The Examiner:

CHICAGO, ILL., Jan. 22.— Eggs, butter and oleomargarine will sizzle in the Federal frying pan here next week, unless unforeseen complications arise to delay the trial of cases now on the docket in Judge Landis' court.

Arguments on the Government's civil and anti-trust suit against the Chicago Butter and Egg Board are scheduled to begin before Judge Landis on Monday. The same day has been set for beginning the trials of prominent officials of several of the big oleomargarine companies who are under Federal indictment for alleged conspiracy to violate the Federal laws governing the payment of a special tax on oleomargarine containing an artificial colouring matter. Both the butter and egg and the oleomargarine cases have attracted wide attention.

The anti-trust suit was brought against the Chicago Butter and Egg Board at about the same time that a similar suit was filed against the Elgin Board of Trade, popularly known as the "butter trust." A close connection is supposed to have existed between the two organizations and the complaints against them are practically identical in their nature. The complaint against the Butter and Egg Board makes sweeping charges of conspiracy to fix arbitrarily the price of butter and eggs in the interest of the big dealers and cold storage men and to the detriment of the farmer, other small producers and the consuming public.

The defendants in the oleomargarine cases are John Dadie, president of the William J. Moxley Company, and John F. Jelke, president of the John F. Jelke Company. Back of the charges is the allegation that the Government has been defrauded out of more than $1,000,000 by the big oleomargarine manufacturers through the practice of evading the Government tax on their products.

The indictments against Dadie and Jelke were returned more than three years ago. Every effort to bring the cases to trial had met with opposition on the part of counsel for the defendants. A year ago, it is said, much pressure was brought to bear on President Taft to get him to order the dismissal of the indictments, but the effort was unsuccessful.

The maximum penalty for the offenses charged in the indictments against Dadie and Jelke is two years imprisonment or a fine of $10,000, or both. Jelke, it is asserted, offered to pay a fine which would more than repay the Government for the losses in revenue through the unlawful making of the oleomargarine.

URIC ACID SUFFERING

Uric acid is an accumulation of poison which finds lodgment in the system when the kidneys fail to remove it from the blood. In the kidneys and bladder it forms stones, in the joints and muscles it causes rheumatism. In any case the pain and suffering is almost beyond human endurance. Uric acid is promptly removed from the system when the kidneys are kept healthy and active by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

HANDY WATER FOR WASH-DAY

Where there is not running water in the house, a barrel with a faucet placed about one-third of the distance up from the bottom may stand in the shed within equa'v easy reach of both boiler and tubs. This should be filled with water the day before the washing is to be done. If the men can always do this filling with the aid of a stepladder the barrel may rest on a platform raised high enough to allow the water to run by gravity through the faucet and be carried through a length of rubber hose directly into the tubs or boiler.

Those who are fortunate enough to have a pump very near the shed may use this same rubber tubing to fill the barrel without the aid of stepladder or men. A home-made drain leading from the shed to a safe distance from the house and well, and emptying where the water will be carried off and the ground kept sterilized by sunlight, will very much lessen the heavy labor of emptying tubs, besides protecting the worker from exposure to winter cold.

Soft water is preferable for use in all laundry work, but if not available hard water should be softened on the day previous to washing and allowed to settle.

—Farm and Dairy

HOUSEHOLD NOTES.

The term "folding" used in recipes means the cutting down and lifting up of the mixture in such a way as to distribute it over as little as possible.

Potatoes are not so apt to rot if the cellar is not kept too warm. Sprinkle air-slaked lime among them and cover them lightly to keep the light out.

When churning it is sometimes difficult to make the butter gather. Try putting a little soda in the cream. It will cause the scattered bits of butter to gather.

To distinguish cotton from linen moisten a spot of the material. If the material wets through instantly, it is pure linen; cotton does not take up moisture so quickly.

Black walnut furniture or furniture made of any dark rich wood should be cleaned occasionally with a soft rag dipped in paraffin oil, then polished with another soft rag.

There is always a cause for a flickering kerosene oil light. Either the top is clogged, the wick or chimney is a misfit, or a draught of wind may be blowing into the room.

To clean velvet stretch it taut, pile upward, over a basin of boiling water. As the steam rises through the velvet have a second person brush it briskly with a clean brush.

When the eyes ache, relieve them by closing them for a few minutes. If there is a burning sensation, bathe them with hot water, to which a few drops of witch hazel has been added.

A good method of cleaning black jet is to first brush it free from dust, then apply a little olive oil by means of a brush, then polish with chamois. Care should be taken not to break the jet.

The best way to clean the beanpot: Fill with cold water, put in some kind of washing powder and cover tight. Put on the stove and let it come to a boil. This will make it easy to wash.

When frying doughnuts it is a good idea to have a dish of boiling water on the stove. As each cake is done lift it out with a fork and dash quickly into the boiling water and out again.

If your kitchen is small and crowded take out the kitchen table and have a hinged shelf made. A shelf answers every purpose of a table and can be put down out of the way when not in use.

If the gilded picture frames have become discoloured, take the water in which onions have been boiled, dip a soft rag in it, and wipe over the frames.

OPERATIONS OF FAKE POOLROOMS REVEALED

How Horse Race Swindler, with Fascinating Woman as Bait, Fleeced Man-About-Town Just as Easily as He Would a "Rube"

GROOMED to a resplendent finish, H. C. Wellsworth dawdled in front of a New York hotel one June afternoon, with $3,000 in an inner pocket importuning him to be drawn forth for investment. As to the particular kind of investment the $3,000 had no choice. No more choice than its owner.

She was a woman about the age of—well, never mind the age. She was just when they are the most dangerous if a man is a poor hand at withstanding a fascinating eye flash and a smile that conveys just the very faintest suggestion of "I'd like you, I know, if I could only know you to like." She was a very handsome blonde—Wellsworth always thought brunettes had no right on earth—and she was richly garbed, so that natural grace and fine apparel made her a blend of attractiveness far out of the ordinary.

Wellsworth caught just one corner of the eye gleam and the faint—very faint—formation and radiation of a dimple.

Within half an hour after he first saw her Mr. Wellsworth and this very fascinating blonde sat tête-à-tête in a private dining room. The more the gentleman who owned the $3,000 saw of the lady the more he was sensible of an unwonted palpitation. She was a thoroughbred, and no mistake, he kept saying to himself, and the $3,000 in his inner pocket seemed to rustle approval with every such thought.

"Gracious, but it is indeed hard to shake off lonesomeness in a strange city," said Mrs. Alma Marvin—that was the name engraved on the dainty card she handed Wellsworth when he had pretended to recognize in her an old acquaintance. "I can't seem to accustom myself to it. Here I am waiting for my husband, who will reach here from London next Tuesday. I've all the time I wish and—you'll pardon me for saying it so parvenu like—all the money, too. And yet I'm lonesome.

"Yes," drawled Mrs. Marvin, as they sipped another specially concocted cocktail, "I can't even seem to be pointed right to make a good little side flyer in a speculative way. You see, Chris—I mean Mr. Marvin, my husband—is quite a man in wheat in Chicago. He has got me much in his ways. He often says that he has made the most of his big deals while he was only bent on having a good time. The chance seemed to intrude itself right on him.

"Now somehow or other it seems to have become known in my hotel that I am alone and that—well, that I have a little money to spend," went on Mrs. Marvin. "Why, only this morning the proprietor telephoned up to ask if he might call. I said certainly, but wondered what it was he wished to see me so confidentially about. Would you believe it, he apologized profusely, but nevertheless gave me the address of a place where there is what you call horse race betting going on. I could not feel offended, he was so nice when he said that he had always found Chicago women so much more sprightly and full of verve and nerve than the more sedate Eastern women. I have been thinking it over—although, you may be sure, I didn't let him see I was over eager to get the information. It's so vulgar to be overeager to gain money, don't you think so?"

The $3,000 in Mr. Wellsworth's pocket kept pensively still. Mr. Wellsworth himself, however, felt the anticipative thump of heart that goes along with the assurance of a nearing legacy—the itch of the hand when you are supposed, according to tradition, to rub the hand on wood so as to bring the good luck to pass.

"Where did the hotel proprietor say this betting place was?" he asked as he mentally appraised the larger diamond on the third finger of her left hand at $1,000 at the least.

"Why, it's somewhere next door to a café on Lexington avenue. I have the number here. I took it carelessly because I did not wish to have him think I was anxious to make money by betting. You pass from the rear of the café to a real estate office next door—only it isn't a real real estate office. You rap four times, first one rap, then a pause, then three raps all together. A man opens the door on a crack and you just say 'Sponge'—funny thing to say, isn't it?—and he lets you in. When you are inside you can bet on all kinds of racing that is against the law. Isn't it delicious to think of breaking the law and making money while you are doing it?"

"But wouldn't it look strange for a lady like you to rap for admission and say 'Sponge?'" asked Wellsworth, his eyes gleaming with the possibility of a secret jilt with the bookmakers.

"Oh, apparently not strange at all," replied Mrs. Marvin, gripping Wellsworth's fingers—just by way of unconscious emphasis no doubt. "The proprietor told me that if I decided to go there for a little excitement I would find a ladies' room there—specially prepared for ladies who find themselves lonesome and, like me, inclined to bet just like their Chicago husbands."

"This looks pretty soft to me," murmured Wellsworth—to himself, of course. "What do you say if we try this place and make a bet or two just for diversion?" he asked his companion. He scented a possibility of getting somebody's money. It might be on a bet with the bookmakers or it might be some of the Chicago lady's money. He didn't exactly see the path to a finish, but he would get his bearings in a minute.

"Now it seems to me as though I had known you for many, many years," said Mrs. Marvin. Wellsworth had heard this kind of talk before—on the stage and off. Somehow it didn't seem to be so artificial as he generally considered it. "I know I can trust you," she continued, gazing long and earnestly at him. Wellsworth didn't know how earnest the look really was—how much of it meant a close sizing up of risks. He thought about it later on—rather a too late later on.

Mrs. Marvin, seemingly satisfied with her close scrutiny of her companion, opened her handbag and took out her purse. The $3,000 was doing a fine tango selection in Wellsworth's pocket. Almost, it seemed, Wellsworth could hear the bills say, "Welcome to our cellar." The lady took from her purse five $1,000 bills, the kind the fictionist calls "crisp and new." She took no pains to hide that she had many more left. They all looked good. That's an expression used every day. Take it any way you wish. They looked good, with the emphasis on the verb.

"Now, I do not suppose it would appear very nice for a lady to wager openly on her first visit," said Mrs. Marvin. "It is more for the—what shall I say—the deviltry of it that I'd go at all. Now would you mind taking this $5,000 of mine and betting it according to your judgment after we get there? It is not so much a matter of trusting you to do so as it is the protection it will afford me." She passed the bills over to Wellsworth. He gulped hard.

"I'll be only too glad to go with you to the poolroom and bet your money to the best of my judgment," said Wellsworth, bowling, for he recognized a good sport, and good, easy picking for some one, he thought. "Of course, you know the old saying that a woman is so illogical that she cannot lose philosophically. No doubt you are different and would not weep if you plunged and lost."

"Not at all, not at all," answered Mrs. Marvin, easily. "I take the risk. If it was a sure thing it would be monotonously vulgar. Now, Chris—I mean my husband, Mr. Marvin—has taught me nothing if he hasn't taught me that. He says he'd rather die a good sport in the almshouse than to become sordidly rich on constant good things. He likes the risk—oh, I can tell you he likes the risk—so bet away for me, and remember there's plenty more in the bag if I lose that."

On the way to the Lexington avenue café Wellsworth felt somewhat like that half conscience stricken man you've heard about—the one who remorsefully said it was like "taking candy from a baby." His mind began to work very swiftly after he had pocketed the $5,000. Suppose he should get away from Mrs. Marvin. Then he could double back to the hotel, get his grip and while speeding toward Toronto he could call it a pretty good afternoon's work. He knew the place to do the slipping away. There was a rathskeller on the way to the Lexington avenue café. It had two entrances—one entirely out of sight of the other. He could order another cocktail and go out the rear entrance never to return. This was a lucrative idea—not excruciatingly clever, but financially sound.

But as they sauntered through Broadway a chance remark—just a little chance remark, entirely so—altered all of the plausible scheme. This was the remark, and so artlessly made that Mr. Wellsworth wondered patronizingly how a woman of the intelligence of Mrs. Marvin could be so unsophisticated.

"I forgot to tell you," purred she, clinging closer to his arm than absolutely necessary, "that the proprietor said something about there being a great race programme to-day and that if a person with money was willing to enter into a partnership there was a way that a man in the poolroom could get advance information—that's what he called it, I think—so that he could tell pretty near which horse would win. Not for sure, of course, that would rob it of the risk, but some subtler way of judging things pretty sure."

"That's the Man," Cried Wellsworth.

"Something like what they call wire tapping?" asked Wellsworth tensely, his heart thumping again at the prospect of getting close to even a bigger "piece of money" than could be obtained if he decided on eluding the woman.

"That's what it was," cried Mrs. Marvin eagerly—"wire tapping. I remember the word now. The proprietor started to explain it all to me, but it was like a lot of business rubbish my husband talks of to me. But I remember he used those words, and he said there was a chance today to clean up a million on the bookmakers."

"Suppose we hurry up; maybe some of the chances will be gone before we get there," said Mr. Wellsworth. He wanted to appear droll, and at the same time he didn't want delayed progress. So they hurried along and soon reached the Lexington avenue café. They had a quick cocktail and were directed toward the poolroom door. The "one and three" raps opened the door immediately—on a crack, as had been told.

"Sponge!" said Mr. Wellsworth firmly. Wide open the door went and in went he and his companion. The place was full of men standing in groups near a window marked "Cashier" or in front of a bulletin board which contained a number of entries at the various race tracks. The sound of a telegraph instrument ticking out its dots and dashes was heard. There was a constant buzz of voices, but it was all subdued in tone. To the right was another room with glazed doors marked "Ladies."

Wellsworth escorted Mrs. Marvin toward the door. Just as they neared it a smiling gentleman, dressed quietly but in most excellent taste, approached. Mr. Wellsworth didn't know it, but the gentleman was Mr. Christopher J. Tracy lately returned from a jaunt abroad following a successful appeal to the highest judicial tribunal of the State not to imprison him for relieving Mr. John J. Felix of $50,000 in connection with a "sure thing" race track scheme. Mind you, I didn't say Mrs. Marvin didn't know it was Tracy.

"Beg pardon," bowed Tracy, "but isn't this Mrs. Marvin? Mr. —— [the proprietor of the hotel mentioned by Mrs. Marvin] telephoned me that he had given our password to you. You see, it was necessary to tell me. We have to be so careful as to who uses the word 'Sponge.' He said you might be interested in our system of betting. Won't you and your friend step into the ladies' wagering room? I am Mr. Harold P. Swinger."

The three went into the wagering room, Mrs. Marvin introducing Mr. Wellsworth. She lost no time.

"Mr. Wellsworth is a very dear and old friend of mine," she said. "I have intrusted him with a little money for me to bet because it is best that a man have charge of such things, although I enjoy the excitement of the bet."

Mr. Swinger placed a finger on his lips, smiling a command to silence. Then he tiptoed to the door and locked it.

"Did my friend at the hotel explain our proposal?" he inquired of Mrs. Marvin.

"Yes, he said something about you having a 'sure thing,' as he called it, and then something about something he called 'wire tapping.'"

"Hush!" enjoined Mr. Swinger, but still smiling in his caution. "We have to be very careful. Right at this time especially, for on this very day we are about closing a scheme to make a million."

The words ending in million, slowly and significantly spoken, caused a strange palpitation in the breast of Mr. Wellsworth. Here was all kinds of wealth within his grip. How foolish he thought Mrs. Marvin's next words.

"Oh, I don't care a bit about your wire tapping idea. I just want to bet. Mr. Wellsworth will bet $5,000 for me, just for the excitement of it."

"Let me show you both what can be done if you have the advantages that we possess," said Mr. Swinger earnestly. "There will be five races to-day on the track we command. The first race will be run in a few moments. Now these people outside will be held up on track results just three minutes after the race is run. I get the result of the race during this three minutes by telephone. Get your $5,000 ready to bet. I'll select Rancocas. He's a five to one bet. But Rancocas may not win. Get your money ready and when I pass the word rush to the window and bet."

Wellsworth did a lot of thinking, but prudently decided to wait the result of the plot. Presently the telephone bell in the ladies' room booth rang. Swinger rushed to the booth. In a few seconds he rushed out again.

"Bet your $5,000 on Rancocas, as I said," he whispered, unlocking the door. Like an arrow from a bow Wellsworth sped to the cashier's window.

"Five thousand dollars on Rancocas," he blurted out, when he got his chance to bet. There were three men ahead of him, all betting large rolls of bills. The cashier took Wellsworth's $5,000 as if it were merely a little breakfast money and threw him out a ticket. He returned to the ladies' room, where he found Swinger and Mrs. Marvin engaged in laughing at something quite heartily, showing what a jolly sort both were.

A trifle over two minutes went by. Then a voice was heard:—

"Rancocas first by half a length!"

"What did I tell you?" said Swinger, smiling anew. "Cash in for Mrs. Marvin, Mr. Wellsworth."

Wellsworth went out to the cashier with his ticket. Through the window he received six five-thousand-dollar bills. They looked good to him and he brought them in to Mrs. Marvin. His pulse was throbbing high with excitement. The $5,000 in his own pocket was insistent for the light of day.

"Now," went on Mr. Swinger, as Mrs. Marvin tucked away her winnings as a matter of course way, "there is to be another race in a few minutes. I have no favorite for it, but what difference does that make? I'll get a 'phone from the track fully three minutes before they are at the cashier's window. If you wish to make another trial bet you can prove the system. My object is, however, to lay back for the big last race and put up a very large sum—a sum that will net a million. Those bookmakers are multi-millionnaires and they have got a lot of my good money in the past. I'm going to make one good sweep and take in the Riviera. If you care to join the pool you can share proportionately."

Wellsworth thought hard. He was convinced there was a marvelously good thing at hand, but—but—why wait for the last race? Why not now and use some of the winnings for the last pool. He suggested this.

"No," said Swinger, still smiling. "This last race deal is so big we'll raise a little hue and cry, perhaps; so we have to plan a little more carefully and figure returns with those at the track more exactly. To go in this last pool we must arrange right now."

"I believe," said Wellsworth shrewdly, "I'll try this second race, for all that you suggest for the last, Mr. Swinger."

"Very well," said the smiling Swinger, "and you, Mrs. Marvin?"

"I think I'll remain for the big race only," laughed she in reply. Wellsworth laughed, too, but just as certainly determined to try the second race. He got out his $3,000. Mr. Swinger and Mrs. Marvin gazed at the bills good-naturedly—as folks do when they meet those with whom they feel they will become better acquainted. The telephone rang. Mr. Swinger rushed into the booth just as quickly as in the case of the first race. He rushed out again just as quickly as in the first race. He whispered with the same emphasis as in the first race:—

"Bet your money on Haymaker—he pays 10 to 1."

Mercury was a snail compared to Wellsworth's speed in getting to the cashier's window. There were five men ahead of him, and he fumed and fidgeted with impatience over the delay in placing his money. Finally he got to the window. He fairly hurled the $3,000 through, calling for a ticket on Haymaker. When he put his hand on the knob of the ladies' room door he heard another door slam within, and for the first time felt just a little "queer," although he couldn't have explained why.

He entered the room. It was empty. He knew that Swinger and Mrs. Marvin could not have come out by the only door in evidence, because from his place near the cashier's window he could have seen their exit. How had they got out?

While he stood bewildered a voice called in the outer room:—"Haymaker wins by a nose." Wellsworth felt a glow of satisfaction. It was such a good day's work that he could afford to remain mystified for a moment or two longer, trying to figure out where his good advisers had gone before he cashed in. He waited one minute, two, three, five minutes. Then he gave up and went out to the cashier. He threw his ticket in the window and it was thrown right out at him.

"Where's my money on Haymaker's win?" he bellowed.

"What ye mean by Haymaker?" was snapped back.

"Why, his win was called."

"None of our men called it. Haymaker was left in the stretch."

"You can't win me that way. You know Haymaker won."

"Aw, don't take our word for it, then. Go out and see if Haymaker won. Phone the papers."

"I'll have your pee pulled; you're trying to swindle me!" shouted Wellsworth.

"Aw, go tell a cop about it."

And Wellsworth did. They came, three or four policemen and detectives. And they smashed in the door at had been locked after Wellsworth had gone. Not a soul did they find in the place. They went in the ladies' room. One of the detectives went into the telephone booth. He beckoned to Wellsworth. No other side of the booth was a door in the hall of the apartment house next door.

They piloted Wellsworth up and down the Rogues' Gallery at Police Headquarters. Finally they came a picture of the smiling Mr. Swinger. "That's the man!" cried Wellsworth. The police officers looked at one another and some of them took little pains to conceal their grins.

"Why, that's 'Chris' Tracy, the king of the fake wire-tappers," they explained. "It's no wonder he got you. Why, one time he got $20,000 from an Ohio man by putting up the Flatiron Building security and then treating the man to a swell dinner out of his own money."

Then while Mr. Wellsworth began to talk belligerently they added sardonically:—

"You can't do anything to Tracy for this. You see that although he's a real robber those who enter into a conspiracy to defraud are would-be. The Court of Appeals says so. You were willing bilk the bookmakers. Think it over. Just drop it. It will be less bother for you and less trouble for yourself."

And Wellsworth did drop it for the good reasons suggested. He stayed over the hotel in New York again, just as planned. The $3,000 was no longer in his pocket urging release. Fickle mood. Part of it rested in Mr. Tracy's pocket that night and part in Mrs. Marvin's. And there wasn't a single symptom of St. Vitus' dance that plagued it while in Mr. Wellsworth's possession.

EXCAVATING THE ANCIENT CITY OF SARDIS

ONE of the interesting sidelights on the report of Howard C. Butler, professor of art and archaeology in Princeton University, on the results of the American expedition for the excavation of Sardis, in Asia Minor, last spring was the display of remarkable resourcefulness and ability to surmount almost impossible obstacles on the part of the young American engineers whom Professor Butler took with him to the Orient. When making up the personnel of his party Professor Butler was particularly careful as to whom he should choose for his engineering corps. Three young Princeton graduates of the civil engineering course found places in the party, and to the writer who intrviewed Professor Butler said that they justified his selection by their subsequent work. His cataloguer was Edward H. Stoever, Princeton, '09, of Philadelphia, and William R. Berry, Princeton, '09, and L. R. Page, Princeton, '13, both of Philadelphia, were assistant engineers. The other two engineers, Philip Stoever and Lloyd T. Emery, were also of Philadelphia.

The annual expedition for unearthing the ancient city, which probably existed in the sixth century B. C., costs in the neighborhood of $25,000, which is subscribed by prominent New York men, who, however, contribute to the undertaking only on the condition that their names be kept secret. Sardis is quite a distance inland in Asia Minor, and while the party had railroad communication with the outside world, all the advantages of English and American engineering service were lacking. The young engineers had to replace the broken parts of their apparatus with their own contrivances. As Professor Butler said, they could not "call London or New York on the telephone and get the parts they wanted." The youthful Americans were thrown upon their own resources, and that they made good is shown by the results of this year's expedition. When asked how long it would take to excavate the whole city of Sardis Professor Butler said that fifty or one hundred years would be required.

"You see," he continued, "Sardis covers an area of six square miles, and our four expeditions there have resulted in unearthing only 6,000 square feet."

Professor Butler will make his report to the American Journal of Archaeology and is at present busy sorting out the hundreds of photographs which he took to illustrate the progress of the work in the Orient. This year's development was particularly important in the eyes of the world of art. Several inscriptions, which it took days to copy from the stone in which they were chiselled, have paved the way for deciphering previously discovered inscriptions which had hitherto been undecipherable. Howard Crosby Butler, formerly of the faculty of Princeton, and recently a member of the faculty of the University of Strassburg, and who is now occupying a chair in the University of Göttingen, is at present deciphering the inscriptions which were found this year in Lydian, the newly discovered language.

The American party unearthed what is supposed to be evidence of the world's first industrial strike. The record was a Roman inscription in Greek and was an agreement between the strikers and their employers whereby the strikers went back to work under new conditions.

The work of excavating was begun on February 22 and kept until the early part of July, when the laborers went into the fields. About them Professor Butler says:—"The fear which was expressed before starting the expedition in regard to the work being disturbed by the Turko-Italian war was entirely unfounded. Very few of the workmen were drafted and the deficit was more than made good by the great number of Moslem refugees from the European provinces."

The young American engineers found the workmen willing, but often unintelligent, which made the burden of carrying the work through all the harder. There were eight miles of steel rails and several derricks included in the apparatus used for digging. Whenever a break occurred—and this was not an infrequent happening—American brain and brawn as constituted in the young engineers in the party were the only things upon which Professor Butler could depend to get affairs in order again. While entirely unused to the climate of Asia Minor, the members of the expedition kept in good health. This was partly due to the good water which was available and to the excellent housing conditions under which they lived. One of the first tasks of the Princeton engineers when they arrived was to build a house. The site was selected upon the side of a hill and the house built of baked clay, brick and other available materials. The whole thing was constructed by the members of the party.

The most important discovery of the year, from a scientific standpoint, was in the form of a pedestal with a bilingual inscription in Lydian and Greek. The unearthing and deciphering of this inscription made for a big step forward in the complete deciphering of a great body of untranslated Lydian.

This year's work also resulted in completely clearing away the earth about the Temple of Artemis, which was left last year at the bottom of a deep trench. Now a comprehensive view of the ruins can easily be obtained. In clearing away the ground about the temple a number of smaller buildings, some of which were still more ancient than the temple itself, were uncovered and with them some very important inscriptions, statuettes and coins.

On the north side of the temple the excavators came across what they believed to be the Sacred Way from the heart of the city to the building. Among the statues which lined the street was found a group in marble of two lions and an eagle. The sculpture is unmistakably of native workmanship and is considered to form the first Lydian contribution to scientific knowledge.

Among the later discoveries which Professor Butler regarded as important was a Roman sarcophagus of the Sidamara type. On the lid are two reclining female figures of life size, apparently mother and daughter. The heads are both preserved and are the only ones which have yet been found on sarcophagi of this type. The very beautiful sides and ends are divided into panels by delicately wrought coronets, between which stand full sized figures in high relief and of great beauty. This sarcophagus forms a very important monument in the history of sculpture in Asia Minor during the Roman period.

In this year's expedition were Professor Howard Crosby Butler, director, in charge of ancient sculpture and archaeology; William H. Buckler, of England, formerly trustee of Johns Hopkins, engineer in charge; Edward R. Stoever, of Philadelphia, cataloguer, also in charge of coins; Harold W. Bell, of Cambridge, Mass., and Assistant Engineers William R. Berry, Philip Stoever, Lloyd T. Emery and L. R. Page, all of Philadelphia.

This happy incident, which occurred in a Philadelphia public school the other day, shows that little Willie is not only right on the phraseological job, but finely appreciative of a good thing.

The teacher was hearing a class of small youngsters in the spelling exercise, several of whom fell down rather badly on the word "mutton." Wishing to impress the word upon their minds the teacher told them to think of a sentence containing it. Some silence and then the waving hand of little Willie.

"Please, Miss Mary," he eagerly exclaimed on being recognised, "I have one!"

"All right, Willie," responded the teacher encouragingly. "You may tell it to the class."

"Everybody," impressively announced little Willie, "is dead stuck on Mutt an' Jeff."

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

A Fish Story

But a True One

By LAURA C. BURNHAM

Edward Cotton was the youngest son of the Earl of Edgerton. Between the years of fourteen and eighteen as a member of a noble family he had his full enjoyment of life. He was a tall boy, strikingly handsome and a great favorite. During this period a love affair sprang up between him and Laura, daughter of Sir David Hinchelwood, an impecunious baronet as proud as he was poor. Sir David's main object in life was to marry his daughter to a man who would be able to lift the family to its condition of former years. Edward Cotton, being a younger son in a family all of whose property was entailed on the oldest male heir, must of necessity, as soon as he had grown to manhood, shift for himself.

There was absolutely no hope of his possessing the girl he loved. When he was twenty years old he bade her farewell, being about to sail for Australia. He looked the matter squarely in the face, but the girl with feminine faith would not admit but that something would happen to turn their present condition.

"That's the loveliest thing about a girl," said the lover; "she's an optimist in the very face of calamity."

Cotton went to Australia more to break away from associations that would thereafter be impossible for him than the hope of making a fortune. He had not inherited business instincts and had no taste for a business life. He found a position in the counting room of a wool merchant named Oldershaw, but did not retain it long. Building himself a hut beside the ocean, he contented himself with a small remittance sent him quarterly by his father. He was naturally fond of fishing and supplied his table with fish caught in the ocean.

Cotton went to Australia in 1868. One day while out for large fish he caught a shark on his line. There was something in the fish that he needed—possibly a little oil for his lamp. At any rate, he cut it up. A number of articles undigested were in the stomach, among them a folded newspaper, which, though soaked, left the inner sheets in tolerable condition. Quite likely it had been thrown from some ship the shark was following for food and picked up by the voracious fish. Cotton took it to his hut and spread it out before a fire to dry. In the evening after his supper he took up what there was of it to read, and the first heading that met his eyes was "France Declares War on Germany."

There were two important facts concerning this first news in Australia of the breaking out of the Franco-Prussian war. First, there was then no cable connecting the island with the mainland; secondly, the shark is a very swift swimmer. Cotton had not heard of the breaking out of the war and did not believe such news had reached Australia. He sat thinking about the matter in his cabin, and it occurred to him from his knowledge of the wool business that a European war would advance the price of wool.

Early the next morning he went into the city, saw Oldershaw and told him that an important event had occurred that would affect the price of wool. Oldershaw agreed that if Cotton would tell him what it was he (Oldershaw) would give him half the profit on any wool he bought or sold on account of it. Cotton then produced his newspaper.

Wool was selling at 18 cents a pound, and Oldershaw bought all there was at hand. He had scarcely completed his purchases before a ship came in with the news of the declaration of war between France and Germany.

The wool that Oldershaw had bought in pence he sold in shillings. He made a fortune for himself and one for Cotton. The war was of short duration, and fortunately the wool was sold near the highest point. Cotton received his profits within a few months after he had caught the shark that had brought him his luck and a few days later sailed for England.

He found his love still disengaged, but resisting her father's efforts to induce her to marry the son of a rich brewer. There had been no news received in England of Cotton having suddenly made a fortune, and when he appeared no one dreamed that he was a very wealthy man. He refrained from telling of his wealth, fearing that his explanation as to how he had acquired it would not be believed.

Laura Hinchelwood was delighted with his return, though she had no idea that it meant any change in their relationship. When Cotton told his fish story she thought that something had happened to turn his brain, but when he showed her his bank account as evidence she was staggered. At last he induced her to believe that he was really rich and had made his money by this streak of sheer luck.

Having convinced her, he was not afraid of any one else. Sir David Hinchelwood when he was assured of the truth, having found the fortune he was looking for, was nothing loath to give his daughter to the young man. Edward Cotton purchased an estate near that of his oldest brother, who had by this time inherited the family title, and he is now the financial mainstay of the earl and Sir David Hinchelwood.

The Rothschilds of London made a large fortune by receiving news in advance of the eventful battle of Waterloo.

There Are More Deaths From PNEUMONIA Than Any Other Long Trouble.

Pneumonia is nothing more or less than what used to be called "Inflammation of the Lungs."

Consumption may be contracted from others, but as a rule pneumonia is caused by exposure to cold and wet, and there is only one way to prevent pneumonia, and that is to cure the cold on its first appearance.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup will do this for you if you will only take it in time.

Mrs. Wm. M. Steeves, River Glade, N.B., writes:—"Please allow me to express my gratitude for the presence of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup in the house, for I believe it saved our little boy's life. Three years this fall we were in the lumber woods, and it was very hard to get a doctor to us, and our little boy got pneumonia, and was very ill. The only relief he could get was to take Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and with the combined use of the Syrup, and your British Troop Oil Liniment, he soon got better, and was around in a couple of weeks. It certainly is a great remedy."

Price, 25 and 50 cents.

This Home-made Cough Syrup Will Surprise You

Stops Even Whooping Cough Quickly. A Family Supply at Small Cost.

Here is a home-made remedy that takes hold of a cough instantly, and will usually cure the most stubborn case in 24 hours. This recipe makes 16 ounces—enough for a whole family. You couldn't buy as much or as good ready-made cough syrup for $2.50.

Mix two cups of granulated sugar with one cup of warm water, and stir two minutes. Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a 16-ounce bottle, and add the Sugar Syrup. This keeps perfectly and has a pleasant taste—children like it. Braces up the appetite and is slightly laxative, which helps end a cough.

You probably know the medical value of pine in treating asthma, bronchitis and other throat troubles, sore lungs, etc. There is nothing better. Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, rich in guaiacol and all the natural healing pine elements. Other preparations will not work in this formula.

The prompt results from this inexpensive remedy have made friends for it in thousands of homes in the United States and Canada, which explains why the plan has been imitated often, but never successfully.

A guaranty of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex, or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

Current Comment.

The chief trouble with the Latin American republics is that they are their own worst enemies.—Chicago Record-Herald.

The solution is not to prevent the sale of necessary poisons, but to prevent their purchase by people who cannot tell the difference between a lump of sugar and a sardine.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Now said that a man is past his prime at forty. A few years ago the limit was forty-five. Give the wiseacres time and they will prove that no man ever has a prime.—Philadelphia North American.

Town Topics.

No wonder Chicago has lots of crime. Think of the ignorance of a police department which seriously advises girls not to flirt!—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

"Green" policemen now patrol the red light district of Gotham, which also abounds in Black Handers. New York is the only city in the country that could think up a color scheme of that sort.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Houston is gradually abandoning the dear old village customs. When the fire alarm sounded the other day only 119,876 of the 123,000 people suspended their business to inquire the whereabouts of the fire or see the engines and trucks go by.—Houston Post.

Fatality of Whooping Cough

Many parents think lightly of whooping cough, and treat it as a necessary evil, not giving the child who has it any special attention.

The seriousness of whooping cough was emphasized by the Medical Health Officer in Toronto a few months ago, when he reported 14 deaths during the month from whooping cough, and only ten from scarlet fever, typhoid fever and measles combined.

So many people write to us about the relief and cure of whooping cough by the use of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine that we can recommend it with the greatest confidence.

It loosens the cough, aids expectoration, and by its soothing influence prevents the terrible paroxysms of coughing which are so distressing to witness, and which wear away the strength of the child. By using this treatment the disease is held in check, and cured in a few weeks, instead of months. Look for the portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M.D., on the bottle you buy. There are many imitations.

Ambidexterity.

At a pinch we shall most of us find ourselves ambidextrous, with the left hand ready to do what the right has done. And many of us are left-handed (in parts) without knowing it. Personally I deal the cards and fix my buttons with the left hand, being in most other matters right-handed.

But the two hands should certainly be encouraged to supplement each other. It takes only a fortnight, or so for the right-handed writer to write with the left hand, and Miss Evelyn Sharp achieved it when her right arm was threatened with writer's cramp.—London Chronicle.

Greater than Panama's Bridge of Water

The Panama Canal is the logical outcome of the trend of modern commerce—it is monumental evidence of the present-day need for shortening distance—for lessening time and for reducing cost of distribution between maker and consumer.

In point of distance, the Panama will bring the Pacific nearer to the Atlantic by 1,000 miles. In point of time, the sea voyage between Halifax and Vancouver will be shortened by 24 days. In point of cost, the canal will very materially lessen the expense of carrying freight between these places. But there is a stronger factor than even the Panama in shortening distances, lessening cost and saving time between manufacturer and user.

It is Advertising—

It is the quickest—
It is the most direct—
And it is the cheapest—means of communication between the maker and user of goods.

For instance, Advertising enabled a manufacturer in Nova Scotia to carry a demand for his product from his factory to the Pacific Coast

— in a few days
— at an insignificant cost compared with slower and more laborious selling methods.

In one week, thousands learned of his product where it would have taken years for the news to get around without advertising.

To the Manufacturers of Canada:

You will be alert to take advantage of the Panama route for the physical transportation of your goods. Have you considered how quickly, how far, and at what small cost the Advertising Trade Route will carry demand for those goods?

If you are doing a local business talk over your advertising problems with the Advertising Department of this newspaper.

If you are doing a provincial or national business it would be well for you to have the counsel and assistance of a good advertising agency. A list of these will be furnished, without cost or obligation, by the Secretary of Canadian Press Association, Room 503, Lumsden Building, Toronto.

HOUSEHOLD NOTES

A tongue for boiling is best fresh from the pickle.

A dessert to be successful must be attractive to the eye.

Never have potatoes, rice, and hominy at the same meal.

Frozen rice pudding is a delicious and nourishing winter dessert.

Pearl tapioca makes a delicate and nourishing thickening for soup.

Beans and peas are too much alike to be used at the same meal.

The light dessert should always follow a heavy dinner, and vice versa.

Don't use sooty pans and kettles in cooking—they take longer to heat.

Apple sauce should always be eaten to counterbalance sausage and pork.

The light desserts are the plain and stewed fruits, gelatines, and junkets.

Paste the owner's initials over each towel used on a large family towel rack.

"All odds end here" is the inflexible rule of charcoal. If the charcoal is made red hot and then cooled before using its virtues are increased.

Borax is the best hairbrush cleaner known. Add a teaspoonful of borax and a tablesponful of soda to the water in which the hairbrush is to be washed.

A change the children will appreciate is the baking of mincemeat in tart shape. Simply line patty tins with the pastry and then fill them, covering the top.

Tomato sauce is peculiarly good with baked beans. Cold baked beans covered with tomato sauce and baked in the oven till the whole is brown is also a savoury luncheon dish.

Make kitchen aprons with a flat seam, stitched on both sides, so there is no right or wrong, and time will be saved both in washing and in looking for the right side of the apron.

Oval-shaped gilt frames of the old-fashioned type are now being brought down from their hiding-places and used to frame embroidery. In this manner they make handy trays.

A fruit jelly—apples, bananas and pineapple chopped and put into a foundation of gelatine, strawberry juice, and hot water—makes a delicious salad, served on lettuce leaves.

It is an excellent idea to have a guest chest in the guest room. It should contain emergency things—a nightgown, a bathrobe, slippers, soap, wash cloths, even a brand-new toothbrush.

When hot cloths are needed constantly in time of sickness, keep a colander full of them over a kettle half-full of boiling water. Keep the kettle covered on the back of the range.

If a clothesline is boiled before it is used it will not stretch.

Fried food should not be allowed to become chilled before serving.

Your Liver is Full of Bile; Bowels Clogged, Stomach Sour, Tongue Coated, Breath Bad

Get a 10-cent box now.

You're bilious! You have a throbbing sensation in your head, a bad taste in your mouth, your eyes burn, your skin is yellow, with dark rings under your eyes; your lips are parched. No wonder you feel ugly, mean and ill-tempered. Your system is full of bile not properly passed off, and what you need is a cleaning up inside. Don't continue being a bilious nuisance to yourself and those who love you, and don't resort to harsh physics that irritate and injure. Remember that most disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels are cured by morning with gentle, thorough Cascarets—they work while you sleep. A 10-cent box from your druggist will keep your liver and bowels clean, stomach sweet, and your head clear for months. Children love to take Cascarets, because they taste good, and never gripe or sicken.

Anniversary Of Red Sunday

Special Wire to The Examiner:

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 22.—The St. Petersburg authorities adopted extraordinary precautions to prevent disturbances to-day, this being the anniversary of "Red Sunday," when Father Gapon led a demonstration of the people before the Winter Palace and many were killed by the troops. Because of the many recent signs of discontent on the part of the masses the prefect the police kept the reserves under arms the whole day and strong military patrols were kept in all sections of the city to prevent disorderly demonstrations.

KEENE CURLERS' GOOD SHOWING

At the Lindsay Bonspiel Last Week Against Some of the Best Curlers in Canada

FORMER RESIDENT DEAD

KEENE, Jan. 21.—Rev. William Johnston, of Lakefield spent Wednesday last in the village.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Rennie spent Thursday last in Peterborough.

Miss Neta McIntyde, of Peterborough, was the week-end guest of Miss Bella Macfarlane.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Burley and little son, William, spent Sunday with friends at Lakefield.

Messrs. Marshall Weir and J. Doane, of Bethany, spent Sunday at the home of Mr. Archibald Weir.

Rev. Mr. Pitcher, of Demoresville, was the guest of Rev. and Mrs. Edmisan a few days this week.

Little Miss Viola McIntyre, of Peterborough, is visiting at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Howson.

Invitations were received this week for a masquerade ball and supper to be given at the Town Hall, Keene, Friday evening, Jan. 23rd, by the manager of the skating rink, Mr. George McIntyre. There will be no Carnival as reported in last week's items.

A quilting bee will be held at the Methodist parsonage on Thursday afternoon, by the ladies of the W. M. F. S.

The Keene curlers covered themselves with glory at Lindsay last week, when they were able to stay in the game as long as they did against the best curlers Canada could produce at the Bonspeil. There was a living chance until Friday, when they met defeat. It was a great test of endurance. Locally, curling is a pastime, but the same conditions are not the same in other parts of the country.

Word was received here on Wednesday of last week of the death of Mr. James Weir, of apoplexy, at Vancouver, B.C., Mr. Weir was a former resident of this vicinity, being born and brought up here. Two brothers, Archibald and Marshall, and a sister, Miss Belle, living in the village, survive him. Another brother, Andrew, predeceased him a few years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Howson spent Saturday with friends in Peterborough.

SHE GAINED 36 LBS.

Mrs. George Bradshaw, Harlowe, Ont., writes: "I was troubled for many years with weak, watery blood and dropsy. I had nervous headaches, dizziness, and sinking spells, and was, in fact, a semi-invalid. Doctors told me my heart and kidneys were diseased and gave me up. By using 18 boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I have been cured of many of my old complaints and gained 36 pounds in weight."

To End Cheese Frauds.

OTTAWA, Jan. 22.—An important bill to eliminate the possibility of fraud in connection with the weighing of cheese and butter at the port of Montreal will be introduced shortly by Hon. Martin Burrell, Minister of Agriculture.

For many years there have been loud complaints by farmers, who charge that they have not received fair weight. According to the terms of the proposed bill, a Government inspector will be appointed, whose duty will be to adjudicate cases in dispute. Remedies will be applied to other unsatisfactory conditions of the cheese exchange in Montreal.

Surrendered to Reporters.

MAYVILLE, N.Y., Jan. 22. — Edward Beardsley, Chautauqua County outlaw, who for over a week defied the efforts of Sheriff Anderson to arrest him, gave himself up to a party of newspapermen early yesterday, accompanied them to an hotel in this village and was later locked up in jail. Sheriff Anderson and his posse maintained their guard five hours after the capture.

GLASS OF SALTS CLEANS KIDNEYS

If Your Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers You, Drink Lots of Water

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which removes the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 50 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this, also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.

ORDERS BARS CLOSED.

Hon. Mr. Hanna Decides Dispute Meaford Case.

TORONTO, Jan. 22.—By an order of Hon. W. J. Hanna, Provincial Secretary, the sale of liquor in the three hotels in Meaford, Ont., must be discontinued from now until April 3 next, when the license year ends and local option will be in force.

This situation has arisen out of the local option contest in Meaford in 1913, when the bylaw was defeated by a fraction of one vote. An appeal was taken before Mr. Justice Kelly who set the whole matter aside by consent judgment under which the licenses should continue to be in force and a reference taken to the ratepayers at the municipal elections this year. The vote was held two weeks ago, and resulted 484 to 316 against local option.

Ferryboat Struck Ice.

THREE RIVERS, Que., Jan. 22. The ferryboat Glacial, plying between Three Rivers and G. T. R. Station Doucet's Landing, was struck by a large piece of ice yesterday morning and sunk near Commissioners Wharf. There was no loss of life.

OLD SKATING RINK HAS COLLAPSED

Examiner Special:

LAKEFIELD, JAN. 21.—Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mason of Perry, N.Y., are at present visiting in the Village, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. Watson.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Flynn of Havelock are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Crawford.

Miss Luella Redpath has returned home from Peterborough, where she spent a week visiting friends.

Mr. James Watson of Port Hope spent Friday in the Village.

Miss Gladys Webster of Peterborough, spent Sunday in the Village, visiting friends.

Miss Olive Jory spent Sunday in Smith, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. Millar.

Mr. C. S. Tanner is in Toronto attending the funeral of Senator G. A. Cox.

Mr. John R. Byers of Oakville spent Monday in the Village.

About twenty young people drove to Peterborough from here on Monday evening, and spent a most enjoyable time in skating at the Sacred Heart rink.

The regular Literary meeting of the Epworth League of the Methodist Church was held in the lecture room of the Church on Monday evening. Mr. Cphas Lemay, third Vice President, conducted the meeting. The Bible lesson was read by H. Payne and the topic presented in parts by Miss E. Davis and Misses R. MacDonald, B. Watley and V. Bullock.

Rev. Mr. Johnson gave an interesting address on the history of the Epworth League.

The old skating rink on the corner of Queen and Strickland Streets, collapsed on Friday night about ten o'clock. The building, which has been in a very unstable condition, for some time, collapsed owing to the great weight of snow on the roof.

A Simple Application Banishes Hairy Growths

(Toilet Talks)

Much interest is manifested among beauty specialists in the new, painless treatment for superfluous hairs. This consists of a paste which is made with a little powdered delatone and water and applied to the objectionable hairs for about 2 or 3 minutes, then rubbed off. Following this treatment the skin should be washed to remove the remaining paste and it will be left free from hair or blemish. Care should be used to see that it is delatone you get otherwise the result may be disappointing.

Graft Trials In St. Louis

Special Wire to The Examiner:

EAST ST. LOUIS, ILL., Jan. 22. — State's Attorney Webb and his assistants are busy at work preparing for the "graft" trials that are scheduled to begin here next week. Twenty-three present or former officials of East St. Louis are under indictment to answer to charges of conspiring to defraud the city. The charges are the result of a recent exhaustive investigation of alleged municipal irregularities.

Among those under indictment are a former mayor, a former city treasurer, two former controllers, two former heads of city departments, twelve former aldermen, and the present chief of detectives. All those against whom charges have been made were a part of the administration of Charles S. Lambert, who retired from the mayoralty a year ago, being succeeded by Mayor Chamberlin, who was elected on a reform platform.

The first to be tried will be John D. Young, former deputy building commissioner, who is charged with embezzling city funds. Young's case is set for next Monday, and the other cases will be taken up in rapid succession

The case of ex-Mayor Charles S. Lambert is set for next Wednesday. Lambert is charged in four indictments with entering into conspiracy to defraud the city of $100,000 and in one indictment with having conspired with other officials to defraud the city of $25,000.

The investigation which resulted in the bringing of charges against the former officials is said to have revealed frauds amounting in the aggregate to more than $100,000. Large sums of money are said to have been paid to the heads of departments and other city officials on contracts for city work.

Starting the Day Right

Do you begin the day with a "grouch"? Are you tired in the mornings? Do you fail to benefit by the restorative influence of sleep, which should make good the energy and vitality consumed by the day's work?

Then you are rapidly becoming bankrupt so far as health is concerned. You should look to your habits of eating, make sure that you get lots of fresh air in your sleeping apartments, and restore wasted vitality by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

This great food cure does not induce sleep by any drugging effect, but when you have been using it for a few days and get the nervous system into condition you find yourself resting and sleeping naturally and healthfully. By keeping up this restorative treatment you will be able to make good the waste and fill the exhausted nervous system with new vigour and energy. This means thorough cure of such symptoms as headache, sleeplessness, indigestion and tired, listless feelings.

Killed by Falling Derrick.

COBALT, Jan. 22.—W. E. James, 40, was instantly killed here by a falling derrick striking him on the head. James was the foreman employed by the Cobalt Lake Mining Co. to superintend the work of deepening the rock cut, through which the water from the lake is to flow when the draining is commenced. The accident was caused by one of the guy ropes giving away. Death was instantaneous. James was a native of Newfoundland. He leaves a wife, who is at present on a visit to Nova Scotia.

GIRLS! LOTS OF BEAUTIFUL, GLOSSY HAIR! NO MORE DANDRUFF—25 CENT DANDERINE

Hair Coming Out? If Dry, Thin, Faded, Bring Back its Colour and Lustre

Within ten minutes after an application of Danderine you cannot find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

A little Danderine immediately doubles the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is amazing, your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance.

Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and prove that your hair is as pretty and soft as any that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment that's all—you surely can have beautiful hair and lots of it if you will just try a little Danderine.

Farm and Dairy Market Report

Toronto, Monday, Jan. 19.—Much colder weather has improved trade in some lines, but wholesale dealers do not anticipate that the total volume of trade for the winter season will be equal to that of last year. Retail merchants report difficulty in collecting their accounts, this being due to the great number of people out of work who can not possibly pay.

The most interesting feature of the market is the unceasing demand for most lines of farm products. If present indications hold good there will be a best famine in Canada for three to five years at least, with record prices for all kinds of stock. Dairy herds too have been seriously depleted, and prices for butter and cheese, as well as milk and cream for direct consumption, are bound to rule high. Taken all in all, the outlook for the farmer at the present time is a bright one.

Money is easing up in older lands, but in this country there is no sign yet of an over-supply of cash. The ruling rate is six and one-half per cent on call loans.

WHEAT

Old Country dealers are not taking much interest in wheat, which would seem to indicate that it is cheaper elsewhere. The price, however, is climbing up. No. 1 Northern now being quoted 93½c; No. 2, 90½c; all rail, 4½c more. The demand for flour from foreign sources is brisker, and almost all Ontario mills are in need of winter wheat. Farmers, however, do not seem to be disposed to sell at the ruling price of 85c to 86c at the car.

COARSE GRAINS

The market is quiet. Farmers appear to be feeding most of their own grain. The least demand is for Western oats. Wholesale quotations are as follows: Oats, C. W. No. 2, 41c; No. 3, 40c; all-rail, ½c to 2c more; Ontario 34c to 35c outside; corn, 71½c to 75c; peas, $1 to $1.02; buckwheat, 46c to 48c; barley, malting, 54c to 56c; rye, 63c to 64c. At Montreal ruling prices are: Oats, C. W. No. 2, 41½c to 42c; No. 3, 40½c to 40¾c; corn, 71½c; barley, malting, 55c; peas, $1.75 to $2.25; buckwheat, 55c; rye, 70c to 72c; feed wheat, 72c to 73c.

MILL FEEDS

Mill feeds are in greater demand, especially from United States sources. Bran, $22 to $22.50; shorts, $24 to $24.50; middlings, $27 to $27.50. Montreal quotations are: Bran, $20 to $21; shorts, $22 to $23; middlings, $25 to $26.

HAY AND STRAW

Steady prices prevail for good hay. In not a few sections all of the surplus hay can be marketed to neighboring farmers, which tends to steady the market here. Baled hay, choice No. 1, $14.50 to $15; extra No. 1, $13.50 to $14; No. 2, $11 to $12; No. 3, $8 to $9; baled straw $8. There has been a rather quiet feeling in the trade at Montreal. Some shipments are made to the United States. No. 1, $16 to $16.50; No. 2, $13.50 to $15.50; No. 3, $12.50 to $13.

POTATOES AND BEANS

The embargo still holds against Canadian potatoes going into the States, and prices are determined solely by local demand. Unchanged quotations are: Ontario's, 90c to 95c a bag out of store; 80c to 85c car lots; New Brunswicks, 10c more. Montreal dealers are asking of the retail trade 75c to 80c for Green Mountains and 70c for Quebec whites.

Prime beans are quoted at $2.10 to $2.20; hand-picked, $2.20 to $2.25. The Montreal price for two-pound pickers is $1.80 to $1.90.

SEEDS

Merchants are paying farmers a bushel as follows: Alsike No. 1, $8.50 to $9; No. 2, $7.50 to $9; No. 3, $6 to $7; red clover, No. 1, $8 to $8.50; No. 2, $7 to $7.50; timothy, No. 1, $2.75 to $3.25; No. 2, $2 to $2.50.

HOGS AND POULTRY

It is not anticipated that the recent cold spell will have any great strengthening effect on the egg market. It did not last long enough. Consumers can now obtain new laid eggs at 45c to 50c. Wholesale quotations are: New laids, 40c to 42c; storage selects, 35c to 36c; country selects, 32c to 33c; storage, 30c to 31c. At Montreal the cold spell has advanced prices, new laids being now quoted at 45c; selects, 38c and No. 1, 30c wholesale.

Quotations on poultry are: Dressed fowl, 10c to 14c; alive, 12c to 13c; spring chickens, 13c to 18c and 15c to 24c; geese, 13c to 15c and 10c to 11c; turkeys, 17c to 23c and 14c to 17c.

HIDES AND WOOL

Quotations on hides are: Cured, 13½c to 14½c; part cured, 12½c to 13½c; green, 12c to 12½c; horse hides, $4 to $4.50; horse hair, 40c to 45c; calf skins, 17½c to 18c; deakins, $1 to $1.50; lamb skins, $1 to $1.25. Wool quotations are: Unwashed, coarse, 15½c to 17c; fine, 19½c to 17½c; washed, rejects, 17c to 19½c; coarse, 23c to 26½c; fine, 26½c to 27½c.

DAIRY PRODUCE

The supply of butter is keeping up unusually well. Quotations are steady at the old levels. Farmers' separator prints, 24c to 25c; dairy prints, 23c to 24c; creamery prints, fresh, 30c to 31c; solids, 29c to 30c; storage, 28c to 29c. Cheese quotations are: New large, 14½c; twins, 15c; old large, 15c to 15½c; twins, 15½c to 16½c.

LIVE STOCK

Canada at the present time has a smaller supply of live stock to draw on than any other agricultural country. Prices are ruling higher on the average than to the south of the line. Everything is taken up quickly, almost irrespective of quality. During the past week the tendency has been towards a stronger market. The storm, however, had something to do with this, large numbers of drovers being held back. Quotations are: Butchers' choice, $8.80 to $9; com. to good, $6 to $8.50; heifers, med. to choice, $6.50 to $8.50; choice cows, $6.50 to $7.50; com. to good, $4.50 to $6.50; butcher bulls, $6.25 to $7.75; feeders, $6 to $7.50; stockers, $4.50 to $6.75; canners and cutters, $3.75 to $4.75.

Milkers and springers have been in fair demand, shipments being made as far east as Montreal. Choice milkers, $65 to $100; com. to med., $40 to $65; springers, $40 to $100. Veal calves, $9 to $12; inferior, $6 to $7.50.

Wether lambs are in strong demand at $9 to $9.50; buck lambs, $8 to $8.50; ewes, $5 to $6.75; culls, $2.50 to $5.

Hogs are again on the upgrade, and passed the $9 mark, being quoted f.o.b. $8.90 to $9.25.

MONTREAL HOG MARKET

Montreal, Saturday, Jan. 17.—The market for live hogs is firmer and sales of selected lots were made at $9.50 to $9.75 a cwt. The market for dressed hogs is also firm, but without change in values. Supplies were light and sales were made at $13.75 to $14.

MONTREAL BUTTER AND CHEESE

Montreal, Saturday, Jan. 17.—There is nothing new to say about cheese this week. The market is steady and prices unchanged. Stocks unsold are so small that there is really no market here, the bulk of the goods being in the hands of one or two firms. Reports from New Zealand indicate a very firm market there, with prices slowly and steadily advancing owing to the small stocks. The shipments of cheese from New Zealand have been held back to a large extent on account of the strike there.

Market for butter is firm, with prices steadily maintained, with finest Eastern Townships, September-October make, selling at 29½c and upwards at 30c to 30½c. There is no New Zealand offering on this side of the continent, although there are large quantities being received regularly at Vancouver. There is no possibility of any being imported via Montreal this year, owing to the large stocks of Canadian butter in store here.

P. C. REID TELLS ALL.

Winnipeg Constable Makes a Voluntary Statement to Commission.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 22. — Constable Reid, formerly of Hamilton, who was arrested a few days ago in connection with the escape of John Krafchenko, the Plum Coulee bank robber, appeared before the royal commission at his own request and made his statement voluntarily.

At yesterday morning's session of the commission, Constable Flower told a straightforward story of his actions at the time of the escape. Failure of Reid to back him up was his justification in not making a fight.

Reid's story was interpolated into Flower's evidence, the older constable having requested a hearing. Reid had formerly withstood a seven-hour grueiling before the commission, which seemingly had justified him, but yesterday he completely reversed his sworn statements. He was assured beforehand that his new statement would not be used in evidence against him.

In the witness box, Reid told how he personally had given the rope, key and revolver to Krafchenko two days before the escape while Flower's back was turned. The loosened bars in the window he said had been tampered with while Ryan, the day guard, was asleep in the cell.

The constable stated further that all arrangements for the escape were made in the office of Percy Hagel. Krafchenko's counsel, where Krafchenko sent him to see Hagel. He said he did not know what had induced him (Reid) to help Krafchenko.

Constable Buxton had given the gun to Reid in Hagel's office and the number had been filed off in Hagel's presence. Hagel had told him that Westlake, who was to hide Krafchenko after his escape, could be trusted to do so without squealing. Hagel, he said, had gone to Plum Coulee to get $400 to handle the case. He did not know whether he got it or not.

SUBMARINE FOUND.

Oil on Surface of Water Guides the Searchers to Spot.

PLYMOUTH, Eng., Jan. 22.—The British submarine A 7, which sank to the bottom of Whitesand Bay on Friday last during manoeuvres, was located yesterday in twenty-three fathoms of water, four miles from shore. The submarine is lying a little east of the spot where she disappeared. The discovery was due to a member of the crew of one of the search vessels, who noticed oil floating on the surface.

A diver was immediately sent down and found the submarine. It was too late to start raising operations, which began at daybreak this morning.

PETERBOROUGH, THURSDAY, JANUARY 22, 1914

HEALTH ASSOCIATION PLANNING A SANIATORIUM

Will Ask the City Council to Vote $10,000 to be Devoted to This Purpose While The Association Will Raise Similar Amount.

OFFICERS ARE ELECTED

At the adjourned meeting of the Peterborough Health Association, held yesterday afternoon in the Bank of Montreal Chambers, it was decided to ask the City Council for $10,000 toward the cost of erecting a sanitarium for consumptives in Peterborough.

The Association yesterday, dealt fully with the grave needs of such an institution in this city. The number of lives taken by the great white plague would be lessened to such an extent, and the educational influence of the sanitorium on the city would be so great, that it would be invaluable to the community.

The plan of the Association is definite and already under way toward execution. At yesterday's meeting a resolution was passed to ask the city for $10,000. To this amount, if their request is granted, the Association will undertake to add $10,000, which they intend to raise by popular subscription. Then a quarter of this amount, $4,000, can be had in a grant from the Provincial Government, raising the building fund to $24,000. It is this amount they intend to spend for a modern sanatarinm for the care of consumptives, to be erected in this city.

MR. E. A. PECK, M.P.P.,
The New President of the Peterborough Health Association.

The cost of maintenance would be materially lessened by the Government grant of $3 per week per patient.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

At yesterday's meeting the officers were elected as follows:

Hon. President—W. H. Moore, Esq., K.C.

President—Mr. E. A. Peck, M.P.P.

Vice-Presidents—Dr. Cameron, Rev. Father Phelan, Rev. T. J. Mansell.

Treasurer—Mr. W. H. Dunsford.

Secretary—Mrs. R. W. Travers.

Executive Board — Mrs. Ritchie, Mrs. Kendry, Mrs. Grant, Mrs. V. Eastwood, Mrs. Denham, Dr. McNulty, Dr. McPherson, Dr. Haliday, Dr. Neal, Mr. Powell, Mr. Bennet, Mr. Popham, Rev. Mr. Webb, and Adjutant McElhinney.

The matter of fumigation of private houses came in for some more discussion, but it was the general opinion of those present that the law, properly enforced, was sufficient, and no action was taken.

The secretary was instructed to write the Board of Health, asking them to have signs put up calling the attention of the general public to the law forbidding spitting on sidewalks.

SIR JAMES HAS RALLIED

Special Wire to The Examiner:

TORONTO, Jan. 22.—Sir James Whitney rallied somewhat to-day, and was able to recognize members of his family and call upon them by name. He is taking more nourishment and doctors now have some hopes.

WING PLOUGHS SCOUR TRACKS

And Trains of Both Lines Are Running Pretty Close To Schedule To-Day

The trains on both the C.P.R. and G.T.R. lines are running pretty well up to schedule time to-day, the blizzards having abated and the tracks having been nearly all cleared. This morning early the wing ploughs of the Grand Trunk system passed through the City widening the path already cleared by the smaller ones that were doing duty yesterday. It is anticipated that until the next heavy snow fall there will be little trouble arising from the blocking of the lines.

WILL RAISE THE SUBMARINE

Special Cable to The Examiner:

PLYMOUTH, ENG., Jan. 22.—The divers have ascertained that the sunken submarine A-7 can be raised, and operations commenced at daylight. The Admiralty has given orders that no attempt shall be made to open the submarine till she is safely in drydock. This means that no story of the crew's awful fight with death will be made public unless the Admiralty considers it advisable.

YOUNG PEOPLE OF KNOX CHURCH ARE ENTHUSIASTIC

Friendly competition during the past three months has shown what can be accomplished towards the increase of membership of Knox Young People's Guild.

Early in October two leaders were appointed by the class, Misses C. Havery and Olga Kenyon. These two were asked to carry out a campaign for new members. Their efforts were crowned with success, owing to their enthusiasm. The losing side was understood to provide a banquet at the close of the campaign, and this outcome was accomplished on Tuesday evening last.

The Lecture Hall was daintily set off with streamers and the opposing colours, and the losers gamely provided substantially for the inner man.

During the evening, under the chairmanship of Mr. Cecil Williamson a short programme of speakers was gone through. These were: Mr. Williamson, Mr. Roy Laing, Misses C. Havery, and Olga Kenyon, Mr. Chas. Maghee, Mr. Raltph Hilliar and Rev. Mr. Keith.

Their remarks went to encourage and congratulate both leaders and the members generally on the fine outcome of their efforts; and for the hope that greater things in the coming year may be accomplished in this lively branch of Knox Church.

Mr. George Kenyon delighted the gathering with a few piano selections in a pleasing manner.

SEWAGE DISPOSAL PLANT WILL BE ONE OF BEST

City Engineer Parsons stated at the Board of Works meeting last night that he expected to have a complete report on the proposed outfall sewer work very shortly.

Mayor Buller—That plank will be all right then.

Mr. Parsons—I think the Provincial Board of Health will approve it, although they change their ideas so frequently that you can't be sure. The system of sewage disposal may be out of date in a few years. Our plant when completed will be one of the most modern in the country.

PAY HALF COST OF REMOVAL OF SNOW

The Street Railway Company is now paying one-half the cost of the removal of snow on the streets utilized by the system. During the first five years the City paid the entire cost; during the next five years the company paid one-quarter of the cost, and now until the end of their franchise they pay one-half.

WHEN THE BRITISH SUBMARINE A1, WITH THIRTEEN MEN A BOARD, TO THEIR DEATH—At time of writing twenty vessels of the British navy are scouring the British Channel with divers and diving apparatus in an effort to locate the British submarine which sank on January Fifteenth. 'Tis thought all are lost. The picture shows a British submarine (in front) of the type of A2, and a torpedo destroyer. The latter types of vessel are doing the attempted rescue work in the channel to-day.

RINKS AND SLIDE FREE OF CHARGE

Peterborough Radial Railway and Byersville and Sacred Heart Rink Management Show Fine Spirit.

BIG BROTHERS ACTIVE

The Big Brothers' Club wish to announce that through the kindness of Mr. W. H. Munro, and the Peterborough Radial Railway Co., the rink, slides, and toboggans at Jackson Park will be open, free of charge, to children between the hours of 4 and 6 on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, and also on Saturday mornings.

The management of the Byersville and the Sacred Heart rinks have met the Big Brothers in a similar spirit, and are prepared to sell tickets at their respective rinks good on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, from 4 to 6 p.m., and Saturday mornings, for the merely nominal charge of 25c.

Should there be any cases where the parents are not able to afford even this small sum, the secretary-treasurer of the Big Brothers' Club is authorized to provide a limited number of tickets free. This provision is only for those who are not in a position otherwise to secure tickets, and the aplication for such a ticket must be accompanied by a note from the parent.

The Jackson Park rink and slides will be available for the first time on Friday afternoon from 4 to 6 p.m., and the other rinks possibly Friday afternoon or Saturday morning.

STRATHCONA'S CAREER IN BRIEF

Born on August 6, 1820, at Forres, Morayshire, Scotland, the son of Alexander Smith and his wife Barbara Stuart.

When a boy of fifteen entered the service of the Hudson's Bay Company as cadet.

At the age of eighteen left Scotland for Canada taking 48 days on the voyage in a sailing vessel.

Sent to Labrador by the Company, where he remained for thirteen years in charge of a Hudson's Bay post.

Went to the Northwest, where he was promoted successively to the position of chief factor and resident governor of the domains of the Hudsons' Bay Co.

Charged with the negotiations for the transfer of the lands of the Company to the Canadian Government.

Was appointed by the Dominion Government as commissioner to settle difficulties arising from the Red River rebellion of 1869.

Entered Manitoba Legislature in 1871 for the city of Winnipeg, appointed member of the Council of the Northwest Territories 1871.

Entered House of Commons in 1871 as member for Selkirk, defeated for re-election in 1880.

Re-entered House of Commons as member for Montreal West in 1887, re-elected 1891.

Drove last spike of completed Canadian Pacific in 1886, having been with Lord Mount Stephen and James J. Hill, one of the principal promoters of the project.

Knighted by Queen Victoria in 1886.

Was appointed High Commissioner for Canada in England in 1896, retiring from politics.

Raised to the peerage by Queen Victoria in 1897.

Raised, equipped and paid entire expenses of a mounted troop known as Strathcona's Horse for services in South Africa during the Boer war.

THE WEATHER

This morning the thermometer recorded 8 degrees below zero at 7 o'clock. Fourteen below had been reached during the night, however.

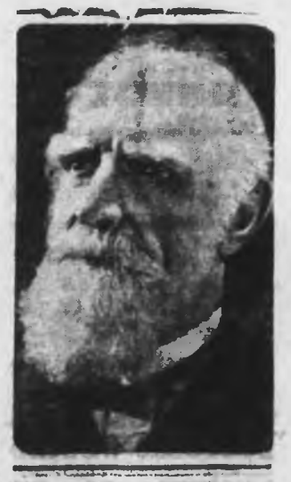
WHO WILL BE NEW COMMISSIONER?

Ottawa Report Says That Premier Borden Would Be Glad to Take Up Position in London

TIRED OF LEADERSHIP

Special Wire to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, Jan. 22.— Who will succeed Strathcona to the position of High Commissioner for Canada in London. That is the question being asked in parliamentary circles to-day. It is rumoured here that if Premier Borden could find a man upon whom he could confer the mantle of office here, he would himself gladly withdraw from the hurly-burly of political life and take up the less onerous, but equally honourable positionof High Commissioner. The Premier is not over fond of the responsible and nerve-racking position which he now has.



LORD STRATHCONA.— A new and characteristic picture of "Canada's Grand Old Man," who passed away in his sleep on the morning of January 21st, after a great career.

TWO SNOW PLOUGHERS FINED AS RESULT OF COMPLAINTS

Men Must Get Out Earlier and Work While Snow Falls

Recent snow storms were too much for some of the men who contracted to remove it from the sidewalks. Two of the men have been fined by Engineer Parsons for dilatoriness and slipshod methods, and all of them had better keep their alarm clocks wound up. Mayor Buller said at the Board of Works meeting last night that he had received complaints from the east and south west districts, particularly, and the Chairman stated that "kicks" had come in from all over the City. Mr. Evans has men going all over the walks, removing the snow from the walks where the ploughs slewed.

Ald. Duncan—"The contract calls for the removal of snow, and they should carry a shovel in order to make sure of it."

Ald. Johnston—"Bless my soul it would take them a month to get over the City if they lived up to all the demands of the contract."

Ald Duncan maintained that the men had accepted the work and they should do it well.

Mayor Buller—"They don't get out early enough. They must get it into their heads that they cannot get around at any hour."

Ald. Anderson—"They should start out when it is storming and stay with it, not wait until the walks are deep in snow."

Ald. Johnston—"It will never be worked out right until it is done by individuals; some of the men have done their best and they should not be censured. The residents should shovel the snow from the walk in front of their residences. Many are doing it now."

Mayor Buller—"Why should men and girls have to wade through deep snow. The plowing has been well done in the past."

Ald. Duncan—"They do not get out early enough. They have had nothing to do until two weeks ago. When there is a heavy winter they come back for more money."

Ald. Johnston—"But they do not get it."

Ald. Duncan—"They got it two years ago."

Ald. Johnston — "Then we were foolish to give it to them.

It is understood that the snow plough squad are expected to do the work as well as they can, and do it early.

THEIR MAJESTIES MAY ATTEND

Special Wire to The Examiner:

LONDON, ENG., Jan. 22. — King George and Queen Mary may be personally present on Monday at the funeral services of Lord Strathcona in Westminster Abbey. The family has finally decided to decline all offers of a burial place at St. Paul's or Westminster and interment will take place at Highgate, where the deceased's wife is buried.

AN ADDRESS ON THE WIRELESS

Interesting Subject Will Be Discussed by Mr. F. K. Dalton

There will be a free lecture at the room of the Technical Society, Bank of Commerce Building, on Friday night, Jan. 23rd, at 8 p.m., sharp. The subject wil be "Wireless Telegraphy," and will be illustrated by apparatus at work.

The lecturer will be F. K. Dalton, B.Sc., M.A.

This will be a 'smoker' and all men interested in engineering or scientific subjects are invited to attend.

REV. BEN H. SPENCE AT KNOX CHURCH

Rev. Ben. H. Spence, of Toronto, will present the claims of the Dominion Alliance at the morning service in Knox Church on Sunday next. He will be assisted in the service by Master George Branton, regarded as the most famous boy singer in the City of Toronto.

On Monday the County Temperance Convention will be held in the Y.M.C.A. parlours.

Keeping Young.

We have been taling of late on the advantages of keeping young. We have urged youth to go ahead and be itself although it needs no urging. But how can we prolong that youth? Is there a set age when it must disappear? Need it vanish at, say, 30 years? Is it only the dawn flush? There is a way provided by which the sun may be bidden to stand still. That way was long ago shown us by the noblest of our New Englanders. Books, travel, society, solicitude — these will keep a man young, because they feed the sources of his life. They replenish the well-springs. Ignorance, cowardice, drudgery of spirit—these dry him up before his time.

WERE PRESENT WHEN THE BOILER EXPLODED

Mr. James Baptie, of Springville and J. F. Staples, of Cavan, Were in Attendance at the Ottawa Live Stock Show.

DEATH LIST GROWS

Among those who barely escaped with their lives in the catastrophe which caused the death of several persons in Ottawa yesterday, were Mr. James Baptie of Springville, and Mr. Joseph Staples and son of Cavan. Mr. Baptie returned home this morning. In conversation with the Examiner, Mr. Baptie states that he was on the scene ten minutes after he explosion which wrecked he building.

Mr. J. Staples was less fortunate, for he was in the building when the boiler exploded. With him was his son and nephew. He regards his escape as nothing short of a miracle. So powerful was the force of the explosion that two of Mr. Pepper's horses were driven right out through the roof into the main body of Howick Pavilion. The flames which broke out shortly after the explosion, threatened to consume the wreckage, but were quickly subdued by the fire department.

Painting Of Lord Strathcona

Suitably Draped, on Exhibition in J. J. Turner & Sons' Window

A splendid painting reproduced from a photograph of Lord Strathcona, is to-day on exhibition in the window of J. J. Turner and Sons. It is suitably draped in mourning out of respect to the memory of the deceased. The reproduction was made in the remarkably short time of two hours and was executed in the shop of the local firm. Messrs. Turner and Sons also cabled a message of condolence to the Hon. Mrs. Howard, only daughter of the late Lord Strathcona.

WEDDING BELLS

LENTON—TAYLOR.

The marriage took place yesterday noon quietly in Toronto of Isabelle J., daughter of the late Mr. W. C. Taylor and Mrs. Taylor, 176 London St., Peterborough, to George Lenton, of the Peterborough Lumber Co. The Rev. Dr. Telling, of Toronto, performed the ceremony. Directly after Mr. and Mrs. George Lenton left for New York, and on returning will reside on London street, this city.

OBITUARY

WM. C. SPENCER.

A Stanfield exchange says of the death of Mr. W. C. Spencer, son of Mr. Wm. Spencer, of Warsaw: .....

The entire community received a shock from which it will take some time to recover, when on Wednesday afternoon W. C. Spencer died after a brief illness. The cause of his death was peritonitis. Mr. Spencer was one of the pioneers of the city and was well known by a large circle of friends. He was one of the most respected citizens any community could have, and the Stanfield people were proud to include him in their number. He was a member of the local camp of the M.W.A., and a member of the Masonic Order; in December, 1912, he was elected to the position of City Councilman, and was serving in that capacity at the time of his death. He was also a deacon in Hope Presbyterian Church. We was forty years of age. He is survived by his wife, a father, Mr. Wm. Spencer, Warsaw, a brother, Jas. A. Spencer, of Lakefield, two sisters, Mrs. Thos. Clements and Mrs. Arthur Carveth, both of Warsaw.

The heartfelt sympathy of the entire community is certainly extended to Mrs. Spencer nd other members of the family.

The flowers were very beautiful and numerous consisting of four large wreaths, one presented by the Masons, one by the Woodmen, also did the city and the choir of the church give one each; also many bouquets of cut flowers from private families.

The funeral which was in charge of the Masons, was held from Hope Presbyterian Church at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, January 10th. Interment took place at the Stanfield cemetery.

The Services at the grave were conducted by the Masonic Lodge of Echo.

MOMENTOUS MEETING OF THE CABINET

Special Cable to The Examiner:

LONDON, ENG., Jan. 22.—(Special Cable.)—What some people believe will be the most momentous meeting of the Cabinet since the government was taken over by Asquith, will be held to-day, when the naval programme will be under discussion. Lloyd George indicated in his speech last night that he would oppose the enlarged naval programme with all his vigour from the standpoint of economy as Chancellor of the Exchequer.

Graveyard Mystery.

A man who went away from home some time ago to attend a convention, was struck with the beauty of the little town in which the gathering was held. He had plenty of time, and in wandering about walked into the village cemetery. It was a beautiful place, and he walked around among the graves. He saw a monument, one of the largest in the cemetery, and read with surprise the inscription on it:

"A Lawyer and an Honest Man."

The man scratched his head and looked at the monument again. He read the inscription over and over. Then he walked all around the monument and examined the grave closely. Another man in the cemetery approached and asked him:

"Have you found the grave of an old friend?"

"No," said the man, "but I was wondering how they came to bury those two fellows in one grave."

WOMAN IS KILLED IN C. P. R. WRECK

Special Wire to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, Jan. 22.—Mrs. J. J. Salmon, of Cobden, Ont., was killed, and six others injured in the derailment of the westbound Soo train on the C. P. R. near Pembroke, this morning. The cause of the accident has not been reported.

LIVE STOCK MARKET

Special Wire to The Examiner:

Union Stock Yards, Toronto, Jan. 22.—Receipts were moderate, 51 cars, 822 cattle, 983 hogs, 358 sheep and lambs and 221 calves.

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unparalleled."

THURSDAY, JAN 22, 1914

STRATHCONA'S SUCCESSOR.

The appointment of a successor to Lord Strathcona as Canada's High Commissioner in London should be carefully made, both for the importance of the office and the precedent of conditions attaching to it. It's possession seems to insure long life. Sir Charles Tupper was for a short time Commissioner, and he absorbed the long life habit. He is now 93 years of age. Lord Strathcona, who accepted the office in 1896, lived to complete nearly his 94th year. If precedent is to hold good an appointment of a successor is a very vital matter. According to advices from London, Ont., Hon. Adam Beck is "slated" as the man for the post. The London Advertiser, according to "inside information" that has reached it, says that Mr. Beck a short time ago received a letter from Lord Strathcona in which the latter expressed a preference for Mr. Beck as his successor. Mr. Beck may be the man to fill Lord Strathcona's shoes, but it seems highly improbable that a man who took his duties so seriously that he attended to them on his deathbed—dying literally in harness—should trouble himself about his successor. It appears that though Hon. Mr. Beck is equal to the management of a little detail like Hydro-Electric, he may not quite measure up to the standard of High Commissionership set by men like Sir Charles Tupper and Lord Strathcona.

THE HORSE BEFORE THE CART.

Mayor Buller has made a good beginning in one matter: that is his proposal to engage carts and men to keep streets in repair; and the Board of Works did well last night to adopt the suggestion. The two chief elements in permanancy of street surface is proper construction and proper maintenance—make good and keep good. The latter is the more easy the better the first consideration is met.

Now that the Board of Works has, in the literal sense, got the horse before the cart, we may look for better results, that is, better streets.

But the filling of holes developed by traffic is not the only reform to be undertaken. One of the most important elements in good streets is good surface drainage. Standing water on a street is as essentially destructive of lasting qualities as a smouldering fire under a wooden floor. And neglect of surface drainage is one of the chief sins of past street administration. It not only encourages mud, but it injures the wearing qualities of street surfaces. There is no excuse for neglect of surface drainage of our streets. The physical conformation of the city makes the maximum of good results possible with the minimum of labour and expense.

In keeping the streets clear for unimpeded flow-off of surface water there is necessity to provide for keeping the gutters clear. Many householders have the vicious habit of dumping the cuttings of lawns and weeds and old papers in the streets, where they form dams that prevent water from flowing away, and not only create mud, but give the streets a filthy and untidy appearance. We cannot expect to have clean, tidy streets unless we prevent the streets from being made a dumping ground for the refuse from private premises. A clean, well-shorn private lawn abutting the street walks is a thing of beauty, and the street itself should be a continuation of this neatness if we are to get the best results. As far as the beauty of aspect relates to the public, a householder would be just as much justified in depositing his lawn-rakings upon his neighbour's lawn as upon the streets.

We understand that Mayor Buller expressed himself during the mayoralty campaign as in favour of better care of our boulevards. To do this there should obviously be some means devised to keep the street clean, for a neatly kept private lawn, extending to a similar boulevard, adjoined by a mess of grass, leaves and weeds, spoils every good effect.

If the city takes the lead; if the Board of Works looks carefully after our boulevards and streets, in order to keep them neat and clean, the citizens will be encouraged and will second their efforts. With such co-operation, which need not be costly and with proper attention to keeping our street surfaces free from holes and mud; keeping them well rounded and the gutters free from obstruction so that surface water will flow away promptly, we shall be doing something to add immensely to the enjoyment of the use of our streets and the enjoyment that neatness and tidiness will give. We have the best shaded streets of any city in the province, and if we keep them clean and in good condition we shall be contributing to the enjoyment of our citizens, who will find use of our streets for walking or driving a delight and not a humiliation.

Speaking of trees suggests something still for our Parks Committee—if we had one—to do. We are opening out new streets where there are no trees; and we have on the older streets many places where trees are lacking. The duty of providing street trees rests upon the City Council. Planting street trees is properly a civic, not a private, work, and the City Council should take some measures to provide for planting street trees. If a private citizen beautifies his premises and streets, increases their taxation value—according to our barbarous principles of assessment—the city should, in fairness, meet him half way and provide for the street front of his property. A citizen has no more right or obligation to beautify public places, as the streets are, at his private expense, than the public has to beautify his private place at the public expense.

We have, potentially, a beautiful city; the cult of the beautiful, in the way of lawns, shrubs, flowers, etc., is getting every day a stronger hold upon the citizens. If it should get a stronger hold upon the city fathers and induce them to cooperate with private citizens more extensively and sympathetically than has obtained in the past, the realization of the city beautiful would be more speedy and complete.

PROMISES IGNORED.

Alberta Conservatives are joining with the Liberals in requesting Mr. Borden to keep his promises when in opposition to hand over to the prairie provinces the control of their natural resources. Mr. Borden promised that this would be one of his first acts if he was entrusted with office. Mayhap he will plead that he is carrying out his promise seeing that after two years of office he has done so little and this will be one of his first positive actions. A little will content the Alberta Conservatives who have had a hard time of it trying to reconcile Mr. Borden's wealth of promises with his poverty of performance. —Ottawa Free Press.

THE NAVAL MESS MADE BY BORDEN AND CHURCHILL

On the last day of the last session of Parliament the last utterance of Premier Borden on the Navy question was that the government adhered to its determination to present the British Admiralty with three battleships. Mr. Borden's words were as follows:

As the construction of these ships is to be proceeded with by the British government, as they are apparently to be of the same character, the same strength, and the same fighting value as those which we proposed, as they are to be employed for the same purpose, that of the common defence of this Empire, which he had in mind, it is the firm intention and determination of this government, if it remains, as undoubtedly it will remain, in power, to bring down, at a later date, a proposal for the acquisition or construction of three battleships, as was proposed in the Naval Aid Bill of 1912. In that way, before the completion of these ships, we hope and expect to be in a position to say to the British government: Canada is prepared now to do now what the unworthy action of a partisan majority in the Senate prevented her from doing before; Canada will take over and pay for and acquire these ships and will place them at the disposal of His Majesty the King for the common defence of the great Empire of which Canada forms part.

In view of the fate that the King's speech does not contain a single reference to the Navy question, and in view of statements in the Conservative press that the government does not intend to introduce any Navy legislation at the present session of Parliament, one cannot help asking what has become of the "firm intention and determination of this government." Perhaps Mr. Henri Bourassa could an interesting tale unfold.

Meanwhile, English newspapers are at last exposing the very deceptive tactics of Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill the First Lord of the Admiralty. Referring to the "colonial offer of ships" the Manchester newspaper supporters of the Asquith government, of which Mr. Churchill is a member, says:

When the offers are made, Mr. Churchill says that we must not reckon them as part of our naval strength, and must make our own provision independently of them. But when the offers are withdrawn—as by the rejection of the Canadian Navy Bill—the argument is that our naval strength has been reduced and that we must increase our programme to make good. * * *

Mr. Churchill tries to have it both ways. When the offer is made, we are not to spend less; when it disappears we are to spend more. And, be it remembered, this English grievance is matched by a corresponding colonial grievance. The Dominions think of each offer of ships that it is a grant in aid of the British taxpayer in support of a policy over which they have no control. There is no increase of naval strength, no strengthening of the links to be had on the basis of ambiguities and equivocations such as these.

From the day that Winston Churchill's Admiralty memorandum was made public in Canada, The Free Press has condemned his palpable duplicity and charged him with playing a game on the Canadian people at the behest of certain interests.—Ottawa Free Press

My Easy Way For You

TO OWN YOUR HOME

If you have or ever intend to have a wife and family you must have a home by renting or buying. Doubtless you have read my ad. in the Examiner, where I offer to do for you as I have done for others, viz., to guide you to a home of your own, on as easy terms as you now have, paying rent.

If you rent you pay for ever, and have nothing to show. If you buy you have a valuable property to use, rent or sell. You are a man amongst men, with a stake in the country, honoured and respected, not a floater, here to-day and away to-morrow. My desire to sell and retire causes me to offer prices and terms that will never be repeated; so close to work and in the way of the City's growth. Come in and see plans; get full particulars, then you can lay out your plans for early Spring action.

AN IDAEL HOME

DON'T YOU WANT ONE?

WE HAVE IT AND CAN HELP YOU GET IT

The ambition of most men is to have a comfortable home of his own design. Usually the ideal home is pictured as standing well back from the street in a large lot laid out in lawns and gardens, with shade and fruit trees, hedges and flower beds arranged about the lot to suit the man's particular taste. A Lot 60 ft. x 180 ft. gives enough space for a lawn 30 ft. x 60 ft. in front of the house, a house 18 ft. x 24 ft. with summer kitchen, 10 ft. x 10 ft., a tennis or croquet lawn, or berry patch, or asparagus and rhubarb bed beside the house, an 8 ft. or 10 ft. driveway and still leave a large lot 60 ft. x 120 ft. at the back for vegetables and fruit trees and stable for the horse and cow. When to this ideal lot is added the advantage of easy access to the river for boating and the convenience of being only a short walk from the factory district, and reasonable building restrictions, this ambition seems capable of realization. Where such a lot can be bought on a deposit of $10 and the balance as the purchaser desires, this ideal home is within the reach of everyone.

WE HAVE THEM BUT

These lots have been picked up very fast, and we have only a few left for those quick enough to grasp the opportunity afforded to own an ideal home that is bound to increase in value to a remarkable extent at a small present cost. You can build and finish your kitchen in the spring and plant our your garden, and as you are able, complete your house. Get in line and out of the rut, and become a land owner, instead of paying some one else a premium for the privilege of living in his house. Remember there are only a few lots left, and applications therefor will be filled in the order in which they are received.

INTERMEDIATES WIN DREARY GAME FROM BOWMANVILLE

Visitors Were Outclassed, and Locals, Although Playing Their Worst Hockey of the Season Won Easily by 12 Goals to 5---It Was 9 to 1 at Half Time.

Local fans must have had a hunch last night for all but three or four hundred stayed away from Brock St. Rink and missed the worst game of the season. The Bowmanville Intermediates who have not won a game in the group were the guests of the evening and they were beaten 12 to 5. No one expected the Rubberville team to win last night, not even their own players, and the Petes played in the lackaisical manner of a team which realizes that the result is a foregone conclusion. Tom Janes out the blue and white outfit played indifferently, and the result was a dreary game, the best thing about which was the final alarum of the timer's gong. It would have pleased the crowd more and been better practice if the Petes had settled down playing hockey, and tried to run up a score, but the team has had a lot of hockey lately, and with a hard game at Belleville to-morrow night, evidently preferred to save themselves as much as possible.

The Petes ran in nine goals in the first period, while the visitors were getting one. Bowmanville had few chances in this half, their only goal being scored by Jones, who batted the rubber through when a long shot from Higginbotham hit the end of the rink and bounded out in front of the nets. With the score 9 to 1 at the half, the crowd settled back to watch a runaway second half, but the expected avalanche of goals failed to materialize. The Petes buzzed around for a few minutes and burned some hot ones at Spry which the little goalkeeper turned aside with a nonchalance that won the admiration of the crowd. Then Higginbotham, the speedy right wing of the visitors, broke into the game-light with some pretty rushes. The Petes' line were not checking back and the lanky auburn-haired visitor did not seem to have much trouble in working in. He moved a goal through from a scrimmage, and then came back with a nice rush, skated right around Bond, pulled Janes out and slammed the rubber into the empty nets.

The visitors had nailed three in a row before the Petes scored, Giroux doing the trick on a shot from the side. Then Bradshaw pulled off a billiard shot, his heave from the side carooming into the nets off a defence man's skate. Bowmanville came back with another counter, Cryderman banging one through for a mix-up and Bradshaw wound up the scoring with a pretty shot from the side.

For Bowmanville Higginbotham was easily the most effective forward doing some nice stick-handling and skating. Spry lived up to his name in goal, giving a beautiful exhibition. None of the Petes showed their Cobourg form with the exception of perhaps Bradshaw, who steamed along in good style along the boards and did some fine shooting, bagging five goals.

Pete Spratt refereed the game which was remarkably clean. The teams and summary follow:

Bowmanville—Goal, Spry; right defence, Robertson; left defence, Christie; rover, Jones; centre, Cryderman; right wing, Higginbotham; left wing, Hooper.

MERCANTILE HOCKEY LEAGUE EXECUTIVE HELD MEETING

Proposal to Provide a Challenge Cup

A meeting of the executive of this League was held last evening (by kind permission) at the offices of the "Examiner" newspaper. All the officers were present. Various matters of detail were discussed. Inter alia:—The purchase of a Challenge Cup, to become the property of the team winning it three years in succession. The working out of the details of this scheme was left in the hands of a committee composed of Messrs. Nelson, Russell, Walkey and Murphy, who will report progress at a special meeting of the executive to be held next Saturday evening at 7.30 in the "Examiner" offices. Another point under consideration was an alteration in the order of the last games in the schedule. The Plumbers entered a friendly protest against being scheduled for the three late games, and on the face of it, it seemed as if there was something not quite out of order in their protest. This difficulty has been harmoniously overcome by the "Examiner' and Tool Room teams exchanging places with the Test and Plumbers' teams, by which arrangement the newspaper boys will finish up the last of the scheduled games of the series.

The remainder of the business was merely managerial, and not of general public interest.

THE MERCANTILE HOCKEY LEAGUE

Play Off Three Games To-night at Brock Street Rink

The Mercantile Hockey League play off three interesting games to-night at the Brock Street rink:

8—9, "Examiner" vs. De Laval.
9—10, Tool Room vs. Test.
10—11, Bankers vs. Plumbers.

Last year the Tool Room were the champions, in fact the Goliath, of the Mercantile League, not having been beaten for two years, until the little David, in the form of the Examiner team, came in, rather late in the day, and "scrubbed" them. The "scrubbers" as they were not inaptly termed, were up to it and used sticks and a puck, wielded with stout hearts, and not marbles as a senile contemporary has suggested.

This year it looks as though the tug of war will be between the Tool Room and Test.

But who knows? There is as much uncertainty about hockey as there is about a woman's smiles—or temper. One cant well forecast either. Anyway, the newspaper boys will meet their old ally, Pete Spratt, in opposition, he being the backbone of the Separator team.

The money-baggers and the jointwipers take on the last game in to-night's fixtures, which are the same as were to have been played off last Monday night, but which were postponed at the request of the O.H.A. on account of their game at Cobourg that evening.

Junior Section Of Church League Is Organized

At a meeting held in the Y.M.C.A. last night a junior section of the Church Hockey League was organised. The following officers were elected:

Hon. President—Mr. J. J. Allen.
President—J. J. Thompson.
Secretary-Treasurer—Hugh Austin.

The churches represented were St. Paul's, All Saints, Charlotte St., Methodist and St. Andrew's.

Considerable business was transacted. An age limit of sixteen years and under was adopted and it was decided to play the League games on the Central Rink, Charlotte St.

Another meeting will be held on Monday evening next at 7:15 o'clock at the Y.M.C.A. Any church wishing to enter a team will be cordially received and should be represented at Monday night's meeting.

Mr. J. J. Allen, of the Prudential, has very kindly donated a trophy for competition among the League teams.

The senior certificates are out and managers should get busy at once and sign up their players.

RIVERS AND WOLGAST READY

Special Wire to The Examiner:

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Jan. 22. — Ad Wolgast and Joe Rivers, who are to engage in a ten-round bout before one of the Milwaukee clubs to-morrow night, have ceased training and are ready for the timekeeper's signal to call them into the ring. Each fighter expressed himself to-day as certain of victory, and the consensus of opinion of fight followers presages a lively and hard-fought contest.

Petes Will Invade East

Intermediates Play at Belleville and Juniors at Kingston To-morrow Night

Both Peterborough teams play away from home to-morrow night, the Intermediates playing in Belleville and the Juniors in Kingston. A win for the Intermediates will give them an almost unbeatable lead for the district while the juniors need to win at Kingston to ensure a tie up in the group. The Intermediates leave on the 1:30 p.m. G.T.R. train with the following line-up:

Goal—Janes.
Right defence—Bond.
Left defence—Denison.
Rover—Giroux.
Centre—Park.
Left wing—Kelly.
Spare—Kenneally.

The Juniors go east on the 8:20 G.T.R. train to-morrow morning with the line-up as follows:

Goal—Dwyer.
Right defence—Long.
Left defence—Richardson.
Rover—Halpin.
Centre—Rose.
Spare—Phelan.

The Juniors are requested to have their outfits packed at the rink at 8 o'clock to-night.

BARBERS BEAT HOTEL SEVEN

Last night the staff of the Oriental and of Lewis' Barber Shop met in what they claimed would be a lively hockey match. The affair took place at the Brock Street rink between 11 p.m. and 12 p.m., the hour being chosen in the hope that no spectators would present themselves to watch the ghastly spectacle.

The game opened up in a weird manner and continued until the referee put an end to the suffering by the final tinglo of the bell. The half time score was 3—2 for the Orientals, but at the close of the game the Barbers found themselves in the lead, 5—4.

The teams were:

Orientals — Robinson, Pidgeon, Shook, Arnott, English.

Barbers—Reilly, Donoghue, Throop, J. Lewis, A. Lewis.

OSHAWA WON FROM BELLEVILLE

OSHAWA, Jan. 22.—In a close, hard game, the Oshawa intermediates last night defeated Belleville by 2 goals to 1. The game was one of the best of the year.

Hockey--That's All

The following St. Paul's Church players are requested to be on hand Friday night at a quarter to seven for their game with Murray St. Baptist: G. McBride, M. Turner, W. Hill, S. Taylor, Panter, Loucks, Fee, Pearson and McCrimmon.

Walter Miller, the Peterborough forward, who was secured by Ottawa from the Wanderers under an optional agreement, is laid up with pneumonia and will likely be out of the game for the season. Ottawa were going to send him to the Maritime League, as with the signing of Duford, the New Edinburgh crack, they were carrying too many forwards.

Referee James Fraser reports that Preston intermediates could have scored 10 goals instead of 20 against Guelph O.A.C. on Monday night. He recommends that the O.A.C. be censured for putting such a weak team in the O.H.A. and suggests that the rest of their games should be cancelled to prevent further farces.

The following is the line-up of the Plumbers' team for their game with the Bankers to-night in the Mercantile League at Brock Street rink:

Goal—Hunsford.
Rover—Dobson.
Centre—Helson.
Spare—Logan.

COBOURG, Jan. 21.—In the third O.H.A. intermediate game played here this season, Cobourg defeated Whitby by 7 to 4. The ice was in good condition, and the game was quite clean throughout. The half time score was 4 to 2 in favour of Cobourg.

Cobourg.—Goal, Paton; right defence, Payne; left defence, Duckett; rover, Lavis; centre, Crowther; right wing, Cunningham; left wing, Freeman.

Referee—Richardson.

BLOUNT WILL BE HERE TO-MORROW TO TALK OVER SITUATION WITH DIRECTORS

The directors of the Peterboro Baseball Club have wired Curley Blount, the Youngstown manager, and the likely leader of this year's Peterborough team, to come on here for a consultation, and he will be on hand to-morrow night to go into the situation with the local magnates. Blount's application is being favorably considered by the directors and it is altogether likely that he will be the choice although Jack White, formerly of the Toronto and Buffalo teams is not out of the running.

The Peterborough Club sent out contracts to-day to Infielder Byrne; Catcher Chapdelaine; Outfielders Fox and Swartz; and Pitchers Sterling, Belting, Tracey and Cresswell, all that are left of last year's team.

Trout has been recalled by Toronto, McNeal and Penfold turned over to Guelph by the Toronto Club. Rowan is a free agent; Hilliard goes to Toledo, and Brant to Chattanooga, Tenn.

BEST FEATS OF SPORTS IN 1913.

REVIEW OF IMPORTANT COMPETITIONS.

International competitions heightened the interest is many branches of sport during the past season and the prowess of American exponents was well ustained. The season lacked the glory of the Olympic Games, but there were many competitions to engage the attention of American sport followers and to maintain their esthusiasm at concert pitch in probably as wide and varied a programme of contests as the history of games and recreations in this country has ever vouchsafed.

From the international viewpoint in all likelihood the most sustained interest was in connection with the arrival of a challenging team from the Hurlingham Club of London to compete for possession of the International Polo Cup, which has been in its keeping for twenty-three years until regained for America by the Meadow Brook team under the captaincy of Harry Payne Whitsey in 1909. The match was won in straight games at Meadow Brook by a defending team selected by the American Polo Association, with Mr. Whitney again playing as captain. Large crowds of spectators saw the games and cheered the United States representatives for their victory.

* * * *

Golf was also distinguished by an international interest. The amateur title rested safely in the possession of Jerome D. Travers, who this time did not have a formidable rivalry from across the Atlantic, but both Great Britain and France had had representation in the open championship. But for the marvellous success of Francis Ouimet, a practically unknown player, in gaining the title, after a triple tie with Vardon and Ray, the Britishers, the open championship would have been lost to the United States. All golfers naturally hold this to have been the greatest event in sports of the year that has just closed. Great Britain and Canada had entries in the woman's championship, and Miss Gladys Ravenscroft of England was successful in gaining the coveted honour from one of the strongest fields that ever appeared for the competition.

* * * *

Baseball passed through its most successful year in the history of the national sport. There was nation-wide enthusiasm over the world's championship series, played at the Brush Stadium between the Philadelphia Athletics, winners of the American League pennant, and the Giants, leaders in the National League race. The result was a decisive victory for the Athletics by 4 games to 1.

* * * *

In the tennis tournament, America was successful in regaining the Davis Cup from the Britishers, who won it from Australia in 1912. The American team was captained by H. H. Hackett, but the honours of the contest were gained by Maurice E. McLoughlin of California, who was the chief factor in the triumph of the Americans. McLoughlin retained the American single championship, which he had won for the first time in 1912, and with his Western partner, T. C. Bundy, he also gained the championship doubles. Miss Mary Browne of California remained in possession of the woman's championship.

* * * *

There was a revival of racing on the tracks in the vicinity of New York. The most successful horse in the classic events was Harry Payne Whitney's Whisk Broom II., which gained a permanent place among the stars of the turf by winning the Suburban Handicap when carrying top weight in the record time of 2 minutes for one and a quarter miles.

* * * *

There was unusual activity in rowing. Syracuse won an unexpected victory over the hitherto invincible Cornell oarsmen at Poughkeepsie, and Harvard easily won from Yale in their annual races at New London. In the American single sculls championship of the United States the United States oarsmen had to bow before the skill of a Canadian, R. Dibblee, who defeated the title holder, E. B. Butler.

* * * *

Among the amateur sailors the highest honours in yachting circles among the schooners were awarded to Morton F. Plant's Elena, and a similar distinction was bestowed among the sloops to Ralph N. Ellis's Iroquois.

An incident in the closing of the season was the acceptance by the New York Yacht Club of a challenge from Sir Thomas Lipton to race next year for the America Cup.

* * * *

The race for the Harmsworth international motor boat trophy was sailed on the Solent in the South of England. America and France, the latter for the first time, tried for the trophy won by England last year. The winner was E. Mackay Edgar's hydroplane Maple Leaf IV., with which the owner "lifted" the cup in 1912. The runner up was Ankle Deep, an American boat, which won the American championship at Thousand Islands.

* * * *

It required many years to beat the mile record of Tommy Conneff, but John Paul Jones of Cornell finally succeeded in clipping one-fifth of a second off the mark. This was one of the greatest performances in track field athletics. Of the record performances of the season none stand out more prominently than those of Hannes Kolehmaisen, the Finn runner. His five-mile and ten-mile races were American record-breakers, but lacked a few seconds of Alfred Shrubb's wonderful time. Jean Bouin, the French runner, set a new mark when he beat Shrubb's time for one hour.

* * * *

In football there was a succession of stirring reversals of form. Harvard won the inter-collegiate championship for the second consecutive time. The features of the season were Colgate's victory over Yale. Dartmouth's defeat by the Indians, West Point's remarkable success in the annual game fith Annapolis, and Cornell's triumph over Pennsylvania.

* * * *

Willie Hoppe stood almost alone in professional billiard circles. In addition to retaining his 18.2 balk line title he defeated Ora Morningstar for the 18.1 championship. Alfred De Oro kept his crown in the three-cushion branch of the sport, but the pocket billiard championship went to Bensy Allen of Kansas City.

* * * *

For the first time in the history of racquets, the world's professional championship was won by an American, Jock Soutar, professional to the Philadelphia Racquet Club, who defeated Charles Williams of England, the titleholder, seven games to four. Lawrence Waterbury won the amateur championship of America, and Jay Gould for the ninth consecutive time captured the court tennis title.

CURLING

(Lindsay Post.)

Lindsay won out in the Tankard Primaries at the local rink on Tuesday, making a light lunch of both the Peterborough and Cannington rinks in afternoon and evening games.

In the afternoon two rinks from Peterborough battled with Skips Flavelle and Little, the local rinks being 12 shots up at the close.

McLEAN HAS BEEN SIGNED ON BY SHEFFIELD WEDNESDAY

After the repeated assurances which have emanated from Sheffield that David McLean of Forfar would not appear in a Wednesday jersey unless he complied with the terms offered him, it comes as a distinct surprise to the football world to learn that he has again been signed on. It is not known officially upon what terms McMLean has returned to the fold, but it can easily be assumed that the extra inducement must have been held out before the "loon" agreed to leave Forfar. McLean's independent attitude and its ultimate success is a lesson to all clubs and players.

Peace in Sight.

All footballers will be glad to hear that the prospect of a reconciliation between the Football Association and the Amateur F.A. is now exceedingly bright.

Mr. F. J. Wall, the secretary of the Football Association, has addressed the following letter to Mr. H. Hughes Below, acknowledging he receipt of the decision of the A.F.A. committee:

"I thank you for your letter of yesterday and enclosure, and am pleased to know that your General Committee have approved the proposals for submission to your clubs.

"With regard to proposal No. 10, I do not wish to raise one word of discussion, but I view as unfortunate your Committee, at this stage, having admitted the Bohemian Association and clubs to membership of your Association.

"In the conversations with your representative it was made clear that the Bohemian Association could not become members of your Association. It is contrary to the constitution of the Football Association that its affiliated Associations should admit foreign or Colonial associations or clubs into membership.

"I note, however, that you have made the membership of the Bohemian Association and its clubs subject to their affiliation not being precluded by the present rules of the F.I.F.A. Happily, therefore, we need not discuss the question, for the rules of the F.I.F.A. preclude an Association affiliated with the Football Association admitting the Bohemian Association or its clubs to membership."

Suggested Combine.

The career of Notts Forest this season makes painful reading. They have striven hard to get out of the mire, but without avail. And as there is little prospect of better things they seem doomed to ornament the bottom of the League table at the close of the season. The introduction of a few really good-class men into the team would make a world of difference. But the Forest are in the unfortunate position of being unable to put down the "ready" to get a player or two. In direct contrast to their more distinguished neighbours, the County, the Forest are in a very bad way. Amalgamation with the County is suggested as a solution of the difficulties, but so far as we can gather the Forest are determined to stick it on their own. The amalgamation idea finds little favour also with the Forest supporters, but it really seems to be the only way out.

Almost Booked.

It is stated on good authority that Wilson, the Cambuslang Rangers' centre forward, is practically booked for Newcastle United, also that the "Geordies" are likely to sign Forbes the left back of the Dundee Hibs. They had representatives when the Hibs played their replayed tie at Inverness, and so well did he acquit himself that the way was immediately paved for a deal. He may be fixed up at any moment.

A Notts Recruit.

Notts County have signed on George Langlands, an inside left, of Forfar Athletic, a club for whom until recently David McLean, now of Sheffield Wednesday, played. Langlands was with Dundee for four seasons, and was a member of the team when they won the Scottish Cup.

RICHARD HALL & SON LIMITED

FAIR DIRECTORS MAY ASK COUNCIL TO BUY EXHIBITION GROUNDS AS AN INVESTMENT

Permanent Grounds Are Required If Buildings Are to be Erected and the Fair Made as Successful as It Should Be—Mr. J. H. Garbutt Re-elected President.

FINANCES SATISFACTORY

That in the near future the City Council may be called upon to consider the question of purchasing the Exhibition Grounds as an investment calculated to meet with the general approval of the citizens, is a possibility that was indicated at the annual meeting of the Industrial Exhibition Board which was held yesterday afternoon. Two years ago the Directors of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition were successful in securing a five-year option on the property and it is the general consensus of opinion that something definite should be done towards completing the purchase. The grounds, comprising thirty acres, are located on the southern boundary of the City, and since the option was obtained their value has increased considerably.

Lacked the Nerve.

On a previous occasion, the Council was approached with a view of having a by-law, sanctioning the purchase of the property, submitted to the ratepayers, but as Mr. G. A. Gillespie stated at the meeting yesterday, the City Fathers "lacked the nerve" to put it through".

It was pointed out that until something is done towards acquiring permanent grounds for exhibition purposes, very little could be expected in the way of improvement or the construction of new buildings. One of the Fair Directors, in the person of Mr. Robert Neil, suggested that a committee be appointed to wait upon the Council and ask their consideration in respect to the matter. "Peterborough is going to be the best city east of Toronto," said Mr Neill, "and to that end we should take steps to build up a permanent exhibition property".

Mr Gillespie offered that it would be one of the best proposals that the Council ever went into. The matter will come up at the next meeting of the Board when something definite will be decided upon.

The President's Address.

Mr. J. H. Garbutt, President of the Exhibition Board, in his address to the Directors, said that the past year had been very gratifying to the Board and, in fact, was the best in the history of the Fair. There had been a slight falling off in the gate receipts. This deficiency was more counter balanced by the increased number of entrants, which exceeded that of any previous year. The prize list had also been enlarged. Regret was expressed by President Garbutt at the demise of the late John Brown. The latter was a member of the Exhibition Board for a number of years, and was characterized by Mr. Garbutt as "an active and efficient worker, whose position on the Board would be difficult to fill. A motion was passed authorizing the Secretary to forward a letter of condolence to the bereaved family.

The Financial Status.

The annual statement which was adopted, showed the financial affairs of the organization to be in a very satisfactory condition. Mr. J. J. Turner, Sr., took exception to one item, which it contained. The item referred to concerned the expenditure of $20 for the collection of tickets at the gate, during the Fair. Mr. Turner contended that this money could have been saved and a director delegated to look after that matter, as had been done in previous years.

It was decided to dispense with the Spring Stallion and Bull Show, due mainly to lack of interest manifested in the event by local exhibitors.

The field crop competition for oats will be held as usual.

It was also decided to ask for departmental judges to act at the fall fair, as in former years.

Election of Officers.

The election of officers for the year 1914 resulted in the re-election of Mr. J. H. Garbutt to the Presidency, and practically the whole of the 1913 directorate, with several additional members. The officers elected are as follows:

President—Mr. J. H. Garbutt.

Vice-President—Mr. G. A. Gillespie.

2nd Vice President—Mr. R. Denne.

Sec.-Treas.—Mr. F. J. A. Hall.

Board of Directors—Messrs. W. E. Conway, T. O. Gibbs, J. A. Storey, T. Cruickshanks, R. M. Glover, T. E. Moore, S. Milburn, R. Neil, E. Duffus, J. O. Ball, J. Baptie, W. J. Cox, F. Wise, T. H. Hooper, Thos. Brown, H. Kitney, W. J. Oke and J. J. Turner, Sr.

Mr. S. Deyell of Otonabee was made an honorary member of the Board. Messrs. Wm. Collins and C. D. Moore and the President were appointed delegates to attend the annual meeting of the Fairs Association.

One of the members recorded an objection to the use of the Exhibition ground by the Gun Club, claiming that it created a disturbance in the neighbourhood. If a sufficiently signed petiton is submitted to the Board some other arrangements will be made regarding th use of the grounds by the sharpshooters.

ALD. JOHNSTON HAS FUND OF IMAGERY

Emphasizes His Remarks Occasionally With Pointed Illustrations

It is a tame gathering of the City Fathers that Ald. Johnston does not enliven when the muse moves him. For be it known that the north ward representative with whose name Hydro is inseparably connected, is decidedly figurative in his speeches when the occasion calls for it. He has a fund of illustrations from he picks out a new one every now and then, and particularly when the rest of the aldermen are not expecting it. He may not be always strong on the poetical, but when he hands out a simile it rings the bell. Last night, for instance; the Board of Works were discussing the purchase of enamelled street signs. "These indentures in the pavements that are supposed to serve as street signs are about as useful as two tails on a tom cat," said Hydro William, and you must admit that his imagery is not only expressive, but that in this case it was alliteratively embellished.

MORE TELEPHONE POLES ON SOME OF THE STREETS

The Board of Works recommended that the Bell Telephone Company be permitted to erect poles at the following places:

Two on the north side of Hazlett Street, west from Roger.

One on the west side of Oxford Street, south from Hazlett, for T. J. Parker's residence.

On on south side of Bolivar, west from Park, for the residence of W. Pilling.

Three on the west side of John south from Kim, and two on the south side of Bolivar Street for residences of J. A. Wolstenholme and W. J. Parnell.

Three on Aylmer street, west south from Perry, for W. Rowley and W. H. Hobel.

ESTIMATE OF NEW SEWER IS $6947

After Years of Discussion Dickson Property Will Likely be Served

The route of the proposed sewer for services to the Dickson property at the east end of London and Dublin Streets will parallel the present sewer joining it at a point between Hunter and Brock Streets. The cost will be $6,947. This was decided upon by the Board of Works last night and Engineer Parsons will forward the plans to the Provincial Board of Health for approval. By this step a depth will be obtained for basement requirements in the district. The system will be three feet lower than the old one, the ends of which on Waterford and Dublin Streets are from 2 1-2 to 3 feet below the street surface.

PROPOSE SPRINKLER FOR STREET RAILWAY LINE

Mayor Buller and Ald. Duncan Will Meet Mr. Munro Regarding It.

Mayor Buller and Ald. Duncan will wait upon Mr. W. H. Munroe of the Peterborough Radial Railway Company with a view to arranging for a water tank on a truck to go over the street car system. This proposal for sprinkling the streets on which the tracks are laid was proposed last year, but it was too late to take action.

EXPOUNDIN' DOCTRINE.

(Mental suggestion will do much toward alleviating suffering from extreme cold. When uncommonly cold try to think of warm days of summer and the effect is almost electrical if one has an imagination sufficiently trained.—Dr. Schodel, Bureau of Research, Washington. All right Doc., here goes.)

Some folks say—an' I donno,
Lots of times I half allow
Mebbe what they say is so—
Hell 's right here on earth, an' now!
That's their doctrine anyways,
Lots of 'em! I allus says,
Grantin' that their doctrine 's true,
Heaven 's here amongst us, too.

My religion takes a reef
Durin' August, if you please—
August strengthens my belief
In an earthly Heaven; these
Harvest days of gold an' brown,
With fruits an' nuts a-rainin' down
Off from every branch an' limb,
Sets me feelin' close to Him.

Where in all the Heaven they Preach about, can folks locate
Somethin better than a day
In middle August, p'haps—or late?
Where's the bright Celestial rays
That'll beat this August haze,
Or the anthem that'll be Sweet as August's poetry?

In the Master's promises,
Where is one that you construe
Into comfort such as this
August offers me an' you?—
Where in all the Scripter, 's writ
Leave for you to take the bit
In your teeth an' plum defy
All your troubles, mighty nigh?

Yes sir e-e, I'm free to say Things are perfect, purty near—
Disguised as an August day
Heaven sure is now an' here!
If it ain't then seems to me
Sure enough it ought to be,
An' I move y' that we jus'
Make the change unanimous!

New System For Repair Of Roads

Board of Works Will Procure Two Horses and Carts for the Work

The Board of Works decided to procure two horses and two carts for systematic street repair during the coming summer.

Mayor Buller said he would like to see his idea of a cart and horse for road fixing in each ward carried out. A man detailed with each unit of this equipment could give constant attention to the streets and prevent the formation of holes, and in general could keep the streets in firstclass condition.

Ald. Anderson—"I don't think we need one in each Ward. Our appropriation would soon be eaten up.

Ald. McIntyre favoured a team for the purpose of gravelling the roads where necessary and removing stones in places where they collected.

Ald. Duncan approved of the first plan and said that with a cart the roads could not only be repaired, but they could be kept clean. The gutters could be kept clean, weeds and rubbish removed in addition to the repairing of the roadway'

Ald. Green moved that two horses and carts be procured for repair work.

It was pointed out that Ald. McIntyre's proposal involved too much and too heavy work.

Ald. Green said he would have wished to move for four or five outfits, but two would serve as a test. "We want to be cautious," he said, "but before the summer is over we will feel we should have had five."

Ald. Duffus seconded the motion.

SURRENDERS TO THE POLICE

Special Wire to The Examiner:

NEW YORK, N.Y., Jan. 22.—Harry Schaeffer walked into the 47th street police station this morning and surrendered himself on a charge of murdering William Grieve Martin, the Toronto milliner, who was beaten to death in his apartments here last August. Schaeffer didn't admit his guilt but asked to see a lawyer immediately. The police have been looking for him ever since the crime was committed. They also want an Italian named Sirocco in connection with the same case.

PROPOSE TO COMBINE CITY'S ENGINEERING DEPARTMENTS

Board of Works Approve of This Plan—Will Confer With Water Commissioners—Two Petitions For the Same Sidewalk.

ALL MEMBERS PRESENT

It is proverbial of new brooms that they sweep clean. Likewise a new Council. Ditto a new Board of Works.

Last night Ald. Duncan buried himself behind a mountain of filed literature representing this, that and the other varieties of petitions, and to the other members of the Board said: "Come on, let us dig our way out". And dig thy did like terriers at a hole under the shed. With the chairman were Aldermen Green, McIntyre, Saunders, Johnston, Duffus, Anderson, Stratton and Mayor Buller.

Martin Neary wrote applying for the foremanship of the construction of sewers.

Ald. Duffus moved that the appointment of foremen be left to Engineer Parsons. Ald. Saunders seconded it.

Ald. Green: "I don't feel that we should be in a hurry for a few weeks. This is our first meeting for the year and we might decide to construct them by contract."

Ald. Johnston was satisfied to leave the matter in the hands of the Engineer.

Moved by Ald. Green seconded by Ald. Stratton, that the question be left in abeyance for the present.

The amendment carried. It was supported by Ald. Anderson, Ald. Stratton, Ald. Green and Ald. McIntyre. Mayor Buller, Ald. Saunders, and Ald. Duffus voted against it. Ald. Johnston did not vote. He said he understood that the question was already under the Engineer's control, as it was last year.

John Williams and others asked for a sidewalk on the south side of Charlotte Street, where the Street Railway turns north, at the corner of Park, Downie and Charlotte Streets.

W. H. Pethick, C. R. Banks and J. McIntyre wrote asking for the same.

Is not a Pressing Need.

Ald. Green said he did not regard this as a crying need. There was no property fronting on the required walk that would pay for it, and the Board should do as little as possible work that would bring no returns. "We can well afford to let this matter lay over until a later date," he said.

The application was placed on the list of petitions. It was generally admitted that the residents of the district should be given a walk.

The Water Commissioners presented a bill for work done for the Board last year. Ald. Duncan stated that the Board had frequently done work for the Commission and expected that it would be equalized by work such as that itemized on the bill. The items were as follows:

January, 1913, repairing steam boiler	$35.80
Nov. 4, 1913, repairing broken blow-off	1.11
Use of steamer for thawing drains	12.65
Horse hire for same	26.80

Mayor Buller said there was no charge made in 1912. The work done was offset by what the Board did for the Commissioners. "We never charged them for filling in drains, carrying away stones, the use of pumps, etc. They would owe us $1000 if we made up our account.

Ald. Duncan—"They have had our pump for three months at a time. A contra account would cover this bill three times."

On motion of Ald. Duffus it was decided to leave the bill with the Mayor and Ald. Duncan with a view to conferring with the Commissioners securing further details from Mr. H. Evans and possibly preparing an account against the Commission.

CONSOLIDATE ENGINEERING PARTMENTS.

Mayor Buller suggested that the Water Commissioners be consulted with a view to placing the Engineering Departments of the Council and the Commission under the one head. This had been proposed a year ago, but it was decided to take no action until this year. It would systemize the whole engineering work of the City, and avoid certain work that would be unnecessary if the departments were combined.

Mr. Parsons—"In a city of this size I do not see the need of two departments and two separate staffs. It means that a certain amount of energy is spent that is not absolutely necessary. It duplicates help. The engineering work would be centralized and more completely systmatized.

Ald. Johnston said that when Mr. Parsons was engaged this object was held tentatively. Mr. Parsons had proved his ability.

Mayor Buller reminded the Board that the City Engineer had obtained special experience with water systems. The engineer of the Water Commission would likely be needed as an assistant but the whole work would be brought together.

Moved by Ald. Johnston, seconded by Ald. McIntyre, that the Mayor and Ald. Duncan confer with the Water Commissioners in regard to consolidating the Departments.—Carried.

DEBENTURES OVERLOOKED.

A communication from Mr. Parsons asked what provision would be made for the cost of the concrete sidewalks around the East City School.

Mayor Buller stated that the sidewalks were wanted in a hurry last year, and the advertising of debentures had been overlooked. All that was necessary was the preparation of a by-law to provide for them.

Moved by Mayor Buller, seconded by Ald. Green, that the necessary steps be taken to provide for the issuing of debentures for the amount.—Carried.

G. T. R. Will Move Tracks.

C. P. Bowker of the G. T. R., wrote in regard to the siding on Bethune Street, between Simcoe and Charlotte Streets, stating that the track which is 3 feet 6 inches from the building line, would be moved over six feet, giving a clearing of 4 feet, 6 inches.

Ald. Green—"It should be looked into and see that it is done.

Engine House Not Wanted.

Ald. Green referred to the G. T. R. engine house, at the corner of Charlotte and Bethune Streets, and the fact that it nullifies to a large extent the presence of the gateman whose view is cut off on the south side. The Company said they would remove it and we should try to have it done right away.

Mayor Buller—"Sure. Lynch told us that it would only be a matter of time when they would rearrange their system of sidings and the engine house would go in the clean-up. That was two years ago.

Moved by Ald. Green, seconded by Ald. Duffus, that the City Clerk write the Company requesting them to remove the building, according to their agreement.—Carried.

PROF. SKELTON'S LECTURE

I would like to draw the attention of the citizens to the lecture to be given on Friday evening next in the Collegiate Institute Assembly Hall by Prof. Shelton of Queen's University on "Can War be Ended."

Prof. Skelton is one of the ablest men in university work in Canada, being an authority on political economy. The lady teachers of the City, under whose auspices he lectures, are to be congratulated on bringing so distinguished a scholar to our City, and hope a large number of our citizens will attend his lectures.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for this space.

The American Lady House Dress Is a Striking Example of Neat Attire at a Moderate Price

While in Fit and Service it is Guaranteed to Give One Hundred Per Cent. Satisfaction.

THIS is the dress that will delight the woman who knows that her neat appearance, when at her housework, is one of her greatest personal charms.

Doubtless she knows too, that in the eyes of the men folk, there is a genuine admiration for the woman who is both capable in her work, and good to look at while she is at work.

And for the woman at her daily duties, who would look neat and attractive, the garment of perfection is a well made house dress, like The "American Lady" Dresses.

These are made to fit. And they do fit—perfectly.

The material is a dependable quality of American Percale in colours of blue, black, mauve and grey upon a white ground; neatly patterned.

The yoke and cuffs are trimmed with a solid colour percale, and have piping of a contrasting shade. Sleeves are three quarter length; while skirt and waist are cleverly put together and also set off by a neat piping.

A dust cap is included, which matches the dress perfectly in colour and treatment.

Sizes are from 34 to 42, while the very modest price is $1.59. —Second Floor

Large Sized House Dresses 37 to 52

The woman of ample proportions has not been forgotten, for we have all the above sizes in deftly designed dresses, which will fit without the least trouble.

They are similar to the other line, and though they cost a trifle more, the price is only $1.89

Particularly worth seeing is the display of whitewear on the 2nd floor. These goods are seldom sold cheaper than just now.

BEST YEAR IN HISTORY OF MURRAY STREET CHURCH

Splendid Reports Presented at Annual Business Meeting Last Night—53 Added to Membership

OFFICERS ELECTED

The gathering at the Murray Street Baptist Church annual meeting, last night, was large and enthusiastic. The Chairman of the evening was the Pastor of the Church.

Fifteen different departments of the Church were represented in the reports which were presented by their respective treasurers and secretaries. Apart from sums paid into the building fund by friends outside the membership of the Church, this congregation has given for their work at home and abroad during the twelve months of 1913, between eleven and twelve thousand dollars. There have been added to the membrship in the same period, fifty-three persons.

The erection of a splendid edifice, which was opened eighteen months ago, has been fully justified and both the congregation and the Sunday School have grown steadily.

The following are the receipts of the different departments:

General Fund	$6119.64
Building Fund	4766.00
Sunday School	602.23
Ladies' Aid Society	598.00
Mission Circle	335.92
Fellowship Fund	102.29
Mission Band	161.26
Young People's Union	58.76
Baby Mission Band	3.30
Cradle Roll	.80
	$12,748.20

The Sunday School has flourished under the direction of Mr. W. Shiner while a Chinese Department is conducted, with Mr. L. J. Pettet, B.A., as superintendent. The only Chinese baby in Peterborough is a member of the Murray Street Cradle Roll.

Rev. J. R. Webb, who has one week ago completed his seventh year as Pastor of the Church, has made one thousand and four pastoral visits, besides social and other engagements during the year. He has preached eighty-three sermons in his own pulpit and nineteen elsewhere.

Mr. T. F. Matthws and Mr. William Aldridge presented a resolution expressing the confidence of the Church in thir Pastor, their appreciation of his ministry and also their deep regard for himself. This was passed unanimously and ordered to be inscribed on the minute book.

The officers for the year were then elected, as follows:

The retiring deacons were re-elected, as follows: V. Eastwood, W. D. Scott, B.A., M.D., Geo. Cochrane.

Clerk—A. J. Raddon.

Treasurer—F. M. Somerville, B. A.

Treasurer Building and Interest Fund—T. F. Matthews.

Finance Committee—T. G. Gillespie, H. H. Tewsley, James Lewis, D. Thompson, R. C. Reid, Dr. Scott, S. Cottingham, J. P. Cunningham, R. Harding.

Representative to Charity Board—Dr. J. A. Morgan.

Representative to Protestant Home Board—Dr. B. Mann.

Treasurer of Fellowship Fund—Dr. W. D. Scott.

Music Committee—T. F. Matthews, W. R. Breyfogle, R. Harding.

Ushers—R. Harding, E. M. Walls, G. Pringle, Jos. Dougherty, Stanley Blewett, S. Cottingham, W. Rambo, Albert Wray, James Lewis.

Baptismal Committee—Mrs. S. Cottingham, Mrs. W. Montgomery, Mrs. K. P. Ellis, Mrs. G. Pringle.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered to the retiring Financial Secretary, Mr. E. Brumwell and also to the Choir for the excellent services rendered by its members during the year.

CRITICISING THE HEREFORDS AT THE SMITHFIELD CLUB SHOW AT THE AGRICULTURAL HALL, LONDON, ENGLAND. — The 115th show of the Smithfield Club was held at Islington during week of December 7th. The visitors lay and expert can be seen examining the Herefords, which made a good show. In the younger steer class the first prize went to Sir J. R. Cotterell's steer, the second went to the Hon. F. G. Wynn's Brian Marble that was reserved at Birmingham, and Mr. J. G. Cooke's Shelsley Ivor, the leader at the midland counties meeting, was third. The second prize winner sealed 12 cwt. 3 qr. 14 lb. at one year nine months and two weeks old, and the third 13 cwt. 1 qr. 26 lb. at one year ten months and two weeks. The Hon. F. G. Wynn's Brian leader took reserve. For older steers the winner was again Lieutenant, the property of the King. This is a very typical specimen, well filled heind, with deep rib and boog back. His weight at two years and seven months is 18 cwt. 3 qr. 16 lb., and he won the breed cup as he did at Birmingham, reserve for this distinction being Sir John Cotterell's winner in the young class.

WHITE SLAVE ACT IN DETROIT DISTRICT

DETROIT, Jan. 22.—The district of the United States court of which Detroit is headquarters has had more cases and more convictions under the Mann or so-called White Slave Act than any other district in the country, according to a report received from the Department of Justice yesterday. Since the passing of the act June 25, 1910, up to Oct. 1, 1913, sixty white slave cases were tried in Detroit, and in each a conviction was obtained by the Government.

As a result of the convictions there was a total of 106 years, ten months and two days imposed in sentences. Fines amounting to $5,900 were also imposed.

Mr. F. W. Miller returned this morning from Winnipeg, where he went to certify to the civic compensation in connection with his son who was in the employ of the city. The matter will not be settled until Feb. 9. Mr. Miller stated that Winnipeggers declare the winter to be one of the mildest and most unusual during the past 33 years. When he arrived there it was 23 below zero, but the weather quickly changed. People discarded gloves and overcoats. There is quite a number of unemployed in the western city, although there are many buildings being erected.

Peterborough County Farmers Are Contemplating a Ploughmen's Association for the County

Several prominent farmers of Peterborough County are considering the feasibility of inaugurating a local Ploughmen's Association. The matter was broached by Mr. J. H. Garbutt at the annual meeting of the Peterborough Fair Directors, which was held yesterday, and a resolution endorsing such action was approved of. The local organizaation would have affiliation with the Ontario Ploughmen's Association, whose object is to advance the interests of agriculture, by encouraging its members to give greater attention to thorough cultivation of the soil.

MAY OUTLINE DISTRICT FOR STREET PAVING

Although nothing was definitely decided upon, it is likely that a district to receive paved streets will be outlined before long.

At the Board of Works' meeting last night, Aylmer Street, from the C.P.R. to McDonell Street, and Water, from McDonnel Street south, were mentioned with the intersecting Streets to be gradually filled in.

Ald. Duffus—We might look into the cost of a plant with which the City could do the work.

Ald. Green suggested that notices of the work be sent out early for those who will have to lay services.

Mayor Buller—No matter how early you may be, you will find that some will wait till the last minute.

Mr. Parsons—The waterworks were the worst offenders.

Ald. Johnston—We should get after the Street Railway fellows for the part between the rails.

Scientists have estimated that the smoke nuisance costs Pittsburg nearly $10,000,000 a year or about $20 for each resident.

BRANTFORD MURDERER IS GRANTED RESPIT

BRANTFORD, Jan. 22.—There will by order of the Minister of Justice be a further medical examination of James Taylor, sentenced to be hanged on Friday next for the murder of Charles Dawson, a 13-year-old boy.

Will Wind Up With A Surplus

Several of the Civic Departments Have a Small Balance to Their Credit

The statement of receipts and expenditures from the 1st of January to the 31st of December, 1913, as issued from the City Treasurer's office, indicates that there will be several departmental surpluses. The Charity Department has a balance of nearly $2,000, but this will be pretty well exhausted before the estimates for 1914 are available. Out of an appropriation of $16,500, the Fire Department has spent $16,442.88, leaving the bare possibility of a balance. It is understood that the Fire Department will ask for $22.00 this year, an increase of over $5,000.

The appropriation for garbage collection for 1913 was $5,905.84; so far to date $5,874.03 has been expended on this work. On the 31st of December, the Police Department had an overdraft of $175, above an appropriation of $9,500. An appropriation of $2,000 has been set aside for the removal of snow from the City streets.

WANT AMENDMENTS TO RAILWAY ACT

Special Wire to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, Jan. 22.—Representatives of organized labour throughout the Dominion will press the government this session for a number of amendments to the Railway Act and Industrial Disputes Act. One idea is to provide some system of automatic compensation for all employees of railways injured during the performance of their duties, as well as a fixed compensation for widows and families of the men killed. Representatives of railway employees are of the opinion, however, that compulsory compensation can be provided for throughout the Dominion by an amendment to the Railway Act.

PECULIAR ACCIDENT TO MONTREAL TRAIN

Passengers on the C.P.R. train from Montreal did not know how near they were to death yesterday while passing Myrtle, Ont., about 45 miles from here. There the train was nearly lifted from the tracks by wedged planks. When the train arrived at the Union Station and the passengers learned of the danger they had been in, one elderly lady said: "Well, I am very hungry, and want a cup of tea, but before I take it I am going back into that car and down on my knees to thank God for sparing me to once more see my boys and girls."

"The train," said a train man, in speaking of the peculiar accident, "had just commenced to make fair speed. When crossing over one of the plank crossings two of the heavy planks sprang up and got wedged in the brake cylinder under one of the sleepers. The entire train seemed about to be lifted from the rails, and if it had many homes would be mourning the loss of some dear one by this time. Prompt action on the part of the engineer, however, saved the situation. The moment he felt the drag on his train he stopped, and the wonder is that we did not go over into the ditch. It took us just one hour to cut the planks loose, so firmly were they embedded in the cylinder under the coach.

When asked how they accounted for the planks lifting out of their position they said it was the frost.

GUN MEN ON A RAMPAGE

Special Wire to The Examiner:

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—One saloon keeper was beaten unconscious and another east side gunman is in the hospital dying of a revolver bullet. This is the record of casualties this morning from last night's operations of the gang who are seeking vengeance for "squealing" to the police. It was a veritable reign of terror but the police had the situation pretty well in hand this morning with twenty arrests.

COMMISSION TO CONTROL MUNICIPAL FINANCES IN REGINA

REGINA, Jan. 22.—The Saskatchewan Commission to control municipal finance has now entered on its duties. This Board supervises all municipal bond issues, and its stamp of approval means much to the individual municipality in floating debenture issues. The Saskatchewan government is the first in Canada to take this very important step. While it has been generally conceded that such a commission would be of enormous value to municipalities, nothing has been done outside of Saskatchewan. The commission gives advice on the best forms of raising money for improvement works, as to the advisability of the works contemplated, and the class of work most suitable. What this means to the investor in the Old Country or the United States, who seeks to purchase western debentures, can be readily recognized. He is assured that unless the works are justifiable, the commission will not approve of them, and this will have a tendency to trim expenditures of improvement works which are sometimes outlined by over optimistic municipal councils. The best men to be had have been secured to act on this commission, and their appointment is for ten years.

SUGGESTION FOR CHARITY ORGANIZATION

To wisely and efficiently help the poor and the unfortunate," writes J. J. Kelso, the well-known philanthropic worker, "there should be in every city a Charity Organizaton Society," not so much to give alms as to study social problems and work for the removal of the causes of wretchedness and poverty. It is absolutely useless to give families temporary relief when there are certain conditions that keep them down and make it impossible for them to become self-supporting. Improved laws, clean, health yand remunerative employment, decent and sanitary homes moral instruction and play facilities for their children, are what the poor need far more than alms. To get all classes actively interested and intelligently helping is the work of the Charity Organization Society. Its objects are:

To make employment the basis of relief.

To prevent children growing up as paupers.

To secure the community from imposition.

To prevent indiscriminate and duplicate giving.

To elevate the home life, health and habits of the poor.

To see that all deserving cases of destitution are properly relieved.

To reduce vagrancy and pauperism and ascertain their true causes.

Methods of Work.

By a system of registration to prevent imposition.

By bringing about co-operation among all charitable agencies.

By obtaining from existing charities the precise help needed; or,

By giving relief when immediate aid is needed and when all other sources fail.

By securing, through investigation the most suitable action in all cases.

By careful study of the causes of pauperism and of the best methods of dealing with destitution and degradation.

By a system of visiting which shall substitute friendliness for alms and inspire thrift, self-respect and better living.

RELIGIOUS TEACHING IN ALBERTA SCHOOLS

REGINA, Jan. 22.—Religious union as far as school education goes, has been effected in Regina. As far as is known this is the first attempt to have a system of religious training in public schools, that is suitable to Protestants and Roman Catholics alike. For some time past the various clergqmen, of the city, including among others: Rev. Dr. W. W. Andrews, formerly of the Regina Methodist College, and Bishop Matthew, representing the Roman Catholic denomination, have been considering the question of the form which religious teaching, in public schools, should take. By eliminating certain parts of the form used by the different churches and picking out the parts which in all those denominational teachings are similar, a system was arranged which is now suitable to all. Owing to the many objections which one denomination finds in another's teachings, it was expected that some obstacle would come up This, however, was not the case.

REFORMS ARE URGED

Strong Ontario Delegation Waits on Ontario Government

WANT CIVIC DEPARTMENT

TORONTO, Jan. 23.—With a schedule calling for radical amendments to the Municipal Act, better organization of Indian reserves, the appointment of a commission to study city planning on a large scale and the creation of a municipal department of the Provincial Government, a deputation representing the Ontario Municipal Association, the Trades and Labor Council, the Civic Guild, the Toronto Board of Trade, Toronto Housing Co., Ontario Motor League and city councils from different cities, waited upon Hon. W. J. Hanna yesterday.

One thing asked was that individual debenture bylaws be made unnecessary, and that the Provincial Board of Health be relieved from the duty of passing upon the various branches of local waterworks systems. This worked in with the desire for a commission to advise upon town planning, housing, the laying out of streets, abolition of slums and kindred problems. The Municipal Act should be so amended to give the commission jurisdiction over all these matters.

Hon. Mr. Hanna, in reply, stated that such a movement had been under consideration for some time and that it was to the interest of all municipalities to learn of each others' failings. He asked for suggestions as to eligible commissioners and promised a Cabinet discussion.

President Richter, of London, argued for caution in amending the Assessment Act so far as it concerned judges and federal officials, because of an action now before the courts. This also applied to the rate of speed in motoring through cities. Both propositions were postponed for settlement.

The disadvantages of a large number of bylaws, were outlined by A. K. Bonell, of Brantford, and Samuel Kent, of Hamilton. They felt that 200 bylaws at present might be voted on in a general bill.

The suggestion that extensions to sewer service should not need the sanction of provincial officers, came from St. Thomas, but did not gain much sympathy from the Minister. He was afraid that carelessness would appear and abuses result.

Brantford complained that the Indian reserves in the vicinity of that city were causing heavy burdens to be borne. The Indians did not share in public improvements, and their treaty money was not shared with the city treasury, so that the latter footed their bills.

The slum proposition, which has been presented to the Government before, was revived by K. H. Dunston, of the Toronto Board of Trade, Col. Ponton, of Belleville, James Stevenson (appearing for labor), R. D. Fairbairn (for the C. M. A.), and Frank Beer. They urged that the present lack of city planning was multiplying the feeble-minded inmates of provincial institutions.

In addition to the spokesmen there were numerous civic delegates from all parts of Ontario.

Five Fishermen Missing.

HALIFAX, N.S., Jan. 23. — Five men did not return to their fishing boats, the Pontiac and Elsie, while six men from the latter vessel had a narrow escape during the storm that struck the Nova Scotian coast Wednesday night.

The men were fishing in dories off the Nova Scotian coast and were blown away from their ships.

AGREEMENT REACHED.

British Naval Difficulties In Cabinet Have Been Settled.

LONDON, Jan. 23.—Premier Asquith apparently provided a solution at yesterday's Cabinet meeting of Chancellor of the Exchequer David Lloyd-George's difficulty in making both ends of the budget meet, for the Chancellor and Winston Churchill, the First Lord of the Admiralty, left the conference arm in arm as though there was never a vestige of a quarrel between them.

That Mr. Churchill will get the four capital ships he insists upon, is accepted in naval circles as an assured fact, while the other departments will have little expenditure.

In the meantime, according to the Unionists, Mr. Lloyd George's championship of the "Little Navy" faction has brought into line again a strong contingent of the nonconformist government supporters, who are showing restlessness at the forcing of Protestant Ulster under the rule of a Catholic majority.

The Cabinet postponed its final decision on the naval estimates until next week.

Two Counterfeiters Sentenced.

MONTREAL, Jan. 23.—Paul Zache and Fritz Medding, convicted on a charge of counterfeiting U. S. five-dollar certificates, were sentenced yesterday to two years' imprisonment in the penitentiary. Both will be sent back to Germany upon the completion of the prison terms.

Bernadetto di Paoli, secretary of the Italian Immigration Society, was found guilty yesterday of misappropriating $7,000 entrusted to his care. Sentence was deferred.

Black Hand Letter.

WALLACEBURG, Ont., Jan. 23.—Thomas Shaw, one of the wealthiest citizens of this town, has received a letter from some "black hand" artists, demanding that he place $1,000 in a small wooden box at the fourth telegraph pole of the Pere Marquette, east of the station.

SUMMONED TO BAR

Montreal Mail Editors Must Explain Bribery Charges

INVESTIGATION IS ORDERED

QUEBEC, Jan. 23. — Before both the upper and lower Houses of the Quebec Legislature, meeting yesterday afternoon at the same time, Hon. A. Bergevin, Hon. L. P. Berard, and Mr. J. O. Mousseau, M.P.P. for Soulanges, asked their colleagues to form a Committee of Investigation as quickly as possible to consider the charges made by The Montreal Daily Mail that they had accepted bribes to pass a dummy bill, engineered through the House by a company made up mainly of detectives from the William J. Burns Detective Agency.

In the lower House, before the accused member had a chance to ask this for himself, and before most of the members had reached their places on the floor of the House, Mr. Armand Lavergne was on his feet with a long motion that included all the charges made by The Mail, and asked that Mr. M. E. Nicholls, president and managing director, and Mr. B. A. MacNab, vice-president and director of The Mail, should be brought before the bar of the House. Sir Lomer Gouin and Hon. L. A. Taschereau, Minister of Public Works, as well as Mr. Mousseau, spoke, and all insisted that a committee should be named at once to proceed with the inquiry, instead of waiting until next Wednesday as asked by Mr. Lavergne. As the Opposition insisted that this should be done the Premier said that he had no objection to having that done as well, and the motion passed that the two newspaper men should be brought before the bar on Tuesday afternoon next at four o'clock.

At the evening session the Premier moved that Hon. L. A. Taschereau, Hon. P. S. G. Mackenzie, Hon. J. M. Tellier (leader of the Opposition), Messrs. Tessier (Three Rivers), Gault Perron, Letourneau (Hochelaga), and Bernier should be a Committee of Inquiry to consider the charges made by The Montreal Daily Mail.

Ignorant of Art.

Talking the other night at the Authors' Club on literature, and painting, Mr. Walter Emanuel, of Punch fame, said that the ignorance of the masses on artistic matters is appalling. He told an amusing story of an incident which occurred when he was recently passing through a certain exhibition. He came across a group of persons looking at a certain picture, one of whom said, "Is it a droring?" The reply was, "No, stupid; it's an itching." A third person interrupted and said, "No; you're both wrong. it's a pastille."

Lash For Wife-Beater.

GUELPH, Jan. 23. — Magistrate Watt intends to put a stop to wife beating in Guelph. Yesterday morning in one of two cases of this kind brought before him, the offender was sentenced to ten days in the county jail and to receive five lashes. This will be the first application of the cat in Guelph.

The Double Work of the Blood

The circulation of the blood is one of the most perfect pieces of mechanism in the universe. Besides carrying nourishment to every part of the body, the blood collects the waste products and passes through the kidneys in order that these poisons may be eliminated.

Hence you see the tremendous importance of keeping the kidneys in healthful working order so that they free the blood of these impurities before they find lodgment in some weak spot and set up serious disease.

Aching back and aching head, troubles with the digestion, deposits in the urine, constipation and biliousness—such are the symptoms which indicate the need of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. The liver is awakened to action, the bowels regulated, and the kidneys made vigorous in their work of purifying the blood.

In the great majority of homes Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are kept at hand for use in just such cases. They save many doctor bills, and by keeping the digestive and excretive systems in health do much to prolong life and bring comfort in old age.

Hon. Mr. Pelletier Promises a Better Mail Service

EAST PRESENTS ITS CLAIMS

OTTAWA, Jan. 23.—The debate upon the address was resumed in the House yesterday afternoon, and will continue until Tuesday, when there will be a division upon the Laurier amendment, censuring the Government for having taken no action to relieve the financial depression.

The discussion yesterday was carried on mainly by members from the Maritime Provinces, who complained of the reduction in Parliamentary representation which the provinces by the sea will suffer under redistribution. They include Clarence Jamieson, the Conservative member for Digby, N.S., Mr. Turgeon, of Gloucester, N.B.; Mr. Hughes, Liberal member for Kings, and Mr. Donald Nicholson, Conservative member for Queen's, P.E.I.

Upon the orders of the day being called, Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux interpellated the Government respecting the mail service between Canada and Great Britain. He said there was much dissatisfaction with the service among the business people of Toronto and Montreal. Important letters for the English mail were held two or three days to await the next sailing from Halifax, instead of being despatched via New York.

Postmaster Pelletier pointed out in reply that the sender of a letter could route it to suit himself. If he endorsed on the envelope "via New York" the letter would be sent in that way. Mr. Pelletier admitted that the present service from Canada was not as good as had been anticipated. The Allan Line had not put on their big fast steamers, the Alsatian and the Calgarian, although the Calgarian would begin its sailings from Halifax next week. The existing arrangement was a temporary one, expiring May 1.

Hon. J. D. Hazen introduced a bill to amend the Shipping Act by some changes in the law respecting collisions at sea and salvage in accord with the recommendations of the international convention held at Brussels in 1910.

The debate upon the address was resumed by Mr. Jamieson (Digby, N.S.) He declared that the high cost of living had nothing to do with the tariff, and in any event the farmers of this country would not consent to the tariff protection they now enjoyed being taken away from them.

Present conditions were caused, he said, by under-production. The Laurier Government by an unwise policy of immigration had greatly increased the number of consumers of food without any corresponding increase in the number of producers. Better roads, intensive cultivation, parcels post and rural mail delivery were the best remedies, he said.

Mr. Hughes (King's, P.E.I.) followed. The Dominion Senate, he believed, had performed a great public service by throwing out the naval aid bill. The three dreadnoughts were unnecessary, as the Government tacitly admitted by not introducing the bill. The P. E. I. member sharply criticized the Minister of Militia, who, he said, had gone to Europe with twenty colonels and a retinue of servants and secretaries. The junket had cost $100,000, which the Minister should pay out of his own pocket.

Mr. Schaffner (Souris) declared that the Borden Government had granted every demand of Western Canada. He commended the administration for having enlarged the boundaries of Manitoba, for the construction of the Hudson Bay Railway and for its aid to agricultural education.

Mr. Turgeon (Gloucester, N.B.) urged the calling of an inter-provincial conference to consider the question of representation of the Maritime Provinces in the House of Commons.

He was followed by Mr. Nicholson (Queen's P.E.I.), who gave a lengthy and exhaustive review of the island's relations with the Federal Parliament since 1873 as regards representation. He claimed that Prince Edward Island was entitled to six members as an irreducible minimum.

Gunmen Fight Police.

NEW YORK, Jan. 23. — Six gunmen early yesterday fought another skirmish in the war of extermination on here between the police and the gangsters, of whom Dopey Benny Fein is a chief.

In a Tallman street tenement house the band were rounded up, run to earth, a cordon of police with drawn pistols was thrown about the building, and four of the gunmen were captured after several shots had been fired. They gave their names as Edward Garrison, James Devoir, Thomas Montague and John O'Neill. The other two gunmen fled over the roofs and escaped.

Cannot Take Long Cruises.

OTTAWA, Jan. 23.—According to the annual report of the naval service department, the department finds it impossible to keep a sufficient complement of men on board the two war vessels of the Canadian navy to enable them to undertake any prolonged cruises. On account of this lack of men only short cruises are undertaken by the Rainbow and the Niobe.

The cadets who have passed their examinations at the Royal Naval College at Halifax were sent to undergo one year's sea-going training as H. M. S. Berwick.

SERVICE IN THE ABBEY.

Strathcona's Body Will Be Laid at Highgate By That of Wife.

LONDON, Jan. 23.—(C. A. P. Cable.)—The Colonial Office issued the following statement last night:—

"The Secretary of State for Colonies, on behalf of His Majesty's Government, after consultation with the Dean of Westminster, has suggested to the family that a service in connection with the funeral of Lord Strathcona should take place in Westminster Abbey as a mark of the public respect and esteem entertained for him in every part of His Majesty's dominions.

"Mrs. Bliss Howard and other members of the family, in view of the very general desire that the service should be in Westminster Abbey, have informed Hon. Lewis Harcourt of their acceptance of this suggestion. The service will take place at 11.30 a.m. and interment afterwards at Highgate Cemetery in accordance with the personal wishes of Lord Strathcona, with the full approval of his colleagues.

"The Dean of Westminster offered to the family the privilege of having Lord Strathcona's body interred in the Abbey, but the late peer's desire had been so definitely expressed that the offer was declined."

STRUCK SPREAD RAIL.

Soo Train Is Wrecked and One Woman Killed.

PEMBROKE, Jan. 23. — The Soo train No. 19, which left Montreal at 10.30 Wednesday night, was wrecked by the spreading of a rail at Meath, ten miles east of Pembroke, early yesterday morning. One passenger was killed and about fifteen injured, seven of whom have been removed to Pembroke Hospital.

The dead passenger is Mrs. J. J. Sammon of Sudbury, who with her husband and two-year-old child, had been visiting at Osceola, and boarded the train a few stations from where the wreck occurred. Her husband and child escaped.

The injured are now at Pembroke Hospital, but none of them is in a serious condition.

OLD DUTCH INDUSTRY

Cooperage is a Very Thriving Trade in Holland

Cooperage is a recognised Dutch industry, turning out immense quantities by machinery. Most of the trades and industries using casks and barrels (such as the herring fisheries and the breweries) are in South Holland, hence the manufactories of those articles are mainly centred in that province. The principal cooperage works are at Rotterdam, Schiedam, Maasluis, Amsterdam, Katwyk, Dordrecht, Leyden, Gemert, Oosterhout, Oss, Eysden, Zwolle and Meppel. As a number of articles that formerly were packed in barrels are now being packed in boxes, the making of packing cases is often added to that of barrels.

The packing case industry, however, is a distinct branch for the manufacture of boxes used for butter, margarin, fruit, gin, cigars, etc. These factories are very numerous. At Rotterdam there are eight, with 1,200 laborers. Their products are exported to every part of the world.

Wooden shoes are made almost entirely by hand and their manufacture may be classed as a rural industry. There are only a few factories where the wooden shoes are turned out by machinery, namely, at Apeldorn, Hoogesand, Alphen-on-Rhine, Oud Beneriand, Moordrecht, Diepenveen and Mill. The other workshops are scattered all over the country, mostly in North Brabant, where poplars and willows, growing on the banks of the brooks and small streams, supply the material needed for this business.

There are in Holland at least 250 of these workshops, employing about 800 men. Holland itself uses up part of the machine-made wooden shoes, the remainder and the greater part of the machine-made goods being exported to Germany, North America, and the colonies.

American Sponge Fisheries

While sponge fishing in the Americas is rather a modern industry, it produces more than two-thirds of the world's supply in weight. The fisheries of the Mediterranean now produce about one-half of the world's supply in value. Sponge fishing is believed to be most highly developed at Tarpon Springs, Florida, and Batabano, Cuba. As early as 1832 the inhabitants of Key West, Florida, learned from specimens thrown up on the beaches of the presence of several species of useful sponges. For some time they were limited to domestic use among the inhabitants, but not until 1849 was a cargo sent to New York.

Valuable Fisheries

With respect to the fisheries of Canada, it may be surprising to some to be told that since 1870, the first year for which figures are available, Canadian fishermen have taken from the seas, rivers and inland waters of this country, fish valued at nearly a billion dollars, the exact figures being $829,910,756.

TRUTH ABOUT CANADA

No Trouble Finding a Job "When Y' Kan Y'r Business"

"I am going to close this letter with an example worth while," wrote an Englishman to his cousin in Canada. "I met a young Scotsman named Wilkie, hailing from Glasgow, the other day. Wilkie heard a lecture on Canada at the C.P.R. moving-picture show at the Glasgow Exhibition and became fired with Western fever. He landed in Winnipeg without a friend and with very little money. He had been in a piano house at home. Arrived, he applied at the McLean Rand Company on Portage Avenue. "What salary do you want?" said the manager. "It's work I'm thinking aboot maist!" says the Scot. Within an hour he was ripping up an old tin-pan piano which had lost most of its heart and most of its tone as well. But Wilkie went at the old rattle-bang-thing in a way that showed he knew his business, and to be brief he stayed with McLean and Company one year. Then he saw that the mechanical piano was coming to the fore, but knowing nothing of the "innards" of the machine, he took some of the money he had saved, went to Toronto, was engaged by a piano-machine factory, worked there six months, went back to Winnipeg, found his place filled at Mac's, walked into Lindsay's piano house, and was taken on at an advance of five dollars per week over and above what he had been getting. In Wilkie's own words: 'My sister came out then, she got work at the big Massey-Harris house, office work, with good pay.' We took a comfortable flat, we live there happy and contentedly; we have a fine piano and we'll be glad to have ye' call on us.'

"How does the pay for work compare with the Glasgow pay, Wilkie?" I asked.

"'It's juist double,"' he says.

"And how do you compare living?" says I.

"'You pay more for luxuries!"' says Wilkie, 'but otherwise I am thinking it's juist as cheap livin' in Canawda, as anywhere else, an',' said he meaningly, 'there's no trouble aboot findin' a job when y' ken y'r business!'

"Wilkie," says I, "can I tell your story to a newspaper?"

"'Ayes' he said, 'some of the Glasgow folk'll know me fine.'"

MICROBE EATS METAL

This Bacillus Has an Action Upon Iron and Steel

Although science knew a hundred micro-organisms that devour the human tissues and cause all sorts of maladies, and also many that eat plants, roots, dirt, wood, and clothing, it had never been imagined that there was one capable of eating up bits of steel and iron. Yet a discovery made by E. M. Mumford, an English student, showed that this is the case.

This species of bacillus varies in its digestve action upon iron and steel compounds according to whether it acts in the presence or absence of air. Whn oxygen is present the iron is precipitated by the germs as iron bog-ore, while in the absence of oxygen no iron salts are formed. This iron-eating germ is a short microbe about one-thousandth of an inch long. It grows readily on potatoes and then looks greenish-brown in color. It also colonizes in milk, gelatine, and agar.

Thought She Would Go Mad WITH HEADACHE.

In all cases of headache the treatment should be directed to remove the cause, for with the cause removed the headache vanishes for all time. Headache powders just relieve for the time being, but what is necessary for a permanent cure is something that will go right to the seat of the trouble. For this purpose it is impossible to find a better remedy for headaches of all descriptions than Burdock Blood Bitters, acting as it does on every organ of the body to strengthen, purify and regulate the whole system.

Mrs. Althea Bowman, Hamilton, Ont., writes:—"I have suffered terribly with my head for weeks at a time till I thought I would go mad. A friend advised me to give Burdock Blood Bitters a trial, so I got a bottle and found relief. I have used four bottles in all and I am glad to say that I have had no more headaches since. I would advise all sufferers to give it a fair trial."

LOOK!

If you were told of a new discovery for the treatment of coughs, colds and bronchitis, as certain in its action on all chest troubles as anti-toxin is on diphtheria, or vaccination on small-pox, wouldn't you feel like giving it a trial? Especially if you could try it for fifty cents!

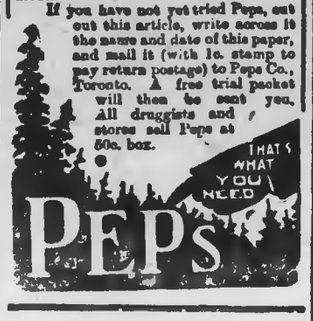
Pepe is the discovery!

Pepe are little tablets, neatly wrapped in air and germ-proof silver foil. They contain certain medicinal ingredients, which, when placed upon the tongue, immediately turn into vapour, and are at once breathed down the air passages to the lungs. On their journey, they soothe the inflamed and irritated membranes of the bronchial tubes, the delicate walls of the air passages, and finally enter and carry relief and healing to the capillaries and tiny air cells in the lungs.

In a word, while no liquid or solid can get to the lungs and air passages, these Pepe fumes get there direct, and at once commence their work of healing.

Pepe are entirely distinct from the old fashioned liquid cough cures, which are merely swallowed into the stomach, and never reach the lungs. Pepe treatment of coughs and colds is direct treatment.

If you have not yet tried Pepe, cut out this article, write across it the name and date of this paper, and mail it (with 1c. stamp to pay return postage) to Pepe Co., Toronto. A free trial packet will then be sent you. All druggists and stores sell Pepe at 50c. box.



ODDS AND ENDS FROM ABROAD

Soldiers in the Italian Army are allowed cigars as part of their daily rations.

Only a sixteen-hundredth part of the surface of the globe is occupied by the British Isles.

It is estimated that two per cent. of the population of London are people with red hair.

St. Paul's Cathedral, London, can accommodate 32,000 worshippers; St. Peter's, Rome, 54,000.

On the ground that they would be of use to a hostile army in war time, the French War Minister forbade the painting of the names of French towns on the roof of their railway stations to guide airmen.

Moscow has the largest hospital in Europe; it has 7,000 beds, and a staff of 90 doctors and 900 nurses.

Of the lost articles, numbering in all 84,876, which were sent to Scotland Yard in one year, 36,865 were restored to their owners.

There are in the United Kingdom about three and a half million cows, and on the average each yields 400 gallons of milk a year.

By mere waste, caused by coins rubbing one against another, the civilized world, it is said, loses 1¼ tons of gold and 88 tons of silver annually.

Coal was first used at Newcastle-on-Tyne about the year 1230, and became an article of trade between that town and London some fifty years later.

Infectious diseases, according to a medical officer in England, are spread to a very large extent owing to the habit, common to schoolchildren, of sucking wooden penholders.

SEAWEED UTILIZED

A Valuable Commodity Created From a Nuisance

Prince Edward Island, which became famous as a fox farming country, has extended its activities into another field. Business men of the Island were carried away with the phenomenal success of fox farming, which in some cases returned them 900%, while the average dividend reported by thirteen companies was 208%. These large returns from what is a unique and unusual enterprise led some of the more ambitious Islanders to go into another untried field—the using of seaweed for commercial purposes. It is well known that seaweed is very largely used in furniture making, the dried product selling around $40 per ton. Companies were formed to put the business on a commercial basis. A gasoline-driven motor mower controlled from a motor boat cuts the seaweed which is then loadd into a scow, brought to the shore and dried in the sun. According to the optimistic promoters, the industry has an almost unlimited future and will be very profitable as they create a valuable commodity out of something which has heretofore been regarded as of no value and rather as a nuisance. It will be somewhat unique if Prince Edward Island makes as great a success out of seaweed as it has out of fox farming.

At a concert given in the Church school at Rayne, Essex, the rector, the Rev. Charles Hutchinson, with the aid of his churchwardens, distributed beer and tobacco among the men.

HEART SURGERY

Remarkable Operations Are Performed on This Vital Organ

Probably the most daring chapter in modern surgery is that which treats of operations on the heart. "The road to the heart is only two or three inches long, but it has taken surgery nearly 2,600 years to traverse it," was one writer's striking remark. Many shrewd observers in the course of the ages had noted that all heart wounds did not result in instantaneous death. But it was not until 10 or 15 years ago that surgeons began to act upon this knowledge. In exceptional cases death did not result immediately from a heart wound; there were intervals of a few minutes, a few days, or a few weeks. Why not utilize this interval in an attempt to sew up the wound? Medical history of late years reports many successful operations of this kind.

An especially noteworthy one, performed upon an Alabama negro boy in 1903, illustrates the resources of modern heart surgery. This boy had been the victim of an especially nasty stab wound. The knife had penetrated the apex of the heart and passed into the left ventricle, making a wound nearly half an inch long. When the boy was placed on the operating table in a little negro cabin the signs of death had already appeared. His feet were cold, and his face showed signs of the utmost distress.

The surgeons made a little window-like opening just above the heart. Through this they could readily see the injured organ, the blood spurting from the wound at each pulsation. One surgeon put in his hand, pulled the heart upward and held it while another sewed the wound with a catgut. The operation—performed without an anæsthetic—lasted 55 minutes; on the sixteenth day the boy was sitting up; in a short time his heart was as good as new.

NEW WORDS

The English Language is Enriched Daily

Four new words are added to the English language every day, if we may accept the dictionaries as a standard of measurement. During the last three centuries the rate of growth of the dictionaries has been 1,500 words a year. All tongues have been materially enriched by advances in chemistry, botany, aviation, wireless telegraphy, and other sciences. There are now in fact 600,000 English words, but about one-quarter of this number are rare scientific terms or words that are obsolete or obsolescent. Not more than 25,000 are of Anglo-Saxon origin. An American, Mr. Gifford Pinchot, is a most prolific word inventor. He has introduced some thirty terms, most of them relating to forestry and logging. Mr. Roosevelt has added a number of terms to the vocabulary of natural history, and Sir Ernest Shackleton, the explorer, is another whose word coinage has been approved by the etymologists. English continues to be the most widely used language. There are now 160,000,000 persons who speak the tongue of Shakespeare.

Body-building Powers of from 10 to 20 times the amount of Bovril taken.

Bovril is the only beef preparation which has been proved to possess this remarkable virtue. Bovril "Cordial" is splendid for physical endurance, and a bottle should be taken on all sporting parties; as it is already in liquid form it can be made in a moment. It can be obtained from all Grocer's or Druggist's at 35c. or $1.10c. per bottle.

HOUSEHOLD NOTES

Coloured goods should be ironed while damp and upon the wrong side. Delicate colours should not be subjected to a hot iron, because this fades them quite as much as hanging on the line in the sun.

A good luncheon dish is made of the macaroni and stewed tomatoes left from the night before. Heat them over again together and serve, or pour into a baking dish, cover with breadcrumbs and bake till brown.

A bad scorch may respond to a mixture of fuller's earth, powdered soap, and vinegar formed into a paste and spread over the scorch. After drying the plaster should be brushed away and repeated, if necessary.

For savoury baked potatoes, wash and scrub the potatoes until thoroughly clean, and wipe them dry. Bake one hour in a steady oven. Break open and dress with salt, pepper, and cream. Serve in the jackets in a fringed napkin.

Corsets can be cleaned at home by laying on a marble-top washstand, and brushing with a stiff brush and good white soap and water. Finally, dip the brush into clear, warm water and scrub again, then dry with rough towels.

A delicious frozen dessert is made of 1½ pints double cream, the grated rind of orange and the juice of two, 6 ounces of sugar, and ¼ pound stale macaroons grated. Whip the cream, stir in the other ingredients, and freeze.

An unusual sort of hash on toast is made of cold beefsteak. Remove every atom of fat and mince the steak. Prepare some browned butter gravy in a frying pan, and when it is sizzling hot turn the minced meat into it and heat thoroughly, then turn out on slices of toast that have been dipped in hot salted water. This sort of hash requires more than the usual

Woman's World

The Past and Present First Lady of Empire State.

Photo of Mrs. Glynn copyright by American Press Association.

MRS. MARTIN H. GLYNN (ABOVE), MRS. WILLIAM SULZER (BELOW.)

You never can tell. This time last year public attention was directed toward Mrs. William Sulzer as the wife of the Democratic candidate for governor of New York state. Today she is looked upon with pity as the helpmate of the deposed governor.

Mrs. Glynn, the present mistress of the gubernatorial mansion in Albany, was before her marriage to Martin H. Glynn thirteen years ago Miss Mary C. E. Magrane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. B. Magrane of Lynn, Mass.

She is a woman of high intellectual attainments, interested in charitable work, a linguist, well read, well educated, but of a retiring disposition, averse to getting into the limelight which is of necessity flashed upon her husband.

Miss Jessie Wilson's Trousseau.

In the matter of a trousseau Miss Jessie Wilson reversed the order of the average bride of the period, again proving that she has a conspicuous amount of common sense. Every gown except the white satin wedding gown is said to have been selected from ready to wear stock presented by a high class specialty house. The lingerie, on the other hand, has not been made to order under the personal direction of the bride and her mother. Furthermore most of these dainty belongings are of exquisitely fine material and hand made, to insure the old time elegance of our grandmothers as well as an excellence of construction rarely found in the modern trousseau.

The ten room house at Williamstown, Mass., where Mr. Soyre and his bride will begin their married life, will be one of the best equipped in that land of good housekeeping with a large part of the linen exquisitely initialed by Miss Wilson and her sisters.

Beyond the fact that one of Miss Wilson's bridesmaids will be her sister Eleanor, the list of attendants so far has not been confided to any one beyond the family circle.

Cuban Women Intellectual.

Cuban women are very intellectual, said a Spanish visitor to the States recently, although they haven't had that reputation. Even in the old days Cuba had its intellectual women, and we are very proud of the fact that the greatest woman in Spanish literature, Gertrudis Gomez de Avellaneda, was born there. She is regarded, in fact, as one of the world's great poets, being ranked with Sappho and Mrs. Browning. A number of statues have been erected to her memory on the island, and great preparations are now being made for the celebration of her centenary on March 23, 1914.

"One curious difference between Gertrudis de Avellaneda and the modern intellectual woman was that she was very masculine. In those days a woman had to be a man to do anything. She couldn't afford to be womanly."

Chemise Rarely Seen.

The old fashioned chemise, long treasured since its revival because of its usefulness, is rarely seen now. Fashionable women have relegated it to the background because it makes wrinkles and folds show in the new tight skirts. Instead of this garment fashion now decrees that women shall select a style of lingerie which adds not a perceptible inch to their size. To be truly smart one's dress must look as if it was being worn next the skin. A thin silk hobble chemise, a fancy bust supporter and a pair of silk knickerbockers will accomplish this effect.

They Liked Tall Feathers.

Toward the end of the eighteenth century upstanding feathers became quite the rage for the fashionable woman's headgear. A writer in The London Times of 1795 illustrates the epidemic: "At all elegant assemblies there is a room set apart for the ladies to don their feathers, as it is impossible to wear them in any carriage with a top. The lusters are also removed on this account, and the doors are carried up to the ceiling. A well-dressed lady who nods with dexterity can give a friend a little tap upon the shoulder across the room without incommoding the dancers. The ladies' feathers are now generally carried in the sword case at the back of the carriage."

Aristocrats Flying.

The younger sons of the aristocracy are among the keenest recruits for the flying service of the Army and Navy. Among the latest members of noble houses who have taken out pilots' certificates are Lord George Wellesley, youngest son of the Duke of Wellington, and Lord Edward Arthur Grosvenor, the younger son of the first Duke of Westminster by his second marriage. Both young fellows are in the army, and both took out their certificates within a month of their first flights.

For the Children

Prince Henry of England Tramping In the Hills.

© by American Press Association.

Royal princes look very much like ordinary folks when you don't know who they are. The boy in the picture is Prince Henry of England, third son of King George V. The prince is in his fourteenth year and, like all the children of the English ruler, he has been trained in a common sense way. Queen Mary is a rather strict disciplinarian and her boys are brought up much as are other English boys of good social standing. When Prince Henry was snapped by the camera man he was tramping with his brother, Prince George, who is two years younger. The picture was taken in the hills of Wales.

Tree Toad's Change of Colors.

A correspondent of Farm and Fireside has the following to say about tree toads:

"When a boy the writer often read of a wonderful animal, called a chameleon, which was said to have the power of taking the color of the object by which it was surrounded. But he never saw a chameleon and always felt a little 'Thomas like' in regard to its existence. However, he has since learned that there is an animal that has some of the powers attributed to the chameleon. That is the tree toad. Its life history is similar to that of the toads and frogs in the early stages.

"To show these various changes we took one that was found on an old board and placed it in a white pitcher. When placed in it the toad was a dingy brown, but after a few hours in the pitcher it was white with a slight creamy tint and with a few pale brown dots. On being placed in a window beside some green moss it soon took that color. Make the experiment of putting one in various colored locations and see the changes. You will be greatly interested."

A Writing Experiment.

The following is an entertaining experiment in a party of young people. One of those present is asked if he can write his name and will, of course, answer "Yes." He is then subjected to the following test: He is asked to sit down in a chair, a paper folded several times is placed on his forehead, a lead pencil is handed him, and he is asked to write his name on the paper. As little time as possible to reflect should be left him. If he hesitates he should be told to just go ahead, and in most cases it will be found that he starts writing his name at the left temple and to the amusement of the others present writes it so that it is legible only when held in front of a mirror unless one is practiced in reading reversed writing.

Queer Eating.

The king or horseshoe crab chews its food with its legs. This is an actual fact, the little animal grinding its morsels between its thighs before it passes them over to its mouth.

Rather Curious.

The frog, owing to its peculiar structure, cannot breathe with the mouth open, and if it were forcibly kept open the animal would die of suffocation.

An English police station provided its prisoners with a billiard room and a shooting gallery. And so proceeds the laudable effort to make useful citizens out of convicts.

Points for Mothers

"I'm Frightened."

Many children are a little timid by nature, but if the timidity is at all strong or frequent it amounts to an illness and must be treated as such.

A healthy child is seldom seriously frightened. It may be startled for a moment, but that is quite a different thing from the chronic terror which spoils some poor little lives. If your child is always nervous—ready to shiver and cry at a strange sound or to shrink from an unknown person or to tremble at a dark room or run from a strange dog, these signs indicate that he is not well.

It is a curious fact that boys under the age of ten are often more nervous than their sisters, though girls between the ages of ten and twenty are far more nervous than boys. And it is not an uncommon thing for a young boy to run for protection to a sister practically the same age as himself.

A really nervous child should never be forced to do long or hard lessons. Its study hours should be shortened as much as possible, and it should spend the greater part of the day out of doors. Neither lessons nor play should be too energetic—he should just be allowed to go his own way and amuse himself as he thinks best.

Sleep is of the first importance. A nervous child cannot sleep too much. He should always be in bed before 8 o'clock at night and should be allowed to lie till he rouses himself in the morning. It is a very bad thing for him to be awakened violently, for this gives the nerves a shock from which they suffer during all the morning hours.

A cold bath in the morning is an excellent thing, provided that the child is strong enough to stand it. But if he dislikes it very much he should not be forced into it, as this would lead to another shock which would do away with all the good gained from the bath. An ordinary wash followed by a brisk rub down with a rough towel makes quite a good substitute for a cold bath.

The food should be generous and simple. Very nervous children need a large number of light meals during the day, as they are not able to digest a great quantity of food at one time. It is a good plan to give a glass of milk and a buttered biscuit in the middle of the morning and another glass of milk, with a sponge cake or a piece of chocolate, the last thing at night. If the child sleeps badly and is restless you may put a couple of biscuits on the table beside his bed, so that he may eat them if he wakes during the night. A comforting little meal of this kind will often send him off to sleep again, when without it he would lie awake for hours shivering in the dreadful darkness.

Above all, treat the nervous child most tenderly. Never let the others laugh at him or call him a coward, but make them understand that his timidity arises from illness and that he must be pitied and treated as gently as any other invalid.

Do Not Pull Hair Back Tightly.

Many mothers make a great mistake in pulling their small daughters' hair tightly back from the face. There are few faces, even childish ones, that can stand this treatment. And many little girls could grow up unconscious of features that perhaps do not come up to the average standard of beauty if their hair were arranged gracefully and softly.

Nothing makes life harder for a small girl than for her to feel that her looks are noticeably unlovely—as many small girls with two tight pigtails standing at right angles from their necks and sleek hair pulled and plastered back straight from their prominent brows do feel.

Through the age when bobbed hair is worn no hair ornaments save a single ribbon should be allowed the little girl. With the coming of the next stage comes the possibility of more elaborate accessories. The one ribbon can still be the rule. With it her hair still may be tied at one side and the locks that formerly were bobbed can be allowed to grow into curls or ringlets.

She may wear a ribbon or silk band to bind her hair neatly to her head. She can wear a wide ribbon about her head, and this can end in a rosette or a big bow at one side.

The little girl whose hair is straight has her own difficulties in this world. Straight hair looks untidy when it is allowed to hang about the shoulders. French mothers teach their daughters to weave strands of their hair between their fingers whenever they have time to do it. This crinkling process brings out latent waving possibilities even in the most straight looking hair.

French mothers, too, do not like to see the hair on the top of the head look flat and plastered down, as it often does after play or when the hat is removed. So they use a little orris root or talcum powder on the top hair to keep it fluffy.

The pores at the root of the hair must never be clogged with any sort of powder, but it can be used safely on the hair itself to keep it dry and light. It should be brushed on quite lightly.

Wash Day.

Rub a dub dub—
Dolly's clothes in the tub.
I will wash them so clean and so sweet
While Dolly's in bed
With a pain in her head
And a hot water bag at her feet.

I know she'll be good.
She knows if I could
I'd soon have them nice and dry.
I'll work with a will
If she will keep still
And not worry me with a cry.

I really should take Time enough to make
Some pretty new clothes for the child.
It's really a shame.
I'm afraid I'm to blame.
And she's really so sweet and so mild

So now, my poor dear,
I see it quite clear.
It's my duty to make you some clothes
With the wash on the line
It will surely be fine
So sit and sew while you doze.

Serve These at Five O'Clock

The stylish appearance of these jellies will win the admiration of your guests at the tea hour. And when they taste them they will be eager to get your recipes.

These jellies are only three of the many kinds, both plain and fancy, which you can make with Shirriff's Jelly Powder. There are recipes inside of every package. These recipes have been tested by an authority in Domestic Science Cookery connected with a Government School. Many are out of the ordinary. All are worth trying.

Shirriff's Jellies are high-class, pure-food products. There are over a dozen "fruity" flavors. Many women like them so well they buy from a half-dozen to a dozen packages at a time. Six packages cost but 50 cents—8⅓ cents a package. Very little to pay your grocer for a dessert so delicious.

THE KING'S SAILORS ARE PAID WEEKLY

Machine-like System Gets Through the Work Quickly in Spite of Many Different Ratings

"Hands muster for weekly payment!"

The stentorian shouts of the boatswain's mates on the upper deck, taken up by the "call-boys" down below on the mess-decks where the ship's company have just finished their midday dinners, resound throughout the ship and before the noise has died away the men are trooping up the ladders.

Each individual knows where he has to go, for everyone has a certain number on the ship's books, and payment is made in strictly numerical order. For the sake of convenience, also, the ship's company of a man-of-war is divided into "hundreds," the first comprising those whose numbers run from 1 to 100; the second, from 100 to 200, and so on.

Each hundred, moreover, is composed of different ratings. One will consist of all the chief petty-officers and petty-officers; others, of leading seamen, able seamen, ordinary seamen, and boys; another, the senior men of the engine-room department, and so forth, and each different group of men is in charge of an officer.

Paymaster Has Big Job

On the quarter-deck a large table and a chair have been placed in position in some convenient spot. Sitting on the chair is a harassed-looking writer, turning over the pages of an enormous ledger lying on the table in front of him, and on the sheets are inscribed all the men's names with their rank and the amount of pay due to them. Next to the ledger is a pile of shallow mahogany trays, presided over by an assistant-paymaster. Each tray is divided up into many small compartments, each of which contains a certain sum in coins of the realm. This is done for the sake of convenience and celerity in payment, for the sum due to each man has been calculated out beforehand, and placed in the tray in its proper order.

Standing beside the assistant-paymaster are the commander and the fleet paymaster, while one of the ship's corporals, with a book in his hand, in which are inscribed the names of any men absent on duty or for any other reason, is also in attendance. The lieutenant in charge of the first hundred comes aft and reports his men correct to the commander.

March to the Table

"Carry on," orders the latter officer.

The lieutenant disappears, but presently comes marching aft again at the head of his men. When within about four paces of the pay-table he suddenly gives the order "First hundred, halt!" And the payment begins.

"Chief-Petty-Officer William Harris," says the writer at the ledger. "Ten shillings."

The assistant-paymaster removes the coins in the first compartment to a shallow baize-covered bowl in front of him, and Chief Petty-Officer Harris steps forward with a salute, repeats his number, takes his money, and then retires. Two dollars and forty cents for one week's hard work may seem a small sum, but, as a matter of fact, William Harris receives pay at the rate of $1.04, a day, and receives, in addition a daily allowance of 28 cents for being a first class gunlayer and gunner's mate, and another 6 cents a day for his three good-conduct badges, 2 cents for each. This amounts in all to about $10 a week, but Harris allots the remainder of his pay to his wife at home.

Send the Money Home

The next man, a bachelor, is in the habit of remitting a certain sum to his aged mother, and there is hardly one of them who draws his entire pay, for they are nearly all responsible for someone else's welfare.

It is surprising to see the rapidity with which the money is doled out. There is no hitch in the proceedings, and, whether the man is a chief engine-room artificer, a sergeant of the Royal Marine Light Infantry, or a boy, his money is ready for him the moment he steps forward to receive it.

The pay in the Royal Navy may sound small, but it must be recollected that every man gets 20 cents' worth of the best rations per diem, in addition to which he is granted 8 cents a day to purchase other provisions according to his individual taste.

To eliminate the glare from street lamps an English engineer proposes to illuminate streets by the reflection of lights thrown against the fronts of buildings.

PROLIFIC FRENCH COLONY

Births of Village of Mardic Amount to 43 Per 1,000

A German writer, Dr. A. Grotjahn, interested in the increasing shortage in births in France, found a prolific community at the Village of Mardic, near Dunkirk. This is a colony founded more than 200 years ago by Louis XIV. with a system of land tenure which does not permit private ownership of the soil. Dr. Grotjahn says:

"The men of Mardic marry, on an average, at 24 years of age, immediately after having passed the obligatory service in the navy. When a new family has thus been founded it receives for exclusive use, but not as private property, a plot of land of 22 acres and a section of shore for net fishing. The families may leave to their children the land handed to them, but they may not divide or mortgage it. The result is that Mardic possesses a prosperous population, free of material cares, which does not rack its brain on behalf of its children's fate, while the rest of the peasants and fishermen of France are particularly anxious in this respect. The births amounted to 43 per 1,000 of the inhabitants, a figure which is not surpassed by any civilized people.

Disheartening Effect of Piles

It is not only the itching and stinging of piles that is to be dreaded but also the depressing and debilitating effect on the whole system. The victim of pils cannot do efficient work. There is an uneasiness and discomfort by day and at night the distress from the itching prevents sleep and rest, and undermines the general health.

From almost the first application of Dr. Chase's Ointment you get relief from the annoying itching and burning, and gradually the ulcers are healed up and the disease thoroughly cured. Do not make the mistake of discontinuing treatment as soon as relief is obtained. Dr. Chase's Ointment is a proved cure but it depends on you to apply it persistently until a cure is effected.

Even the most severe cases of long standing yield to the soothing, healing influence of Dr. Chase's Ointment. Surgical operations are no longer necessary(for, as a matter of fact, Dr. Chase's Ointment has cured cases that were not cured by operations. No' sufferer from piles can afford to delay the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Valuable Furs Belong to Czarina

The finest furs in the world are possessed by the Czarina of Russia, whose collection of Russian sables has been valued at $1,250,000. Her Majesty has sable cloaks which in point of quality and natural dark color could not be matched. One of the most welcome presents to which the Czarina's friends look forward is to receive from her a sable necklet or muff, for they know that it would be very difficult to match.

Stealing the King's Moss

For uprooting moss in Windsor Forest, Charles and Stanley Danby, greengrocers, of Egham, were fined $15 and $10 respectively at Chertsey. Henry Nye, who has been keeping continuous watch in the forest, said that recently yards on yards had been cleared of moss.

Mammoth Found at Whitstable

Workmen while excavating at Whitstable in connection with new sewers discovered the skeleton of a mammoth some 12 feet below the surface. A clause in the agreement entered into with the contractors gave the urban district council the ownership of the finds.

Fine for Hanging a Dog

William Harvey, a painter, was fined $5 and costs at Guildford for cruelly ill-treating a dog. He said: "I hit it on the head with a piece of stick, put a piece of rope around its neck, and pulled it up a tree. It hung there for about thirty minutes. I let it down, hit it on the head, and buried it. That is the proper way to kill a dog. They hang men."

Judge and Woman's Hatpin

Judge Macksarness, at the Worthing County Court, addressing a lady who was wearing a cap fastened to her hair with a long pin, remarked, as she was leaving the court: "If you walk about with a hatpin sticking out like that you will be up for murder some day. Take my advice, and take it out."

The lady replied: "Well, I must keep my cap on somehow."

Soldier Accidentally Hanged

At an inquest held in Dublin on the body of Private John McCarthy, of the 5th Royal Lancers, it was stated that McCarthy left the guard-room to go to his quarters, and early next morning he was found dead, hanging by his tunic from the wall surrounding the barracks. The tunic cord had caught on the coping stone of the wall, which is 10 feet high, and the runner was tightened round his neck. It was supposed that in attempting to cross the wall the tunic cord caught on the coping stone and strangled him as he made to jump down.

Travels of a Cormorant

While shooting on Loch Fyne a Tarbert fisherman shot a cormorant which was found to have a ring attached to one of its legs, with the inscription: "Inform Witherby, High Holborn, London." Mr. Witherby was communicated with and said he "ringed" the bird on the Saltee Islands, County Wexford.

The chair of the Master of the Fruiterers' Company was sold for $4,725. It is a mahogany armchair of the Chippendale period, the back being carved with representations of Adam and Eve, a wagon, foliage, and shell and scroll work.

ALPINE PHOTOGRAPHY

Getting Pictures on the Mountains is Chilly and Dangerous

Any one who has ever visited the Alps and climbed their icy slopes knows the difficulties to be encountered, even with the help of guides, and it would seem next to impossible to take along on such a trip a camera. Yet M. Talrraz made, with the assistance of a porter, photographs with a twenty-by-sixteen camera using glass plates, while scaling the peaks.

Days of sunshine are rare in the high Alps, and again and again he had to descend without pictures owing the snowstorms, high winds and avalanches; consequently the pictures were the result of several months' work. There was no posing, for the climber on Mount Blanc has little time for this, as he must make the climb in a certain time or run the risk of being frozen to death.

In order to obtain the pictures M. Talrraz usually went ahead of the party and found a point of vantage which he knew the climbers must pass. In order to do this he had to leave the regular track as laid off by the guides, and several times he fell into crevasses, although he never had a serious accident.

After a picture was made he followed the climbers to a point where they rested, and after resting only a few minutes he went ahead again and set up the instrument, waiting until they passed. Sometimes it was necessary for both himself and the porter to hold the big instrument to keep it from blowing down the mountain. Coupled with this it was always intensely cold, and his fingers were many times so numb that he could scarcely remove the plate-holder.

Of course, every picture was not to his liking, so he tried again until he succeeded. "To be sure, it was dangerous," he is quoted as saying, with a little shrug of his shoulders. "I wanted the pictures and it was the only way."

FARMING IN THE NORTH

The Upper Mackenzie Valley Can Probably be Tilled

No. 1 hard wheat, grown 800 miles north of Edmonton, prize vegetables raised on the Arctic Circle, and spruce trees six feet in diameter, are some of the wonders of the Northern Territories which Mr. Henry A. Conroy, Inspector of Indian Agencies, saw on a northern inspection tour.

Known officially as "Treaty No. 8," the territory over which Mr. Conroy exercises supervision is inhabited by about 8,000 Indians. Once a year Inspector Conroy visits the 18 agencies located in Treaty 8, and distributes to the Indians about $35,000 in money and several thousand dollars' worth of food, ammunition, fishing nets, and other necessaries of aboriginal life.

"Our agent there experimented with three varieties of wheat, the yields from which were taken down to Edmonton and graded No. 1 hard," said Mr. Conroy. "He grew also 300 bushels of oats. They weighed 38 pounds to the bushel. Rye and barley were also successfully grown.

"The very best gardens I saw on the whole route are at Fort Good Hope, still further north. In the upper Mackenzie Valley there is a country as large as Manitoba and every bit of it fit for settlement."

A GREAT INVENTOR.

Telling of the March to Fame of the Commendatore Marconi.

It is recorded of Guglielmo Marconi as a child that he walked at an unusually early age, and talked at an unusually late one.

He has retained these early characteristics. Great scientist though he is, he is essentially an open-air man.

The Wireless Wizard has always delighted in swimming and sailing. As a young man, his love of the latter sport nearly cost him his life. Swift to act when he has made up his mind, but slow to speak, and even then sparing of words. His father was an Italian banker and country gentleman, his mother an Irish lady. As a rule, it is not the men born in affluent circumstances who do the things that matter, but Marconi is an exception.

It is, perhaps, not generally known that as a small boy he spent some time at a school at Bedford. He is still remembered there. For one thing, he refused to learn writing as customarily taught at school. He said it was absurd to make him waste time acquiring a style of handwriting which he would never use when grown up.

Similarly he outraged scholastic opinion by refusing to have anything to do with the parrot-like repetition of what he was told.

He would work hard at anything that interested him, such as physics. But the masters might lead him ever so often to the pool of Latin and Greek grammar and he would not drink. Possibly for this reason he did not stay long at his English school, but completed his education at the university of his native Bologna.

Here, again, he studied only what he chose to study.

Electricity fascinated him. He was only sixteen or so when he installed electric light, bells, etc., in his father's house, and incidentally got himself regarded by the local peasantry as a sorcerer.

Mr. Marconi, of course, has never claimed to be the discoverer of the phenomenon of electric "waves." Hertz did that, but it was Marconi who first saw the possibility of using Hertzian waves for telegraphing without wires.

He was young, well-off, full of "life," but he devoted himself to patient study and experiment. It was a great day when he succeeded in sending a wireless message from one end of his father's garden to the other.

Of his experiences when he brought his invention to England little need be said. He was anything but the penniless inventor, but at the same time he met with incredibility and opposition enough.

However, he was bound to win. Marconi is essentially a man who leaves nothing to chance. He promises nothing that he has not already satisfied himself he can do. He is a first-rate man of business, and a consummate judge of men and motives.

Had he been penniless his success, though inevitable, might have been delayed. As it was, he could afford to take a strong line, and to maintain that sturdy independence which is so characteristic of him.

To meet, he is a man of great charm. Very quiet, very simple, very direct, but a man whose personality impresses and pleases at once.

He has beautiful eyes, large and luminous, of a hazel which in some lights looks grey, in others dark brown.

As the result of an accident he has lost the sight of one eye, but they say he can see more out of the other one than most men of normal vision.

A great man, one whose name will live for ever, but as modest as you make them. No doubt he has made a great deal of money, but far above gold does he value his great invention.

Money and Talk.

If money was the only thing that talked some men would have quieter homes.

Terribly Afflicted With Lame Back.

Could Not Sweep The Floor.

When the back aches and pains it is almost impossible for women to do their housework, for every move and every turn means an ache or a pain.

Women are beginning to understand that weak, lame, and aching backs from which they suffer so much are due to wrong action of the kidneys, and should be attended to at once so as to avoid years of suffering from kidney trouble.

On the first sign of anything wrong with the back Doan's Kidney Pills should be taken.

They go right to the seat of the trouble.

Mrs. Wilfrid Jolicoeur, Nouvelle, Que., writes:—"I take pleasure in writing you stating the benefit I have received by using Doan's Kidney Pills. About three years ago I was terribly afflicted with lame back, and was so bad I could not sweep my own floor. I was advised to try Doan's Kidney Pills. I only used three boxes, and I am as well as ever. I highly recommend these pills to any sufferer from lame back or kidney trouble."

Price, 50 cents per box, or 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Toronto, Ont.

If ordering direct specify "Doan's."

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

AN INVENTION LOST

By DOROTHEA HALE

Ned Forsythe was the son of an inventor who had not the business capacity to reap the profit on his inventions. Perhaps it would be nearer the mark to say that the elder Forsythe had not the capital to put the novelties he produced on the market. At any rate, he died, leaving his widow and her only child, Ned, in poverty, as they had always been.

But Ned understood that just before his death his father had invented an explosive that would prove far more valuable than any that had yet been produced, being especially available in gunnery. He had offered his invention to the government, had given an exhibition of its working and had received an order for a large supply, to be followed by other orders at a price that would make him rich. Furthermore, a company with an established plant capable of manufacturing the stuff had the contract to produce the goods. Nothing remained but to pass over the recipe for the explosive when the inventor fell on the floor of his laboratory and died without speaking a word.

After his father's death Ned hunted high and low for the formula. He first went through the laboratory, searching every nook and cranny, examining every scrap of paper, but without success. Then he looked through the house in which the family lived, a little frame dwelling on the outskirts of a city, with no better success. There was no other place to look, and Ned and his mother, from a prospect of stepping from poverty into affluence, found themselves worse off than they had ever been before.

But Ned did not give the matter up. He had heard his father tell his mother that he was puzzled how to keep his secret till he had made all his contracts and must give it to the manufacturer.

Forsythe knew that should he be suddenly taken away his wife and child would be cut off from the benefits of his invention. He had once parted with the secret of an invention and thereby made another person rich without reaping any benefit himself. He had then vowed that he would never part with another such secret until the last moment. He told his wife shortly before his death that he had decided to put the recipe for the manufacture of his explosive into cipher. But as to what he was to do with the cipher or the key he said nothing.

A month passed after the inventor's death when Mrs. Forsythe received a letter addressed to her in the well known hand of her late husband. On the envelope was written "Via San Francisco, Hongkong, Aden, Naples, New York." The letter bore the postmarks of these cities and had evidently been around the world. The recipient tore off the envelope, and there, on the paper inclosed, was written a jumble of words. Below was written:

Before you receive this I shall have told you where the key is to be found.

The poor woman had received another disappointment. Her husband had, under fear of losing his secret, deprived his wife of that which he desired her to possess. What was there in these incoherent words of any value without the key? The letter, however, had a different effect upon her son. He vowed that he would decipher the recipe if he spent his whole life in doing so.

Several months passed, and it seemed that the receipt of the letter had been for worse instead of better. Ned made no headway in deciphering the word puzzle. Having his father's fear of giving away the secret, he would not intrust any one else with it and spent so much of his time on it that he was useless at anything else. He and his mother were near the point of starvation when a brother of the late inventor was summoned and asked for the wherewithal to purchase something to eat.

He was told about the invention and the cipher recipe. Having asked to see the latter, it was shown to him. As soon as he looked at it his eyes lighted with interest.

"Your father," he said to Ned, "was during the war for the Union a member of the staff of a general officer. This you know as well as I, but you may not know what your father told me—that when telegrams were sent by his commander it was his duty to put them into cipher and when they were received to decipher them. He kept some of these dispatches for awhile after the war and showed them to me and the principle on which they were built. I think he has used that principle in this case. The recipe has, I believe, been written in a certain number of columns, down one, up another, proceeding till every column is filled. Here are check words having no meaning, thrown in doubtless to make the matter more complicated."

Sitting down, Ned's uncle wrote out a message in columns and gave Ned the plan. What had been a jumble of words became a perfectly coherent message. Ned grasped the idea, and the two went to work to decipher the recipe.

They failed at the time, but Ned worked on and at last produced an intelligible reading. The matter was again taken up with the manufacturer, the recipe produced, and Ned and his mother are now rich.

A Household Remedy

She Hated Garrick.

Mrs. Clive was eminent as an actress on the London stage before Garrick appeared, and as his blaze of excellence threw all others into comparative insignificance she never forgave him and took every opportunity of venting her spleen. One night as Garrick was performing "King Lear" she stood behind the scenes to observe him and, in spite of the roughness of her nature, was so deeply affected that she sobbed one minute and abused him the next, and at length, overcome by his pathetic touches, she hurried from the place with the following extraordinary tribute to his powers: "Hang him! I believe he could act a gridiron."

Kilted and Armed.

Up to about a hundred years ago the Highland Scots clergy not only wore the kilt on all occasions, but they had their own tartan, the main color of which was dark blue. Further, the Highland cleric of the old days usually went about armed to the teeth. Even on the Sabbath he would be preceded on his way to church by his servant bearing his broadsword and pistols. When the minister ascended the pulpit he took his weapons with him, placing them in a conspicuous position on the pulpit ledge.

STALKING THE DUKE.

Penny-a-Liner Followed the "Iron Man" To His Own Advantage.

How a Cabinet secret was revealed in a most amazing fashion by a needy and adventurous penny-a-liner at the end of his resources is related by Mr. J. D. Symon, in "The Press and Its Story." It was during the administration of the Duke of Wellington, at a juncture when the Opposition would have given anything for some hint of the Cabinet's policy. The secret was well-guarded until one evening, just at the rising of the House, a penny-a-liner, who had been hanging about Westminster waiting for something to turn up, saw the duke emerge from the House of Lords accompanied by one of his colleagues.

"Now, the duke, in his later years, was very hard of hearing, and cherished that not uncommon illusion of the deaf, that in order to make other people hear he, too, must shout. It occurred to the starveling scribe that if he would only follow the Prime Minister he might hear something to his advantage.

"The night was dark, so the penny-a-liner managed to keep well within earshot, and yet to escape remark by those he was following. He had not gone very far before he knew he was in luck's way. The duke was actually talking about the situation in his usual loud tones, and gradually he proceeded to unfold the policy of the Cabinet. The penny-a-liner listened with all his ears and kept well within range of the Minister all the way to Apsley House. Thereupon, with beating heart, he sought some friendly refuge and committed his discovery to writing. This done, he lost no time in calling upon the editor of one of the leading Opposition papers. So humble a scribe was, of course, unknown to the editor, but the plea that the visitor had an urgent communication to make gained him admission.

"The editor glanced over the article and was thunderstruck when he realized its nature. Here was the very thing for which the Party had been praying. Naturally the editor inquired how so uninfluential a person could have come by such very private information. Being satisfied, however, of the truth of the man's story, he decided to print it, and gave the reporter a handsome check for his enterprise. Next day the appearance of the news, reinforced by a leading article, spread consternation in the Government camp. Who was the traitor?

"Somewhat of a hue and cry was raised, and the duke's friend fell under suspicion. Relations between the Prime Minister and his colleague were, in fact, somewhat strained, until at last the true story of the remarkable discovery was given to the world."

The discussion as to whether women dress to please the men or to excite the envy of each other looks like a waste of time. Nobody knows but the women, and they won't tell.

Lord Chancellor Haldane says that in fifty years the United States will be the leading nation. He may be a bright light in his own line, but he is a trifle behind the times in his reckoning.

A WEAK CHESTED BOY

"My boy Frank seemed weak chested and took a very severe cold," writes Mrs D. Stevens, Ninga, Man. "The many medicines used did not seem to benefit him, until we tried Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine and found it to be exactly what was wanted to cure him." No treatment is so thorough and effective as a cure for croup and bronchitis.

CAREFUL AUTHORS

Great Writers Who Were Very Particular About Details

It is surprising how punctilious some authors have been with respect even to the smallest detail of their manuscripts. Dickens was a perfect terror and would make enough fuss over an error of punctuation to drive a poor "comp" out of his wits.

Tennyson, too, was most particular that not a comma should be omitted or misplaced, while his revisions were never finished. Perhaps the greatest terror of the compositor was Thomas Carlyle, for he would cover every square inch of vacant space, both in the margin and between the lines, with minute additions and emendations, and not once, but a dozen times.

Victor Hugo was equally difficult to please and satisfy. Of one of his famous works he made the printers supply no fewer than eleven successive revised proofs, and the last half dozen were furnished in order to make quite sure that the commas were in their right places.

But perhaps Thomas Campbell, the famous poet who wrote such stirring masterpieces as Hohenlinden, The Battle of the Baltic, and Ye Mariners of England, takes the lead in this respect. He was fastidious to a degree, which fact probably accounts for the small quantity and perfect quality of his literary output. It is said that he once walked six miles to his printers and six miles back in order to have a comma changed into a semicolon.

But an equally careful and fastidious literary workman owed a great improvement in the opening line of his most famous poem to a printer. This was Thomas Grey, whose Elegy Written in a Country Churchyard is probably the best known poem in the English language. Its first line reads, "The curfew tolls the knell of parting day," but when Grey sent it to the press the manuscript read, "The curfew tolls, the knell of parting day."

The thoughtful compositor did not understand the word "tolls" as an intransitive verb, so dropped the comma, thinking that the poet had put it in by mistake, and when Gray read the line his sensitive ear at once caught its new, sustained melody, and he adopted the compositor's correction.

"Pape's Diapepsin" Ends Indigestion, Gas, Dyspepsia and Stomach Misery in Five Minutes

If what you just ate is souring on your stomach or lies like a lump of lead, refusing to digest, or you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food, or have a feeling of dizziness, heartburn, fullness, nausea, bad taste in mouth and stomach headache, you can get blessed relief in five minutes.

Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula, plainly printed on these fifty-cent cases of Pape's Diapepsin, then you will understand why dyspeptic troubles of all kinds must go, and why they relieve sour out-of-order stomachs or indigestion in five minutes. "Pape's Diapepsin" is harmless; tastes like candy, though each dose will digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you eat; besides, it makes you go to the table with a healthy appetite; but, what will please you most, is that you will feel that your stomach and intestines are clean and fresh, and you will not need to resort to laxatives or liver pills for biliousness or constipation.

This city will have many "Pape's Diapepsin" cranks, as some people will call them, but you will be enthusiastic about this splendid stomach prepara on, too, if you ever take it for indigestion, gases, heartburn, sourness, dyspepsia, or any stomach misery.

Get some now, this minute, and rid yourself of stomach trouble and indigestion in five minutes.

Report of Casualties In Volcano Disaster Greatly Exaggerated.

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—An official report giving the total of the casualties and damage caused by the eruption, earthquake and tidal wave of last week on the Japanese Island of Sakura and in the Town of Kagoshima has been received by the Japanese consul-general here. The report says:

"On Sakura nine villages, composed of 340 houses, were destroyed out of the total of 12 villages on the island. The deaths among the population were not so considerable as at first believed, and probably unexpectedly small.

"In Kagoshima estimates place the deaths at 18, the severely injured at 87 and the slightly hurt at 71.

In Kimotsu and Kira Counties the damage caused by falling ashes and pumice stone affected 20,000 people, who will need relief.

AUTO DRIVER ARRESTED.

Walter Reynolds Charged With Manslaughter After Four Months.

TORONTO, Jan. 23.—Walter Reynolds, driver of the ill-fated motor car which turned turtle on the Dundas road near Cooksville on the night of Sept. 24, causing the death of three men, was arrested by Detective Guthrie, at the former's residence on Bleeker street, yesterday. Reynolds is charged with manslaughter and criminal negligence, resulting in the deaths of Wm. McKay, Arthur Brooks and James Thoms. Reynolds will be taken to Cooksville to-day for preliminary trial.

Owing to the fact that it is four months since the tragedy occurred, and that two inquests—one of which was carried on to an exhaustive degree — have been held, which were followed by no further action on the part of the authorities, it is inferred that something of a startling nature has been unearthed by Constable Rutledge bearing upon the tragedy.

ENGINEERS EXONERATED.

Howick Hall Boiler Had Weak Manhole Frame.

OTTAWA, Jan. 23.—Olaf E. Granberg, chief inspector of the Boiler Inspection and Insurance Co. of Canada, who came here from Montreal and made an official inspection of the boiler which caused the Howick Hall disaster Wednesday, pronounces the explosion due to a weak manhole frame on the boiler.

He finds there was plenty of water in it and absolves the engineers from blame.

The identity of the third victim of the accident was made known yesterday. He is Joseph Letarte of 176 Redemptseur street, Hull, employed as a butcher at the Fat Stock Show. This is the man who was Wednesday thought to be Joseph Cosgrave of Buckingham. Cosgrove escaped.

Reid Remanded For Sentence.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 23.—R. J. Reid former constable and one of Jack Krafchenko's guards, pleaded guilty before Magistrate Macdonald yesterday to the charge of assisting Krafchenko to escape while the latter was awaiting trial on a murder charge. Reid, who told the whole story of his connection with the affair before the royal commission Wednesday, was remanded one week for sentence.

Pleads Guilty of Hold-Up.

CHATHAM, Jan. 23.—Ernest Miller, charged with implication in the hold-up of George Kime, appeared before Judge Dowlin yesterday and pleaded guilty. He will be sentenced later.

James Mill, charged with aggravated assault, pleaded not guilty, and the date for his trial was not set.

Turco-Bulgarian Treaty.

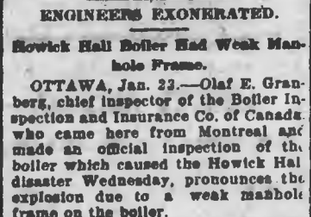
LONDON, Jan. 23.—The Vienna correspondent of The Daily Telegraph reports that Turkey and Bulgaria have concluded an offensive treaty against Greece.

MAKE YOUR MEALS AFRAID OF YOU

Don't Be Afraid of Food. Just Take a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet and You'll Digest It All O.K.

All you men and women who want to eat and are filled with fear, stay this kind of folly. Just carry a little Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet in your purse or pocket and after your meal eat it like you do candy.

The meal will be digested; the weakened digestive juices will be enriched and you will lose your fear of food.



"What I Can Do to a Meal Now Is Simply a Shame."

Don't you know that these tablets are carried by thousands all-over the land? In their bags as they travel, in purses or pocket when they attend banquets or after theatre parties and meals early or late, large or small are easily digested without harmful effects.

One element of these tablets is so efficient that one grain of it will digest 3,000 grains of food. This is science brought down for your use and it is nature's own science, too.

No matter where you live, Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will be found even in the smallest drug store, although it be only a cross roads druggist.

This popularity is based solely upon the reputation, proof and testimonial excellence of these tablets in every part of our land.

"Go to your druggist to-day and buy a box. Price 50 cents.

AFTER SICKNESS OR OPERATION

It is a pathetic mistake to accept drugs or alcoholic mixtures when nature craves nourishment to repair the wasted body and restore the vigor of health.

For forty years the best physicians have relied on the wholesome predigested nourishment in SCOTT'S EMULSION which is totally free from alcohol or opiates.

Scott's Emulsion sharpens the appetite—renews blood—nourishes nerves—strengthens bones and restores the courage of health to make life bright.

Scott's Emulsion* sets in action the very forces that promote health. Its purity, richness and strength has stood the test of forty years.

WOMEN THREW THINGS.

Angry Mob Withstood Militia In Colorado Strike Riot.

TRINIDAD, Col., Jan. 23.—Twenty or more persons, including eight women, are under arrest and at least five are known to be suffering from slight injuries as the result of a serious street riot which took place yesterday afternoon until the militia, under the personal direction of Gen. John Chase, broke up a mob of strikers and strike sympathizers, which was attempting to march to San Rafael Hospital, where "Mother" Jones is held under military arrest.

Stones, bottles and bricks were hurled at the militiamen by a crowd of angry women, who precipitated the outbreak, when they were ordered to turn back by the soldiers.

Several soldiers, including Major H. M. Randolph, were assaulted, and not until the cavalrymen with drawn swords had charged the crowd several times was the mob dispersed.

The riot came after a parade of wives and children of striking coal miners.

A CHILD'S LAXATIVE IS "SYRUP OF FIGS"

They love to take it and it doesn't harm the tender little stomach, liver and bowels

If your little one's tongue is coated, it is a sure sign the stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once. When your child is cross, peevish, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, eat or act naturally; if breath is bad, stomach sour, system full of cold, throat sore, or if feverish, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the clogged-up, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again.

Sick children needn't be coaxed to take this harmless "fruit laxative." Millions of mothers keep it handy because they know its action on the stomach, liver and bowels is prompt and sure. They also know a little given to-day saves a sick child to-morrow."

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which contains directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Don't be fooled!

DIED AGED 120 YEARS.

Reputable Citizens Testify to Halifax Man's Age.

HALIFAX, N.S., Jan. 23. — The death occurred here Wednesday of Thomas Garvie. It was stated some time ago he was 130 years of age, but he denied that statement, and said he was not positive of his exact age. Those who knew him say he was 120 years old. He was a native of County Kerry, Ireland, and when a lad came to Boston during the war of 1812. He settled on a farm in Antigonish county about 80 years ago. He never married and lived alone.

There are several reputable men in New Glasgow who are now at the four-score mark, who assert that when they were boys, they distinctly remember the late Mr. Garvie as a grown man close to thirty years of age. He was remarkably active for his age, and did not appear to be over 80 years.

Political Labor Party Favored.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 23.—After several hours of heated debate, the convention of United Mine Workers of America here late yesterday adopted a resolution declaring that the time had arrived "owing to the present economic conditions and the machinations of the interests in many places for the laboring people to come together in a political labor party." No party was designated, and no preparations for a new party were contained in the resolution. Several Socialist delegates attempted to obtain an endorsement of their party for the laboring classes.

Test For a Fieldglass.

Inquiry has it that the absolute and infallible test of a glass by the purchaser is to see what size letters can be read across the street from the optician's shop.

It isn't. The real test is a climb up a long and brushy hill until the breath comes a hundred to the minute, then a match for the glass, reposing in a shirt pocket, to see whether the buck is the one you want before you fire. If it won't go in your shirt pocket it is not the glass you want; others are made that will. If it shakes in your agitated hands it is not the glass you want; you cannot see enough more with a high power glass to pay for the times when it is unusable because you cannot hold it steady.—Outing.

Origin of the Drama.

The drama, in the only sense in which it is worth talking about, had its origin in Greece immediately following the defeat of Darius and Xerxes, about B. C. 460. Its birthplace was Athens, and its fathers were Aeschylus and Aristophanes—Aeschylus of tragedy and Aristophanes of comedy. When the Greek and Roman civilization went into eclipse under the black cloud of northern barbarianism the theater, as with nearly everything else, became extinct, but during the middle ages acting was in a measure resumed in the form of the "Moralities," or moral plays of the ecclesiastics, and it was from such plays that the modern drama was slowly evolved.—St. Louis Times.

Comb Sage Tea In Lifeless, Gray Hair

If Mixed With Sulphur It Darkens So Naturally Nobody Can Tell

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and abundant with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, ready to use, for about 50 cents. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural colour and beauty to the hair and is splendid for dandruff, dry, itchy scalp and falling hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the grey hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural colour and looks glossy, soft and abundant.

LEAVING THE SERVICE.

How the British Soldiers Fare Seeking Fresh Fields.

What next? That is the problem which confronts the man who is about to leave the British military or naval service, and he finds it by no means easy of solution. Work of some kind he must obtain. First question: What kind is going? Second: Where is it to be obtained?

It used to be no easy matter for a man who had for years been used to the routine of a soldier's life and was getting on in years to fit himself into a place in which he could earn enough to live on in comfort. Nowadays, however, things are different, and many occupations are open to him.

The principal field for ex-soldiers and sailors is the Civil Service, many appointments in which are now specially reserved for them. Numerous vacancies of what are officially styled the "messenger class"—housekeeper, office-keeper, etc.—are filled from the ranks of time-expired men, who are likewise eligible for such positions as postmen, telegraphist, clerk, assistant storekeeper, prison warder, etc.

For any of such posts a candidate must have an exemplary character. In general, also, he is required to pass an examination, which is usually simple and non-competitive. But army reserve men and discharged soldiers who possess an army second-class certificate of education are eligible for some appointments without examination.

An important concession is made in favor of all ex-soldiers and sailors. Service may be deducted from the actual age. If, for instance, a man is, by the irrefutable evidence of his papers forty years old, he may, by knocking off the number of years he has spent in the army or navy, bring himself well within the usual age limits (21—35) for the "messenger class."

To obtain a position in a Government department, application should be made to the secretary to the Civil Service Commission, Burlington Gardens, W. A register is kept of candidates' names, and from this vacancies are filled up as they occur.

But, though the civil service is the largest field open to time-expired men, there are many positions outside it for which they are preferred, some of them of an unobvious character.

Ex-soldiers are frequently selected as instructors in drill and gymnastics, R.S.P.C.A. (Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals) inspectors, school-attendance officers, etc. Those appointed as gymnastic instructors under such bodies as the London County Council must hold the first-class certificate for physical training of the Royal Military Gymnasium, Aldershot; but no such qualification is required for the post of assistant instructor; though, of course, a candidate must satisfy a council that he is competent to assist the instructor.

In the case of R.S.P.C.A. inspectorships, ex-soldiers are liked on grounds of character and discipline, and educational bodies regard them with favor because they are used to filling up forms!

Old bluejackets are in demand for certain work owing to their well-deserved reputation for "handiness." A curious proof of this is that certain cinematograph firms have recently appointed some of them to their staffs for the purpose of dealing with the many difficulties which crop up in the preparation of plays for filming. All manner of contrivances are wanted, and experience has shown that in inventing and making them, the ex-sailor is second to none.

Bumptious Cecil.

Cecil Rhodes' masterfulness and sense of importance met with little opposition as a rule, but a little German clerk in the Transvaal Government offices at Johannesburg before the war once taught him a lesson.

"Please att nd to me at once," thundered the Colossus, "I can't wait."

"When your turn comes, mister," replied the clerk.

"Confound you, man! don't you know who I am?" asked Rhodes.

"Oh, yes, I know you; but don't worry about me," was the clerk's unruffled reply.

"If you were in Cape Town I'd have you discharged at once!" roared the great man.

"Yes," said the clerk, very coolly, "I've heard they discharge people in Cape Town for doing their duty. But this isn't Cape Town—this is a Republic."

Famous Writings Sold.

An excise paper in the handwriting of Robert Burns, with his signature, giving the amount of beer he guaged, sold for $130 at Sotheby's, and a collection of letters relating to him, some with his autograph, sold for $1,100.

Fifty checks drawn on Coutts' Bank by Charles Dickens brought $105, and five autograph letters written to Leigh Hunt by Mary Shelley, second wife of the author, sold for $275. Nineteen letters of the Duke of Marlborough to George III., went for $600, and 22 letters of Alexander Pope to his publisher and others fetched $825.

Foolishness of Betting.

Being firmly convinced that a certain contest would terminate in conformity with his opinions, a farmer in New York state wagered his new automobile against a wheelbarrow on the result of the contest in question—and lost. Giving up the property, he grimly trudged seven miles to his home. Probably his family noticed that he had a grouch too. Considered in the calm, clear, cold light of pure reason, the gentleman succeeded in proving himself a near relative to a California canary—otherwise known as a donkey. Had he won the bet the result would have been pretty much the same, for betting is not argument, evidence or proof of anything. It adds no force, power or dignity to any opinion or set of opinions. It is merely the outpouring of the gambling spirit, and that is a spirit that has led many a man to utter beggary who might have adorned a home and ornamented a community.

ELY'S CREAM BALM OPENS CLOGGED NOSTRILS AND HEAD--CATARRH GOES

Instantly Clears Air Passages; You Breathe Freely, Nasty Discharge Stops, Head Colds and Dull Headache Vanish.

Get a small bottle anyway, just to try it—Apply a little in the nostrils and instantly your clogged nose and stopped-up air passages of the head will open; you will breathe freely; dullness and headache disappear. By morning! the catarrh, cold-in-head or catarrhal sore throat will be gone.

End such misery now! Get the small bottle of "Ely's Cream Balm" at any drug store. This sweet, fragrant balm dissolves by the heat of the nostrils; penetrates and heals the inflamed, swollen membrane which lines the nose, head and throat; clears the air passages; stops nasty discharges and a feeling of cleansing, soothing relief comes immediately.

Don't lay awake to-night struggling for breath, with head stuffed; nostrils closed, hawking and blowing. Catarrh or a cold, with its running nose, foul mucous dropping into the throat, and raw dryness is distressing but truly needless.

Put your faith—just once—in "Ely's Cream Balm" and your cold or catarrh will surely disappear.

THE MARKETS

LIVERPOOL, Jan. 23.—Wheat—Late declines in American and Winnipeg were offset here by disappointing forecast of Argentine shipments and strong closing at Buenos Ayres and Rosario. Later market dull, but steady, notwithstanding large offers of Manitoba for spring shipment and expectations of large world's shipments and the already large amount in the visible.

CHICAGO, Jan. 23.—Wheat went up grade from the start today, helped by enlarged export demand. Closing prices were strong at the top point of the session, ⅝c to ¾c above last night. Other speculative articles all showed a net gain—corn, ⅛c to 1c up; oats, ⅝c to ⅞c, and provisions, 5c to 22½c.

No Safeguard Neglected.

NEW YORK, Jan. 23. — Speaking of the conclusions reached by the International Conference on Safety at Sea, Paul Gotthelf, chairman of the steamship companies' committee, yesterday said that every known safeguard for life at sea had been provided for. The representatives of the United States having signed the articles of the convention, he expressed the hope that this country would act promptly to carry the decision of the conference into effect.

Austrian Censorship.

The Austrian censor used to play strange tricks with the plays produced under his auspices. When Schiller's "Maid of Orleans" was produced at Vienna, in 1802, the title was deemed too flippant and was replaced by that of "Joan of Arc." Agnes Sorel figured as the wife of Charles VII., and Queen Vashean was transformed into that monarch's sister in order to save him from bigamy. Until 1842 mesalliances were prohibited on the Vienna stage. When the burgtheater wished to stage one of Freytag's plays in which Count Waldemar marries a gardener's daughter, the censor put his foot down. "These incidents" he said, "may unfortunately occur in real life, but they must not be seen on the stage."

Library of the House of Lords.

The books in the library of the house of lords number about 60,000 volumes, and they are set out in a luxurious suit of rooms. The library is particularly rich in historical works and memoirs and includes one of the finest collections of law books in London.—London Telegraph.

"Labby" Again.

The late Henry Labouchere always vastly enjoyed the title of "Christian member for Northampton," given to distinguish him from Mr. Bradlaugh. In a speech at Northampton in support of his colleague he gave the following purely apocryphal account of his leave-taking of Mr. Gladstone:

And, men of Northampton, that grand old man said to me, as he patted me on the shoulder, "Henry, my boy, bring him back, bring him back." It is difficult to imagine Mr. Gladstone patting the member for Northampton on the back and calling him, "Henry, my boy." The success of this allusion to the Prime Minister, however, was enormous, and the name stuck. Mr. Gladstone was the "Grand Old Man" for the rest of his life.

"Labby" died as he had lived—a jester. His biographer writes:

The earliest remark of Mr. Labouchere's that I have recorded in this book was a jest, and so was the last I heard him utter. On the afternoon of the day before he died, as I was sitting at his bedside, the spirit lamp that kept the fumes of eucalyptus in constant movement about his room, through some awkwardness of mine, was overturned. Mr. Labouchere, who was dozing, opened his eyes at the sound of the little commotion caused by the accident, and perceived the flare-up. "Flames?" he murmured interrogatively. "Not yet, I think." He laughed quizzically, and went off to sleep again.

MEAT CAUSE OF KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take Salts to flush Kidneys if Back hurts or Bladder bothers

If you have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms urio acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.

Committee Will Consider the Advisability and Need For This Step — Conclusion of Annual Meeting—Financial Conditions Good.

THE TREASURER'S REPORT

The adjourned annual meeting of St. Andrew's Church was held in the Lecture Room last night, being the 81st annual meeting of this congregation. After devotional exercises, conducted by Rev. Mr. Rollins, he was voted to the chair. The first item of business was the nomination of a committee to investigate the matter of better Sunday school accommodation, resulting as follows: Mr. Richard Lees, Mr. W. S. Campbell, Mr. G. W. Gilman, Mr. A. McFarlane, Mr. W. A. Richardson, Mr Geo. A. Gillespie, Mr. G. Walter Green, Mr. E. Bruce Fowler, Mr. R. M. Waddell, Mr. Geo. Edmison, Mr. F. E. Kerr, Mr. J. I. Allen, Mr. W. T. Chisholm, Mr. W. G. Read, Mr. Henry.

The Session reported a present membership of 531, with 48 new members received during the year, and referred to the "every member canvass," the installation of the organ, and to the splendid work being done in the Sunday school, and in the other Church organizations, and conveyed sympathy to those who had suffered bereavement during the year.

Cost of the New Organ.

Mr. W. A. Richardson, sec.-treas. of the Organ committee, reported the total cost of organ and necessary changes in choir loft, etc., to amount to $7,988.02, all of which had been paid except $1,896.37, against which there were subscriptions amounting to $394, leaving $1501.37 to be provided for. The committee was continued and enthusiastically instructed to take the necessary steps to remove all indebtedness on the organ during 1914.

May Sell Property.

The Board of Managers reported through Mr. Andrew McFarlane, chairman, that they had taken the necessary steps to secure legislation to bring real estate owned by the congregation under the general law by which the property of the Presbyterian Church in Canada is held. This will enable the congregation to dispose of property with the consent of the presbytery.

The report congratulated the Organ committee on the results of their work and thanked Mr. Treneer and the choir for the marked improvement in the service of praise.

Increased Seating Room.

The report further suggested that the question of increased accommodation in the Church be referred to the committee appointed to investigate re improved Sunday school facilities, and ends as follows:

Your Board feel that St. Andrew's congregation should look forward to the future with confidence and expresses the hope that any recommendation made by the special committee in connection with improved accommodation will be given your sympathetic consideration.

Treasurer's Report.

The treasurer's statement showed total receipts in general expense account of $3,425.43, and an expenditure of $3,420.69.

Receipts from property, $1,037.60, and expenditure charged to this account (which includes repairs on the Church), of $864.49, leaving a balance of $173.11.

Receipts For the Year.

Receipts in the various departments less balances from 1912, are as follows:

General expense acct.	$3425.43

Total receipts in year 1913.. $10701.47

INCREASE FOR C.P.R. TRAINMEN

Yardmen Are Also Included in the List.

As a result of negotiations that have been in progress between the C.P.R. and representatives of the trainmen a new and increased scale of pay was agreed upon the day before Christmas. It will amount to about ten per cent. of an advance and made a very acceptable Christmas box for the men. All trainmen and yardmen are included in the list and will all receive substantial addition to their pay.

NATIOANALISTS WOULD REPEAL THE NAVAL ACTS

Special Wire to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, Jan. 23.—The Bill of D. O. Lesperance, member for Montmagny, to repeal the Naval Service Act, is creating a considerable amount of speculation, and some degree of consternation in the government ranks especially. There is no doubt that the notice of the bill came as surprise to the government and was not expected. Those who were doing the most thinking on the question are twenty odd Quebec Nationalist members who were elected in 1911, pledged to stand for the repeal of the Laurier Naval Act. Reports to the effect that the Liberals are willing to vote for the repeal of the Act in order to place the government in a position where it will be compelled to announce some policy to take its place are without foundation. The government cannot afford to vote for its repeal, and the Opposition would desire no better situation than that of the government's standing shoulder to shoulder with the Liberal party for its repeal on the statute books. It is believed in certain circles here that Sir Rodolphe Forget is the moving spirit in the introduction of the bill.

Claims Part Of Strathcona Money

Special Wire to The Examiner:

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—Legal warfare for the multi-million Donald Smith estate (Lord Strathcona) has been commenced here by a firm of lawyers on behalf of one James H. Smith of Boston, who will not at present state his alleged relationship to the deceased, but says he will prove his right to a goodly portion of Lord Strathcona's heavy holdings.

MODEL FARM FOR PETERBORO' IS MISTY

Lindsay Paper Worries Because Minister Was Visited by Local Delegation

On Tuesday a deputation from Peterborough visited Ottawa and interviewed the Government, with a view to having a model farm established near Peterborough.

If the Government has any serious intention of establishing a model farm, why should it not be established in Victoria County, which is head and shoulders over Peterborough district as an agricultural centre? Is it not time that Lindsay should be getting some of the "plums?" Surely we are not going to be satisfied with an armory which is not the palatial structure its enthusiastic advocates expected. We should get out after that model farm. We have as a representative a member of the cabinet and surely that ought to mean something and have some weight at Ottawa. Let our civic bodies get busy, and try and bring something Lindsay's way. We are sorry to admit it, but when Peterborough gets after the Government for anything, they usually land it.—Lindsay Post.

Lindsay need not disturb itself over this item. Hon. Martin Burrell is reported to have informed the deputation that there would be no more model farms established for the present. It is understood that the title-destroying member for West Peterborough had expressed his intention of making a strong plea for a model farm for Peterborough, but the Minister did not hold out any hopes to the deputation. The model farm for Peterborough looks like the vision of a pipe dream.

LAKEFIELD FAIR HAS $313 BALANCE

The total receipts of the Lakefield Agricultural Society for the past year were $1350.06, and the balance on hand is $313.80.

The following officers were elected at the annual meeting:

President—T. Braden.
1st Vice-Pres.—J. M. Bygott.
2nd Vice-Pres.—J. E. Galvin.
Sec.-Treas.—W. Sherin.
Directors—T. T. Milburn, R. Knox, A. J. Trennum, B. Q. Dench, A. Darling, W. H. Down, Dr. Munro, H. C. Garbutt, Dr. J. R. Fraser, J. J. Bickell, M. O'Brien and W. Darling.
Auditors—W. M. Graham and A. Fairbairn.

WORK WANTED.

A woman has written the Examiner to the effect that her husband is at the present time out of employment, and has been for some time back. They have a family of seven and at the present time are in great need of an opportunity by which the husband and father can earn money to relieve the distress which is about upon them. If anybody has any work of any kind they can offer to this man, if information is sent to the Examiner Office it will be turned over to the family in need.

TAYLOR HANGED TO-DAY

Half-breed Murderer of 13-year-old Boy Paid the Penalty—Hanged in County Gaol

28th HANGING FOR HOLMES

BRANTFORD, Jan. 23.—In a narrow hallway in the county jail, this morning, James Taylor, half-breed, who last September assaulted and murdered Charles Dawson, a 13-year-boy, was executed. Taylor, always of a sullen demeanour, bore up well until the end. Last night he showed signs of weakening and was quite sick until midnight, when stimulants were administered. He did not eat breakfast this morning. He made no statement before death. He was accompanied into the death cell by Adjutant Hargrove of the Salvation Army, his spiritual adviser, who had been with him all night. Taylor had an easy death, there being no twitching or struggling. Jack Holmes officiated as hangman. This is his twenty-eighth execution.

SPECIAL PROGRAMME FOR SATURDAY

Two Performances at "The Grand" To-morrow

The management of "The Grand" have arranged for a special picture programme for to-morrow (Saturday) Matinee and Night. This will be made up of six full reels of specially interesting subjects, including the famous "Eclaire" drama entitled 'Steel," which is in two reels. The fine programme, splendid music, good air, and comodious seating capacity of this big playhouse is daily gaining favour with the public. If you have not yet witnessed a motion Picture performance as given at the Opera House, make it a point to give them a trial to-night or to-morrow, Matinee and Night. The Matinee performance will commence at 2.30 sharp and the evening performance at 7.30 p.m., running continuous until 5.30 and 10.30 p.m.

DEARER MEAT CAUSES BOYCOTT

Special Wire to The Examiner:

ST. CATHARINES, Jan. 23.—Owing to the action of the city in raising meat prices three cents a pound this week, five hundred men of the Welland Vale Works, the largest in the city, signed a pledge yesterday afternoon not to eat meat bought from the city butcher shops.

WILDE FOR WARDEN OF PETERBOROUGH COUNTY

It is Twenty-five Years Since the Eastern Township of Belmont Has Been Represented Among the Wardens.

The County Council will meet on the 27th inst., and the election of the Warden will be awaited with great interest in this section, as Reeve Wilde of Belmont, will be a candidate for the position. Reeve Wilde has a good claim for the honour owing to the fact that Belmont has only had the Wardenship once in the past fifty years. The late John Brown was Warden about twenty-five years ago, and since that time the eastern township has not been represented among the Wardens.—Havelock Standard.

HIS SALARY IS INCREASED TO $2400 A YEAR

Rev. J. G. Potter, of McVicar Church, Montreal, is Doing Good Work —Efforts Recognized

FORMERLY OF ST. ANDREW'S

The fruitful work of Rev. J. G. Potter, formerly pastor of St. Andrew's Church, is referred to in the following from the Montreal Telegraph:

At the McVicar Memorial Church meeting it was decided to raise the salary of the minister, the Rev. J. G. Potter, to $2,400, an increase of $500.

The total revenue of the church for 1913, including the balance from 1912, was over $18,000, or $4,000 in excess of the previous year. The disbursements were: Current expenses, $7,500; building, furnishings and organ account, $7,500; missionary and benevolent funds, $1,860; balance carried forward, $1,000.

From the reports of the session, the board of management and the various departments of the church it was shown that there had been good increase and development in all lines. During the year 156 were received into the communion of the church, the net membership at present being 645. The Sunday School showed a total of 272 on its rolls, including the teachers and officers, and the collections had totalled $745, $200 of which went to missions. One branch of the school which showed exceptional development was the Chinese school, of which there were 55 pupils. The Ladies' Aid had raised during the year a total spending power of $3,000.

Tests At The Incinerator

Were Conducted To-day by Mr. A. H. Reid and Mr. R. MacGregor

Mr. A. H. Reid of the Reid Incinerator Company, Toronto, is in the City to-day together with Mr. R. MacGregor, foreman of construction. They are conducting various tests at the incinerator. Twenty tons of garbage have been collected for this purpose. It required nearly two weeks to collect this amount and the whole will, in all probability be consumed in the process of making the tests.

His Worship Mayor Buller, Alderman Duncan and City Engineer Parsons were on hand this morning. They expressed satisfaction at the outcome of the tests. The latter were made at varying temperatures.

DISTINCT HONOUR FOR LOCAL BOY

Chief Assistant to Physician in Attendance on Sir James Whitney

The many friends of Dr. Garnet Greer, son of Dr. T. N. Greer, corner of Simcoe and Aylmer Streets, who is on the house staff of the Toronto General Hospital, will be pleased to know that he has been made chief assistant to the physician in attendance on Sir James Whitney, who is so seriously ill in the above institution. This is a distinct honour for the local young man, and his numerous friends will be glad to hear of it.

ALD. GREEN WANTS HYDRO INFORMATION

Will Not Be Satisfied With the Lack of Details Such as Existed Last Year

NO FURTHER NEWS

At a recent meeting of the committee of the Whole Council, the reporters retired when the discussion of the Hydro-Electic situation was begun. The press had hardly touched the pavement when mild pyrotechnics were set off. Ald. Green is said to have referred to the lack of knowledge of the particulars surrounding the Hydro situation during the past year; to have asked Mayor Buller what the present information was; and to have received the reply that His Worship knew nothing more than the west ward alderman. Whereupon Ald. Green is said to have emphatically declared that he was determined to get whatever facts were available and necessary. In the same way, Ald. Johnston made the assertion that Hydro-Electric had been one of the strong planks in his election platform; that he felt it his duty to pursue the matter as closely as possible and to protect the interests of the people to the best of his ability.

Inspired by the sentiments of this Johnstonian speech, other members threw their hats into the ring. Just what was done has not leaked out. The enemy must not know what was done. Having been kept in the dark so long on the one side, the Council will fight fire with fire, or rather darkness and silence with darkness and silence, as far as the press is concerned. There is more than one member of the Council who will not be satisfied with the haziness that enveloped the Hydro proceedings last year. "The time for truthfulness and smooth words," they say, is past; the Council needs facts and details."

CHOIR PLEASANTLY ENTERTAINED

After the Usual Rehearsal Last Evening

The members of the Charlotte Street Methodist Church Choir were very pleasantly entertained last evening in the Sunday School room of the Church, after the regular choir rehearsal, by the Rev. T. J. and Mrs. Mansell, Mrs. R. J. Kidd, Mrs. R. F. Downey and Mrs. A. B. Cunningham. Refreshments were served and an informal programme, consisting of vocal solos, recitations, and several short humorous speeches made the evening a very pleasant one.

"Did your husband have any luck on his hunting trip?"

"Splendid! Didn't you hear?"

"No, what was it?"

"He got back alive."

BALLOTS ONLY FOR MOTHERS

Limited Suffrage is the Idea of E. N. Lewis, Member for West Huron —Would Introduce Bill

NO BABIES, NO BALLOTS

Special Wire to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, Jan. 23.—E. N. Lewis, Conservative, the member for West Huron, has been given considerable annoyance by an inaccurate announcement, made a few days ago that he would introduce a bill providing suffrage for all women in Canada. The announcement was apparently received with joy by a large number of the fair sex. The gentleman for West Huron has ever since been besieged with callers and deputations. As a matter of fact, Lewis is an advocate of the extension of suffrage to married women and married women only. His motto is "No babies, no ballots." It is understood he would be quite willing to introduce a bill giving votes to mothers of Canada.

No Bulgarians In Peterboro'

Two Prisoners on Trial Here Have to Send to Queen City for Interpreter

The two Bulgarians, Tedos and Petas Minkoff, charged with the theft of a blanket and several tools from the C.P.R. came before Judge Huycke this morning.

They could not speak English, and the effort on the part of the authorities to round up a Bulgarian in this City was fruitless, so they were remanded.

Mr. Joseph Wearing, Acting Crown Prosecutor, has received a telegram from Toronto saying that an interpreter will come on Monday from that city, so that the trial will likely be held on Monday.

The two Bulgaians were arrested in Havelock after an investigation by Detective Hawke.

SIR JAMES SHOWS MUCH IMPROVEMENT

Special Wire to The Examiner:

TORONTO, Jan. 23.—Sir James Whitney seems to be steadily improving. A bulletin to-day from the Hospital says the patient is resting easily and taking nourishment. He seems to be regaining mental and physical strength.

RECOGNIZED FAMILY.

Premier Whitney Had Best Day Since Reaching Toronto.

TORONTO, Jan. 23.—More hopeful news was contained in the bulletin issued shortly before ten o'clock last night from the General Hospital by Premier Whitney's physicians:

"Sir James Whitney has had a much quieter day, with considerable sleep; condition seems improved.

(Signed) "Alex. McPhedran.
"C. K. Clarke,
"A. A. Pyne."

For the first time since he was brought home from New York, Premier Whitney was able to recognize members of his family yesterday. He called his wife, Lady Whitney, and his son, Garnet, by name.

While the condition of Sir James is much improved, the doctors say that too much optimism should not be aroused, as the Prime Minister still is seriously ill.

Still Going.

Brigg: What did your wife say to you about staying out so late the other night?

Grigg: Don't ask me yet. When she gets through with the subject I'll condense it for you!

RAILWAYS' DEMAND IS TOO HEAVY

Six Million Dollars in Excess for the Parcels Post Scheme —Pelletier Objects

PRESENT MAIL CONTRACT

Special Wire to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, Jan. 23.—Inquiry in regard to the parcels post service, which was to have started on January 1st, indicates that the Government has not yet come to terms with the railways in regard to the sum to be arranged for parcels post and mail service combined. Under the terms of the present agreement for the carriage of mails the railways receive approximately two million dollars. They have been pressing the Government for a larger payment for some time back. When the parcels post announcement was made and the railways were asked for terms they suggested a sum in excess of six millions for service. The Postmaster General thinks the figures too large and negotiations may have to be continued for some time before an agreement is reached.

STRIKERS SYMPATHIZERS CHARGED BY MILITIA

Special Wire to The Examiner:

TRINIDAD, Co., Jan. 23.—Charging into the midst of parading wives and children of the coal strikers, here, sweeping their sabres on all sides and riding down the marchers, State Cavalrymen, under the command of Gen. Chase, broke up a demonstration of sympathy for "Mother" Jones, now held by the soldiers of San Rafael Hospital, here. Many paraders were knocked down and four women and one man received sabre cuts. Feeling against the Militia was bitter to-day and further trouble was expected.

WON POULTRY PRIZES AT LINDSAY SHOW

Local Bird Fanciers Gathered in a Good Share of Honours.

Peterborough poultry fanciers made a good showing at the Lindsay poultry exhibit, which closed last night. They all did well and brought home a big share of the prizes. A. O. Kidd exhibited Plymouth Rocks; J. Meharry, Buff Rocks, F. Head, Plymouth Rocks, Geo. Buller, bantams and Rhode Island Reds, R. Robson, white Orpingtons, J. J. Cunningham Black Minorcas and Black Hamburgs. Mr. Cunningham sent up 18 birds and won 10 firsts, 5 seconds and 3 thirds. This is an example of what the other exhibitors won.

PROF. SKELTON'S LECTURE

One of Queen's most scholarly professors will be in the City to-night to lecture in the Collegiate under the auspices of the Women Teachers' Guild. Professor Skelton is a graduate of Queen's, and has taken post graduate work in Oxford and Chicago. His lecture promises to be a very great treat, and it is hoped that many of our citizens will avail themselves of this opportuniy of hearing him.

A BIG LEEWAY

The man who quits his advertising in January and February will inevitably find when he comes back, that he has got a big leeway to make up over those in business who have been keeping everlastingly at it. Then, too, the discontinuing of your advertising tends to jolt the buyers shopping habits. They have been accustomed to be reminded by your regular advertised store news, and, if its continuity is broken the chances are they will switch over to another store or try another line of merchandise.

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unparalleled."

FRIDAY, JAN. 23, 1914

CIVILIZING NEW CITIZENS.

During the year 1912, there were naturalized in Canada — admitted to British nationality—18,242 foreigners of forty-one nationalities, of which the United States furnished one third, or 6,890. The other leading nationalities—reaching four figures— naturalized, were, Austrians, 2,090; Finns, 1,269; Italians, 1,598; Russians, 1,586. Among the Nationalities are represented almost every known country — and some generally unknown. For instance, six Bukovinians were naturalized. How many of our readers, without Whittaker, know that Bukowina —pronounced vina—is a duchy of East Austria. With such a polyglot conglomeration of languages, to cover the ground thoroughly, the missionary has his work in the way of linguistic acquirement cut out for him. And the fact of so many as 18,242 foreigners—out of a grand total of 189,203, being injected or admitted or pitch-forked into the citizenship of Canada, in one year, creates an important responsibility in regard to morally fitting our new citizens for the desired place in Christian and civilized citizenship. Many of these naturalized persons, such as Turks, Syrians, Persians, Arabians and Africans are from heathen countries, that do not know, at least do not recognise, Christianity, and many of them are from European and other countries, where the moral standards, practices, education, while nominally founded upon Christianity, have been badly built, that they are low, low. Without considerable warming over, these low-grade, so-called Christians — practically heathen in principles, morals and manners—will not fit in with the high standard of Canadian citizenship. Unless they are assimilated in some way, and with the least possible delay, they will be a deteriorating influence in our citizenship.

THE PEOPLE THE SPOIL OF POWER.

The people, the common people, do not seem to be in the lexicon of the Borden government except to use at election time. There is no consideration for them in the administrative activities of the government. Hon. T .W. White, Minister of Finance, in debating the address, plants both feet on the idea of "free food"—that is, food free from taxation. He declares that free food would affect 6,985 manufacturing establishments, with a capital of 139 millions of dollars. Mr. White doesn't say a word about the rights and claims, or about the manner in which would be affected millions of domestic establishments, the millions of food eaters. We mustn't touch the ark of the tariff. We must not, even to give cheaper food to the millions, interfere with a beautiful device of taxation, that permits manufacturers and middlemen to declare big dividends and make big profits on the food that the children eat.

Mr. White tells us that the eighty-two millions invested in flour mills must not be imperilled by making free from taxation food in which flour is an ingredient. Yet by a way of its own, the tariff permits these same benevolent flour millers to "soak" the Canadian consumer—to make him pay a higher price for his flour—his own flour grown in his own wheat fields—than the people of Great Britain pay. The tariff permits this through the potent help of the middlemen. The same beneficent arrangement makes that the Canadian farmer has to pay more for his reapers and mowers and agricultural implements than the farmers of Great Britain and France pay for the like. The tariff not only helps these interests to big profits, but it permits of the middlemen seconding their efforts at the expense of the Canadian consumer. The Laurier government enacted a law that provides for the removal of the duty where that duty permits increase of prices. But the present government does not enforce that law; it allows it to remain on the statute book, where its permitted presence and the neglect of enforcement show that it is admitted that the tariff is used to oppress the people and add to the cost of what they eat.

The very thought of modifying the tariff in a way to interfere with the unrighteous profits of the protected interests, even with the object of making food prices lighter, shocks Hon. Mr. White and his government colleagues to the heart. The big interests that make big contributions to election funds must be protected, and the people must pay the shot in the increased cost of living. The government, out of respect to its own party advantage, even absolutely refuses to help the farmer to better conditions of production and profit by providing him with good roads. It must make political capital for itself out of everything. Parliament passed the Highways Bill, to give millions for highways which the government introduced, but the Borden government refused to give the bill effect, because they refused to surrender their power to use the funds, to be granted under it, for political advantage. The bill as passed by the House of Commons, permitted the government, by order in council, to distribute public moneys, which the laws says shall only be distributed by a vote of the House of Commons. If the government had surrendered its desire to make the grants, and the possibility of making the grants to the promotion of political advantage, the Highways Bill would have been law to-day. After all, it comes to this, that the present government is prepared to sacrifice the people to the purposes of party aggrandisement — prostituting the resources of the country and the rights, the comfort, the food of the people, to strengthening their hold on power.

ONE BY ONE.

Hon. Mr. Borden does not seem to be able to be faithful to his ideals, and his promises. One by one they are broken or cast aside. He first abandoned the naval policy he joined with parliament in unanimously approving in 1909. He is not even true to his opportunist and humiliating naval ploicy. He has sandbagged and stunned it, and to continue to please the Nationalists, proposes to do nothing. He makes no mention of it in the speech from the throne. It's an old story how he has smashed almost every plank in his Halifax platform—such as reform of the civil service, purity in election contests, economy in public expenditure, etc. It seems that the lack of carrying out promises and implementing ideals has become so chronic with Mr. Borden as to be a matter of habit, become constitutional, so to speak. He does not seem to be able to retain his fidelity to his friends, even his cabinet colleagues. He is even "souring" on the gallant and spendthrifty Minister of War, Col. the Hon. Sam Hughes. Gadsby, in the "Gallery Clock" in the Toronto Star thus sets forth the waning popularity with his chief and colleague of Col. the Hon. Sam. He thus piquantly sets forth the situation:

> I is not unlikely that a comic opera war will be centred round Colonel the Honourable Sam's estimates. The Government is not as sweet on Colonel Sam as it was, and the people who put him where he is are not as strong with the Government. Where the Force Behind used to threaten it now begs, and Colonel Sam's star has waned. In the Cabinet itself there is an opinion that Colonel Sam is spending too much money and getting too little for it. The people cry for bread, but Colonel Sam offers muster rolls. If they can't eat muster rolls he hands them a drill shed, which is not so hard to take. Nice observers, who have observed the behaviour of a hen on a hot griddle say that Premier Borden looks just like that when Colonel Sam's name is mentioned. This is taken to mean that Colonel Sam's pull is unravelling, and that the Government would like to see his tremendous activities and possibilities for good tied up to something that doesn't come in for so much criticism as the Militia Department. They do not say that Colonel Sam is crazy with anything except the heat, but they do say that he has a megalomania, that is to say, an Illusion of Greatness in a most expensive form. In other words, they are going to check Colonel Sam up. He and his sunshine colonels are costing too much money.

VINDICATION OF LLOYD GEORGE'S GREAT REFORMS

To the Editor of the Examiner.

Dear Sir,—My attention has been called to a letter which appeared in your valuable paper on Monday last, and it is of such a nature that one in my position gladly joins issue with the gentlemen in question. He, first of all, states that he read with interest your leader of the 12th inst., and also the letter signed by "An Elector." But, like all tariff reformers, Protectionists, etc., or whatever they please to call themselves, he carefully leaves your leader out of his comment and proceeds to question a portion of my letter, wherein I stated what had been done, and is still able to, under the present system of so-called free trade.

There's none so blind as they who won't see. Mr. Lloyd fails to see, so he says, where old age pensions have reduced pauperism to the extent of fifty per cent. When I stated this fact I did so with a certainty, because the actual reduction in more than one Board's area is 75 per cent., as compared with the year previous to the introduction of the Old Age Pension scheme. And may I inform Mr. Lloyd that as an elected guardian I experienced no difficulty for a pauper either in the house or out of the workhouse to receive the pension, when the law was so amended to allow of it to be done, I personally saw scores of them receive them and, in fact, paid them to those who no longer are paupers, (thank God), but State pensioners, receiving gratefully from the hands of a government returned to power three times; not on the aftermath of South Africa's blunder, but on a free trade issue, together with Home Rule for Ireland, and the House of Lords. The first and last of these are now quite safe. Home Rule will soon be on the statute book and the deck cleared for another reform long overdue—the land question.

The first year of national insurance is now a matter of history, and while one readily admits its incompleteness the results have, so far, exceeded even the expectations of its most sanguine supporters, for proof of this kindly refer to the comment of the "London Daily Mail." Yes, Mr. Bonar Law did say certainly once upon a time, and he soon sent a post card to say certainly not. What he means, Mr. Lloyd assumes to know. I don't; and Mr. Bonar Law more than once has been asked on the floor of the House of Commons to say what he means, and he does not avail himself of the facilities of the House of Commons to do this; and neither party call it by what name you may, will ever wipe the slate of Old Age Pensions or State Insurance; amended, they will be no doubt; but of that we must await the future, which one does with confidence upon the success of the past short time of their trial.

The question of emigrants, to me, is a minor matter. I gave you my authority and sent the same to you, Mr. Editor, for corroboration, Reynolds, Dec. 28th, 1913.

I, and every one who knows anything of the politics of England, know of the result of the by-elections but what of Crew? The present member represents a minority of Ulster. But, Mr. Lloyd, have you seen the results of Ilkerton and Keighley, and last, but not least (Wick Burghs) strangle fights? These, Mr. Lloyd, are upon the policy of a free trade government, of which your old friend, so you claim, David Lloyd George, is to-night announced in the Examiner, to remain a member and not retire, according to the report and desire of the tariff reformers. There are other points, if time and space permitted, but seeing that Mr. Lloyd holds no brief for Mr. Burnham, it may be that Mr. Burnham will give us the desired explanation sought after, in the near future.

Yours respectfully,

An Elector.

My Easy Way For You

TO OWN YOUR HOME

If you have or ever intend to have a wife and family you must have a home by renting or buying. Doubtless you have read my ad. in the Examiner, where I offer to do for you as I have done for others, viz., to guide you to a home of your own, on as easy terms as you now have, paying rent.

If you rent you pay for ever, and have nothing to show. If you buy you have a valuable property to use, rent or sell. You are a man amongst men, with a stake in the country, honoured and respected, not a waiter, here to-day and away to-morrow. My desire to sell and retire causes me to offer prices and terms that will never be repeated; so close to work and in the way of the City's growth. Come in and see plans; get full particulars, then you can lay out your plans for early Spring action.

AN IDEAL HOME

DON'T YOU WANT ONE?

WE HAVE IT AND CAN HELP YOU GET IT

The ambition of most men is to have a comfortable home of his own design. Usually the ideal home is pictured as standing well back from the street in a large lot laid out in lawns and gardens, with shade and fruit trees, hedges and flower beds arranged about the lot to suit the man's particular taste. A Lot 60 ft. x 180 ft. gives enough space for a lawn 30 ft. x 60 ft. in front of the house, a house 18 ft. x 24 ft. with summer kitchen, 10 ft. x 10 ft., a tennis or croquet lawn, or berry patch, or asparagus and rhubarb bed beside the house, an 8 ft. or 10 ft. driveway and still leave a large lot 60 ft. x 120 ft. at the back for vegetables and fruit trees and stable for the horse and cow. When to this ideal lot is added the advantage of easy access to the river for boating and the convenience of being only a short walk from the factory district, and reasonable building restrictions, this ambition seems capable of realization. Where such a lot can be bought on a deposit of $10 and the balance as the purchaser desires, this ideal home is within the reach of everyone.

WE HAVE THEM; BUT

These lots have been picked up very fast, and we have only a few left for those quick enough to grasp the opportunity afforded to own an ideal home that is bound to increase in value to a remarkable extent at a small present cost. You can build and finish your kitchen in the spring and plant our your garden, and as you are able, complete your house. Get in line and out of the rut, and become a land owner, instead of paying someone else a premium for the privilege of living in his house. Remember, there are only a few lots left, and applications therefor will be filled in the order in which they are received.

COCAINE AS THE SOURCE OF MUCH CRIME.

Police authorities have come to regard cocaine as one of the recognised sources of crime. The cocaine fiend seems to have his moral sense destroyed. The morphine devotee is often a man of refined and elevated thought, with a delicate perception and with a keen sense of honour and obligations, except that he will always lie and deceive to get possession of his needed "dope." In his sober moments the alcohol fiend is often a man of conspicuous honour. The cocaine fiend seems different. It is believed that cocaine directly stimulates to evil passions and evil deeds. —Family Doctor.

Tried to Stay Good.

She was angry, and her face revealed the fact.

"What is the matter, dear?" said her husband, as he entered the kitchen.

"You see that?" she replied vehemently, as she raised a mixing bowl in which she had just broken an egg. "That is the second bad egg I have found to-day. I believe Jim Fletcher keeps all the bad ones he gets in his old store for me!"

"Well, you shouldn't get angry about it, Nellie," said her husband soberly. "You ought to have more sympathy."

"Sympathy!" she echoed. "What do you mean? Sympathy for Jim Fletcher?"

"No, for the eggs," he replied. "Think how long they must have been tryin' to be good."

NORWOOD COUNCIL HOLDS FIRST MEETING OF THE YEAR

Four Weeks' Course in Agriculture to be Held, Beginning February Second.

SUCCESSFUL SOCIAL

NORWOOD, Jan. 21.—Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Beavis of Hastings, were guests on Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Laing.

An entertainment will be given on January 30th in the Presbyterian Church by the members of the Sabbath School.

The first meeting of the new Council for 1914 was held on Monday morning, January 5th, at 11 o'clock, pursuant to statute. The members present were: B. W. Squire (Reeve), and Councillors T. Morrison, W. Pakenham, W. Portway, and S. Hendren.

After signing their declarations of office, the Council proceeded to transact the necessary business.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted.

A by-law authorizing the Reeve and treasurer to borrow certain moneys for village and school purposes, received its several readings and was finally passed.

The following accounts were read: W. C. Harrison, 22 lamps, $12.10; 4 qr. electric light, $177.50; Howard McMaster, 4 1-2 hours' work, 90c; Roy McMaster, 13 1-2 hours' work, $2.70; Wm. McMaster, 13 1-2 hours' work, $2.70; N. Wellman, 13 1-2 hours' work, $2.70; Jos. Dickens, 9 hours' work, $1.80; J. L. Johnson, 9 hours' work, $1.80; E. J. Laing, expenses of election, $19.10; Isaac Puffer, salary, $20.00; work, $5.40; Walter Sedgwick, 1 1-4 cords wood, $7.50.

Moved by Councillor Hendren, seconded by Councillor Morrison, that the accounts as read be paid. Carried.

Moved by Councillor Hendren, seconded by Councillor Pakenham, that the taxes of Mrs. Joseph Peters for 1913 be rebated. Carried.

A communication from Mr. J. A. Finlay, resigning his position on the Board of Education, was read from the chair.

The next meeting will be held on Wednesday evening, Jan. 14th, at 7:30.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Webster left on Tuesday for their home near Bawif, Alberta.

Miss Eastwood, of Marmora, has been a guest of Miss Gertrude Squire.

A hockey match was played on the Norwood rink on Friday night between Warkworth and Norwood teams, the result being a tie, 5 to 5.

Mrs. C. E. Pakenham was in Toronto last week.

The death of Mr. Abrahum Scott, an old Norwood resident, occurred at his home on King street, on Friday night, after an illness of a few days. Deceased was in his seventy-eighth year, and was a member of the Methodist Church. The funeral took place on Monday afternoon, to the Norwood cemetery.

The basket social on Friday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Johnston, under the auspices of the ladies of the Presbyterian Church, was enjoyed by a large number who took advantage of a pleasant sleighride and an enjoyable social evening. The proceeds were $8.95.

Miss Leila Weir and Miss Pauline Weir spent Saturday in Peterborough.

Mrs. Vanderwoort left recently to spend the winter with friends in Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Marks visited last week in Norham.

Mrs. C. W. Waters was in Peterborough on Friday.

The Ladies' Aid of the Methodist Church held a basket social on Monday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell Brown, Asphodel. A large number took advantage of the sleigh ride, and spent a most enjoyable evening in games, music, etc. Between eleven and twelve, refreshments were served. The proceeds, which amounted to $15, will go towards the expenses incurred by the installation of electric lights in the basement and kitchen of the church.

Mr. H. Beavis of Lakefield was in town on Tuesday.

A man by the name of Reilly, who had been working for Mr. J. Fitzpatrick, was taken to Nichools Hospital, Peterborough, on Sunday, by Constable Puffer, it being feared that he was suffering from pneumonia.

Miss Josephine McNichol is visiting her sister, Mrs. N. Grady, Peterborough.

Mr. Jason Nicol of Rosetown, Saskatchewan, is a guest of friends in town.

On Monday, Jan. 26th, a concert will be held in the Town Hall under the auspices of the Public Library.

The Ontario Ladies' Quartette, consisting of Miss Florence MacNeill (soprano), Miss Pearl O'Neill (reader and entertainer), Miss Kathleen Wallis (violinist), and Miss Dorothy Atken (pianist), has been engaged to render the programme.

Mr. John Mark was in Havelock, Lakefield and Pontypool last week assisting in the installation of officers and members of the Oddfellows' lodge.

Mrs. Sohlarbaum of Hawkesbrugh, has been visiting at the home of her uncle, Mr. Geo. Mills.

The local branch of the Department of Agriculture are making preparations to give a four weeks' course in general agriculture, to begin February 2nd. This course is absolutely free, there being no expense whatever except for railway fare and board. The subjects to be taught are live stock, and principles of breeding, feeds and feeding, field husbandry, dairying, poultry, veterinary science, soil physics, surveying, horticultural, agricultural botany, arithmetic. The work will be given mostly in lecture form, with lantern slide illustrations in many cases.

On Monday evening from four to seven a very pleasant time was spent at the home of Mrs. H. Kirkpatrick, when a number of her neighbours assembled to show their esteem and respect for one who has, for nearly fifty years, been an honoured Christian character in this village.

The occasion was to celebrate Mrs. Kirkpatrick's eighty-third birthday, and was in every respect a complete surprise to her. At five thirty all sat down to a very dainty supper. That Mrs. Kirkpatrick may enjoy many more years of health and happiness was the wish of her many friends.

The senior hockey team journeyed to Warsaw on Monday night, where they played the team of that village, and where they were successful in winning the game, the score being 2 to 1.

A number from here went to Peterborough to attend the Presbytery meeting, held in St. Paul's Church. The call from Alliston and Burns congregation to Rev. M. F. Cree was considered, and representatives from the Norwood church were present to try to have Mr. Cree remain with the congregation. Those in attendance were: Mr. W. Cuthbertson, Mr. J. Alf. Finlay, Mr. H. Robb, Mr. J. E. Roxburgh, Mr. J. W. Rork, Mr. I. N. Ackerman and Mr Jas. Calder.

Miss Gertie Moffatt returned to New York on Monday.

Miss Z. R. Paget of Havelock, spent the week end at her home here.

The Misses Nico gave a skating party to a number of their girl friends on Saturday night.

Havelock Public school hockey club played a friendly match with the Public school boys of the village. The score was 2 to 1 in favour of Havelook.

Wide Scope Of State Life Insurance

LONDON, Jan. 23.—Important reforms which have been put into operation by the Post Office this month give to the Government system of life insurance the widest scope of any system of life insurance in operation in any part of the world. A simplified proposal form has been issued on which is printed a table showing the sum that may be secured at death in return for premiums ranging from four to twelve cents a week, payable until the age of sixty is attained. All premiums cease at sixty. Persons of either sex between the ages of fourteen and fifty are eligible for insurance under this scheme.

Insurance not exceeding $125 can be obtained with or without medical examination. Above that amount examination is necessary. In no case is any fee charged, and the contract issued to those who undergo examination provides for full benefit in the event of death after the first quarter's premium has been paid.

Every contract which has been in force for two years, and on which eight quarters' premiums have been paid, acquires a surrender value of the alternative of a paid-up policy of an amount equal to the surrender value. Persons holding policies may reside in any part of the world without the payment of any extra premiums. The premiums are payable by means of ordinary postage stamps, to be affixed weekly by the insured person within a premium book which is supplied when the policy is issued.

Courtship in Camera

She gave him a cabinet photo.
He gazed for a moment or two,
Then pleaded, "Sweetheart, won't you give me
The lovely original, too?"

"If you're positive, dear, that you love me,"
She said through a film of tears,
"A negative I cannot give you.
I'm yours to the end of our years."

So courtship was quick to develop:
Their marriage was fixed up in town,
And now in a middle class suburb
She is steadily toning him down.

Pastors And Sunday School Workers Meet

BRAZIL, Ind., Jan. 23.—What is believed to be the largest instruction ever conducted for pastors and Sunday school superintendents in the middle States was opened here to-day and will be continued over Sunday. Scores of churches and Sunday schools in Indiana and the neighbouring States are represented in the attendance. The courses include instruction in Sunday school organization and administration, adult Bible class work, missionary education in the Sunday school, the training of teachers, the work of the rural Sunday school and the relations of the pastor and the Sunday school.

MENTAL TRAINING BEFORE SCHOOL AGE

In my article that appeared in Farm and Dairy a few weeks ago I dealt with what a child should be taught of its physical welfare before going to school. In this article I will deal with the mental side of the question.

Under the head of mental I have placed mostly that which relates to the child's studies. Some teachers prefer the child to come to them without any idea of real school work. Some parents prefer to send them that way, but they are not supposed to be considered here. Definitely speaking, under the mental I have put number work, color, nature study, oral composition and in conjunction with all these, the training of the memory and the senses.

This can be easily done by the mother while she is at her every-day work. "How many eggs did daddy bring in to-day?" "Bring me up five or six apples for a pie, please." "There are too many potatoes here. Please take out a half dozen and bring in a dozen carrots with you." Thus the child is learning helpfulness and number work at the same time.

Color is just as easy. "What color are those curtains, Mary?" "Bring your tan stockings for me to darn!" Fruits, birds, flowers can all be brought into use in teaching color if we can't afford to have the colored balls, prisms, etc., used in the kindergarten.

When the child brings you in a bouquet, start your nature study going. True, it may be composed of weeds, but who needs to know weeds more than the country child? The little birds' nest found on the ground is an object of interest to them, and you can make it of educational value as well by having them note how and of what it is made. The crow, the cricket, the corn and the pine all lend their aid, for the simple things learned of every-day objects now will help to increase the child's powers of observation later on.

Our little ones are very fond of playing a game that you might call for want of a better name—"What is it made of?" They go the whole list of known things almost from baby's high chair up to "old Bob." Their questions rather startle one sometimes, but as yet they are rather easily put off if a very satisfactory answer can't be given. Such a name we have found gives a chance to get in a host of simple facts concerning wood, minerals, clothing, etc., and tends to make them think.

Nature study, memory work and oral composition can be combined to good advantage. Take one of the common grains or seeds and have them tell you what happens to it from the time it enters the ground till it comes to the table. You will have to tell them first and they may frequently get the cart before the horse in their re-telling, but it will serve a four-fold purpose; teach them of nature, train their memory; help them in their language lessons and impress upon their young minds the thought of how dependent we are upon God and one another.

Writing can scarcely be left off the list since Montessore in her system places it in the foremost ranks. By that system little Italian children of four learn to write all the letters in six weeks, and children of five in four weeks and write them well too. One strange point in this Italian method is that writing precedes reading. The children at first read what they themselves have written. Froebel, as far back as 1826, advocated this method also. Give a child a pencil, paper and a copy and even if he does seem to make very poor headway, he will at least learn something of holding a pencil, etc. Watch a young child trying to write for the first time and the importance of such practies will be easily recognized.

TEACHING TO LISTEN

In all this the sensory nerves are being trained, but as a special ear training have them try to distinguish voices, footballs, bells, etc. Drop nuts, beans, marbles, or pebbles on the floor or on glass and have them note difference in sounds. Stop him in his play and ask him to tell you the different sounds he hears. Practice will make him surprisingly proficient in this. Those who have studied the subject say that lack of proper ear training is frequently the cause of the heedlessness, inattentiveness and apparent disobedience of children. They hear, but not with intelligence; as we often say it goes in one ear and out the other. Teach the child to listen intelligently and who knows but what we will have helped solve the problem of discipline!

Teach feeling by having the child with closed eyes tell which of several pieces of cloth is cotton, which woollen, which velvet, etc. The busy mother can think out games best suited to her own babies and circumstances. Such games make admirable ones for the "shut in" child.

At a Luncheon.

It is correct when serving a luncheon to use either a tablecloth or to serve the meal on a polished table embellished with lace or embroidered centrepiece and doilies.

At a luncheon given exclusively to ladies the hostess leads the way to the dining-room, while at a mixed luncheon—that is, a luncheon composed of an equal number of gentlemen and ladies—the host leads the way to the dining-room with the most distinguished lady guest or lady for whom the luncheon is given on his arm, and is followed by the guests in couples and, least of all, the hostess with the gentleman who is to sit on her right. The lady on the hostess' right should be served first, and the guests, as they sit, first a lady and then a gentleman.

Keep Hats on.

The servant at the door indicates the dressing-rooms for both ladies and gentlemen. The ladies lay aside their wraps but keep on their hats. The hostess awaits her guests in the drawing-room, greets them cordially and introduces one to another, if this be necessary.

Provincial Legislature Will Give Special Attention To The Municipal Act

Separate Debenture By-laws Are An Inconvenience to Manufacturers---Want Public Health Act Amended So as to Obviate Necessity of Obtaining Approval of Provincial Board of Health for Every Minor Extension of Sewer, etc.---Changes Will Affect Peterborough.

That the Ontario Government amend the existing statutes so as to obviate the necessity of passing a debenture by-law for each separate work, and embodying a number of works in one by-law. Also that debenture by-laws may be passed for the payment of the owner's portion and one for the municipality's portion of the work.

That the Public Health Act be so amended so as to relieve the municipalities from obtaining the approval of the Provincial Board of Health for every minor extension of sewers, waterworks, etc.

That the Municipal Act be so amended that the candidate having the next highest number of votes shall take the seat of a candidate elected, and who declines to act, or resigns, or dies, applicable to all municipalities instead of at present to places with over 100,000 population.

Indian Reserves.

That the Ontario Government take up the question of better organization and control of the Indian reserves in Ontario in order to protect municipalities in which they are situated and contiguous to them from abuses.

That the Government appoint a Commission at once to study and report upon the whole question of municipal legislation appertaining to town planning, housing, the abolition of slums, metropolitan areas, laying out of streets and other kindred problems, and that this information be disseminated amongst the municipalities, and that on it legislation be enacted creating a Government department having jurisdiction over all municipalities, and to whom must be submitted all of the above problems, with others that may arise.

Requests from Deputation.

Above are some of the things which a large and an influential deputation, comprising representatives of the Ontario Municipal Association, the Ontario Trades and Labour Council, the Civic Guild, the Toronto Board of Trade, the Ontario Motor League, the Toronto Housing Company, the Toronto City Council, asked Hon. W. J. Hanna to make his special care during the coming session. Replying to the deputation, Hon. Mr. Hanna said that it was not necessary for him to say very much, except that he was in the fullest accord with the idea of securing information upon all those questions, and that the Government had been endeavouring to do this for several years past. It would insure to the benefits of every municipality to have the experience of some other municipality on any particular question, as it would reveal the weak points of every proposition, theoretical at least. He promised to discuss the matter with the members of the Cabinet at the earliest possible time, and asked that a list of names be supplied by the Association, suggesting men who might be available for the position of commissioner to undertake this important work.

Four Eclipses In Present Year

WASHINGTON, D.C., Jan. 23—Four eclipses, two of the sun and two of the moon, are to take place during the present year. The first is scheduled for one month from to-morrow. It will eb an annual eclipse of the sun, invisible in North America. The only persons who will have an opportunity to view it at all will be the residents in the most southern parts of Patagonia and New Zealand, and they will see it only as a small partial eclipse.

During the second week in March there will be a partial eclipse of the moon, which will be visible in practically every part of the Untied States and Canada. In August will come a total eclipse of the sun, which will be visible as a small partial eclipse in Eastern Canada and the New England States. On September 3—4, there will be a partial eclipse of the moon, which will be visible in the far Western point of the United States and Canada.

NO BUTTER FOR BRITAIN

Special Wire to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, Jan. 23.—For the first time in sixty years, says the annual report of the Minister of Agriculture, Canada exported no butter to Great Britain. About half a million pounds was exported last year to the United States, while butter imported, almost entirely from New Zealand, amounted to over six and a half million pounds.

Fifteen Per Cent. Rotten.

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., Jan. 23.—Addressing the sixth annual meeting of the United Farmers of Alberta here, Prof. Foley, Provincial Government poultry expert, stated that 15 per cent. of all eggs marketed in Canada were rotten, owing to the carelessness of poultry raisers in marketing fertile eggs.

ACTORS TO FIGHT FOR MORE PAY

Special Wire to The Examiner:

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.— In the not far distant future Uncle Tom, Simon Legree, Marks the Lawyer and the rest of the "U. T." players may go out on strike because the bloodhounds do not belong to the union. For the actors have a union now—a full-fledged, Simon Pure protective labour organization fit to stand side by side with the latest model of International Hod-Carriers, Building and Common Labourers' Union of America or the International Association of Heat and Forst Insulators and Asbestos Workers.

The actor folk have long felt the need of a protective organization to aid them in securing higher salaries and the more regular payment thereof and better working conditions in general. An organization of vaudeville performers flourished for some years, but the Actors' Equity Association, which has just been given birth, is the first regular union formed by the so-called legitimate players.

Officers of the new organization have been duly elected and a membership campaign is in full swing. Before long it is expected that every actor in America will carry a union card in the inside pocket of his fur-collared coat. The union will have regular organizers, but they will not be known as walking delegates. Many of the actors object to the term of walking delegate because it is too suggestive.

Just to show that they knew the raison d'etre of a labour oranization the first act of the organized Thespians was to appoint a wage committee to confer with the managers. The "joint scale conference" was held to-day at the offices of the managers' association and was voted a success by all parties concerned. The committee of the Actors' Equity Association presented the players' demands and the same were respectfully taken under consideration by the managers. In case of a failure to reach a satisfactory agreement the matter may be left to the settlement of a board of arbitration composed of one actress, one manager and one press agent.

The income tax, the high cost of living and the "movies" have hit the actors hard and they must receive compensation in the way of boosted salaries. They must also be guaranteed transportation back to New York when the company hits the rocks in some one-night stand in the far west. A limit on the period of free rehearsals, elimination of extra performances without pay and an adjustment in regard to the cost of women's gowns are also included in the demands of the actors' union.

The managers must comply with the demands or face the alternative of a general strike. So says Francis Wilson, the president of the union. Mr. Wilson, by the way, has taken pains to deny that he was elected head of the organization simply because the members thought that "President Wilson" would sound good.

In his direction of the affairs of the union Mr. Wilson will be assisted by Vice-President Henry Miller and an executive council composed of Wilton Lackaye, Robert Edeson, George Arliss and Holbrook Blinn. Prominent among the members of the women's auxiliary are Ethel Barrymore, Elsie Ferguson, Inez Fiesher and Christie Macdonald.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS

Miss Constance Boulton Advances Reasons For Employing Police Women

Addressed a Large Meeting Under Auspices of Daughters of The Empire---Enthusiastic Hearing

Yesterday afternoon at three o'clock the 57th Regiment Chapter of the Daughters of the Empire held an open meeting in the recreation room of the Armouries. It was largely attended, and Miss Constance Boulton of Toronto delivered an eloquent address, which was enthusiastically received by those present.

Miss Boulton spoke on "Some Things of Interest to the Daughters of the Empire," dealing particularly with the necessity and likelihood of having a police woman in this City.

Mrs. E. B. Clegg presided at the meeting. Splendid violin selections were rendered by Miss Laura Logan, and Miss Mignon Telgmann, the two well known local violinistes.

In opening her address, the speaker called attention to the fact that it was the local Council of Women who had first made plain the necessity for public playgrounds. And in Toronto it was the Women's Council who first saw the necessity of a police woman. They brought Mrs. Alice Stebbens Wells, the first police woman appointed in the United States, to address the City Fathers, and she made such an impression on the Mayor and his Council, that two female officers have been appointed in Toronto.

In the States the advantage and advisability of having police women in the force of the city's crime preventing department was universally recognized. In Chicago nine police women had been appointed at the beginning, but since that, because of the success of the experiment, demonstrated by their splendid work a large number of sister officers had been added.

In New Westminster, B.C., when the question came up, "Who will get the position," it was taken by the president of the local Comedot Women. She accomplished gratifying results. "I think that woman a wonder," was the speaker's [illegible] to her.

In Toronto, when the city Council had turned back to the Women's Council and said, "Who is the right person for the office," the Council held "very solemn and important" meeting. For it was realized that if they apointed a woman who made a mistake, their cause might be retarded for a period of ten years.

The speaker related the instance where a Toronto pure food inspector had sold certificates concerning the products they had for sale, instead of investigating and awarding them to the proper course. This case of graft was published by the papers without comment and little notice was taken of it. But if a woman took a civic position and made a slight error, a hue and cry was raised that women were not equal to the task. "We do not dare to make a mistake," said the lecturer, all of which showed the importance of choosing the right woman for the office.

"In my opinion it is only a matter of time until every city in Canada will have police women. Some thought that the women were antagonistic to the men in this matter. That was wrong. The women wanted to co-operate and help the men, but she believed that in some cases women could be protected better by police officers of their own sex, than by policemen.

In conclusion the speaker emphasized the fact that physical strength was not what was primarily desired in a woman police officer. She must have sympathy, love of humanity, and an intense desire to uplift and encourage all who needed it.

Direct Descendant Of Napoleon Born

Special Wire to The Examiner:

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Jan. 23. — A direct descendant of Napolean Bonaparte was born today to Princess Victor Napoleon, a son. French Bonapartists are highly elated, as they have a tradition that this boy will restore them to power in France.

THINGS SIR JOHN NEVER SAW

Former Premier of Canada never dodged an automobile or never posed for a moving picture.

How time does fly. Here it is only twenty-two years since Sir John A. Macdonald passed off the scene, and yet Sir John never dodged an automobile, never heard the spluttering of a motorcycle, never held a strap in a trolley car, never posed for a moving picture, never mailed a letter regularly for less than three cents, never saw an aviator capering around in the atmosphere with a heavier than air machine, never dispatched a message by wireless, nor heard talking pictures.

Where He Obtained Knowledge.

"I don't see any sense in referring to the wisdom of Solomon," said the man smartly. "He had 1,000 wives."

"Yes," answered the woman tartly, "he learned his wisdom from them."

CANADA HAS NOTHING TO GAIN FROM THE U. S.

Special Wire to The Examiner:

ST. CATHARINES, Jan. 23.—That Canada has nothing to gain by a closer intimacy with the Republic to the south, with its abnormal murder record, its lynchings, its lax marriage law, and growing disregard for treaties, was the argument advanced here last night by Gorge M. Elliott, Assistant Secretary of the Canadian Defence League, in his address befor the Canadian Club, demanding universal military training. He advocated that all boys be compelled to serve as cadets from the ages of 18 to 21.

Urges Universal Training System

TORONTO, Jan. 22.—At the annual meeting of the Ontario Artillery Association, a resolution was carried unanamously, favouring a system of universal training for the militia. It will be forwarded to the annual meeting of the Canadian Artillery Association to be held in Ottawa the last week in February. The O.A.A. passed a similar resolution last year.

It was decided to recommend an increase in the rate of Government pay for artillery horses from $1.25 to $1.50 per day, and an increase in the valuation of horses in cases of disability during training to $250 each. The association are also asking for a Government investigation into the causes of distemper amongst the horses at Petawawa. Another recommendation is that six days' training at local battery headquarters before going to camp be provided for, with pay if the men go to camp.

Four Bandits On Michigan Central

Special Wire to The Examiner:

Jackson, Mich., Jan. 23.—Four bandits stopped the Detroit-Chicago flyer, near here today at 3.30 a.m., and going through the train with drawn revolvers, relieved the passengers and crew of thre hundrd dollars in cash and much jwellery and watches. No one offered resistance. The train was stopped by the red-light lantern and one bandit held the engineer while the others went through the train. It was the Michigan Central west-bound.

Hardships That Have To Be Borne To Give The Ladies Fine Furs

With the cold of the Canadian winter comes the desire for that warmest covering of all—furs; and the fortunate possessor of a fur-lined coat, whether it be of mink, raccoon, or muskrat, will appreciate its comfort. Dainty ladies, closely enwrapped in their costly furs, scarcely ever give a thought as to the hardships that have to be borne to meet her whims and fancies, and very likely the actual stole that she wears may have cost a human life. In fact, it is to be doubted if any of us fully realize what actual effort is expended before a fur-lined coat or stole, or a muff, is placed upon the retail market.

Red Man Pioneer.

Most of the furs worn throughout the country are obtained in the first place by the hardy and intelligent Canadian trappers. Although, of course, the Indians were the pioneers of the trapping of fur-bearing animals, the lonely trail of the red man has slowly but surely given way through years of civilization to the invasion of the white man, and the Hudson Bay Company has handled millions of dollars as the resuk of the labours of the red man.

At the present time much of the trapping is done by farmers' sons, who find it a very profitable game during the slack time of the winter months, and also by men who trap during the season and fill in the summer months by helping farmers or gathering herbs.

Best Time.

The trapping season commences during November, and extends generally to the month of April, although the best furs are those obtained during the most rigorous part of the winter. The pelts at other times are considered of second grade or inferior quality. Before the snowfall, during fine weather, location for sets are sought, that is, the best place for the setting of traps, and this is usually in swampy ground, a most fur-bearing animals are to be found in these locations.

Most Profitable.

The mink is the animal most sought after by the trapper on account of its costly fur, yet this is the most difficult to catch. It inhabits the running stream almost exclusively and its chief diet is fish. It is fish that is used to entice him and this bait is suspended by a piece of string over the trap, which for this animal is set in about two inches of water and carefully concealed by the water-soaked leaves.

The mink is a very shy and sensitive animal and can scent where a man or other animal has been even for days after they have left, and will carefully avoid the place. On this account the trapper has to exercise extreme care how he makes his sets, and has to take every possible precaution. The method is for the trapper to wade some considerable distance in the stream before he sets the traps.

The Raccoon.

There is another little animal much sought after by the industrious trapper. It makes its den in hollow trees and is often caught by placing the trap at the foot of the trunk, or by chopping the tree down and shooting it when dislodged.

Of this class, too, should be mentioned the skunk, weasel, marten, fisher, and wolverine, all of which make valuable catches for the trapper.

Hard Life.

Many may grumble at the high prices that genuine furs demand, but the life of the trapper is one of the hardest, and it may safely be said, that he earns all he gets. Many a man has started off into the wild and never returned. Illness or accident in some shape has overtaken him. If he does return it is only after terrible hardships. He has, of course, to be out in all kinds of weather, no matter if it is 30 below zero. His bait very often is stolen by the wolverine; in fact, it is no uncommon thing for this wily animal to eat the bait time and again, and then get off scot free. His sets may get snowed up, and only a regular trapper knows what this may mean. Very often he gets snowed up himself and frozen to death before he is found. Another thing he has to chance is the possibility of losing the animals, even after they are trapped, as it very often happens that an animal will eat its leg off to get clear of the trap and get away.

A little log hut, often buried in the snow, is his home during the season, usually near the scene of his operations, where the skins are stretched out on boards as soon as the animals are skinned.

His Reward

And what are his rewards for facing death in every form during those cruel months? They are of a very wide character, and the prices he obtains for the fruits of his labour vary from fifty cents for a muskrat to possibly $800 or even $1,000 for the fortunate trapper of a silver fox. Mink from $4 to $12. Fisher anything about $35, and skunks from one to four dollars.

So if the work is dangerous the reward is good, and yet, taking one month with another, the trapper perhaps will only average between $25 to $30 per week during the season, and one is forced to wonder if it is worth it.

The big fur dealers sometimes employ trappers, and always send out tags to facilitate shipping. These dealers handle hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of raw skins annually and have officers all over the world.

THAT TIRED FEELING

Suggests Grandmothers Remedy.

It's true, the season is here with its sudden changes, and the old idea that we need a blood medicine is not without reason. Too much heavy food has caused a torpid liver, sluggish blood, and a weak, tired out feeling.

Sulphur, cream of tartar and molasses was grandmother's remedy but that has long ago been displaced by Vinol, a combination of the two most world famed tonics, namely, the medicinal curative elements of the cod's liver without oil, and iron for the blood.

Vinol builds you up, makes you eat more and digest better, makes your blood rich and pure—puts healthy colour in your cheeks.

N. G. Clift of Opelika, Ala., says: "Last spring I was all run-down, no strength, no appetite. I took Vinol and was greatly benefitted by its use, as I soon felt strong and well as ever."

We guarantee Vinol to satisfy you and refund your money if it does not. McDermid & Jury, druggists, corner George and Charlotte Streets; also Payne's drug store, corner George and Simcoe Streets.

RAILWAY NOTES

At a meeting of the Niagara Frontier Summer Rate Committee, which is now in convention at Buffalo, N. Y., the retiring Chairman, Mr. W. S. Dickson, Assistant General Passenger Agent, of the Grand Trunk Railway System, was presented by the Committee with a handsome gavel.

The gavel is made from a piece of quartered oak, taken from the wood used in the Chateau Laurier, the first of the magnificent chain of hotels which are being erected across the Continent by the Grand Trunk Railway System. The silver used for the ornamentation of the gavel was secured from Cobalt, the "Eldorado" of Northern Ontario and the richest silver camp in the world. Embedded in the head of the mallet is a section of "U" rail, taken from what is probably the last piece of rail in existence that was laid on the Grand Trunk Railway in 1854. This rail was of iron and of remarkably good quality, and was made by the Ebbw Vale Company in Wales, England. The joints were known as "Chair Joints" as there were no fish plates in use at that time. The rail was laid for over 1,000 (one thousand) miles, between the years 1854 and 1857, and the quality of the metal was so good that these rails wore away very evenly, some lasting for eighteen years. The railway at that time was known as the Atlantic and St. Lawrence railroad. The case in which the gavel is placed is made out of a piece of oak from the handsome Grand Trunk Railway Central Station at Ottawa, the Capital of the Dominion.

DEBATE IN THE SENATE

PRUDENCE RECOMMENDED.

With Care Canada Can Avoid Financial Depression, Says Sir George.

OTTAWA, Jan. 23. — The leader of the Senate, Hon. Mr. Lougheed, the Government leader, and Sir George Ross, the Opposition leader, resumed the debate on the address yesterday.

On the financial situation he said he could not agree with either of those who held the skies cloudless, or that Canada was on the verge of serious financial depression. "To my mind," Sir George said, "Canada is midway between the two positions, and with care and prudence could shortly restore prosperous conditions and again march forward with giant strides."

After referring to the fact that the naval bill would not be introduced this year, Sir George said:

"Last year the Government introduced its bill with the amendment that there was an emergency, and that the safety of the Empire was imperilled. Everyone was alarmed at first, but as time went on and the discussion of the bill proceeded the emergency evaporated." In conclion he urged that the parties compromise on the question.

Hon. Mr. Lougheed, the Government leader, referring to Sir George's allusions to financial conditions, said to remove the duty on food in Canada would only reduce the customs taxation of the people by $1.25 each.

In explaining the Government's attitude in not introducing the naval aid bill this session, Mr. Lougheed said he was glad to see Sir George and his party concurred as to defence. It was up to them to make the next move, and he hoped that before the session was over there would be an intimation that the Liberal party was willing to join in some practical plan for defence.

Senators Power, Casgrain and Daniel continued the debate, the latter adjourning it until to-day.

A WONDERFUL CASE

Three Months in Hospital And Came Out Uncured.

Zam-Buk Cured Him In Few Weeks.

Mr. Fred Mason, the well known upholsterer and mattress manufacturer of St. Andrews, N.B., says:

"I had eczema on my knee, which caused me terrible pain and inconvenience. The sore parts would itch and burn and tingle, and then when rubbed or scratched, would become very painful. When the knee got warm, it burned worse, and the itching and burning and smartig were almost unbearable. I tried various remedies, but got no better, so I decided to go to Montreal and take special treatment. I received treatment at the Montreal General Hospital for thirteen weeks, but at the end of that time I was not cured, and almost gave in. A friend advised me to give Zam-Buk a trial.

"Almost as soon as applied Zam-Buk stopped the itching and the irritation. I persevered with the balm, and it was soon evident that it would do me good. Each day the pain was reduced, the sore spots began to heal, and by the time I had used a few boxes of Zam-Buk I was quite cured.

"Since then Zam-Buk has cured blood-poison in my finger, and at a time when my finger was in such a terrible condition that I feared it would have to be amputated."

For eczema, blood-poisoning, piles, ulcers, sores, abscesses, varicose ulcers, bad leg, cold sores, chapped hands cuts, burns, bruises and all skin injuries and diseases, Zam-Buk is without equal."

TWO SHOT DEAD IN OLD CHICAGO

Special Wire to The Examiner:

CHICAGO, Jan. 25. — "Bloody death corner," famous in the foreign quarter as being the scene of a score of murders and other outrages during recent years, was brought into prominence this morning, when two Sicilians, stated to be leaders of the Mafia, were shot to death on the spot by persons unknown. Both were wealthy, and twenty-five arrests have been made.

DEATH OF WELL KNOWN MINISTER

The death occurred in Toronto yesterday of Rev. T. W. Jolliffe, brother-in-law of Mr. A. E. Dixon, barrister, Peterborough, a Methodist minister who was well known throughout Ontario. The late Mr. Jolliffe served the Church in Toronto, Kingston, Peterborough, London, Brantford, Brampton, Port Colborne, Campbellford, Cannington, and other places. He spent six years in Toronto at St. Paul's and Euclid Avenue Churches prior to being transferred twenty-three years ago to the Bay of Quinte conference of which he became President. Ten years ago he was superannuated owing to failing health and since then he had lived in Bowmanville. At the time of his death he was President of the Canadian Club, President of the Library Board, High School Trustee and member of the Hospital Board in that town, and was a Past Grand Master of the Independent Order of Oddfellows.

Mr. Jolliffe was born in Stratton, Cornwall, England, seventy-two years ago and is survived by a widow, two sons, Professor R.O.Jolliffe, Wesley College, Winnipeg; Reginald, who is attending Victoria University, Toronto, and two daughters, Mrs. A. C. Denike, Havelock, and Miss Margaret Jolliffe, Bowmanville. The funeral will take place from the residence of his brother-in-law, Mr. T. A. Manning, 17 Alvin Avenue, Toronto, at 2 o'clock on Monday, to the Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

Mrs. A. E. Dixon of this city will attend the funeral.

TO BE WELL DRESSED

There is no denying the stimulating effect of knowing you are "well dressed," writes Lilian Russell. You hold your head up and walk down the avenue in the consciousness that you look well, and you are glad to meet any of your friends. But if you have on a "seen better days" frock, and your hair shows lack of care, your course is apt to be along the less frequented thoroughfares, and when an acquaintance is sighted you dart into the nearest shop to escape him.

A COMMON MISTAKE.

A common mistake among women in the matter of dress is to dress to suit fashion, not to suit herself. It seems such a pity when a woman who should look like a picture only succeeds in reminding one of a fashion plate. That is where the French are so far beyond us. They seem to make a study of the psychology of dress. I was talking to a Frenchman on one of the famous Parisian magazines this summer and he observed that Americans "fail in details." The tout ensemble looks perfect until we dissect it, and then so often, he declared, "we find a little flaw: perhaps the finger nails or the veil with a tiny hole."

I must confess my French critic did not take an altogether exaggerated view about us. I was sitting on a fashionable promenade not long ago, and while watching the smart crowds pass by I looked for flaws. Why does a woman in filmy gown wear boots which might be ideal for a country walk, but which ruin her whole appearance when clothed in ethereal voile?

Her gloves are often not quite fresh, and the flower at her corsage has seen better days, and the hole in her veil does most undeniably give a most bedraggled appearance.

Every woman should seriously study her points. The woman who succeeds in striking the happy medium and who can be fashionably yet suitably attired to suit her own personality has, indeed, learned an important art—an art closely affiliated with the art of keeping young and happy.

Just a word of warning right here to that class of women whose dress is chosen with a view to giving the impression that she is but half her actual age. Nothing is more pitiable or more ridiculous than to see a mature woman aping the modes and manners of the debutante. Every age brings its charm, and artifices will not deceive beyond a certain point.

Old Prospector Dies Suddenly

The appended item refers to a brother of Mr. William Lough, postmaster of Ida, Post Office, Cavan, who left here forty years ago, and from whom no word had been received for years. Through a letter found in his pocket, written fifteen years ago by his brother, William, of Cavan, the information of his death was forwarded:

WHITEHORSE, Jan. 6.—A death took place with tragic suddenness at the public hospital last Friday afternoon, December 19th. An old prospector by the name of George Lough who had been around town for a short period had not been feeling well for some time and went to the hospital, and thirty minutes from the time he entered he had breathed his last.

Very little is known about the deceased man. He came to Whitehorse from the outside last month and rented a cabin from Hugo Snider, the shoemaker, on November 13th. Since then he has been engaged trapping and hunting in the vicinity of Whitehorse. It was his intention to remain here until the spring and then go through the Chisana country. It appears that at one time he assisted in the building of a bridge at or near Valerie mine, hence he must have been in the country previously. He was of a quiet and unassuming nature, and like the average old-timer was very silent regarding his friends or private affairs.

He had been complaining for some time. No one thought that his end was so near. Heart disease is said to have been the cause of his death. He was a man a little over 60 years of age and carried his years well. The police took charge of his funeral arrangements and he was buried Tuesday afternoon, the Rev. W. G. Blackwell, of the Episcopal Church conducted the service.

Great Battle Between The Test Department And Tool Room In Mercantile League

LAST NIGHT'S GAMES.

De Laval—5. Examiner—1.
Tool Room—1. Test Dept.—1.
Plumbers—2. Bankers—5.

Three Mercantile League fixtures were played off at the Brock Street Rink, and were seen by a large number of spectators. The result of the games left the Bankers on top of the series, having won both the games they have played.

The first game last night was fought out by the Examiner seven and the De Laval team. It resulted in a win for the dairy machine group by the score of 5 to 1.

The first half opened with a see-saw battle, in which both goal-keepers handled a few long shots. Then in a rush the length of the ice Spratt beat Cook for the first counter of the game before the players had really warmed to the battle. Manager Russell's hopes, however, were not long in evening it up. Lees took the puck the full length of the ice in a nice rush. He passed from the corner in front of the goal, and Armstrong scored from a scrimmage.

Denne, the net guardian for the factory brigade, stopped a few slow ones, and Cook handled several hot drives in the next few minutes. P. Spratt broke the chain a second time by scoring from close in, after a sensational rush.

Then it was the newspaper men who had the inspiration of pepering the nets for a short time, but they could not hold the rival outfit in the north zone and the latter scored again before the gong boomed out for the rest. Score 3 to 1.

In the second half the net guardian for the red and white agregation did a step-dance in front of the nets on several occasions. He stopped shots with his hands and pads, and blocked them with his stick and body, but all his efforts could not prevent Spratt adding two to the score of the attacking seven. The Examiner men were sent on repeated excursions to the penalty box for minor offences, which accounts, in a measure, for the 2—0 score in the second half. The final score was 5—1.

Cook and Manion showed some good stuff for the Examiner, as did Lees and Heard, occasionally.

For the De Laval seven Spratt was the whole team. But, granting that, it is surprising how much less he really is than he claims to be. Although a "has-been" in O. H. A. circles, he played an effective game last night, but the joke is that before the game started he boosted that he would score four goals in each half, whereas he only scored four in the whole game. If he bought a new hat yesterday it should come down over his ears to-morrow.

The teams were:

Examiner		De Laval
Cook	Goal	Denne
Swanston	Left Defence	Reuter
Clancy	Right Defence	Spratt
Lees	Rover	Todd
Armstrong	Centre.	Byers
Manion	Right Wing	Hill
Heard	Left Wing	Patterson

Referee—L. Dobson.

Second Game.

Perhaps the fastest Mercantile League fixture since the League's inception was the game between the Test Dept. and Tool Room of the C. G. E. The game was "hockey" all the way. Both sevens can be given credit for speed, team play, and the "old pepper" that makes the game fast from start to finish. It was a battle royal and resulted in a draw—1 to 1.

The Tool Room must be given credit for their combination rushes, their checking back, and good defence work. They played a strong game and deserved all thy got. But the fact remains that Cassidy was the gentleman that put his shoulder to the wheel that held the prop under the game. His net guarding last night was of the real classy brand.

That is not takng any of the flavour away from the two splendid rushes Dwyer blocked, either. But the old reliable custodian did not put in the busy forty minutes that fell to the lot of Cassidy, who made about as good a showing last night as he has since his entrance into the game.

Primeau, Kelly and Barrie had the Test defence working overtime, and played splendidly together. Had their shots been a little quicker, Dwyer might have been the busy bee of the evening.

But the whole Test team put up a consistent game. They checked back and rushed fiercely, and penetrated the Garnet and Grey defence often. The defence and forward line worked well together, and it is a credit to the gameness of the Tool Room seven that they only notched one counter.

The Tool Room's only goal was notched in the first half by Barrie, from close in. The Test took their's in the second period.

The teams were:

Tool Room.		Test Room.
Dwyer	Goal	Cassidy
McKean	Left Defence	McGrath
Brackenreed	Right Defence	Kelly
McDougal	Rover	Robson
Carter	Centre.	Hilliard
Bullen	Right Wing	Primeau
Munro	Left Wing	Barrie

Referee—L. Dobson.

Third Game.

The third game was a lively battle between the Bankers and Plumbers. The Money Men opened strong, and before the Plumbers had adjusted their joints they found themselves in hot water, the Bankers having beat Dunford for one goal.

After the first goal had been scored the battle showed every sign of being an interesting one. Corkery, Minorgan and Paton would coax the rubber to the north side, while Millette, Helson and Reynolds would take it and give it a jaunt to the south, and thus the game continued until Reynolds, in a lightning rush from in front of his own nets, fooled the whole seven of his oppnents and beat McCrimmon. Score 1 to 1.

The Plumbers annexed another in the first half.

In the second period the Bankers, as in the first half, had a good deal more than fifty per cent. of the play. They peppered Dunford time and time again and before the final gong had had sounded they had scored four goals. Their shots in this half were bored right at the nets, and as they played seven men against six of the plumbers it was only natural for them to hold the blue and white goal getters scoreless. The final score was 5 to 2, in favour of the Bankers.

The teams were:

Bankers		Plumbers
McCrimmon	Goal.	Dunsford
Brown	Right Defence.	Reynolds
Phelan	Left Defence.	Millette
McCrosity	Hover.	Dobson
Minorgan	Centre	Helson
Paton	Left wing.	Grange
Corkery	Right Wing.	Clarke

CITY LEAGUE GAMES WILL BE FAST

Best Games Up to Present Should Be Seen Next Wednesday Night

The Junior City Hockey League games of next week should attract many of the fans who have not yet seen the youngsters in action. The Y. M. C. A. vs. Boston Exploits' game is bound to be some struggle. These teams are tied for first place and a win will give either of them a decided advantage for final honours. Manager Flowers of the "Y" will put out his best team and expects to beat the Bostons. Mr. Gettas of the Bostons says there is nothing to it but the Exploits, and there you are. While these two teams are battling for the top, the Wanderers and Alerts will endeavour to keep out of the cellar. The City League teams have shown much improvement in their recent games and the loveso of the game will not be disappointed with the games.

CUP RETURNED TO MR. C. G. GRAHAM

Mr. C. G. Graham has received the City League Championship Cup from Lakefield, where it has been gathering dust for two years. It will be placed on exhibition in one of the local windows this week, and it is expected that the medals presented by Mr. E. A. Peck to the team that tops the League, will be received in a short time.

Wanted Some Hints.

A gentleman from town, who was staying in a country village, volunteered to give a lecture on "Burns" to the members of the local Mutual Improvement Society.

Before a good audience he was warming to his subject and was giving "The Cotter's Saturday Night!" in splendid style, when an interruption came from a working man standing at the back of the hall.

"What is it, my man?" asked the lecturer, breaking off.

"I was wonderin' when you was goin' to give us a few 'ints.'"

"Hints?" queried the puzzled lecturer.

"Yes, 'ints," growled the man at the back. "I paid threepence to come in, 'cos you was supposed to know all about burns, and there you stand saying poetry like a parrot, while my missus, who's upset a saucepan o' hikin' water over 'er foot, is waitin' to 'ear whether she's best anuce it with oil or shake the flour-dredger over it."

Uncle Rebus Back To Town

Well, I declare, here we are again in old Peterborough, back to the scene of our early days; days that were the happiest of our life, by long odds.

Thirty years are along stretch to look ahead, but it just seems like yesterday since we left this burg to go to live with our son Tom, away over there in Arkansas. Will you ever forget, Polly, the homesick feeling when we landed in Tom's town? Things were so different to Peterborough. Behind us we had left all our friends. Yes, and a new made grave in the cemetery,—poor little Emily—and before us a land of strangers.

Ah, yes, must not forget Tom, Rebus, he was always a good boy to his father and mother.

Yes, that's so, Polly, no better boy ever lived than Tom. Poor Tom, if only he had lived a few years longer to see us safely laid away. Do you know, Polly, I feel our time—at least mine—will not be long.

Ah, don't talk about it, Rebus. What makes you so sad to-night?

I don't know exactly, Polly, but all the way back on the train, I kept thinking of what might have been,—yes, what might—have—been.

Never worry about that now, Rebus, just think of all the good things that are going to happen. All our friends are not dead yet, and I am sure we will find a few new ones, right here in Peterborough, or I'm greatly mistaken.

Yes, that's so, Polly, you always make friends wherever you go, but I'm a little different. I dont know, really, what I'd a'done if I hadn't got you.

There you are again, trying to figure out what might have been. Of course, Rebus, it is all right to dwell on that subject. That's right I don't know what would have become of you if you had married a sour old creature, like Tullivers wife. You'd a' been dead long ago, that's all.

Well, I guess you're right, Polly, you usually are.

Thanks, Rebus, I appreciate that remark.

Well, you deserve it, Polly, for if it hadn't been for your good humour, encouraging me all the time, I'm afraid I'd a' been down and out long ago.

Let's change the subject, Rebus. Where were you when you were down town to-day?

Oh, I just took in a few of the sights. I tell you what, this old town has grown some. You'd scarcely know it, Polly. Some day when you get rested enough we'll take a walk around and see what a wonderful change has been made.

One man I met told me the south end had sprung up like a mushroom.

Well, I'm agreed, we'll go out to-mor— there's the front door bell; you go, Rebus.

Hello, Uncle Rebus!

Well, my little man; but how did you know my name?

Aw, that's easy. I asked the lady next door.

I declare, but you're a smart one. Now what can I do for you?

Buy a paper, to be sure.

A paper?

Yes, a paper.

What paper?

Why, the best paper in town.

What's that?

Why, the Examiner, to be sure.

How much is it?

Two cents.

I say, Polly, have you got two cents?

Yes, indeed I have, and twice two cents—anything to keep you from thinking about your troubles.

Thanks little man, be sure you call to-morrow night.

BASEBALL

At the new home of the New York Yankees the outfield fence will be so far from the home plate that it will be impossible to bat the ball out of the park.

Doc Watson, a southpaw twirler, who was tried out by the Chicago Cubs last fall, has been released to the Milwaukee club.

Nick Young, former president of the National League and a prominent figure in baseball for forty years, is reported to be seriously ill at his home in Washington.

Dave Altizer has decided to cast his lot with the Federals. As Davey was once a private in Uncle Sam's army he is sweet on any kind of an old war.

The addition of Toronto and Erie to the Canadian League circuit will place that organization in Class B. The total population of the league circuit as now formed is close to 900,000.

C. J. Miles, of Hastings, Neb., succeeds A. C. Felt as president of the Nebraska State League. The Nebraska circuit comprises Kearney, Hastings, Grand Island, Beatrice, York, Superior, Fremont and Columbus.

Well, of all things! John Powers, former president of the Federal League, says he is forming an organization to fight the Federals and will have teams in Providence, Brooklyn, Wilmington, Scranton, Detroit, Cleveland, Boston and Milwaukee.

Felt Quite Safe on the Wing.

In spite of his well-known poor marksmanship, a certain Englishman was invited to the country for a day's shooting. The attendant in great disgust witnessed miss after miss.

"Dear me," at last exclaimed the sportsman, "but the birds seem exceptionally strong on the wing this year!"

"Not all of 'em, sir," came the remark. "You've shot at the same bird this last dozen times. 'E's following you about, sir."

"Following me about? Nonsense. Why should a bird do that?"

"I dunno, sir, I'm sure," replied the man, "unless 'e's 'anging round for safety."

A LETTER TO THE RATEPAYERS

We ploughmen want them to understand we have from 6 o'clock till 9 to plough the walks, not from 3 till 6.

And moreover it is a snow ploughing contract, not a shovelling contract. When the law compels each one to shovel in front of their own lot we will see how early the kickers will be out. Do you know it takes about five hours to go over some of the beats?

Don't think because a snow plough has two wings it is a flying machine.

If we had a few of the street lights that are going to waste on George Street on the dark ones we might get out earlier. Not a light for over three or four blocks. Then you see a 32 candle-power light up in a tree—poor old Peterborough. If there are two or three ploughmen a little late and slow, don't place them all in a row for the ring of some bell's can be heard at 6 o'clock in the morning. Thanks for your space.

OBITUARY

EVA ETHEL GREGORY.

The death occurred yesterday afternoon about five o'clock of Eva Ethel Gregory, the four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Gregory, 389 Smith Street, City.

The bereaved parents will have the sincerest sympathy of their many friends.

The funeral was held this afternoon, at 3 o'clock, to the Little Lake cemetery.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Mrs. Harry O'Brien and little daughter of Ottawa, are visiting Mrs. R. M. Glover, Margaret Avenue.

Mr. A. Mowat, Inspector of Public Schools, is confined to his home with a threatened attack of appendicitis.

Mr. A. Mowat, Public School Inspector, is confined to his home with a threatened attack of appendicitis.

Miss Viola George of Port Hope is spending a few days in the City the guest of Mrs. W. S. Rose, 285 Rubidge Street.

Mrs. W. McMillan left to-day for Oshawa, Ont., being called there suddenly on account of the serious illness of her sister, Mrs. D. J. Clotworthy.

Professor Skelton of Queen's University, who lectures to-night at the Collegiate Institute, will be, while in the City, the guest of School Inspector R. Lees, 514 Gilmour Street.

Mr. Pat Heaney underwent a successful operation in Peterborough hospital on Tuesday, and at last report was making favourable progress. The operation was performed by Dr. Galvin, assisted by Dr. O'Sullivan.—Campbellford News.

Miss Janet Dunnett, who has been in charge of Elliot's millinery department, leaves Monday for New York. The many friends she has won in Peterborough regret her departure, but join in wishing her every success. In her business and social associations she enjoyed a wide popularity.

Mrs. P. Downham left Tuesday afternoon on the 4.30 C. P. R. train, via Rosedale, Toronto, to spend a few days with friends and to await the arrival of Mrs. (Dr.) Morgan, Peterborough, who intends joining Mrs. Downham on an extended trip south. Houston, Texas, will be Mrs. Downham's destination and, in all probability she will visit the Panama. Mrs. Downham expects to be away for about three or four months. Mrs. Donnham needs a perfect rest, for the last three years have been very strenuous for her.

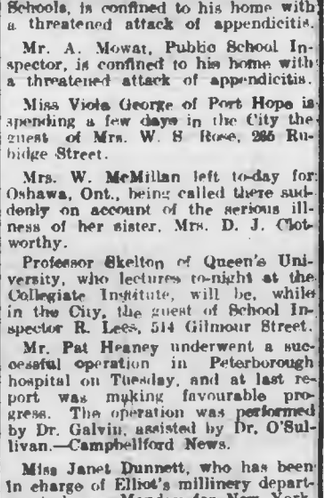
Little Eric had dropped a basket containing some eggs on his way home from the grocery.

"How many did you break?" asked the mother.

"I didn't break any," replied Eric, "but the hulls came off two or three."

EXAMINER PATTERN SERVICE

DAILY FASHION HINT.



Lady's Corset Cover.

This one piece corset cover is especially desirable for flouncing and is suitable for stout ladies. Its construction is quite simple, as there is no seam at the back and the garment closes at the front through a box plait.

The pattern, No. 4,091, is cut in sizes 32 to 46 inches bust measure. Size 38 requires 1¾ yards of 17 inch flouncing, 1⅝ yards of edging, 1¼ yards of beading and 3½ yards of ribbon.

The above pattern can be obtained by sending 10 cents to the office of this paper.

CONNECTING UP RURAL TELEPHONES

Farmers' System Around Lindsay Linked to the Bell Co.

LINDSAY, Jan. 22.—The County of Victoria is being rapidly connected up by a network of telephone lines, and in the near future there will be very few farmers' houses but will have a 'phone installed.

Thanks to the commendable spirit shown by the Bell Telephone Co. rural lines are given an opportunity to hitch up with the company. On Wednesday Mr. J. S. Knapman, district contract agent for the Bell Telephone Co., was in Fenelon Township, and made satisfactory arrangements with a rural company, whereby their line comes in on the switchboard at the Bell Co.'s central office at Fenelon Falls, having interchange with their subscribers. To-day a meeting of the Woodville-Glen Telephone Co. is being held, when satisfactory arrangements will be entered into with the Bell Co., which will mean improved service.

The East Woodville Telephone Co. is also being formed to connect with the Bell Telephone Agency at Woodville.

CHURCH LEAGUE OPENS TO-NIGHT

The City Church League hockey captains will note the following dates of scheduled games:

St. Paul's vs. Murray Street, Jan. 23, from 7 till 8.

Y.M.C.A. vs. George Street, Jan. 23, from 10 till 11.

St. Andrew's vs St. Paul's, Jan. 29, from 7 till 8.

Murray Street vs. Knox, Jan. 29, from 10 till 11.

Y.M.C.A. vs. All Saints', Jan 30, from 7 till 8

OMEMEE SAYS IT WAS 50 BELOW

OMEMEE, Jan. 22.—The cold snap of last week was very severe, the temperature at Mr. R. Cornwall's residence on the elevation a little above Crawford's Hill, registered 42 degrees below zero on Tuesday morning, while on the lower area of the east ward the mercury reached 50 degrees below. In a residence pails of water sitting close up to a burning coal range, with a hot-water reservoir, had their layers of ice on them. A little girl, who had about half a mile to walk to school, was overcome with the exertion of rapid motion to keep from freezing, and collapsed. House plants and vegetables in cellars suffered. We beat White River a lap in frigidity.

REV. T. J. MANSELL GOES TO LAKEFIELD

The Lakefield Baptist Church is fortunate for next Lord's Day, Jan. 25th. The morning service will be conducted by Rev. T. J. Mansell, pastor of Charlotte Street Methodist Church, Peterborough. Mr. Mansell, a long time acquaintance of the pastor's family, stands high among his own brethren, having ministered for many years to leading Methodist Churches.—Lakefield News.

NEW ISSUE OF NOTES

The new issue of note certificates by the C.P.R., from which it purposes raising $42,000,000, draws attention to the wide diffusion of the stock of the company—a diffusion which has given it the remarkable stability it discloses and which at the same time guards it from predatory attack by reckless speculators or unscrupulous syndicates.

The C.P.R., in fact, is the third in 100 companies in point of numbers of its stockholders, Pennsylvania and Telephone head the list. The number grows every year. For instance, in 1908 the number was 41,300, whereas this year it was 48,000. The Atchison has 12,000 fewer stockholders than the C. P. R.

There is probably not a country in the civilised world in which the stockholders of the C.P.R. are not found. In India, the Hindu merchant has shares of C.P.R.; in China, Japan, even Persia, the fame of the company has spread; and thirty people have put their surplus money into C.P.R. stock.

The C.P.R. stockholders are found in the South American republics. The latter are not always fighting. They take time to study the markets and have a shy at C.P.R. Even in Mexico, which is topsy turvydom at present, there are many shareholders of the company.

The record shows that: Atchison has 34,451 shareholders; C.P.R., 48,111; Central of New Jersey, 790; C. B. & Q., 355; C. S. P. M. and O. M., 1,123; Delaware and Hudson, 6,513; Kansas City Southern, 2,473; Louisville and Nashville, 4,439; Missouri Pacific, 5,039; C. R. I. & P. railway, 486; Rock Island Co., 4,158; Pere Marquette, 1,662; Southern Railway, 11,389; Texas and Pacific, 1,244. Altogether, these aggregate properties have 134,000 owners at present, with aggregate share capitalisation of $1,404,000,000. Each holder has an average of 129.6 shares. The increase all over the properties during the year was 15,123 stockholders. Three of the companies made additions to share capitalization during the year. Atchison, by the conversion of bonds, had $21,000,000 more stock outstanding on June 30 this year than on the same date last year. The C. P. R. added nearly $20,000,000 to the amount of publicly owned stock, but by direct issue of its own shares.

REV. FATHER FITZPATRICK ASSISTED IN K. C. WORK

Orillia Council No. 1428, Knights of Columbus, held an exemplification of the three degrees in Orillia on Wednesday of last week. There were about 200 Knights in attendance, of whom 140 were visitors from Barrie, Penetanguishene, Midland, Bracebridge, Lindsay, Belleville, Hamilton, Toronto and other points.

The proceedings were opened with a solemn high mass in the church of the Angels Guardian at 9 o'clock on Wednesday morning, at which the Rev. Father Fitzpatrick, of Enniscore, preached an eloquent sermon. Following this the degrees were exemplified in the parish hall under the church. The first degree was exemplified by Orillia Council degree team; the second by the Hamilton Council team, assisted by the Rev. Father Fitzpatrick, of Enniscore, and the third degree by District Deputy E. J. Butler, of Belleville and team. A feature of the gathering was the initiation of a class of thirty-five candidates.

In the evening a successful and enjoyable banquet was held in the Orillia Council's lodge rooms.—Orillia Packet

Stock Markets

A. H. Stratton & Co., brokers, report fluctuations in New York stocks to-day as follows:

The stock market is being bought more and more by the public, and with considerable vigour, that is surprising the professional element that has lately been fighting the improvement. Investigations indicate that the longer part of the speculative interest is from the west, while the investment buying is mostly from the east. The standard sales are mostly in favour with the speculators, but specialties are being made attractive and are getting a following where earning power is shown to be good.

A good, active market is expected for some time to come. Inquiries indicate that the following stocks are being fought on account of returns and earning power, U.P. which returns more than 6 p.c., S.P. more than 6 p.c., G.Q. more than 5 p.c., N. P. over 6 pc., Atcheson about 6 p.c. and N.W. 5 3-4 p.c. The low rates are forcing money in the stock for speculatio nand investment. I.C., G.N.O., Erie, Gas., General Electric issues and Rz., A.F.; also D.K. are being bought for pool up, and may be advanced further. C.P.R. looks a good buy at present prices, as do R.I. and Erie

Anniversary Of The Birth Of Robert Burns, Scotland's Immortal Peasant Poet

Was Born in a "Clay Biggin'" One Hundred and Fifty-five Years Ago To-morrow---The Peterborough Scots Will Celebrate the Occasion---Local Caledonian Club Upon "Homely Fare" Will Dine.

BORN 1759—DIED 1796.

Robert Burns, Scotland's immortal peasant poet, was born on 25th January, 1759, in a "clay biggin'"—which has withstood the elements of a past full century and a half, through the love of a kindly and respectful Scottish people for its preservation—about two miles south of "Auld Ayr, wham ne'er a toon surpasses
For honest men and bonnie lassies."

The cottage, with the old-fashioned thatched roof, and intact, stands not far from "Alloway's auld haunted kirk," on the banks of the Doon—rendered immortal by the bard's verses, "Ye Banks and Braes."

The date of the poet's birth has been quaintly recorded thus:

"Our monarch's hindmost year but one
Was five-and-twenty days begun,
'Twas then a blas o' Janwar' win'
Blew hansel in on Robin."

The "Janwar' win'" never ceased long at a time to blow on him; and though he gamely and manfully tried to "Snap his fingers puir and hearty Before its face," in the long run it became too chill for him, and he entered his last rest on 21st July, 1796, in Dumfries, in his thirty-eighth year. He was buried with full miltary honours in St. Michael's Kirkyard, Dumfries. But though dead, he lives in the hearts of Scotsmen, with his immortal works.

The anniversary of the birth of Robert Burns falls on Sunday first, and in Canada, as in other parts of the world where Scots and their kin foregather—and in what part of the globe do they not?—the memory of the bard will be freshened in celebration by the various Burns Clubs and other Scottish organizations on Friday and Monday evenings.

As it was the wont of the epic poet of Scotland to insert some personal touch between his books, we may turn to his epistles and lesser poems to learn something of this high-strung nature which could become the soul of tenderness over the trampled daisy or the homeless mouse or lash with stinging thong the hypocrite, the crawler, and the quack. To learn of the man, we first turn to the vision when the weary thrasher, spent with his day's toil, sits at his fireside:

There, lanely by the ingle cheek,
I sat, an' e'ed the spewing reek
That filled, wi' hoast-provoking smeek,
The auld, clay biggin';
An' heard the restless rattons squeak
About the riggin'.
This was he
Who to the illustrious of his native land
So properly did look for patronage.

This was he whose inmost soul was waiting to outpour itself in gratitude as it did to the shade of his noble benefactor, Glencairn:

Thou found'st me like the morning sun
That melts the logs in limpid air,
The friendless bard and rustic song
Became alike thy fostering care.
The mother may forget the child
That smiles sae sweetly on her knee;
But I'll remember thee, Glencairn,
And a' that thou hast done for me.

And what does he win from the land that will live for ever with his music?

He writes to Dr. Blacklock, Ellisland, on 21st October, 1789:

But what d'ye think, my trusty fier:
I'm turned a ganger—Peace be here!
Parnassian queans, I fear, I fear,
Ye'll now disdain me!
And then my fifty pounds a year
Will little gain me.

And in the same letter he declares that

Wha does the utmost that he can,
Will whyles do mair.

The throbbings of his heart awake, immediately, answering pulsations in our own. Thus the whole essence of a hundred love stories has been condensed by Burns into the four simple lines of "Ae Fond Kiss":

"Had we never loved sae kindly,
Had we never loved sae blindly,
Had we never loved sae blindly,
Never met, or never parted,
We had ne'er been broken-hearted."

Or, when have the joys of friendship ever been more truly expressed than in the exquisite lines of "Auld Lang Syne"?

To the hour of his early death the poet retained the happy faculty of abstracting "something of a tune," and composing thereto some lyric expressions of passion, such as the patriotic fire of "Scots wha hae."

Lay the proud usurpers low!
Tyrants fall in every foe!
Liberty's in every blow!
Let us do or die!

Or the anguished regret with which he recalls his "Highland Mary"?

Wi' mony a vow and lock'd embrace,
Our parting was fu' tender;
And, pledging aft to meet again,
We tore ourse'e asunder;
But oh! fell Death's untimely frost
That nips my flower sae early!
Now green's the sod, and cauld's the clay
That wraps my Highland Mary.

And, again, that gem of verse—"To Mary in Heaven":

That sacred hour, can I forget?
Can I forget the hallowed grove,
When, by the winding Ayr, we met
To live one day of parting love?
Still o'er those scenes my mem'ry wakes,
And fondly broods with miser care!
Time but the impression stronger makes,
As streams their channels deeper wear.

The anniversary will be celebrated in the usual fashion by the Peterborough Scots, under the auspices of the Caledonian Club, on Monday evening, when a supper will be the order of the occasion in Coleman's Parlours.

A varied and interesting programme has been drawn up, with an oration to the "Immortal Memory." The "chieftain o' the puddin' race" will appear on the menu, as well as other "hamely fare we dine." A memorable night is anticipated.

SCREAMED WITH PAIN OF SCALDED LEG

And Foot. In Bad State. Inflamed and Festered. Could Not Sleep. Completely Cured by Cuticura Ointment in Short Time.

Middle La Have, N. S.—"My sister scalded her leg and foot very badly with a pan of boiling water. She suffered very much and her leg was in a bad state. The skin was red and inflamed and it festered. She suffered dreadful pain. She scalded it in the evening and could not sleep that night and could not bear to have anything near it.

"We tried ——— and ——— and then some ———but everything seemed to make it worse and she just screamed for pain. I told my mother about Cuticura Ointment and we got a box immediately and bandaged up her foot and leg. Two applications made quite a difference and we kept on using it and in a short time her leg and foot were completely cured." (Signed) Miss L. Parks, May 17, 1913.

TO REMOVE DANDRUFF

Prevent dry, thin and falling hair, allay itching and irritation, and promote the growth and beauty of the hair, frequent shampoos with Cuticura Soap, assisted by occasional dressings with Cuticura Ointment, are usually effective when other methods fail. Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere. A single set is often sufficient. For a liberal free sample of each, with 32-p. book, send post-card to Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Dept. D, Boston, U. S. A.

TIRED OUT KIDNEYS

Kidney troubles are so frightfully common because the kidneys are so easily upset by overwork or excesses of eating and drinking. Cure is effected not by whipping them on to renewed effort, but by awakening the action of liver and bowels by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. This rests the kidneys and makes them well. Backache and urinary disorders then disappear.

TWO WERE BURIED IN ONE COFFIN

PATTERSON, La., Jan. 24.—A shaft that would do credit to the memory of a soldier of renown is soon to be erected by the citizens of this place over the grave of Eli Bergeren, a poor wood-chopper. The memorial is to commemorate Bergeren's heroic act in deliberately sacrificing his own life in an effort to save that of his four-year-old daughter. The child, in its play, had wandered out of the yard and on to the railroad track, near the house. As the New Orleans Limited was rushing through the town, the father saw his baby sitting between the rails, playing gleefully with the shells that formed th ballast of the road bed. He saw that there was no chance for him to grab the child and get out of the way, so he jumped ahead of the crushing engine and almost succeeded in hurling the little one clear. The cylinder head, however, struck and killed the child as the pilot hurled the father, mangled and lifeless, fifty feet away. Father and child were buried in the same coffin.

"Onlookers" Satirical View Of Proceedings At Policewoman Confab

If a mere man who strayed into the Clerk's Office last Saturday may be permitted to speak—are not the members of the Women's Council somewhat unkind in their criticisms of the Police Commissioners. Wise men ought not to be hectored anyway by such petty grievances as those adduced — whatever are the women thinking of? Even suppose two or three score of boys and girls come to grief annually what then? They'll keep it quiet enough! The people most concerned never thing of dragging those nasty skeletons out of closets and rattling the unsightly bones before official eyes! If the banks are protected and indecencies carefully hidden what more do sensible people want?

Onlooker was touched to the marrow at the words of the Magistrate so logically answering the disagreeable accumulation of facts raked up by the deputation. He pointed out that sin entered in at the beginning—one felt that his presence at the Creation would have prevented that! He was emphatically of the opinion that therefore this sin would continue to the end. Then let sensible women quietly accept it and bear it with fortitude! Let girls be warned by mothers, pulpits and teachers ineffectual though these methods seemed. With unanswerable logic he challenged the deputation in ringing tones enquiring if they were sufficiently in earnest to contribute to the erection of a nice new Rescue Home. With characteristic generosity he eloquently urged the ladies to contribute funds to build a commodious, perfectly equipped Rescue Home, equal to the accommodation of a large number of future occupants and in charge of a gentle, loving, motherly matron—preferably from the Salvation Army, who would love and pity these poor girls and bind up their broken lives with the balm of sympathy. This he urged with tender solicitude. What a comfort to the Mothers of Peterborough to be thus assured that when their daughters, through shame, drop out of the ordinary activities of life such an asylum as that glowingly pictured by the Magistrate will be provided. Truly "Kind hearts are more than Coronets And simple faith than Norman Blood."

With men like that planning for the public good, why need these women go fussing around annoying them?

Then the S. A. Adjutant, who apparently acted as a friend in need to the harassed commissioners, was warmly welcomed by the chairman. For a while the atmosphere became surcharged with beautiful assurances of brotherly love—the window had to be opened! Excessive ses were the expressions of affection and admiration on the part of the Police Commissioners for him, the Adjutant tried to seem humble and succeeded fairly well; assuring all present that he was thoroughly disinterested but was opposed to a police woman because of certain convictions that fortified him against all allurements or conceivable dangers. Yet in the face of this splendid average and fine adherence to principle so convincingly re-iterated, Onlooker heard a guarded "Methinks he protested too much" from a member of the delegation! She must sure have been a militant poor body!

Everyone stopped breathing when the chairman, the judge, rose to speak. He, too, like the Adjutant, had convictions and would be as heroically true to them as the former speaker in spite of all the signatures in Peterborough to this petition, or endorsations of public bodies either! The gallant blow with which he almost felled the table, was as convincing and impressive as the Adjutants ardent protestations. Some of the ladies perceptibly paled!

Doubtless, being a judge, he had not permitted himself to come to any decision on the matter (noblesse oblige) until after the case had been laid before him by the deputation. Apparently he reached certain conclusions almost immediately. These conclusions were reduced to convictions with a rapidity possible only to a very great mind; a mind too colossal to be moved by all the signatures in Peterborough. The thought of a police-woman was distasteful to His Honour; she would be a sort of a fifth wheel to the civic chariot, now rolling along so comfortably on four; with his customary directness and Washingtonian truthfulness he spoke out even at the risk of wrecking the hopes of the array of loveliness he had so gallantly welcomed into the Presence on their entrance. That this utterance might be robbed of its stern and almost harsh sincerity, the Judge, with that tact and polish which is his chiefest charm, diverted the minds of the now despairing ladies by returning to the subject of the Salvation Army and hinted dimly that a solution of this vexed question might eventually be reached through that channel. Not an eye remained dry as he told in touching accents of how his Christmas joys had been accentuated by receiving a Christmas card from former Adjutant Merritt. Is it not worthy of note that in this utilitarian age, so great a gentleman should feel so exquisite a gratification through the remembrance of a humble friend. It was one of those touches of nature which make the whole world kin; and transformed the prosaic room into a place of almost unearthly beauty. Undoubtedly the ladies must have felt then, as Onlooker did, that after all there are compensations even for the lack of a police woman.

The Chief, too, was there urbane and unruffled. A fine, commanding figure is our Chief, and doubly so on the rare occasion on which he decorates our town in uniform. One, too, who bears the arduous duties of his office with kingly ease.

He remained calm and unperturbed through all the length of naughty occurrences recited by the ladies. Well might he exclaim with Demosthenes of old "Not often doth the truth embarrass me." With anxious eye and bated breath the ladies watched this noble and impressive figure and searched his benign and impassive countenance for an answer to the burning question. Will he or will he not advocate a police woman. But eager scrutiny avails not for the Chief like the Sphinx, "looks wise and says nothing." Do thoughts too deep for words lie behind that inscrutable countenance?

The last of this noble Triumvirate of Commissioners to address the meeting was the Mayor. He was slightly more optimistic than the previous speaker, being, as he stated, a newcomer among them. His declaration on the eve of the election contest, to stand for a police woman, doubtless contributed to his sanguine frame of mind and he at least appeared to be untrammelled by any predetermined judgment or tyrannical convictions. He repeatedly assured the ladies that something would be done and his hope seemed also to lie vaguely in the direction of the Salvation Army. His candour was refreshing, his promptness in settling the difficulties confronting the Commissioners regarding the wholesale accosting of girls on the street will inspire our citizens with renewed confidence in his ability to manage all civic affairs gloriously. His directions to secure public safety were simple and efficient. When a girl is accosted let her just run into the first house and let the man of the house at once run out and either capture or chase away the offenders. The mere contemplation of this complete and dramatic routing of the villains farely dazzled "Onlooker," who went out gaily whistling, "See the Conquering Hero Comes," to the tune of "Old Hundred."

An abridged review of a sketch of the life of the late John Roberts, whose death occurred in Havelock a short time ago, contains the following:

The late John Roberts was born in St. Austell, Cornwall, England, on the 20th of October, 1826. He lived there with his parents utnil he was 12 or 13 years of age, and then the family started out for Canada. The mother came ahead with the family, the father wishing to stay behind for a few weeks to collect some debts. The family sailed on the barque Navarina, (all were sailing vessels then), on the 15th of April, 1839. They had fine weather for the first two weeks of the voyage. After that they struck head winds and rough weather. They first saw land on May 1st, but following this was a dead calm and time was lost. In coming up the St. Lawrence river they were locked in the ice for several days and directly they got clear of this a heavy storm drove them back for three days and three nights.

All went well after that until the 15th of May, when they ran aground about 2 o'clock in the morning at Little Metis. The first mate of the vessel had tried to convince the captain that they were out of their course, but the latter would not listen. The passengers were thrown off their feet when the ship owuld strike and bound on the bottom.

Were Taken Off.

The women and children were taken off the ship in boats but later the tide went out and the remaining passengers walked to dry land. The inhabitants of the shore upon which they were cast were good to them and kept them ufnil a boat arrived going to Quebec. The party arrived in that city on May 24. The little family left Quebec for Montreal the next day and proceeded from Montreal to Kingston via a barge towed by horses. They were nine days making the trip. They finally arrived at their destination, English Corners (now known as Columbus Village), nine weeks from the day they sailed from Plymouth.

In speaking of his family the late Mr. Roberts referred to his brother, Samson, as a very successful teacher. He taught in the Township of East Whitby, Mrs. E. Collins and Mrs. A. Dinkman, of this city, being pupils Samson Roberts died later from the breaking of a blood vessel.

The deceased was married to Miss Julia Eliza Atkinson on January 14, 1863. She died on May 9th, 1899, aged 57 years.

NOVEL LEMON SQUEEZER

Jaws Press In Upon Bisected Fruit and Drain It Dry

An ingenious little lemon or orange squeezer that can be carried in the pocket has been invented. It is a compact device but will do its work just as thoroughly as one of general use. A flat wedge-shaped metal box has an outlet at the wide end. A pair of jaws are enclosed in the box with their inner ends pivoted on the same pin that holds a swinging lid to the implement. The outer ends of the jaws have finger clips and a spring keeps them normally apart and resting against the sides of the housing. A lemon is cut in half and placed between the jaws, which are then pressed together and the lemon squeezed dry, the juice running into the tumbler or whatever receptacle is waiting for it, through the outlet already mentioned. When the squeezer is not in use the lid can be pushed over it.

EASILY CARRIED IN POCKET

Ancient Incubators

At the British Association W. H. Cadman, an archæologist, announced that he had discovered the old Egyptian secret in poultry-breeding. Egypt, it is known, turned out 130,000,000 poultry annually from native incubators which were used in the same form for 5,000 years. Prof. Cadman stated that each incubating oven contained 7,000 eggs heated by small fuel supplies o chopped straw. For the last ten days, however, the heat was wholly supplied by the chickens in the eggs.

sinks right into the pores of the wood and forms a surface so smooth and hard that dust and dirt cannot stick to it. Ronuk cleans, so that a floor never has to be scrubbed or oiled.

Ronuk forms a beautiful, lustrous polish and is an effective germicide. It is economical to use, because a little of it covers a large surface—still less keeps it in perfect shape.

It is also an excellent dressing and preservative for linoleum.

A PRIMITIVE RACE

"North Pole Natives" Really Belong to the Stone Age

The "North Pole natives" were discovered by Captain Amundsen while he was navigating his little craft, the Gjoa, through the North-west Passage in 1902-7.

He christened them "Nechilli," and considered them to be the most primitive race on earth. No white man had ever before invaded their icy fastnesses. Consequently, they were ignorant of the use of iron. Their fishing implements were long spears, fashioned out of reindeer horn. They knew no other method of procuring fire than that of rubbing two pieces of wood together. They were, in short, still in the stage of civilization reached by our ancestors of the Stone Age.

So cut off were they from others of their kind that they imagined their tribe was the only one in the world, and displayed the utmost astonishment when told of populous countries far to the south, where neither ice nor snow was. The Gjoa and her crew they thought to have dropped from the moon, and the first Nechilli to come aboard felt the deck, masts, boats, oars, all the while whispering to one another in amazement: "How much wood there is in the moon—how very much!"

A Happy Family

The belief that the cat is the natural enemy of the mouse does not always hold good. On the farm of William Wilson near Queenston is an old tabby, the property of his grandson Edgar, who is responsible for overthrowing this popular belief. Edgar entrusted a litter of white mice to the care of the cat. The cat offered no objection, and from the first day they got along without a hitch. The cat and rodents share their food, and form a very happy little family. The fact that heretofore the cat had been a noted "mouser" caused considerable comment.

The Bordon (Hants) Soldiers' Club is the only club of its kind in existence and it presents a new departure by the military authorities, who, after erecting the handsome building at a cost of $39,500, handed its management over to a committee of officers, non-commissioned officers, and men.

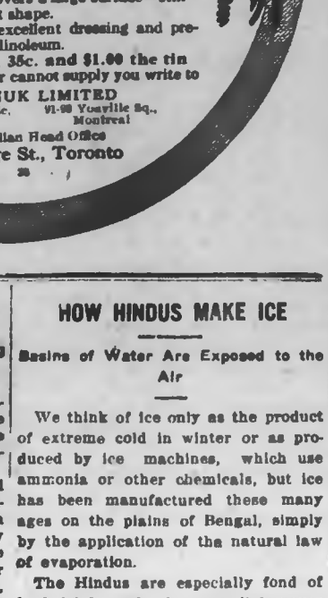
HOW HINDUS MAKE ICE

Basins of Water Are Exposed to the Air

We think of ice only as the product of extreme cold in winter or as produced by ice machines, which use ammonia or other chemicals, but ice has been manufactured these many ages on the plains of Bengal, simply by the application of the natural law of evaporation.

The Hindus are especially fond of iced drinks and, of course, it is never cold enough on the plains for ice to form nor have they known anything about manufacturing ice mechanically. But the Hindus have managed to secure ice, notwithstanding their burning skies.

On spring nights they put water in very broad, shallow basins, exposed to the passage of the air and elevated at a height of about a yard from the ground, upon a pile of straw or bamboos. At other times they fill small shells scattered on the ground, securing a small quantity of ice from each shell. When the air is calm and the weather serene, the water freezes even when the temperature is as high as 50 degrees Fahrenheit.



STRANGE IDEA OF BEAUTY

The queerest, most outlandish customs in the world, perhaps, are found among the people of the great Congo region in Central Africa. The lady in the picture is a bride of the Sara tribe. The women of this tribe think that this deformation of the lips is a sign of beauty, and while this is a somewhat exaggerated case, most of them have the extended lips.

The effect is produced by piercing the lips when young. Into the holes are placed small wooden disks, which are increased in size as the lips become gradually more and more distended.

Attacked By Timber Wolves

A party of four government surveyors working 35 miles north of Battleford, Sask., were held at bay by timber wolves for three days and later two of the party were drowned in a muskeg. They had fired all their ammunition and were unable to repulse the wolves until relieved by the half-breed who brought in the bodies of the victims to Battleford.

Lumber Investments

The capital invested in the lumbering industry in Canada amounts to $360,000,000.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

Fur Dealers Find It Profitable to Rechristen Common Furs

To supply the demand for a medium priced fur of beauty a common animal, the skunk, has been taken. The black domestic cat known to the trade as "genet," is also utilized to meet the demand for black furs, while northern hares are extensively manufactured into "Baltic fox" or "white fox" or "black lynx."

When the fur dressers and dyers produced a clipped and dyed muskrat skin that resembled sealskin almost perfectly, it was found that it would not sell under its real name because it was a common fur, used largely by the poorer classes. Consequently a name was invented for it and this popular and high priced fur is now sold as "Hudson Bay seal." The fur of the coney, a very cheap and common animal in France, is the raw product in producing "electric seal-skin," "clipped seal," and "Baltic seal."

Racoon, when first introduced, was cheap and was in little demand, but when given the name "Alaska bear" and "silver bear" it immediately came into favor. Skunk, which is an excellent fur of dark hue, though beautiful and durable, could not be sold as "skunk," but as "black marten," and "Alaska sable," it is in high favor and likely to remain in the class of the medium and high-priced furs. It is worth remarking that, since the prejudice against the muskrat, skunk and other cheaper furs has been overcome, they can be sold under their real names.

A Lumberman's Feat

A thrilling escape from drowning in Rainy River, near Fort Frances, Ontario, by catching hold of the antlers of a big bull moose, which was swimming across the river, was the experience of Clyde Buell, of Minneapolis. Buell was working at Fort Frances for a lumber company. He was out on a raft of logs. After striking a jam, the raft loosened, and Buell, clinging to a single piece of timber was carried down the river towards the rapids. He had given up hope when he saw the moose with its head and antlers above water swimming safely from the rapids. Buell let loose from his leg and grabbed one horn of the antlers and shifted himself to the back of the animal and rode it to shallow water. The moose fought hard, but would sink beneath the water and soon gave up and swam ashore.

An Encounter With a Bear

Chased by a bear, Andrew Craig, of Brightside, near Kingston, Ont., had a thrilling experience. He was on his way to get his cows, when he ran across a bear and two cubs. The mother sent her cubs up a tree and then set out to attack Craig and his dog. Craig did not have his gun with him and so was caught at a disadvantage. Believing that to retreat was the best policy, Craig and his dog ran for all they were worth. As he was jumping a fence, Craig slipped and man, dog and bear fell in a heap. The bear then coolly walked back to look after her cubs, much to the joy of Craig.

Outdoor Art in Canada

After a sketching trip in Nova Scotia, Archibald Browne, a Canadian artist, said, "I am proud to be a Canadian. There is nothing in Europe that is finer than the Annapolis valley, if there is anything as fine. In fact there is no place in Canada that impressed me so favorably. I feel a touch of romance in that country, while from a craftsman's point of view the motives are varied and the color so charming as to be intoxicating in places. Painters do not need to leave Canada for material."

"Eat More Bread"

Of course you should "eat more bread"—and less meat—but be sure your "bread" contains all the body-building material in the whole wheat prepared in digestible form. The only "bread" that fulfils all these requirements is

SHREDDED WHEAT

It is made in Canada of Canadian whole wheat steam-cooked, shredded and baked. It is a natural, elemental food and is not treated or compounded with anything. Its purity, cleanliness and food value stand unchallenged, being endorsed by the highest health and dietetic authorities in Canada and the United States.

Always heat the Biscuit in oven to restore crispness. Two Shredded Wheat Biscuits with hot milk or cream will supply all the energy needed for a half day's work. Try Toasted Triscuit, the Shredded Wheat wafer, for luncheon, with butter, cheese or marmalade.

Pat's Astronomy.

Pat found it impossible to believe that the earth is round, in spite of the numerous arguments of an eminent astronomer.

"But look here, Pat," said the latter, "you must see that the earth can't be anything else but round. Now, tell me, where does the sun rise?"

"In the east, of course," said Pat

"And where does it set?"

"Why, in the west."

"Well, then, how does it manage to get back in the east again by the morning—tell me that?"

Pat thought hard for a minute. Then an intelligent look dawned in his eye.

"Why, of course," said he at last, "it just slips back at night!"

GRAND DUCHESS WORKS FOR OTHERS

Widow of Much-hated Russian Nobleman Scrubs Floors and Lives a Life of Self-denial

Hatred haunts the Royalty and nobility of Russia. Centuries of oppression have bred revolution and anarchy, and bomb and revolver are ever threatening those in high places. But there is at least one Royal personage immune from the worst fanatic, and, strangely enough, her safety is the outcome of a fearful assassination. Eight or nine years ago the Grand Duke Sergius, uncle of the Czar, was driving near the Kremlin Palace, Moscow, when a bomb was thrown under his carriage and he was blown to pieces. His despotic methods as Governor of Moscow had created thousands of enemies. He was formally condemned to death by the Revolutionists, and paid the awful penalty.

Whatever the Grand Duke's faults may have been, however, there was one who loved him with a wholehearted devotion—his wife, the Grand Duchess Elizabeth, whose mother was Princess Alice, the late King Edward's youngest sister, who married the late Grand Duke of Hesse. One who was present at the funeral of the Grand Duke has said that he will never forget the anguish of the Grand Duchess as she stood by her husband's grave.

Sisterhood of Martha and Mary

And from that moment the Grand Duchess seems to have resolved to consecrate herself entirely to the poor and suffering. During the Russo-Japanese War she founded a home for wounded soldiers in Moscow and helped to nurse them herself, and ultimately founded a community which she called the sisterhood of Martha and Mary, in a house in a quiet street of Moscow.

This community comprises many ladies of noble birth. At first people were rather sceptical as to the intention of the Grand Duchess; but that well known authority on Russia, Mr. Rothay Reynolds, who has interviewed the chaplain of the community, relates that the Grand Duchess has left her palace for good, and lives with the Sisters of Martha and Mary, keeping the rules of the community exactly like other inmates of the convent. Among the latter are the beautiful young Princess Aboiensky and Princess Galitsin, who share the tasks of the other sisters, even to the extent of scrubbing floors.

A New Religious Order

Each member of the community rises at seven, and at half-past seven is in church. After breakfast various kinds of work are engaged in until dinner time, after which there is more work, interrupted by frequent prayer. And the sincerity of the sisters may be gathered from the fact that they manage a home for disabled soldiers, a hospital for poor women, a home for consumptives, and also have a dispensary where medicines are given free.

Furthermore, the Grand Duchess took the vows of poverty, celibacy, and obedience for life. In a word, she has founded a new religious order in Russia on the lines of the Sisters of Mercy who work among the poor under the British flag.

Heart and Nerves Were Bad.

Could Not Sleep.

To the thousands of people who toss on a sleepless pillow night after night, or who pace the bedroom floor with nerves on the jump, the heart action all wrong, and to whose eyes sleep will not come. Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills offer the blessing of sound refreshing slumber, as they restore the equilibrium of the deranged nerve centres and correct the wrong action of the heart.

Mrs. Charles Teel, Horncastle, Ont., writes:—"Just a few lines to let you know what Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills did for me. My heart and nerves were so bad I could not sleep, and the least noise or excitement would make me feel so that I used to think I was going to die, and I would tremble until I could hardly stand. I took doctor's medicine, but it did not do me much good. At last I tried Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and can certainly say they did me a great amount of good. I can recommend them to anyone who is suffering as I was."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills have been on the market for the past twenty years, and have done more to steady shaky nerves and strengthen weak hearts, than any other known preparation.

Price, 50 cents per box, or three boxes for $1.25, at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

BLUE AND DISCOURAGED

Mrs. Hamilton Tells How She Finally Found Health in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Warren, Ind.—"I was bothered terribly with female weakness. I had pains and was not regular, my head ached all the time, I had bearing down pains and my back hurt me the biggest part of the time, I was dizzy and had weak feelings when I would stoop over, it hurt me to walk any distance and I felt blue and discouraged.

"I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and am now in good health. If it had not been for that medicine I would have been in my grave a long time ago."—Mrs. ARTIE E. HAMILTON, R.F.D. No. 6, Warren, Ind.

Another Case.

Esmond, R. I.—"I write to tell you how much good your medicine has done me and to let other women know that there is help for them. I suffered with bearing down pains, headache, was irregular and felt blue and depressed all the time. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and commenced to gain in a short time and I am a well woman today. I am on my feet from early morning until late at night running a boarding house and do all my own work. I hope that many suffering women will try your medicine. It makes happier wives and mothers."—Mrs. ANNA HANSEN, Esmond, Rhode Island.

WHY WE HAVE INDIAN SUMMER

It Does Not Occur as Regularly as Many People Argue—About One in Four Years

Why and what is Indian summer? There is more of tradition and less of fact about Indian summer than any other season of the year. Indian summer seems to be an accident of nature, pure and simple—and it has just the same chance of being repeated from year to year as any other accident, and no more!

The facts about Indian summer briefly are these:

The latter part of September is, as every one knows, noted for its severe wind and rain storms. People call these the "equinoxes" and other names. The storms are often very destructive. The sun has crossed the meridian and the temperature is beginning to go down. The influence of the sun on general weather conditions is now known to be very great. Therefore, at the time when the season of warm weather is changing to a season of colder weather, it is only natural that there should be more or less storm-and-stress in the atmosphere.

When we have several days of high winds and heavy rains it is also natural that the temperature should go down. As with all things of nature, the winds and the rains soon exhaust themselves and a dry period of sunshine succeeds.

The contrast between the cold, dreary, rainy, wind-blown days and bright, sunny, dry days is most marked, of course. And it is especially marked in the autumn. The air is dry and filled with smoke and dust, which makes it hazy in the extreme. Besides that, as the period is immediately following a severe atmospheric disturbance, there is little, or no, movement in the air and the tendency of the air-currents is downward from great atmospheric heights rather than horizontally across the face of the earth. Such is the explanation for the condition we call "Indian summer."

The experts of the weather bureau, however, made an investigation of the subject and they found that in a period of 41 years there had been but 9 years when there was a really marked Indian summer! In 12 years there was a slight change that could be called by that name, and during eight years there was absolutely no time that could be termed unusual enough to be noted. During the remainder of the years there was more or less of a change, but it was not worth recording. Weather experts declare that the same kind of weather as is experienced in the fall and called Indian summer could and does occur at any other time of the year.

Some very pretty stories have been woven about the period which has been called Indian summer because of an old Indian legend dealing with it. It seems, according to this, that a great Indian named Mudjekewis, with his nine brothers, subdued a chieftain known as Mammoth Bear and captured the Sacred Belt of Wampum. Because he was the leader in the expedition, although the youngest of the brothers, Mudjekewis was given by the gods the government of the winds and was renamed Kabegun—"Father of the Winds." He had four sons and on one of them, Shawondasee, he bestowed the government of the south winds. Shawondasee was rather a lazy sort of a man who liked best to take his ease and live a calm, peaceful life. He always kept his eyes toward the north, however, and the Indians all believed that it was his sighs of contentment that caused balmy southern airs to blow which make Indian summer.

In England Indian summer is generally known as St. Martin's summer, and in Germany and other sections of Europe it has other names.

When he had eaten 17, however, he was seized with an attack of acute indigestion, and he had to stop. This man also had a record of 54 ears of green corn.

At the beefsteak dinners of many political clubs astounding records are made in the consumption of viands. Some of those who take part think nothing of eating 10 and 12 pounds of meat at the sitting.

At a clambake eight baskets of food were eaten by one diner. This basket included a leg and a breast of a chicken, 25 clams, 2 ears of corn and four potatoes. This record was declared accurate and authentic.

A Rhode Island farmer had a record of half a bushel of walnuts, of which he was extraordinarily fond. He used half a small bag of salt while eating them.

A Chicago man inordinately fond of mush and milk lived on it for a week, eating four great bowlfuls of it three times a day.

About Zanzibar

Zanzibar, which figures as a possible pawn in an Anglo-German deal, did come into the British Empire without paying a heavy price in blood and treasure. The island of Cloves was visited for the first time by the British fleet during the Napoleonic scare era, but since then Britain has kept the upper hand. Very uncomplimentary things have been said about the people of Zanzibar. Prof. Drummond found the island in 1888, "Oriental in appearance, Mohammedan in religion, Arabian in morals—a cesspool of wickedness, fit capital for a dark continent."

WON BY PERSISTENCE

A Determined Blacksmith Succeeded at Last

The Scientific American related the following story of a determined blacksmith who won success by determined and intelligent effort:

"I am a blacksmith from Canada," he said. "I hammered this out on the anvil. It is going to be used instead of ordinary leather collars." It weighed forty pounds.

"How is a horse to carry this load around his neck and draw a heavy load as well?" he was asked.

"This is a little heavier than it need be," he explained. "It will be all right."

An effort was made to dissuade him from wasting money on a horse-collar that weighed forty pounds, but he was sure of his ground. Six months later the Canadian returned with another collar, an improvement on the original, and which weighed but fifteen pounds. Three times the man came back. Each time he brought with him a new metal collar, lighter and better than its predecessor.

Now, almost every fire-engine horse and omnibus horse in this country and in Europe wears what is known as the stamped-up metal collar. From forty pounds, the Canadian had reduced its weight to almost as many ounces. He has given up blacksmithing and lives in luxury in London.

Now, almost every fire-engine horse and omnibus horse in this country and in Europe wears what is known as the stamped-up metal collar. From forty pounds, the Canadian had reduced its weight to almost as many ounces. He has given up blacksmithing and lives in luxury in London.

Radway's Ready Relief

Mrs. L. Dittman, 710 E. 140th St., New York City, writes: "I caught a cold. I used one bottle of Pure Radway's Ready Relief with wonderful results. I have also found it acts like a charm for sore throat. I used it with great benefit for several ailments my children have had, and recommend it to my friends."

NEURALGIA

The Relief is the best counter irritant known, and therefore the best concoction that can be used in Neuralgia. Rub it on the part affected, and keep flannels soaked with it on the seat of the pain until ease is obtained, which will usually be in the course of ten or fifteen minutes.

Uncle Rebus Back To Town

There's that door bell again, Rebus.

Bless my soul, Polly, if I've gone to that door once, this day, I've gone a hundred times. Tea agents, insurance agents, book agents,—I wonder what'll be next?

Well, I declare, if it isn't Mr. and Mrs. Tocker. How in the world are you?

Fine and dandy, and how are you and Aunt Polly?

Come away in, the old lady is hugging the stove.

Well, Aunt Polly and how are you?

Fine as silk, as they say in Arkansas.

When we saw in the paper that you were back, I just says to Jim: "Now, we must go over and see Uncle Rebus and Aunt Polly." So here we are.

My, but its a long time since you left Peterborough, Uncle Rebus.

Yes, well nigh thirty years ago.

And what changes have taken place since then—it almost makes one shudder!

By the way, Uncle Rebus, how do you say that word Arkansas.

Well, its just like this: If you've never travelled any farther than a rod from the cow's tail you call it Arkansas, with emphasis on the "kan"—Oh, I beg pardon, they have prohibition over there now—but if you've travelled some, you call it Arkansaw.

How's your sister Emma, Mrs. Tocker? She was about as handsome a bride as I ever saw.

O poor Emma! How my heart aches for her?

She is simply dying by inches. She is fretting herself away over that wayward daughter of hers.

Dear me, dear me, how sorry I am to hear it! Whatever has happened?

Well, Aunt Polly, to make a long story short; the child was pampered and spoiled, and she has landed herself in a Rescue Home in Toronto.

Ah, my, what a terrible world this is!

Yes indeed, and to think that such awful conditions exist right here in this Peterborough of ours. Have you been reading The Examiner since you came?

Yes, we get it every night.

Well, didn't you see all that talk about a Police Woman?

Yes, Rebus read it to me, but I thought surely it must be a little—little—what shall I say?

You mean exaggerated?

Yes, that's it.

Well, Aunt Polly, I can tell you, it doesn't half tell the terrible things that go on in this here town. Do you know that if Peterborough gets so low in the next twenty years as she has in the last twenty, it will be another case of Sodom and Gomarrah.

Dear me, surely it is not as bad as that!

Yes it is, Aunt Polly, and I could tell you things that would open your eyes; but, do you know, I've come to realize that the mothers are largely to blame for conditions as they exist to-day.

In the first place they — and the fathers are as guilty as the mothers—have lost control of authority in their own homes.

Yes, I agree with you there, Mrs. Tocker, aand I guess that accounts for the disrespect shown to parents.

Yes, and in the second place mothers are to blame for the way they dress their girls.

What do you mean Mrs. Tocker?

I mean this, Aunt Polly: When they dress them up for the street, especially in the summer time, they put so little on them and arrange it in such a way that the girls are nothing more or less than walking advertisements for "beer gardens."

Oh, Mrs. Tocker, don't talk such nonsense.

I tell you, Aunt Polly, it's not nonsense. Many a time have I scolded Emma for doing the very same thing.

What do you mean by a "beer garden?"

Well, I suppose that needs a little explanation. When Jim and I were over to New York last summer Jim took be to the Bowery to see the sights. What I saw there fairly makes my womanly blood run cold. Parading up and down the street were loudly dressed girls with none too much on hooking one fellows and arming them into beer gardens. These were large halls, filled with small tables where they would drink beer while they watched dancing at the far end of the room by girls who didn't seem to have any more on than a few beads.

Oh, surely, Mrs. Tocker, it can't be true!

Yes, Aunt Polly its too true.

Then when the mothers prepare for the "coming out," they first have the girls "come out" of their dress about two feet, leaving a long train clinging around their feet and a large exhibition of nakedness at the top, until it has got so bad that men almost have to wear blinders in the ball room.

Oh, Mrs. Tocker, what's this world coming to?

Yes, well you may ask, "what is this world coming to," and the latest thing is Tango.

And, pray what is Tango?

Oh, it is some new fangled dance in which the fellows and girls get all tangled up.

Why, Mrs. Tocker, I never heard o' the like in my life.

Well, you're hearing it now, Aunt Polly.

And to think of the way those women in the deputation were received. You would think that the commissioners had been to church (there was a preacher among them) and had slept during the sermon, for they didn't seem to know the text.

One talked most wearily of women arresting women. Why, Aunt Polly, it's those reptiles dressed up in men's clothes she should arrest.

Another aired himself on "manners." One would think that the women were complaining that the men would soil the girl's clothes. What rubbish!

And the other talked of expense. He held a dime so close to his eye he couldn't see the value of a girl's soul. If dollars and daughters were weighed in his scales, it would be dollars every time.

I tell you what, Aunt Polly, people can talk as they like about Women's Suffrage, but I claim this is:

Woman's Suffer(ing) Age

and if women were given the right to vote, we'd have prohibition within six months, and in every town and city there would be set up in each market square (a place for the exhibition of dressed hogs) a whipping post, and a public whaler appointed to lash all brutes that take advantage of women.

Do you think it would do any good, Mrs. Tocker?

Good? Why, see what they did in London, England: Passed the law of the "lash" for white slavers., and for a week before the law came into force the channel steamers were crowded carrying their ilk over to France.

* * *

By jinks, that wife of your's is an awful talker, Jim.

Yes, Uncle, she 's a wonder, but I guess there's more truth than poetry in what she says.

DR. WOOD'S NORWAY PINE SYRUP

Effected A Complete Cure.

Mrs. Thos. A. Julian, Almonte, Ont., writes:—"Just a few lines to let you know how thankful I am for what Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup has done for me. A few years ago I was operated on for appendicitis, and was confined to the hospital for five weeks. When I returned home I contracted a severe cold which left me with a bad cough. A neighbor told my husband about Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup so I decided to try a bottle. When it was finished it had done me so much good I took another which completely cured me. I can very, very strongly recommend it."

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup contains all the lung healing virtues of the famous Norway pine tree, which makes it the very best preparation for Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, and all Throat and Lung troubles.

Price, 25 and 50 cents.

See you get "Dr. Wood's" as there are many imitations on the market. The genuine is manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

JOSEPH CHAMBERLAIN

Joe Chamberlain is to retire,
He is the man that I admire,
Against Kruger he fought like fire,
Upholding Britain's Empire.

Kruger tried to drive Britain out,
From Cape Colony without doubt,
But Chamberlain stood brave and stout,
Upholding Britain's Empire.

At Kyber Pass Kruger did win—
The British troops were rather thin,
And Kruger's troops waylaid them in Kyber Pass, South Africa.

The episode cost England dear,
While Gladstone was England's Premier,
President Kruger tried to clear,
England from South Africa.

At Paardeburg, Canadians fought,
Surrounding Cronjie all about,
And took him prisoner, on his route,
At Paardeburg, Africa.

Which was a cue towards the end
Of the Boer war, I now contend;
I think it was a great God-send
For Boers in South Africa.

Free trade throughout our great Empire
Has been Joe Chamberlain's desire;
His policy we should admire
For the good of Canada.

Our markets would be far and near,
Our mutual interest more sincere,
Our Empire trade all free and clear,
Upholding Britain's Empire.

ORDERLY SERVICE

A Methodist parson, called to preach at an out-of-the-way town in California, was informed, before entering his pulpit, that he must be careful, as many of the assembled congregation were "roughs," and would not hesitate to pull him from the pulpit if his remarks did not suit them.

The minister made no reply, but, having reached the "sacred desk," he took from his pocket two revolvers, and placing one on each side of the Bible, gave a sharp glance around the room, and said: "Let us pray."

A more orderly service was never held.

The bride read the recipe over and said: "I'm really afraid that these onions are strong."

And it says, 'Under water's the best way to peel them.'

But I never can stay under water that long.

IMPORTANT FACTS

FROM THE

SIXTY-SEVENTH ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE

CANADA LIFE

ASSURANCE COMPANY

A Splendid Year. In important respects the Company in 1913 excelled its record for any previous year in its history.

Greatest Surplus Earnings. 1—THE SURPLUS EARNED in 1913 was $1,709,959.66, exceeding by over $179,000 the earnings of 1912, and by a much larger amount the earnings of any previous year. The present net surplus is $6,183,278.39.

Interest Rate Increasing. 2—THE INCOME of $3,094,885.70 was greater than that of the previous year by $698,125.96, and the greatest in the Company's history. The rate of interest earned, which had been steadily advancing since 1899, was further improved in 1913. This is an important factor in producing surplus.

Assets Over $52,000,000. 3—THE ASSETS were increased by $3,860,271.32, and now stand at $52,161,794.81.

Assurances Now Over $153,121,000. 4—THE TOTAL ASSURANCES now in force are for $153,121,363.94, an increase of over $8,273,000 in the year.

Payments To Policyholders. 5—THE PAYMENTS TO POLICYHOLDERS in 1913 totalled $2,878,016.11, an increase of $415,051.31 over those of 1912. In addition to this, LOANS TO POLICYHOLDERS on security of their policy contracts were made for $1,692,248.71.

All Factors Favorable. 6—THE MORTALITY of the year was again more favorable than the expectation, and this, with a continued LOW EXPENSE RATIO, contributed to the earning of a record surplus.

The Financial Statement and Report of Directors, together with proceedings at the annual meeting, held 22nd January, 1914, are in the printer's hands and in a few days will be mailed on request.

ALL ALONG BROADWAY

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—The necessity of keeping their partners at a six-inch distance is playing havoc with social functions among the students of Columbia University. The hardest hit club on the campus is the Newman Club, which, as a Catholic organization, must abide by the edicts of Cardinal Farel putting the ban on the tango and other of the modern dances. Its annual dance has been one of the features of the Columbia year, but for the first time in a dozen years no annual dance will be held this month.

The fashionable St. Thomas' Church is to be the scene of a notable international wedding next month, when Miss Elizabeth Frances Hanan is married to the Duke Don Arturo di Durazzo. Miss Hahan is a daughter of the late James Hanan, a wealthy resident of Brooklyn. The groom-elect is related to some of the oldest families of Italy. He is now the only representative of the royal family di Durazzo, which reigned during the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries. He came into his title two years ago upon the death of his father, Marquis Francesco Demaio Durazzo.

Charles Becker, former police lieutenant and convicted murderer of Herman Rosenthal, the gambler, is a beneficiary under the will of his mother, who died last month. Mrs. Becker was never told of her son's arrest and conviction in the Rosenthal case, but believed that he was in business in a distant part of the country. In Mrs. Becker's will, drawn up eleven months before she died, an estate of $3,500 is divided among her children and grandchildren. In the petition filed with the will Charles Becker's address is given as 354 Hunter Street, Ossining, N. Y.

The entire second cabin accommodation of the White Star liner Olympic for the sailing of June 20 has been chartered by the Salvation Army to convey 700 officers and soldiers to London to attend the international congress to be held by the organization there next summer. Miss Eva Booth, head of the army in the United States will be in charge and will be attended by the entire staff, with four brass bands, composed of 100 players. About 10,00 delegates, representing fifty-four countries, are expected to attend the congress in London, and the New York contingent will be the largest that any foreign country more tha 3,000 miles away will send. Only the officers whose duty it will be to go to London will have their expenses paid by the organization. The others will pay their own expenses.

The brain of Dr. Edward Charles Spitzka, the eminent neurologist and alienist who died recently at his home in this city, has been weighed, in accordance with a promise exacted by the late Dr. Spitzka from his son. Dr. Spitzka was the founder of the American Anthropometric Society, the members of which agree to bequeath their brains to the society for scientific study. As a matter of fact, however, very little has been learned, or at least proved, by the weighing of brains. The average weight of the human brain is 1,300 grams. The brain of Dr. Spitzka was found to weigh 1,400 grams. Of the brains of noted men that have been weighed, the heaviest was that of Ivan Turgenieff, which weighed 2,012 grams. The brain of Daniel Webster weighed 1,518 grams. On the other hand it has been found that the brains of many noted men have been under the average weight. All of which would indicate that in the matter of brains, as in very many other things in this life, it is quality rather than quantity that counts.

What's in a name? A good deal, evidently, if the name happens to be "Recetor." The new company which took over the Hotel Rector after the failure of the old management is fighting in the courts for sole possession of the name. The new company does not desire to use the name of Rector for the hotel. At the same time it seeks to prohibit any one else from using the name. Charlie Rector, who made his name famous in the restaurant business, is not concerned in the fight. The failure of the Hotel Rector left him a bankrupt. His career was a meteoric one. For a number of years he plodded along as the proprietor of a modest eating establishment in Chicago. His place was practically unknown outside the small circle that patronized it. One day the late Dave Henderson, then at the height of his career as manager of the Chicago Opera House, dropped into Rector's and found the food and the service to his liking. He recommended it to his wide circle of theatrical acquaintances. Before long it was a favourite place for late suppers. The proprietor made money rapidly and looked about for a wider field. He came to New York and opened a big place on Broadway. It was the first and most famous of the "lobster palaces." Here Mr. Rector made money hand over fist, as the saying goes. When his lease on the property expired he built the new Hotel Rector in Times Square. It represented an investment of $3,000,000 and was the limit in the matter of luxurious furnishings. But for some reason or other it failed to attract the crowd of spenders that used to fill the old place night after night. The enterprise proved a flat failure and Mr. Rector went into bankruptcy. The new owners have cut out the "tango teas" and other features of a similar nature and hope to make the place pay as a family hotel.

Canine Etiquette

In their relations one with another dogs have a keen sense of etiquette. Unless they are on very intimate terms they take great pains never to brush against or even touch one another. For one dog to step over another is a dangerous breach of etiquette unless they are special friends. It is no uncommon thing for two dogs to belong to the same person and live in the same house and yet never take the slightest notice of each other. We have a spaniel so dignified that he will never permit another member of the dog family to pillow his head upon him, but with the egotism of a true aristocrat he does not hesitate to make use of the other dogs for that purpose.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

FORGET-ME-NOTS

Ned was going away for a whole year. It was a good chance for him, and showed the confidence placed in him by his firm, who had selected him to establish an important branch in the western part of the country. But there was one drawback; he must leave his little sweetheart and not see her for 12 solid months. Now, Maisie was a dainty, fascinating, little thing with big, dark eyes and dimples, and fully aware of the power these attractions gave her.

The last day arrived, and she had seen Ned off, and promised that she would think of him all the time, and be very dignified while he was away, and not flirt or do anything that he would disapprove of. Perhaps she meant it, when she said it, but was fickle, and fond of a gay time, and couldn't seem to help it, and, before long, she was going everywhere, enjoying herself thoroughly, accepting young men's attentions, and being admired by them, until poor Ned was quite out of her thoughts. She wrote, or that is, answered his frequent letters, at first, but as time wore on, it became too ardous a duty, and interfered with her frivolous pleasures too much. Still she wrote often enough to make him think everything was the same, and that when the year was up, she would be awaiting for him and would go back with him as his wife.

In the meantime, Ned was succeeding rapidly in his new quarters, and was building up a flourishing business. His heart and soul were in it, and he looked forward to the time when he would have a home of his own, and bring Maisie to preside over it. At this very time, he was remodelling a pretty cottage he had bought and making it attractive in every way as a surprise to her. He had made many friends in this new place and was very popular and would have been much in demand, socially, had he been so inclined, but his thoughts were all of Maisie. However, one evening, after much pressing, he agreed to serve as best man at a particular friend's wedding. It was quite a big affair and after the ceremony, as the wedding party was filing down the aisle, he found himself with the maid of honour. All he saw was a sweet, serious-faced girl, her arm full of forget-me-nots, the colour of her eyes, and golden hair parted over a broad, fair brow. She wondered why he seemed so distrait, almost appearing to forget her presence for he had made an impression the moment she had first seen him, and set her hitherto normal heart to beating fast.

The year was up and Ned was descending from the train to his home town. He had not let Maisie know when he expected to return, as he wished to walk in on her and surprise her. He hurried up the street, rang the bell at the familiar house, and was admitted at once. As he rushed into the room, he came upon Maisie and a young man, who had every appearance of being a privileged person.

Maisie started up, then became embarrassed, and finally stood with her head drooping. "Why, Ned, when did you come?" she at length stammered. Ned couldn't seem to find his voice. Then after some moments of silence, she introduced the young man with her, as her fiance. There was nothing for Ned to do but take his departure, which he did immediately, as he seemed to be choking.

He had been granted a month's leave of absence, and the first few days seemed too dark to endure. At length, he was obliged to write to his friends in the West that his plans were changed, owing to broken engagement, and he would be back sooner than he had intended. He wondered how he was going to face it all.

One day, not long before the time for his return, he received a box by express, and on opening it, found it contained a beautiful bouquet of forget-me-nots. He instantly thought of the wedding, and his heart went out to her for her little act of sympathy, to tell him that he was not forgotten by everyone, even if there was one who had found it so easy to forget.

When he left his home town once more, he was resolved to forget the fickle girl who had caused him so much heartache, and when he had once more settled down, determined to give his whole attention to business, he would banish from memory the pair of dark eyes which had been so much to him; and much to his own surprise, as time went on, the eyes that seemed to come before him were dark no longer, but blue as the bluest forget-me-nots.

One day as he was looking at the little home he had fitted up with so much care, he saw the girl with the forget-me-not eyes coming toward him, in all her sweet womanliness and as he held out his hand to her it came to him like a great light that here was the only one in the world for him and when he said, "Will you preside over this home as its honored mistress?" "It seems as if I have always loved you," she simply answered. "And I loved you the first time I ever saw you." Then as he looked into the lovely eyes, he said, "How happy we shall be; and in our garden there shall always be forget-me-nots the colour of your beautiful eyes dear."

COULD NOT EAT—FAILING FAST

Captain On Great Lakes Restored To Health By "Fruit-a-tives"

For thirty years, Captain Swan followed the Great Lakes. He has now retired and lives at Port Burwell, where he is well known and highly esteemed.

H. SWAN, Esq.

PORT BURWELL, ONT., May 8th, 1913.

"A man has a poor chance of living and enjoying life when he cannot eat. That was what was wrong with me. Loss of appetite and indigestion was brought on by Constipation. I have had trouble with these diseases for years. I lost a great deal of flesh and suffered constantly. For the last couple of years, I have taken "Fruit-a-tives" and have been so pleased with the results that I have recommended them on many occasions to friends and acquaintances. OPTICAL TELEGRAPH

This Serves as a Telephone For Deaf People

An optical telegraph intended to fill the place of the telephone for talking with a deaf person has been invented by a deaf and dumb married couple. It consists essentially of a keyboard, as in a typewriter, through whose keys single electric currents pass. In each circuit is included an incandescent lamp with a flat surface, bearing a letter of the alphabet or a Roman numeral. Pressing any key causes the corresponding lamp to glow. Thus words and sentences are spelled out and numbers are formed.

The keyboard can be operated as fast as that of an ordinary typewriter, so that with practice communication becomes very smooth and rapid. Each station, of course, must contain both a sender and a receiver, and these may be in different rooms or in houses a long distance apart.

The instrument can be conveniently used for conversation between a deaf person and a normal person who is ignorant of the finger language. The silence with which the device is operated is a very important point in its favor. This feature might make it especially useful where quiet or secrecy in transmitting information is desirable, as in sending war news or secret instructions in business houses. —"Literary Digest."

Wood Buffalo In the North

"There are fully 500 head of wood buffalo west and north of Fort Smith, which is on the Great Slave river, in the extreme northeast corner of the province of Alberta," said A. J. Bell, guardian of 3,000 Indians of the Yellow Knife, Dog Rib, Chipewyan and Cariboo Eaters tribes. "The buffalo in the northern district have every mark of resemblance to the bison of the plains, but constant living in the heavy timbered country has made them much wilder and unapproachable than the prairie buffalo. As these animals are protected, no killing being permitted, there should be a rapid increase in their numbers."

London Slums

The approaching demolition of the notorious Tabard Street area calls to mind the clearing away of another famous slum—the Rookery of St. Giles which was pulled down in the forties for the construction of New Oxford Street. It largely consisted of lodging houses where men and women were accommodated at 4 cents per night, and was the resort of thieves and coiners. Many of the houses were connected together by roof, yard and cellar in such a way that the apprehension of a criminal was an almost impossible task. In some of the passages traps were set which landed a determined pursuer into a cellar or cesspool.

They are delightfully decorated in rich floral rose designs with garlands of foliage in the very newest patterns. EACH SET COMPRISES 97 PIECES, guaranteed full size for family use—an absolutely complete dinner service for a family of twelve people. The picture herewith was taken directly from a photograph of the set, but fails to do justice to its quality, or the charm of the decoration. You will be proud to have such a dinner service in your home, and no matter how much you paid you could secure nothing more complete, serviceable or pleasing.

● "EVERYWOMAN'S WORLD" wants 150 married ladies at the heads of homes to obtain these magnificent dinner sets. You are not asked to spend any money or buy anything in order to obtain one of them for your home. Read this offer if you want one of these sets. ●

We want every Canadian housekeeper to become acquainted with "EVERYWOMAN'S WORLD," Canada's greatest monthly home magazine. SINCE NOVEMBER LAST OVER 50,000 WOMEN IN AS MANY CANADIAN HOMES HAVE SENT US YEARLY SUBSCRIPTIONS TO THIS GREAT MAGAZINE, but we are not satisfied. We are determined to have 100,000 subscribers for 1914 and are sparing no expense to reward the ladies who will assist us in reaching this mark and who by their advice and suggestions for the improvement of "EVERYWOMAN'S WORLD," will help us to maintain it, not only as the greatest Canadian magazine, but to make it so necessary to every reader that it will become an absolute institution in every Canadian home.

A very little effort on your part—just a few minutes conversation with a few of your friends—will help us in this work and can gain for you one of these magnificent complete 97-piece dinner sets. This offer is absolutely unique in the history of Canadian journalism.

"EVERYWOMAN'S WORLD" is needed in every women's home. It is a big, bright, breezy entertaining and instructive magazine, running from 40 to 52 pages a number. It abounds in charming short stories, live interesting articles, news of the day, advice on home management, the care of children, cooking, etc. It has an excellent fashion department and pattern service and above each month the very latest fashions of New York, London and Paris. It has departments of music, giving its readers each month a new and original sheet of music, departments of art, beauty hints, family health, money-making hints for women and many other features that make it absolutely necessary to every home. "EVERYWOMAN'S WORLD" is delightfully illustrated by the foremost artists of both Canada and the United States, and its beautiful art covers in colors are always charming. In fact, no expense has been spared to make it the most interesting and useful magazine in Canada.

The wonderful thing about "EVERYWOMAN'S WORLD" is that this great magazine is sold at a subscription price of only 50c. per year.

Just think—only 50c. for 12 whole months' subscription.

This Free Sample Copy for You

If you want to gain one of these beautiful dinner sets, write to us to-day and we will send you postage paid, absolutely without charge or obligation, a copy of the current number of "EVERYWOMAN'S WORLD," which we ask you to read over carefully and prove to yourself that it is all we claim for it—the greatest magazine value in Canada. Then take it among your friends and neighbors, show it to them and let them see what a magnificent magazine they can bring into their homes for an expense of only 50c. a year. Get their opinions on it. We want you to tell us what they say about "EVERYWOMAN'S WORLD," and we will send with your copy some very interesting literature telling of many big features that "EVERYWOMAN'S WORLD" will give its readers during 1914.

To qualify for one of these magnificent dinner sets we ask that you secure us only eight yearly subscriptions to "EVERYWOMAN'S WORLD" from among your friends at 50c. each and remit to us the $4.00 you will have obtained for same.

We will promptly acknowledge each subscription and at once send the current number of "EVERYWOMAN'S WORLD" to your subscribers—the forerunner of twelve big, bright, interesting numbers, they will receive each month for a year to come. This little task will be a pleasure.

From your own opinions and the conversations and experience you have when getting your eight subscriptions, we will ask you to answer a set of questions we have compiled giving us your advice and suggestions on improvements in "EVERYWOMAN'S WORLD" which we have under consideration for 1914. We want to give our readers what they want, how they want it and when they want it, and we are sparing no effort to make "EVERYWOMAN'S WORLD" the very best friend of every member of every Canadian home. We cannot go among our people when they subscribe and ask them what they like best about "EVERYWOMAN'S WORLD," or what they would like to see published in this great magazine, so we ask you to answer our questions, which deal with these very points. Thus by telling us just what your friends say about "EVERYWOMAN'S WORLD," and what they like best in it, you will help us to keep it in its position of household favorite.

You can easily give us the information we seek after having spoken to and secured eight new subscribers, for which we reward you handsomely, and it is for the value of these suggestions and your advice to us that these 150 magnificent 97-piece dinner sets are being awarded.

Bear in mind that Canada's greatest magazine, a journal with over 50,000 subscribers in all parts of Canada, is behind this offer. There are no strings or conditions of any kind attached to it. A photographic reproduction of the complete set will be mailed to you with your sample copy and the 150 complete 97-piece dinner sets, exactly as represented, will be awarded to the ladies sending us the best suggestions and answers to our questions.

This offer is open only to householders—married ladies who are at the heads of homes. Write to-day and get your free copy of "EVERYWOMAN'S WORLD," together with the questions we want you to answer about the new features we will bring out during 1914. You take no risk and incur no obligation. You cannot fail to find eight ladies among your friends and neighbors who will be glad to have "EVERYWOMAN'S WORLD" every month for a subscription of only 50 cents a year. Enclose a two-cent stamp to pay postage on your copy, and sign your full name (as Mrs. Frederick J. Brown or Mrs. Leonard T. Dawson, &c.) and give complete address.

We will pack each set in a strong case without charge, and prepay at Toronto, all freight and delivery charges. Write for your sample copy and further particulars of this great offer to-day. Address fully as below and mark corner of your envelope "CIRCULATION MANAGER."

Militant Margaret.

Militant minded women were known in England before the suffragettes, one of whom lies in Henry VII.'s chapel—Margaret, countess of Richmond, the builder's mother, with her brass effigy by Torrigiano. She hated the Turk, and she made, as Camden reports, a sporting offer to the chivalrous of her day. "... the condition that princes of Christendom would combine themselves and march against the common enemy, the Turk, she would most willingly attend them and be their laundress in the camp." That position of laundress to the crusaders would have been an easy one, for it was the fashion to make vows to change no underclothing until the holy sepulcher was regained.—Chicago News.

I'm not prone to give way to my feelings—
Very seldom my temper I lose—
But I will if I can
Get the goat of the man
Who steps on my lily white shoes.
—Chicago Inter Ocean.

"Why do you insist on a long engagement?"

"Well, to tell you the truth," answered the young man, "I don't like to get married until I get rid of the installments on the engagement ring."—Pittsburgh Post.

Mother Love.

He was down and out and the world passed by,
With never a word of cheer,
"O, it serves him right," was the pitiless cry,
With many an added sneer.
He was down there in humanity's tide,
Unable to aid himself;
But it mattered not; he was swept aside
In the race for fame and pelf.

But a woman fought till she reached his side,
She gave him a kindly word;
While a clasp of his mother's hand supplied
The courage to one that erred.
With a voice to which he was long unused
She talked in a simple way,
And his faults in tears were absolved, excused,
And so dawned a brighter day

Just a mother's love standing there enshrined,
In sight of a carping world;
She was ready to face the breadth of mankind
To scorn the taunts it had hurled.
You will find somehow, in the battle of life,
That God, in His mercy above,
Reserves for the one who fails in the strife
The joy of a mother's love.

Get Rid Of Pimples--Quick

By Using Stuart's Calcium Wafers—Natural Little Blood Purifiers That Work Like a Charm.

Don't despair if your face is covered with pimples, blotches, liver spots, or your body is covered in spots with tetter, rash, boils, etc. Just use Stuart's Calcium Wafers for a short time and see how quickly you will clear upy our skin.

"It is Simply a Constant Joy to be Rid of Those Horrible Pimples."

Pimples and eruptions of all kinds comef rom the inside. The blood casts out the impurities it contains and thus pimples, boils, etc., appear. Cleanse the blood, stop the poison from developing in the blood tissues and pimples will vanish as if by magic.

Stuart's Calcium Wafers contain in a natural manner the greatest blood purifier—Calcium Sulphide.

Calcium Sulphide and the other ingredients of these remarkable little wafers are just what impure blood needs. You must know that the blood is rushing through our veins very fast. It takes less than a minute for our blood to cover the entire body.

You can thus readily see that Stuart's Calcium Wafers, when they enter the body, have an almost instant effect upon all impurities no matter where located, whether it be the tip of the nose or the ends of the toes.

By the use of Stuart's Calcium Wafers your complexion will take on a fresher hue and a more natural series of tints than ever before.

Impure blood is blue or black. Purify it and it becomes ruby red. This colour showing beneath the skin is the secret of all beautiful complexions.

Stuart's Calcium Wafers are sold by all druggists everywhere. Price 50 cents a box.

URGES FREE WHEAT

E. W. Nesbitt, M. P., Says West is Unanimous for It

MR. MEIGHEN EVADES REPLY

OTTAWA, Jan. 24.—The debate upon the address yesterday was resumed by Mr. E. W. Nesbitt, Liberal member for North Oxford, and continued by E. N. Lewis the Conservative member for West Huron, Mr. J. H. Sinclair, the Liberal member for Guysboro, N.S., and Solicitor-General Meighen.

Mr. Nesbitt made a plea for the removal of the duties upon wheat and flour imported from the United States. The farmers of Ontario, he said, had no objection to free wheat and the farmers of Western Canada were unanimous in their demand for it.

Mr. Meighen said in reply that he was not at liberty to discuss the tariff policy of the Government, which would be announced in due time by the Minister of Finance in his budget speech.

In reply to a question, the Government announced that it had under consideration the proposal to extend the time for filing applications under the Fenian Raid Bounties Act.

Mr. Lesperance, the Conservative member from Montmagny, announced his determination to bring in a bill to repeal the Naval Act, but denied that he had carried on any negotiations with the Opposition or was actuated by any hostility toward Quebec members of the Cabinet.

Mr. Nesbitt (North Oxford) said that the Senate by rejecting the naval aid bill had made possible the naval holiday now urged by Mr. Churchill. The people of Canada desired naval defence and were anxious to relieve the British taxpayer from the burden of protecting Canada. But they were not desirous of entering European politics nor the European competition in armaments.

Referring to tariff questions, Mr. Nesbitt said the Liberals favored a tariff upon fancy canned goods and delicacies. They only wanted staple foods admitted free of duty. He contended that the Canadian cheese industry was on the decline in spite of protection. The Oxford farmers sold their milk for shipment to Detroit at $1.90 per one hundred pounds, while the cheese factories only offered $1.20.

"What the farmer of this country wants," Mr. Nesbitt continued, "is not protection nor education, but lower freight rates and wider markets. If the Western farmers do not want the tariff against American wheat, why retain it?"

Mr. Lewis (West Huron) gave a graphic description of the terrible shipwrecks upon the Great Lakes last November. Fourteen fine vessels had been lost, eight of them disappearing altogether with all on board. It is believed that the disaster might have been averted if a hurricane call had been sent out on the fatal Sunday, and if the port of Goderich had been properly equipped as a port of refuge.

Mr. Lewis also advocated the establishment of a load line for vessels upon the Great Lakes.

Mr. Lewis then referred to the interest charged by the chartered banks. At the present time he was paying 8 per cent., although the Bank Act fixed the legal rate at 7. He contended that when the banks raised their rates of discount from 6 to 8 per cent. they should increase their rate of interest made to their depositors from 3 to 4 per cent.

The West Huron member also advocated compensation for innocent persons improperly convicted and imprisoned, and suggested that all immigration hereafter from southeastern Europe be forbidden by law.

Mr. Sinclair (Guysboro) said the Prime Minister had no well-defined or settled opinions upon any subject of public interest. The Conservative party, according to Mr. Sinclair, was put in power by the combines, and was at their beck and call. Their cry now was to "leave bad enough alone." The Government, he said, gave a fine exhibition of "coupon patriotism." They had been warned to profit by the lesson of South Bruce and get away from the domination of the railways and the financial junta at Montreal.

Hon. Mr. Meighen (Portage la Prairie) made an elaborate constitutional argument to show that the Senate had exceeded its rights in amending the highways bills. He defended that measure as being within the competency of Parliament and conceived in the public interest.

The debate will be resumed on Monday.

NERVES ARE SORE AND PAINFUL

Neuritis, or inflammation of the nerves, is the most painful of nervous ailments. You may feel the soreness or tenderness throughout the body, or it may be confined to certain nerves. In the head it is called neuralgia; in the hips and legs, sciatica; in the face, tiodoloreux, and in the chest intercostal neuralgia.

The application of dry heat affords relief from the lance-like pains, but the essential thing is to build up the exhausted nervous system by the persistent use of such a restorative as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. You will have other symptoms to warn you of the depleted condition of the nervous system, and this is your opportunity to restore to the body the energy and vigour of health.

While this great food cure is instilling new vitality into the starved nerve cells it is also forming new, firm flesh and tissue, and, by noting your increase in weight, you can prove beyond doubt the benefit being obtained by its use. This is Nature's way of curing diseases of the nerves, and it is the only way to obtain lasting benefit.

"CASCARETS" ALWAYS STRAIGHTEN YOU UP

If Costive, Headachy, Bilious, Stomach Sour, Breath Bad—Clean Your Liver and Bowels

Get a 10-cent box now.

You men and women who can't get feeling right—who have headache, coated tongue, foul taste and foul breath, dizziness, can't sleep, are bilious, nervous and upset, bothered with a sick, gassy, disordered stomach, or have backache and feel worn out.

Are you keeping your bowels clean with Cascarets, or merely forcing a passageway every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil.

Cascarets work while you sleep; cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested, fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system all the constipated waste matter and poison in the bowels.

A Cascaret to-night will straighten you out by morning—a 10-cent box from any drug store will keep your stomach sweet; liver and bowels regular, and head clear for months. Don't forget the children. They love Cascarets because they taste good—never grip or sicken.

SHOULD BORROW LESS.

Canada's Debts Pretty Heavy, Says London Financier.

LONDON, Jan. 24.—(C. A. P. Cable.)—Sir Edward Holden, famous banking authority, made an important speech yesterday on international finance and currency. After dealing with the position of France, Sir Edward referred at some length to Canada, United States and India.

Canada, he said, has borrowed in London during the past three years about £130,000,000 sterling. During 1913 she borrowed about £44,000,000. Her imports during 1913 amounted to about £127,000,000 sterling, and the interest which she has to pay in respect to the money borrowed is approximately at least £15,000,000. Her exports for the year amounted to about £80,000,000, therefore, after paying for her imports with her exports, she has to provide the sum of about £72,000,000 as her borrowings in this market have amounted to about £44,000,000. The balance of her indebtedness, for which provision has been made, amounts to about 28 millions sterling.

Judging from these facts it would appear, in Sir Edward's opinion to be the obvious duty of Canada to go slowly; expand less and borrow less, but it would be a mistaken policy for investors in the country to button up their pockets against further Canadian loans, so long as securities are of first-class character.

KIDNEY TROUBLE IS HEREDITARY?

But Dodd's Kidney Pills Always Cure It.

Dresden Man, Who Inherited Trouble, Finds Speedy Relief and Permanent Cure in Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"I inherited my Kidney Disease from my parents," Mr. Burkett states. "I was treated by a doctor, and tried various medicines, but it was not till about eighteen months ago when I started to use Dodd's Kidney Pills that I got any permanent relief.

"Since then I have not felt any effect of my old trouble, and I feel that anybody troubled with Kidney Disease will be benefitted by the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills of they follow directions closely.

"I hope that others may be helped by Dodd's Kidney Pills. I am well known here, any anybody who wishes more particulars of my cure can have them by writing me and enclosing stamps for reply."

Dodd's Kidney Pills never fail to cure any form of Kidney Disease.

PROGRAM TENTATIVE.

Anti-Trust Measures In Congress Still Open To Change.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—The anti-trust legislative program as outlined in bills made public Thursday, is not the last word in proposed remedial legislation to regulate big business. That the tentative measures submitted may be altered or extended was emphasized yesterday in both branches of Congress and the President let it be known that he did not consider the forms of the bills drafted closed.

Pursuant to the purpose of administration leaders to exhaust the subject, it was determined by the House judiciary and Senate interstate commerce commission not to introduce at the present time the interlocking directorate prohibition, definitions of restraint and specification of "unfair" competition. Hearings on the question are to be held before the bills go to Congress.

The interstate commerce commission bill introduced Thursday will be taken up to-day by the House interstate and foreign commerce commission, which may see fit to alter the provisions suggested by the judiciary sub-committee and Senator Newlands, chairman of the Senate interstate commerce commission. The fifth of the proposed bills, that to authorize Federal regulation of railroad securities, probably will not be drawn for several weeks.

PRINCE ESCAPED.

Kaiser's Son Object of Attempted Attack by Insurance Man.

BERLIN, Jan. 24.—An unsuccessful attempt to attack Crown Prince Frederick William of Germany was made yesterday afternoon as he was alighting from his automobile at his palace.

A man ran into the carriage way and reached the door of the motor car.

The sentry on duty in front of the palace dashed forward and seized the would-be assailant of the prince and overpowered him.

The man is believed to be suffering from mental derangement.

The crown prince has made himself unpopular among certain classes by his support of the army as against civilians.

Enquiry Begins on Tuesday.

QUEBEC, Jan. 24.—Two committees will be in session next week probing the charges of corruption preferred by The Montreal Daily Mail against three members of the Legislature.

After a short discussion yesterday afternoon it was resolved by the Legislative Council to appoint a committee composed of Hon. Messrs. Turgeon, Chapais, and Champagne, to investigate the charges against Hon. Messrs. Bergevin and Berard. The committee will hold its first sitting next Tuesday afternoon, on the same day that the committee of the Lower House sits to examine similar charges against Mr. J. O. Mousseau.

Confession Was False.

SOMERVILLE, N.J., Jan. 24.—Paul Carl, the young man who a week ago confessed that he was guilty of shooting Monroe F. Ellis, a wealthy lumberman of Basking Ridge, N.J., was yesterday discharged from custody. The county prosecutor told the court that Carl's confession had been proven false in every way.

Ellis was shot two years ago while sitting at dinner by somebody who fired a shotgun through the window. He recovered, but has been able to give the police no clue as to his assailant.

Best Treatment For All Complexion Ills

(From Woman's Tribune)

I'll tell you my panacea for all complexion troubles. If the skin be colourless, sallow, muddy, over-red, if it be rough, chapped, blotchy, or pimply, there's nothing that will so surely overcome the condition as ordinary mercolised wax. The wax literally takes off a bad complexion—absorbs the dead and near-dead particles of surface skin so gently, gradually, you experience no inconvenience at all. A new complexion is then in evidence, one so clear, spotless, delicately soft and beautiful, you look many years younger. One ounce of this wax, procurable at any druggtore, will rejuvenate even the worst complexion. It is smeared on like cold cream before retiring and removed morning with warm water. The mercolised wax habit is a healthier and more economical one than the cosmetic habit.

If the skin be wrinkled or creased, bathe it daily in a solution made by dissolving an ounce of powdered saxolite in a half pint witch hazel. This acts immediately, affecting even the deepest wrinkles.—Elsie Desmond.

Duke Not to Attend Ball.

OTTAWA, Jan. 24.—The following official bulletin has been issued from Government House:

"In view of the fact that Lord Strathcona's funeral is on the morning of Jan. 26, some modifications have been made as regards the ball at Quebec. His Royal Highness will not be present at the ball, but will attend a reception given by the Lieutenant-Governor at the Parliament buildings about 9.30 p.m. After the departure of His Royal Highness about 10.30 p.m. the ball will take place as originally arranged.

Toronto Man Murdered.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 24.—B. F. Parker, an Englishman who came to Los Angeles from Toronto, Ont., was shot through the heart by an unidentified assassin in the heart of the wholesale district late Thursday night.

Bystanders saw a heavily-bearded man running from the scene.

From letters and papers in the dead man's clothing it is believed his home was at 167 Albert road, London, and that he left there a year ago to come to America.

Athens Wants a Hustler.

KINGSTON, Jan. 24.—The village of Athens is out after a hustler for civic work. It is advertising for a man to discharge the following duties: Assessor, collector, village constable, janitor of town hall, caretaker of fire engine, fire inspector, weed inspector, sanitary inspector, truancy officer, collector of poll tax. He is to enforce all village bylaws and give his whole time to the service of the corporation.

BARBERS PRAISE NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE

As the Best Remedy for the Hair and Scalp

"I have been using Newbro's Herpicide for the last four years and find it the best thing made."

Joseph Pisserio,
1675 Richmond Terrace,
West Brighton, L. I., N. Y.

"I can truthfully say that Herpicide is the best remedy for the hair I have ever used."

O. A. Rathenbuecher,
Virden, Ill.

"I have used many preparations in my shop, and find Herpicide best of all for falling hair and all scalp or skin diseases."

J. A. Oliver,
Leslie, Ark.

"Newbro's Herpicide has always given the best of satisfaction."

S. M. Chambers,
Tenkwila, Wash.

While the barber necessarily carries other hair remedies, Newbro's Herpicide is one he swears by because he knows its merits. He can conscientiously recommend it to remove dandruff and stop falling hair. In making an application of Herpicide he feels and knows that the customer is receiving full value for his money and will be benefitted far in excess of his expectations.

Newbro's Herpicide in 50c and $1.00 sizes is sold by all dealers who guarantee it to do all that is claimed. If you are not satisfied your money will be refunded.

Send 10c in postage for sample and book on the hair to The Herpicide Co., Dept. R., Detroit, Mich.

JOHN BURNS TO GO?

Rumor Says Masterman Will Succeed Labor Minister.

LONDON, Jan. 24—The Daily ——— said, a Labor newspaper, claims to have authority to state that Charles Frederick Gurney Masterman, financial secretary to the treasury, will be promoted to the Cabinet, succeeding John Burns as President of the Local Government Board.

For some time, according to cables, John Burns has been losing his influence both with the Asquith Government and Laborites. It is alleged that he has shown a conspicuous lack of energy and interest in the duties of his office, to which a handsome stipend is attached.

Seeking to Influence Jury.

NEW YORK, Jan. 24. — Because someone has been writing anonymously to the jurors in the case, Justice Vernon M. Davis of the Supreme Court, before whom Hans Schmidt, a former priest, charged with the murder of Anas Aumuller, is on re-trial, yesterday earnestly cautioned the jurymen against discussing the case with anyone, and requested them to refrain from reading newspaper articles or communications relative to the crime.

Killed by Radial Car.

TORONTO, Jan. 24.—Residents in North Yonge street were horrified last night by the addition of another fatal accident to the long list already to the credit of high-speed radial cars. George James, 174 Woburn avenue, was the victim, and even the cutter he was driving was shattered to splinters. The horse was killed.

Arrested In Windsor.

WINDSOR, Jan. 24.—Thomas Kelly, alleged to be the pal of Chas. X. Leroy in the robbery of a Hamilton fur store, was arrested here yesterday. Detective Sayer of Hamilton has arrived to get the man.

D. D. D. Opens New Era In Cure Of Skin Disease

Mr. Corns' case of eczema was known to almost every hospital and physician of reputation throughout the City of Toronto. His letter is another interesting demonstration of what is being accomplished by the famous specific D. D. D., Prescription.

"I will consider it a favour of you will allow me to add my testimonials to the many hundreds you no doubt have in praise of the great cures effected by the D. D. D. Prescription. I was a sufferer for two years with eczema on the legs and ankles. I tried three or four different doctors and none of them did me any good. I got tired of trying their remedies. I then went to a skin specialist but he was no better than they.

I secured a trial bottle of D. D. D. and it did me so much good that I sent for a dollar bottle, also, a cake of soap. That is all I used, and I am perfectly well. You are at liberty to use my name for I consider D.D.D. the best remedy in use."

Sir Mackenzie Bowell Disputes Redistribution Bill Precedents.

OTTAWA, Jan. 24.—The contents of the speech from the throne and the naval question were again debated by the Senate yesterday. Senator Daniels, of St. John, Sir Mackenzie Bowell, of Belleville, Ont., and Domville, of Rothesay, N.B., being the speakers.

Senator Daniel took issue with Sir George Ross, who on Thursday described the Senate as a non-partisan body.

"How can that be when there is an Opposition in the Senate and Sir George himself is the leader?" asked Senator Daniel. "To whom is the Opposition. It is opposition to the Government. The Senate should be an independent body, and I favor making it independent of both parties."

Senator Daniel urged that the political parties should come together on the question of defence.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell referred to the cost of living problem. High wages went with the high prices, and the only ones affected by the higher prices of necessaries were those on stated wages.

With regard to redistribution, Sir Mackenzie took issue with Sir George Ross, who said the Senate had thrown out three redistribution bills. He had looked up the record and had found that none of the bills thrown out had been general redistribution bills introduced constitutionally after a census.

Senator Domville urged that the Maritime Provinces ports be given justice by the Government and be treated as generously as were western cities. He predicted that the people would demand satisfaction at the next election of the protectionists, who were now clasping Canada like an octopus.

The debate will continue Monday.

QUIT MEAT WHEN KIDNEYS BOTHER

Take a Glass of Salts if Your Back Hurts or Bladder Troubles You

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which excites the kidneys, they become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood, then we get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessnessan durinary disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, stop eating meat and get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate the kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active, and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

WHAT DYSPEPTICS SHOULD EAT

A PHYSICIAN'S ADVICE.

"Indigestion and practically all forms of stomach trouble are, nine times out of ten, due to acidity. Therefore stomach sufferers should whenever possible avoid eating food that is acid in its nature, or which by chemical action in the stomach develops acidity. Unfortunately, such a rule eliminates most foods which are pleasant to the taste as well as those which are rich in blood, flesh and nerve building properties. This is the reason why dyspeptics and stomach sufferers are usually so thin, emaciated and lacking in that vital energy which can only come from a well fed body. For the benefit of these sufferers who have been obliged to exclude from their diet all starchy, sweet or fatty food, and are trying to keep up a miserable existence on gluten products I would suggest that you should try a meal of any food or foods which you may like, in moderate amount, taking immediately afterwards a teaspoonful of bisurated magnesia in a little hot or cold water. This will neutralize any acid which may be present, or which may be formed, and instead of the usual feeling of uneasiness and fullness, you will find that your food agrees with you perfectly. Bisurated magnesia is doubtless the best food corrective and antacid known. It has no direct action on the stomach; but by neutralizing the acidity of the food contents, and thus removing the source of the acid irritation which inflames the delicate stomach lining, it does more than could possibly be done by any drug or medicine. As a physician I believe in the use of medicine whenever necessary, but I must admit that I cannot see the sense of dosing an inflamed and irritated stomach with drugs instead of getting rid of the acid—the cause of all the trouble. Get a little bisurated magnesia from your druggist, eat what you want at your next meal, take some of the bisurated magnesia as directed above, and see if I'm not right."

PETERBOROUGH, SATURDAY, JANUARY 24, 1914

WILL INTRODUCE A SNOW-CLEANING BY-LAW

At the Next Meeting of the Board of Works—Householders Will be Expected to Supplement the Work of the Ploughs.

COST OF PRESENT SYSTEM

Mute and oral evidence has been manifest of late regarding the manner in which the snow is removed from the City's streets. The whole citizen body, with the exception of the contractors, who are responsible for the snow ploughing in each of the districts, is almost unanimous in the opinion that the present system of snow removal is inadequate. Ratepayers complain that the contractors are not out early or frequent enough, while a couple of the contractors have back-fired with contradictory communications.

To remedy the difficulty Mayor Buller has conceived the possibility of introducing a compulsory snow-cleaning by-law. It is proposed to bring the prospective measure to the attention of the Board of Works at their next meeting. The idea is to retain the present system of snow ploughing and have the individual householder complete the work by shovelling out the sidewalk to a maximum width after the ploughs have passed.

Scheme is Workable.

City Engineer Parsons is of the opinion that the scheme would prove feasible. He does not approve of a snow cleaning measure that would abolish the snow ploughs, upon the grounds that many citizens with large property frontages would find it difficult to have their walks cleaned off in time to enable them to go to work. The snow ploughs would be required to make a path such as they do now, and the work could ultimately be completed by the householder.

The contractors claim that it is impossible to clean the walks off to the maximum width unless they are shovelled out, as suggested by Mayor Buller. The proposed by-law will also contain a clause implying the penalty that will be imposed for an infraction of the regulations. Householders will be allowed a certain number of hours in which to perform the statutory obligation.

Work for the Police.

In Toronto and many other cities, the householders are held responsible for the removal of the snow from the sidewalks, a rule which is strictly enforced by the Police Department. There are no snow ploughs to perform the initial operation, such as would be the case in Peterborough were such a by-law adopted here.

It practically means an extension to the outlying districts of the same regulations that apply within the fire limits of Peterborough at the present time. The snow ploughing contracts cost the City a little over one thousand dollars a season.

The Canada Life

Its 67th Report Another Splendid Statement

In 1913, despite tightness of money the Canada Assurance Company had another record year.

The policies paid for were for $15,349,000, bringing the total business up to $153,121,364.

The income for the year reached the enormous sum of $8,094,686, an increase of about $700,000 over that of the previous year.

The assets, which now stand at $52,161,795, were increased in 1913 by $3,860,000. The surplus earned was again a record one, and the total surplus is now $6,183,278.

The Canada Life has always been fortunate in its official heads, and while the recent death of Senator Cox must be deplored by all connected with it, yet he left behind him such an organization that the work of the Company will undoubtedly go on to even greater successes than the Company has yet known. Mr. E. W. Cox, the President, and his associates are devoted to the welfare of their Company, and with them in charge the policyholders may rest assured that their interests will be conserved to the very best advantage.

RAIN DRENCHED PARTY THAT WENT TO KEENE

A party of local young people attended a masquerade ball in Keene last night and left about three o'clock this morning for home. They made the journey in an open bus and faced a beautiful downpour of rain, the accompaniment of a genuine January thaw. The City was reached about 6 o'clock, and it was a more or less bedraggled bunch that endeavoured to snatch a couple of winks before the beginning of the new day.

MR. BURPEE WAS IN THE CITY

In Connection With the Street Lighting System of the Hydro Electric

SOLE CUSTOMER

Mr. L. P. Burpee, electrical expert of the Canadian General Electric Co., of Toronto, was in the City yesterday, and in company with Mayor Buller and Ald. Johnston, chairman of the Power committee, went over the new magnetite arc lighting system. The trip concerned some globes that have been broken and a few other minor items. Mr. Burpee expressed satisfaction at the way the system is working.

The City constitutes the sole exclusive customer of the Hydro Electric at the present time. This condition will continue until such time as new work is installed and the City is in a position to supply power to the individual consumer.

ROBERT BURNS, THE PLOUGH BOY POET

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Every reader of The Examiner, "The Farmer's Business Paper," should remember the 25th day of January, for on that day one hundred and fifty-eight years ago was born the world's greatest poet. Son of a small tenant farmer with less educational advantages than there are within reach of any farmer's son in Ontario, dying when he was only thirty-eight years of age, this Scotch plough-boy has made the world ring with his fame.

Some young people leave Ontario farms because they say the hard work and small returns leave them no spare time or money for personal culture. Life on an ordinary Ontario farm is easy and affluent in comparison with what Robbie Burns experienced.

What has the plough-boy accomplished? When only sixteen he dreamed

"E'en then a wish, I mind its power,
A wish that to my latest hour,
Shall always fill my breast,
That I for dear old Scotland's sake
Some useful plow or benk may make
Or write a sang at least."

At another time he writes, grieving over the fact that white streams and rivers of other countries were famous in song and story still.

"Lugar, Afton, Ayr and Doon, Naehody sings."

This plough-boy, in his short hard life, has by his songs made Scotland known and loved all over the world, By his songs:

"Flow gently sweet Afton,"
"Ayr gurgling kissed her pebbled shore,"
"Beside yon banks where Lugar Flows," and
"Ye banks and braes of Bonny Doon," he has made these Scottish streams the best known in the world.

The proud titled imperious dames of his day, some of them with the blood of a hundred earls coursing through their veins, are gone and forgotten; we do not even know their names to-day.

Burns, the plough-boy, loved the dairymaid, Highland Mary, and by his songs has made her one of the best known women in the world. There is not an opera house, music or concert hall, where people of culture meet, but Burns and the Highlands are known and loved.

Every farm house should have a copy of Burns' poems. Invite the great Scottish bard to be a guest in your home. Become intimate with him. Study the

AN OVERHEAD BRIDGE FOR HUNTER ST.

Peterboro' Radial Company Signify Their Willingness to Consider the Question of Sharing in Cost

STREET CAR SERVICE

Some months ago the City Council gave consideration to the possibility of building an overhead bridge to cross the Otonabee River, over Hunter Street. The matter was shelved at the time, owing to the many apparent difficulties that confronted the Council. Not the least of these was the cost. It was presumed that the Peterborough Radial Railway Company would share a portion of the cost of construction in anticipation of the Company extending their street railway line to East City.

Yesterday Mr. W. H. Munro, local Manager of the Company, informed the Council that he would ask the directorate of the Peterborough Radial Railway Company to give the matter consideration. This is taken to mean that they will determine the amount that they are willing to contribute towards the construction of a new bridge providing street railway facilities are allowed.

This move should meet with approval of the citizens of East End, as they have long wished for a street railway service.

AMBULANCE ASSOCIATION WILL ASK FOR PULMOTOR

Consider that the City should Purchase one and will ask the Council

St. John's Ambulance Association, Peterborough Corps, will urge upon the City Council the purchase of a pulmotor. They consider that, it would be invaluable for resuscitation work in cases of drowning, suffocation, electrocution, etc.

The Association asks for the support of the ratepayers, employees and employers, in their efforts to secure this aid in the restoration of respiration. The pulmotor is in general use in the British Isles, and many Canadian cities have purchased these instruments.

MR. THOMPSON IS LEAVING PETERBORO'

Popular Physical Director of the Y.M.C.A. Has Resigned to Accept an Important United States Position

WILL BE MISSED

Peterborough is about to lose one of its most useful citizens. Mr. J. J. Thompson, Physical Director of the local branch of the Young Men's Christian Association, has tendered his resignation to the Board of Directors to take effect the first of May. His new field of labour will be in the State of Maine, where he has accepted the position of "Special Community Work Secretary," under the direction of the Maine State Committee of the Young Men's Christian Association. He will have charge of Community Work in the southern part of the State in the vicinity of Portland. It is simply another case of honest, faithful work recognized and rewarded.

MAY OBSTRUCT HOME RULE BILL

Special Cable to The Examiner:

LONDON, ENG., Jan. 24.— Special Cable.)—The younger Unionists are seriously considering adopting the extreme obstructionist policy on the Home Rule Bill in Parliament advocated by Garvin in the Pall Mall Gazette. They will probably centre their efforts around the army annual bill, endeavouring to force their leaders to hold up the annual acts in the Lords, or only grant renewal with Ulster excluded from disciplinary clauses. Such policy would be frankly revolutionary, as the failure to pass the Army Act before April 30 makes the standing army illegal after that date and would involve a disbandment of the forces

CAMPBELL IS HANGED AT MONTREAL

In a Signed Statement He Claimed That He Was the Victim of a Detectives' Frame-up

GUARD FAINTED

Special Wire to The Examiner:

MONTREAL, Jan. 24.— Wm. Campbell, coloured, was hanged this morning for the murder of Geo. Muir with whom he quarrelled over a woman. Just before execution this morning the condemned man asked permission to address a small group of people gathered in the death room, but Sheriff Lemieux would not permit it. Just as the trap door was sprung one of the jail guards fainted with a terrible shriek, causing much excitement. Campbell was a Virginian. He was wanted in Cincinnati for the alleged murder of two women settlement workers. In a signed statement left with jailors, Campbell said he was the victim of a frame up by detectives. He warned all coloured men to beware of the entanglements of white women.

REV. A. G. PEEVER WILL SPEAK ON HOW TO IMPROVE CONDITIONS

At the Sunday evening service in the George street Methodist church, Rev. R. J. Peever will speak upon how the moral life of the City may be improved.

Rev. Mr. Peever was present at the last meeting of the Police Commissioners and made a brief reference to the petition which the Women's Council presented. His experience in Ottawa, his observations since coming to Peterborough, and his general knowledge, should equip him with interesting and valuable material.

"Just one kiss," murmured the book keeper.
The pretty stenographer pointed to a placard.
"No goods at retail," it stated.
So he took the lot.

LOOKS LIKE A WIN FOR THE COAL PORTERS

Chose a Strategic Moment for a Strike and One of Largest Dealers has Already Yielded.

THE LABOUR SITUATION

Special Cable to The Examiner:

LONDON, ENG., Jan. 24.—(Special Cable.)—The first skirmish in London's labour war seems like ending in a victory for the men. The coal porters chose a strategic moment for a strike, the weather here being bitterly cold. They have carried out the strike policy with Napoleonic ruthlessness, refusing supplies even to the hospitals. Cornwall, one of the largest coal dealers, has already yielded to their demand for an extra penny an hour. This strike came unexpectedly, creating general uneasiness. Coal stoppage for one week would throw several hundred thousand Londoners out of work. The building trade lockout which is now looming immediately ahead, will involve much distress. If the coal porters win, there is likelihood of more labour trouble in London. There are many signs of unrest among the unskilled workers here, particularly those associated with the transport trades. The Times has aroused some discussion by proposing that the coal porters should present the country with a practical example of syndicalism by uniting and becoming coal sellers themselves, showing London how business should be conducted.

THE PROSPECT FOR BUILDING

New Catholic Church in East City is Only Construction Work Promised

OTHER ACTIVITIES MAYBE

Reviewing the building prospects for the distant season, a local contractor stated that it has been years since a situation similar to the present has been experienced. Of course it is much too early to begin talking building activity, but in past years you could count the number of big buildings that were to be erected. Just now the year looks doubtful. There is plenty of optimism following fast upon a feeling of insecurity and no one can tell what undertakings will be begun this year. A new Government dam, near the City, should be begun. The contract for the work has been let. About the only building that is regarded as assured is a new Catholic Church in East City. This will be one of the first works of Bishop O'Brien. Another new Church has been spoken of, and it may be commenced this year. There is bound to be quite a number of residences erected, and real estate agents state that prospects for business this year are decidedly bright, much better than the average citizen realizes.

Canadian Club Thursday Night

The Canadian Club will be honoured on Jan. 29th with a visit from Dr. James W. Robertson, C.M.G., L.L.D.

Dr. Robertson was born in Ayrshire, Scotland, and came to Canada in 1875. He was appointed Professor of Dairying at the Ontario Agricultural College and from that to first Dairy Commissioner of Canada. He was later Principal of McDonald College, St. Anne de Bellvue.

Dr. Robertson has held several important public positions, among others that of Honorary Secretary of the Provisional Committee for the establishment of a fund for founding the Victorian Order of Nurses in Canada, and is to-day one of the Board of Governors of this Order.

He is Chairman of the Central Board of Aberdeen Association of Canada, an association for the distribution of good literature to settlers in the newer and remote parts of Canada.

H is a member of the Executive Committee of the Canadian Association for the Prevention of uberculosis, and is Chairman of the Lands' Committee of the Commission for the Conservation of the Natural Resources of Canada.

Dr. Robertson's most important position, however, is that of Chairman of the Royal Commission on Industrial Training and Technical Education, which has recently completed its labours.

Dr. Robertson finds time to visit Canadian Clubs, in which association he takes a deep interest, and the Peterborough Club are fortunate in being able to have him here on Thursday, January 29th.

"Not Guilty" Says McClay

John McClay came before His Honour Judge Huycke this morning, charged with supplying drugs to a waitress in a local hotel, for an illegal purpose. He had been committed for trial by Magistrate Dumble, on the evidence of the 19-year-old girl to whom he is alleged to have supplied the drugs, and the testimony of a local medical practitioner who attended the girl.

This morning McClay, through his counsel, Mr. V. J. McElderry, pleaded "not guilty" to the charge against him. He was remanded until Monday, when he will come up for trial at 10.30 o'clock.

Mr. Joseph Wearing, of Wood and Wearing, conducted the prosecution

ODDFELLOWS' FREE MONTHLY CONCERT

Peterborough Lodge of Oddfellows' free monthly concert is being looked forward to with pleasing anticipation each month. January concert will take place on Thursday, January 29th.

In addition to the unusually good talent which has accepted the lodge's invitation to take part on the programme there will be an unusually interesting address by an expert on "Architecture." The different styles will be described and sketched, and their evolution lucidly dealt with.

Here the Grecian, Roman, Corinthian, Gothic, Doric, and their various combinations will be fully explained.

In architecture the upward evolution of man can be traced. There is a wide difference between the tree and cave dweller and the great structures that excite the wonder and awe of modern days.

This monthly concert is given free by the Peterborough lodge of Oddfellows to the brethren and their friends Every Oddfellow is invited to attend and to bring his lady friends.

A BIG LEEWAY

The man who quits his advertising in January and February will inevitably find when he comes back, that he has got a big leeway to make up over those in business who have been keeping everlastingly at it. Then, too, the discontinuing of your advertising tends to jolt the buyers shopping habits. They have been accustomed to be reminded by your regular advertised store news, and, if its continuity is broken the chances are they will switch over to another store or try another line of merchandise.

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unparalleled."

SATURDAY, JAN. 24, 1914

A GOOD REPORT.

A feature of the annual meeting of the Toronto Loan and Savings Company was the excellent character of the report presented, both in regard to the increased earnings and stability of the Company. The net earnings for the year under review, with all demands in respect of interest charges and management provided for, were, including the balance of $53,239.54 from last year, $210,334.55. With this amount available for distribution, four quarterly dividends, at the rate of ten per cent. were paid; $50,000 was added to the Reserve, and a balance of $60,334.55 carried forward to Profit and Loss. The amount of $50,000 added to Reserve, brings the total of this fund up o the important figure of $850,000 or 85 per cent. of the paid-up capital. This strengthening of the stability of the Company is a further encouragement to public confidence, which is further encouraged and warranted by the satisfactory meeting of payments in respect of loans, as well as rentals, a fact that argues careful and conservative business methods in the management. As was to be expected, the report referred to the death of the President of the Company, Hon. Geo. A. Cox, to whose occupation of the presidency of the Company, since its organization its present strong and efficient position is largely attributed. Mr. E. W. Cox, (President of the Canada Life), was elected President, and Messrs. W. G. Morrow and Richard Hall, Vice Presidents. The Directors are Messrs. E. R. Wood, H. C. Cox and D. W. Dumble.

A SANATORIUM.

The request of the Health Association to the City Council to vote $10,000 towards the erection of a consumption sanatorium, is one that cannot be ignmore or lightly set aside. Apart, altogether, from the arguments that can be advanced in favour of the abstract principle of establishing such a great medium of benefaction, the claims of humanity and of duty to our afflicted fellow citizens, and the urgent necessity should "plead like angels' trumpet tongued" for the establishment of a local sanatorium. When we recall the large number of persons in our community who are in the thrall of tuberculosis, many of them without monetary or other means, or suitable homes, and who are wasting away day by day in our sight, we have the necessity ow a healing home fairly thrust upon us. The necessity is all the greater because we have no really free sanatorium for consumptives. It is nominally free but, in spite of that, patients are subjected to considerable cost —have themselves to buy, or go without, the specially nourishing food which is one of the chief elements of cure or amelioration. It does not seem that we have an available 'free' sanatorium that is, free from the indifferent or neglectful attention given to those patients, who are unforunate enough to be unable to command expensive private wards—where too often, the comfort care and attention are proportional to money paid,, and not gauged by considerations of duty or humanity.

Ten thousand dollars is a large sum; yet who would think of balancing that with the value of human lives? There may be many who reason that the matter does not personally concern them. But it does. They may now be free; but an insidious and persistent, burrowing and pervading scourge like consumption, if unchecked or unneutralised, may strike anywhere at any time.

If the city should give $10,000, the Health Association undertakes to provide, with the government grant of $4,000, another $10,000. As for a site that is in effect already provided. The proposal of the Health Association, which is doing a noble work in guarding and protecting the only thing that makes life worth living—health —is not one for argument; it is a matter for sympathetic and serious consideration. It is one that involves the happiness of hundreds of homes in Peterborough and the health and lives of hundreds of our fellow citizens. If by money payment we could banish the mournful processions, that pass through our streets, bearing to the cemeteries, the bodies of the victims of tuberculosis, there would be no question of payment. A sanatorium for consumptives would not obviate all of this, but it would so to a very large extent, and would in many cases substitute life for death, substitute skillful tending and healing treatment for lingering sufferings in homes, that are now darkened and destroyed as to home life, by the presence of tuberculous visitation of one of its inmates.,

INDEPENDENCE OF REPRESENTATION.

The Montreal Mail prints specific charges against three members of the Quebec Legislature of accepting bribes to promote a certain private bill. The charges are very circumstantial, naming the time, the place, the man, and the amount of the several bribes. One of the members charged is a prominent Montreal lawyer, a member of the Legislature from a division in the city. The Globe points out that "this incident brings up the question of the relation of such members of the legal profession as become members of Parliament, to their constituents and their clients." I is said to be a common practice of lawyers who are also members of the House, to promote private bills, and accept heavy fees therefor in addition to drawing their sessional indemnity, supposed to be paid as compensation for loss sustained by necessary neglect of their private business, in the work of doing the public business. That such a practice is contrary to the principles of good government and a menace to its integrity, is hardly questionable. The fees paid a lawyer-legislator are, strictly regarded, only another form of the bribery with which the Quebec member of the legal profession is charged.

The independence of parliament, and of civic and provincial legislatures should be held as something sacred. Party zeal and loyalty do enough to sap in one sense the independence of the ordinary member, without destroying it by the acceptance of valuable considerations. Law and custom are both strong against any violation of the principle of a representative accepting any consideration, either by way of contract or fees for legislative services that will impair, or tend to impair, his absolute independence of action in the discharge of his duty to his constituents, or the public, whose servant he also is. The law forbids a member of a municipal council to take any contract in connection with the erection or equipment of even a school building. This is something with which a councillor or alderman has only the most indirect official connection; but the law evidently contemplated the avoidance of the very appearance of evil, or even a shadow of temptation. We must have, or have had, a mixed quality of conscience in such matters on our aldermanic board. We are told of aldermen ignoring the letter of the law and the letter of their obligation in relation to contracts; and in compensation we are told that a legal member of last year's council, refused lucrative professional business from a firm which had more or less direct business relations or dealings with the city council, of which he was a member. He may have been able to serve two masters, but he did not choose to do so. He chose the safe course, to keep himself clear of any possibility of a charge that his independence as an aldermanic representative was affected by considerations of personal profit, from professional and business relations, whose demands might be easily incompatible with his duties as a representative of the people.

My Easy Way For You
TO OWN YOUR HOME

If you have or ever intend to have a wife and family you must have a home by renting or buying. Doubtless you have read my ad. in the Examiner, where I offer to do for you as I have done for others, viz., to guide you to a home of your own, on as easy terms as you now have, paying rent.

If you rent you pay for ever, and have nothing to show. If you buy you have a valuable property to use, rent or sell. You are a man amongst men, with a stake in the country, honoured and respected, not a floater, here to-day and away to-morrow. My desire to sell and retire causes me to offer prices and terms that will never be repeated; so close to work and in the way of the City's growth. Come in and see plans; get full particulars, then you can lay out your plans for early Spring action.

T. HURLEY
Cor. Stewart and Hunter Sts.

A Word To The Wise

The exceptional conditions prevailing during the last year have made it possible for us to offer to shrewd investors some great bargains in real estate.

You can purchase through us several properties at from one-half to two-thirds their real value, that will in the Spring be in demand for building purposes owing to their location in the heart of the section which saw such phenomenal building activity last year.

Reports show that business in all lines is picking up and 1914 is said to promise the greatest development for Canada that she has yet enjoyed.

Will Peterborough get her share? You should worry and get yours.

NEWS FORECAST FOR THE COMING WEEK

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 24.—Arguments in the Government's civil suit against the Chicago Butter and Egg Board for alleged violations of the Sherman anti-trust law are scheduled to begin Monday before Judge Landis in the Federal Court at Chicago.

Wednesday will be widely celebrated as the birthday anniversary of President William McKinley. One of the most notable of the observances will be a banquet given by the Ohio Society of Washington. Justice Day of the Supreme Court of the United States will preside and addresses will be delivered by Senator Sherman of Illinois and other men of national prominence.

Arrangements are being made by organized labour to give a big dinner in the Capital Tuesday night in honour of Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labour. The occasion will be Mr. Gompers' sixty-fourth birthday anniversary.

A special meeting of the directors of the National Independent Telephone Company will be held in Chicago Friday to discuss the proposed agreement with the American Telegraph and Telephone Company. The agreement provides a plan of co-operation between the American Company's long-distance lines and the local independent companies, which it is said, has been approved by the Federal Government.

Important developments are expected to follow the annual conference of the British Labour party, which is to begin its sessions in Glasgow, Wednesday. The conference will be the first that the Labour party has held since it became lawful for trade unions to apply funds to political objects. In consequence of the new conditions that have arisen the party conference is expected to adopt an unusually strong electoral and parliamentary policy.

HE MUST SOON FALL

Huerta Near to End of His Tether, Declare U. S. Officials

DR. LA BARRA IS MENTIONED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—Conviction in administration circles that the Huerta regime in Mexico is rapidly approaching the collapse which has been persistently predicted has led to much discussion here of the nature of John Lind's frequent conferences with Mexican leaders. Belief is freely expressed that President Wilson's representative is surveying the situation with a view to determining how events will shape themselves when the Huerta structure falls.

Mr. Lind's latest conferences with Jesus Flores Magon and other Mexican statesmen have interested members of the diplomatic corps who pointed out last night that in view of President Wilson's reiterated statements that he would not recognize Huerta nor any of the things he stands for, the American envoy might very naturally be induced to throw out hints as to what type of man would meet with the approval at the White House. They thought that Mexicans would in all likelihood embrace an opportunity to sound Mr. Lind informally as to the acceptability of various leaders who might arise when the crisis is reached.

So far as the officials here are advised, the vicissitudes which preceded the Madero revolt and followed the downfall of that leader's stormy incumbency of the Presidency, have not detracted from the high standing which Francisco de la Barra, at present Minister to France, attained as the man of the hour when Gen. Diaz was forced to abdicate. Senor de la Barra then was brought forward as the leader, who as Provisional Presidents here believe de la Barra could again compose the situation in Mexico, so as to permit of the choice of a successor to Huerta.

PALL-BEARERS NAMED.

Lansdowne and Aberdeen Among Those at Strathcona Funeral.

LONDON, Jan. 24.—The announcement was made last night that the ten pall-bearers to act at Lord Strathcona's funeral on Monday will include Lord Lansdowne, Lord Aberdeen, Colonial Secretary Harcourt, Rev. George Adam Smith (Principal of Aberdeen University), Sir William Osler, Sir Thomas Skinner, and W. L. Griffith (Secretary at the High Commissioner's office).

In conformity with the wishes of the family the funeral will be of as private a character as possible, despite the fact that a national tribute is being paid to his memory. The coffin will be borne in an open hearse, which, with the mourners and carriages, will proceed from Grosvenor Square to Westminster Abbey by way of upper Grosvenor street, Park Lane, Grosvenor Gardens and Victoria street. The procession to Highgate will be by way of Whitehall, Trafalgar Square, Charing Cross road, Tottenham Court road, and Hampstead road.

IN FEAR OF A FLOOD

Ice Jam on St. Lawrence Gives Rise To Anxiety.

MORRISBURG, Ont., Jan. 24.—There has been uneasiness felt along this section of the St. Lawrence river this week owing to an ice bridge having formed between the head of Croil's Island and the Farran's Point Canal. Ice bridges at the head of the Long Sault Rapids have on two or three occasions in the past thirty years brought on huge ice jams, with the resultant backing up of the water of the mighty St. Lawrence, sending the waters inland from the shore line, and causing much damage between Farran's Point and Morrisburg, besides incidentally providing a spectacular show ranking among the most impressive on the continent. During the present winter there has been some unusually cold weather, also a large amount of snow, conditions making for ice jams at the Sault.

Here a current prevents the river from freezing, and masses of ice are daily floating down stream. Men in the employ of the Massena Power Co., together with volunteer workers, are at work with dynamite and axes, and have hopes of saving the situation.

ANNOYING DANDRUFF

Will Make Canada a Bald-Headed Nation if Not Checked

M. Pasteur, the great French Physician of Paris, once said: "I believe we shall one day rid the world of all diseases caused by germs."

Dandruff is caused by germs, a fact accepted by all physicians.

Dandruff is the root of all hair evils. If it were not for the little destructive germs working with a persistency worthy of a better cause, there would be no baldness.

Parisian Sage will kill the dandruff germs and remove dandruff in two weeks or money back.

It will stop itching scalp, falling hair and make the hair grow thick and abundant.

It puts life and lustre into the hair and prevents it from turning grey.

It is the hair dressing par excellence, daintily perfumed and free from grease and stickiness. It is the favourite with women of taste and culture who know the social value of fascinating hair.

Comes in large 50-cent bottle at the Warner Drug Co. and leading druggists and toilet goods counters everywhere. "The Girl with the Auburn Hair" is on every package.

TO FORTIFY HAWAI

U. S. Measure Guards Against Surprise in the Pacific

NAVAL BASE IS PLANNED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—An extensive system of land fortifications for the Hawaiian Islands is proposed in the annual fortifications appropriation bill, reported to the House yesterday. The bill would provide $457,000 to build fortifications as a part of the War Department's plan to establish a strong military post supplemented to the Hawaiian naval base.

Major-Gen. Wood, Chief of Staff, told the appropriations sub-committee that fortifications of the Islands was an absolute necessity in order that the naval base might be defended and maintained as a protection to the Pacific coast and the Panama Canal. Secretary Garrison outlined the War Department's plans to the committee.

"The Hawaiian Islands," said Gen. Wood, "are really in the centre of all the Pacific trade routes, and whoever holds them will exercise very great influence, if not control in time of war, on the Pacific trade. The importance of holding these Islands securely fortified, as a naval base, is of the greatest, because any enemy from the west of us desiring to attack either the Pacific coast or the Panama Canal has got to leave these Islands in his rear in order to do so, and I doubt if any well-considered hostile expedition would venture to assume such a risk, as it would necessitate the movement of troops and supplies of all kinds through waters in which we would hold a strongly fortified base, giving adequate protection to our ships, and so situated as to give an opportunity make sudden and unexpected attacks upon the enemy's lines of communication, jeopardizing his transport of men and supplies.

"The Panama Canal has been a strong additional reason for doing this, but the defence of the Pacific coast is also a reason, I think the fundamental reason."

GOT RID OF BRONCHITIS

The worst feature of bronchitis is the tendency to return year after year until the system is worn out and gives way to consumption, or other disease.

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine owes much of its great popularity to the fact that it positively cures bronchitis, and this is about as severe a test as can be made of a medicine of this kind.

Mr. W. H. Walker, Calmar, Alta., writes: "I am pleased to say that Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine has done much good to myself, wife and children. My eldest girl, seven years, had bronchitis, and the doctor who attended her did not seem to do much good. We got Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linsed and Turpentine for her, and she soon got well. We always keep this medicine in the house now ready for use, and find that it soon cures coughs and colds."

In fighting diseases of the throat and lungs half the battle is in having Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine at hand to be used promptly. This is why many people prefer to buy the large family size bottle.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS

The Dominion Department of Public Works has called for bids for the erection of a new public building in Walkerville, to cost $80,000.

The Japanese Diet favor reducing from 150 to 80 millions the suggested appropriation for naval expenditures. Twelve dreadnoughts were on the program.

After an illness extending over six weeks the death occurred yesterday at Kingston of Wm. R. Dick, bursar of Rockwood Asylum. Mr. Dick was 58 years of age.

The British transatlantic steamship lines say they are not parties to the North Atlantic Steamship Association organized Thursday at the shipping conference in Paris.

The death occurred Thursday night of a well-known resident of Woodstock in the person of Willie Currie, who passed away after an illness of three weeks' duration.

A severe earthquake occurred yesterday at Lepanto, Greece. Almost every house in the town was more or less damaged, and the fortress partially wrecked, but nobody was injured.

Novel Wedding Anniversary.

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—The 400 shivering, unkempt men who formed the bread line at the Bowery mission had only pleasant memories of the novel way in which Mr. and Mrs. Finley Shepard celebrated their first wedding anniversary. Mrs. Shepard was formerly Miss Helen Gould.

Instead of the usual bread and coffee, each hungry wayfarer received a hot roast beef sandwich, coffee, pie, crullers and fruit at the expense of Mr. and Mrs. Shepard.

Crane Runs Foul of Wires.

STRATFORD, Jan. 24. — A big crane on the Grand Trunk's Goderich line, running over the Wellington street bridge yesterday, went foul of many telephone, telegraph and fire alarm wires. Nine fire alarm boxes were put out of commission.

W. C. T. U. NOTES

WOMAN'S SUFFRAGE AND TEMPERANCE.

To the Editor of the Globe: Having been interested in the cause of woman suffrage from my keen temperance convictions I have been now forced to the conclusion that if woman suffrage gains a foothold in this Province it must be on other grounds than that of this great issue.

At the present time every woman temperance worker in Ontario is, I live, on the side of the political party which promises the best measures for abolishing the awful vice of drink. In taking this position women are not being disloyal to any party traditions. They do not feel they must sink or swim with a particular party. They can work whole-heartedly for measures, not men. Were women divided into party fighting lines of Liberal and Conservative with all the attendant political considerations my belief is that temperance work would not receive as enthusiastic and disinterested support as under present conditions. This seems to be borne out by the fact that Senator Robinson hardly mentioned the temperance work of the women of the pioneer suffrage State in her lecture the other night.

A letter in The Congregationalist of 11th September, 1913, gives some striking evidence. It says that the bill granting women the right to vote for statutory offices in Illinois was signed June 23, and just twenty days later the first steps were taken in forming women's organizations to aid the "wets" in future campaigns. On that night the Women's Liberty Club was organized in affiliation with the United Societies, which are sustained by the liquor interests. The Secretary of these societies wrote in The Chicago Record-Herald of July 13: "Now that suffrage is a reality we shall organize our women and expect to have no difficulty in getting results at the polls." The women of whom Mr. Cormack speaks are chiefly those who will have to be taught how to register, and how to cast their votes. The temperance sentiment has been strong in Canada, but it is now being confronted by an organized foreign vote, controlled by the liquor interests. This vote they look forward to doubling in the event of women suffrage becoming a reality.

A recent brewery prospectus gives a striking sidelight on this. It says: "The rapid growth of Western Canada makes this time most opportune for the establishment of a new brewery. More than 40 per cent. of the population of Western Canada was born out of Canada, and over 75 per cent. of this emigrant population comes from beer-drinking countries."

No sane person, says Mr. Foxcroft, doubts the sincerity of Miss Adams, and other women of her type who laboured for suffrage in Illinois. They wanted to purify politics and improve the condition of women. But what have they done? They have put into the hands of the forces of evil a new and powerful weapon. At present the women who are up and doing have the grand channel for temperance work and agitation, those who are indifferent to the cause do not matter, and those who are opposed have no power to do harm.

May this not be an explanation why no woman suffrage State has been able to secure prohibition, while nine man suffrage States have it? This, too, in face of the fact that the women of suffrage States are being implored by suffragists all over the world to legislate for temperance and moral reform, because of the effect elsewhere on the work for equal franchise. Senator Robinson said that woman suffrage had passed the academic stage in Colorado. May we not then reasonably expect it to have reached the practical?

Mrs. Anna Kelly, in the Detroit Free Press, says somewhat the same thing as a Colorado correspondent said in the Globe last summer: "I know that conditions in my own State are not bettered after nineteen years of equal franchise, and nineteen years is long enough to try it out." That both Colorado and New Zealand defeated prohibition must mean something. What does it mean?

Yours in a vital cause,

Temperance.

LONDON, Jan. 24.—The River Platte Fresh Meat Co. and Jas. Nelson & Sons, two of the largest British concerns in the meat trade, have amalgamated. The amalgamation was brought about, it is said, in order effectively to fight the invasion of Great Britain by American meat concerns.

COMMODORE BENEDICT EIGHTY YEARS OLD

Examiner Special:

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—Commodore E. C. Benedict, for many years a leading figure in financial and yachting circles in New York, reached his eightieth birthday anniversary today. He expects to live to enjoy quite a few more birthdays, as the members of his family for several generations have lived to an average age of eighty-five years. Mr. Benedict spends the greater part of the year, when he is not aboard his yacht, at his home in Greenwich, Conn. He has been more or less closely connected with the banking and brokerage business in this city since 1860, when he became a clerk in a stock broker's office. Seven years later he embarked in business for himself. He originated the Gold Exchange Bank, which grew out of gold speculation during and after the Civil War, and, in later years he made the handling of gas stocks his specialty. Mr. Benedict was long a close personal friend of Grover Cleveland.

Turn in the Investment Security is Nothing Short of Remarkable —Gold is Plentiful

HELP YOURSELF

Montreal Tramways.

Rumours that a new issue of Montreal Tramways common will be made before long, and also that franchise matters are now being rapidly arranged and further rumours concerning the possibility of dividends on Tram-Power stocks are spoken of in Thornton, Davidson and Company's weekly letter.

Mexican Bonds.

German bankers are stated to be taking steps to look after the interests of their investors in Mexican bonds.

While the Imperial Government is not expected to take any political measures in the connection, it is understood the banks will have its moral support.

A good deal of despondency exists in many quarters over the failure to bring the present unfortunate political mess in Mexico to an end in some shape or form.

Any kind of a termination would be a relief compared with the present uncertainty.

A Remarkable Turn.

The turn in the investment security market in London is nothing short of remarkable.

Attention is called in that relation to the failure of the New South Wales loan of a few weeks ago compared with the oversubscription of the Victoria, Australia loan announced yesterday.

Reports from London say that the demand for investment issue amounts to practically a boom.

Sometimes conditions make for a sharper change in sentiment than ordinary precedents lead people to expect.

Gold Plentiful.

Gold must be getting plentiful when one nation does not mind another helping itself to a few millions, says the Montreal Star.

The yellow metal has been so persistently accumulated on all hands that with declining trade balances there may not be so much need for it as was anticipated.

Like Alphonse and Gaston, one country may be ere long urging another to help itself from the supply on hand.

One can readily imagine the dialogue: "I beg of you, my dear Alphonse, to help yourself."

"No, my dear Gaston, not until you have had all you require," etc.

28,000,000 Tons Yearly.

The Transvaal Chamber of Mines, which has made a calculation on the life of the Rand gold-mining industry, estimates that for the next five years the rate of crushing will be maintained at 28,00,000 tons per annum, but owing to the exhaustion of some of the mines the quantity of ore crushed 17 years hence will be reduced to 14,000,000 tons annually.

THE MARKETS

CHICAGO, Jan. 23.—Wheat showed buoyancy today, notwithstanding evidence of free realizing sales on each fractional advance. Liberal export demand had much to do with sending prices higher. CLOCK AND ADDRESS PRESENTED TO MR. O. N. DODDS, BENSFORT

Mr. D. N. Dodds of Bensfort was pleasantly surprised a few days ago upon his return home from his honeymoon spent in Western Ontario. The members of the choir of the Centreville Presbyterian Church waited upon him at his residence and presented their felicitations upon his entry into matrimony and accompanied their expressions of regard with a handsome clock. Mr. Dodds has been leader of the choir for nearly twenty-five years. His marriage took place in Exeter, Ont., at New Year's to Jacobina Laing, daughter of Philip Laing. The address from the Centreville Presbyterian choir was read by Mrs. Jas. Greer and Mr. J. Ishister made the presentation. The address was as follows:

Dear Mr. Dodds—On the occasion of your marriage it was the unanimous wish of the choir to express in some way our appreciation of your long and faithful service. It is true that you have served without thought of acknowledgment of any kind. You have served the Head of the Church, and His smile and blessing are your best reward.

It is also true that many have served faithfully all through life, and neither coveted nor obtained any earthly acknowledgment.

But that need not hinder us, as opportunity occurs, from expressing, as we wish to do now, our genuine respect for you, and for your loyal service to Centreville Church. It affords us real pleasure to do so, and we hope it may add something to your happiness.

We have enjoyed your fellowship in the work of the choir. It has been a pleasure to be associated with you leading the praise of the Church, and we hope still to have your co-operation and leadership.

On behalf of the choir, we have the greatest pleasure in presenting this clock to you as an expression of affection and good will. May it long adorn the mantel shelf of your living room, and may its cheerful "tick, tick" constantly remind you of the devotion and love of friends in Centreville Church.

In the presence of your good lady, I am not going to extol your virtues. But these are well known. Your genial disposition, your kindliness, your wise management of affairs (I leave Mr. Dodds to find out your failings), I have not the pleasure of intimacy with your wife. But all accounts speak well of her, and the fact that she is your choice is a sufficient recommendation.

We all wish that she may enjoy the life and work of the Church, and may form many lasting ties of friendship.

We wish you joy in your wedded lives. There is no life without its cross, but even the cross may be transfigured by patient love. In sorrow and in joy you will be in your Father's hands learning in the school of experience.

May your home life be the place of highest affection, and of noblest discipline, and of consecrated joys; then it will be to you a shelter from the storm and a shadow from the heat of life, even as a foretaste of that higher and fairer world where joy is perfect and unceasing and to which we can give no better name than home.

On Sunday, Jan. 18, the Union Sunday school at Bensfort, of which Mr. Dodds is Superintendent, presented him with a beautifully illuminated address. It was read by Mr. Wm. Emberson as follows:

Mr. D. N. Dods,—The members of your Sunday school wish to pay tribute to your faithful and zealous work in the Master's service. Your cheery optimism, kindliness, manliness and reverence for all that is sacred will ever stand as a monument of virtue which the storms of time can never destroy.

We extend a hearty welcome to your esteemed partner, and we wish prosperity and happiness to you. God grant you long life and power to continue this work in our midst.

Signed by the teachers and officers of Bensfort Sunday school.

Special Return Visit Of The Eminent English Actor, Mr. Tom Terriss

Owing to the numerous requests of local patrons, the management have much pleasure in announcing that they have been able to arrange with Mr. Terriss for a return engagement at the Grand Opera House on Saturday, the 31st instant. From the enthusiastic reception given this clever actor on the occasion of his recent visit, the house should be a packed one. On this occasion Mr. Terriss will again present a double bill at the matinee and evening performances. For the Matinee "A Christmas Carol" with Mr. Terriss as old "Scrooge," his great masterpiece will be given, followed by "The Cricket on the Hearth," with Mr. Terriss as Caleb Plummer, and in the evening "A Christmas Carol" will be again repeated, followed by "Nicholas Nickleby." No lover of Dickens should fail to be present at these wonderful stories, which should appeal to everyone, young and old, as they are as good as the best sermon ever preached, and leave an everlasting impression upon all who are the least bit human. Mr. Terriss and his clever English Company are visiting here after a return engagement in London, Ont., where they were accorded an overwhelming reception at crowded houses and the press were unanimous in their praise of this great actor's achievements.

Be Your Own Boy's Chum And He Will Seek Your Advice

"Has any old fellow got mixed with the boys?" asked Holmes, and he added: "If there has, throw him out."

But the trouble to-day is that he does not wait to be thrown out. In fact, the greatest trouble is that he doesn't get mixed.

Take your own case. That boy of yours—you want him to be strong of character, true to the best in life as he knows it, honourable, and all the rest that goes to make up a rounded-out manhood. You want him to keep away from evil companions and to develop good and steady habits. You want him to have a good time, but you want him to do so reasonably, in ways that will injure neither his body nor his mind.

Probably you are setting him a good example—are living as you hope he will live when he grows up. But is that all you can do. Not by a good deal. Nor is it all you must do if you want to do your best by and for him.

For instance, you want him to be right in his habits and careful in his choice of companions. How will you know whether he is doing so? Do you think he will come and tell you voluntarily that he has been doing something he fears he should not have done, or has been associating with companions who do the things you have forbidden him to do?

Put the case to yourself—would you have gone to your father with such matters? And if your father had asked you about them, which would you have been more likely to do—evade the direct answer or tell a point-blank lie?

A boy confides his thoughts and experiences to nobody but a chum. To his chum he will not lie. If he finds himself perplexed he will ask his chum to advise him. And in idle hours he will seek out that chum, and if necessary will wait for him.

Who is your boy's chum? You can be. His earliest instinct is to turn to his father for companionship. If the father rejects these advances they will be made elsewhere, and who can tell where?

You must be more than a grown-up example to your boys. You must mix with them; be with them; enter into their fun; help them with their plans, and, so far as that is possible, discuss your own affairs with them. Make them feel that you and they are living the same kind of lives; that you have common interests, and that they can come to you with their pleasures and griefs and find understanding and sympathy.

All little fellows are ambitious to be comrades of the "big boys." Be a big boy yourself and get some more fun out of life. And at the same time you will be building a future for your son that will be more glorious memorial, a more effective monument, to yourself than could be raised by all the marble and granite in the hills of the whole world.

Violent Scene Marks Debate In Hungarian Parliament.

BUDAPEST, Jan. 24. — Armed guards were called into the Lower House of the Hungarian Parliament yesterday to eject unruly members of the Opposition during a debate on the press reform law. Ex-Premier Count Julius Andrassy, Count Aladar Zichy and a dozen other deputies were thrown out of the building when they defied a ruling of the President.

The uproar was so great that it was impossible to conduct business until the wearied members of the Opposition quit the House in a body.

As a result of the insults hurled across the floor of the House, Deputy Desy challenged Count Stephen Tisza, the Hungarian Premier, to fight a duel.

The press reform law was carried after the tumult had subsided. The bill is designed to protect the Government against the attacks of the press and the Opposition claims that it imperils the freedom of the Hungarian people.

EASY MONEY AND A BULL MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—The stock market closed a week of continued improvement. As forecasted in last Saturday's commint, the list responded to the influences that usually precede a bull market. Easy money and a reduction in bank rates augmented the bull offerings.

Following is the Bank statement for the week ending Jan. 24th:

Reserve increase	$4,227,150
Loans increase	43,092,800
Specie increase	34,049,000
Legals decrease	4,541,000
Deposits increase	63,890,000

There is every reason to believe that the market will rush out for higher levels next week. C.P.R. was a disappointment to many traders as it was generally expected that the stock would touch a new, high level for the year. The impending collapse of the Huerta regime is regarded as significant

$9.98 Surely Never Brought Home Such Value As One of These Women's Suits, Worth up to $27.50

The least amongst them being $18 models, while many were formerly priced around $27.50 and even $30.00.

THREE DAYS—Saturday, Monday and Tuesday—in which to sell these suits at a price that seems almost unbelievable. For they are the actual models that were so much admired in the Fall, and which were then marked two to three times higher than now.

Each one is this season's production, and represents the highest order of women's tailored garments.

Tweed, Whipcord, Zibeline, Velvet, etc. are the materials used; the colours being mixed effects of grey, blue, brown or green, in varying depths of either shade.

And you will find in them, all the points of merit that mark well made, smartly designed apparel, such as the long back and cutaway front; the Norfolk style with belt effect; velvet and self collars, silk linings, and correctly draped skirts.

Speaking with all sincerity, this is one of the most notable reductions ever made in our store upon this class of women's wear, in order to clean up the balance of the stock.

And because of the low price, none will be allowed out on approval, and alterations will be charged for.

Sizes are 16, 18, 20, 34, 36 and 38. —Second Floor

COMPARISON OF MEAT PRICES ON MARKET TO-DAY

Chickens were High in Comparison with Turkeys, Beef and Pork—One Man's Experience.

WEATHER KILLED MARKET

"Well, sixteen cents for turkey is pretty good buying," said a man on the market this morning, as he held up a 14-pounder, for which he paid $2.25.

Two dollars and a half was the price demanded.

"Make it $2.25, and I'll take it," said the man, to which the woman behind the counter replied, "I guess I cant' do much better than that.

With 5-pound chickens selling at $1 to $1.20, turkeys at the above price were a much better buy.

Eggs sold at from 48c to 40c a doz., but the tendency is downward. Had the weather favoured a large market the price would have dropped somewhat for supplies are reported to be coming forward more plentifully now.

Butter was steady at 30c.

Chickens ranged from 60c each to $1, $1.15 and $1.20 each. There were a few at $1.10 a pair. From an economical standpoint they seemed to be rather high, the average price probably being 25c a pound.

Outside, beef sold at 11 and 12c a pound and pork 13 and 14c. Lamb was away up.

You need not quote lamb," for there is hardly any in the country."

All the turkeys did not sell at 16c a pound, 18c being a more likely average.

Potatoes sold at $1.15 a bag. The market was light owing to disagreeable weather conditions.

APPLES IN LONDON

Apple quotations have to a certain degree been kept back owing to the crop in the United Kingdom having in many districts yielded much larger quantities than had been anticipated, but the prices for good fruit are considered satisfactory. Unfortunately, in addition to the standard of Nova Scotia fruit being generally low, owing to a partial crop failure, some of the cargoes which have come over have arrived in a shocking condition, and considerable losses will have to be borne by careless shippers—a quantity of a cargo of apples which arrived recently having been knocked down at 4s. and even less a barrel. One of the weekly reports describes these apples as being landed in a deplorable state, and it looked as if the bulk of the fruit had been cooked.

When looking at several barrels of American apples which were being opened last week in one of the warehouses, it was noticed that in each case a disc of corrugated cardboard of about the same dimensions as the heading was laid between the apples and the heading at each end of the barrel. It was reported that this is most advantageous in so far as it relieves the apples from the pressure of the wood and thus prevents damage by squeezing. Although the practice is said to be pretty general among the principal United States shippers, my informant stated that according to his experience it is rarely if ever adopted by Canadian shippers. As the expense is small and the protection enhances the selling value of the fruit, the greater use of this disc by Canadian shippers seems worth consideration. —Farm and Dairy.

PROF. SKELTON LECTURED AT THE COLLEGIATE

Last night in the Assembly Hall of the Collegiate Institute Professor Skelton delivered a powerful lecture on the subject, "Can War be Ended" before a large audience. His remarks were heard with very evident interest by the audience, and several of his logical passages were received with warm applause.

Professor Skelton is on the staff of Queen's University, and made a decided impression on his hearers last night.

The lecture was delivered under the auspices of the Women's Teachers' Guild of this City, who are to be congratulated on their enterprise in bringing the distinguished speaker here.

Dr. M. A. Morison, chairman of the Board of Education, presided at the lecture, and in a brief speech introduced the speaker of the evening.

After the address a hearty vote of thanks to the speaker was proposed.

The Belmont Club "At Home"

The seventh annual "At Home' of the Belmont Club in the Conservatory of Music Hall last evening proved to be one of the most brilliant functions of the present social season. The spacious auditorium was ablaze with bright lights, and the walls looked exceedingly pretty with numerous pennants and the colours of the club, mauve and purple.

Fully two hundred accepted the invitation of the Club. The beautiful and richly coloured gowns of the ladies as compared with the conventional black and white of the gentlemen's evening clothes, dancing to the enchanting strains of Fralick's orchestra made an animated and gala scene. The programme was varied one and contained a liberal share of waltzes and two steps.

At midnight dainty refreshments were served, after which dancing was continued.

Mr. R.S. Hall was honorary secretary and looked after every detail in a most praiseowrthy manner. The patronesses were Ms. A. W. McPherson, Mrs. E. V. Frederick, Mrs. Jas. Hamilton, Mrs. E. G. Patterson, Mrs. W. H. Bradburn and Mrs. R. Denne.

Out of town guests present were: Miss McElderry of Guelph, Misses Gale, Wiltze, Patterson and Bark of Toronto, Messrs. Dormer and Keeler, Belleville, Leo. Stevens, Stanley Beal and Jack Gray of Lindsay, Miss Denmark and Mr. Smeaton, Campbellford, Miss McDonald, Belleville, Miss George, Port Hope, the Misses Brown, Port Hope and Miss McBean, Millbrook.

HINTS FOR THE FARMERS' WIVES

Many farmers' wives, and city sisters as well, regard the kitchen merely as the room where all the dirty work is done and the oldest furniture kept—a room into which one never admits any but the family. To some extent this must be true. Our work is largely carried on in the kitchen, and it must be furnished appropriately for work. Of necessity we must have in that room strong chairs, work tables, and utensils of various descriptions. But our kitchen may be something more than merely a place of drudgery.

When John first took me to live on his farm I put all my favorite rockers, pictures, in fact everything in which I really delighted, into my guest room and reception room. The old things which I disliked, but thought I should keep, went into the kitchen. There they remained a daily eyesore, until Aunt Mary came to spend a few days with me. Auntie is no ordinary visitor and refused to be kept out of the kitchen; hence I admitted her, with an apology for its ugliness. Then came the revolution.

It required some argument to convince me that my favorite pictures could accomplish more if daily exhibited in my kitchen than when viewed weekly in my guest room. It was almost a sacrifice to bring a comfortable rocker into that kitchen, but it worked.

THE RESULT

I still wash, iron, bake, preserve, and do my endless tasks in the kitchen, but my work is not distasteful in my remodelled room. Every hour that I spend in it my eyes feast upon prints from pictures by the masters, which, by the way, I obtained for a very small sum and framed myself. When I am forced to wait in the kitchen for something to finish baking, I find my way instinctively to my low rocker by the window, overlooking miles of beautiful country. John, too, has a favorite chair there, and when he has a few rare moments of leisure he is almost sure to appear in my kitchen.

The idea of hanging Madonnas in the neighborhod of bake kettles and brooms may seem ridiculous to you, my reader, as it did to me at first; but just try it for a while and see how much more pleasant your labor becomes. When I wash out baby's dirty dresses (he's creeping) it seems to work like magic soap to look at the beautiful picture of "The Madonna of the Chair," which hangs in plain view and think the thoughts it calls up.

I wish every farmer's wife had an Aunt Mary to make her see forcibly the value of living and working among beautiful things.

MAJESTIC HAD ROUGH TRIP

Special Wire to The Examiner:

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—After one of the roughest passages in her history the White Star liner Majestic docked here to-day at nine a.m. Among the passengers were Mr. and Mrs. Francis B. Sayre. Mrs. Sayre was thrown violently to the deck and suffered a sprained wrist. Other passengers and some of the crew also received injuries.

ROAD HAS SUNK 6 FEET

Special Wire to The Examiner:

LONDON, ONT., Jan. 24. — Government experts and engineers have been sent for to examine the sinking of the Turnbury Township main roadway for one hundred feet. It has been filled up once with stones but it is now down again about six feet, and impassable for some two hundred yards. he residents are very much alarmed and fear that there is a subterranean river conecting Lake Huron and Lake Erie runnir through the district, and that every ng will be swept away eventually.

MORE MOISTURE FOR LIVING ROOMS

"Too often we do not supply our living rooms with a sufficient amount of moisture to safeguard our health properly," says Laura M. Stewart, instructor in home economics in the University of Wisconsin.

"One reason for so much throat and nose trouble during the winter months is that the mucous lining is deprived of its necessary moisture, making it less resistant to germs. This lack of moisture also causes the furniture to crack and spread at the joints."

In country homes where neither hot water nor steam heat is used, the housewife may have the air sufficiently moist by keeping a small basin of water on the back of the stove.

—Farm and Dairy.

ORCHARD AND GARDEN NOTES

Tramp the snow well about apple and plum trees to prevent injury by mice.

Clean straw from four to six inches deep should be placed on the strawberries.

Go over the cabbage and other vegetables stored in the cellar and pick out the diseased specimens.

Take sions of apple trees for next season's grafting. Bury them in sand or sawdust in a cool cellar.

Butternuts and walnuts gathered last month, with popcorn and apples, add to the enjoyment of the long evenings.

Should there be quail in the vicinity, encourage them to lodge near you, and do all possible to prevent their destruction, either by hunters or the elements. They are too valuable on a farm to be destroyed.

Clean hay or straw may be placed on perennials and covered with boards or tar paper to prevent the plants from getting wet. It is well to avoid putting on any material that will smother the plants or permit of their getting wet.

Encourage the birds to lodge near the farm buildings by placing grain, suet, or other food where they can get it easily. Nearly all birds, with the exception of the British sparrow, are a decided advantage to the farm.

TO ENTER ANTARCTIC

Swedish Expedition Plans Five-Year Exploring Trip.

LONDON, Jan. 24.—The Swedes expect to join in the Antarctic quest, according to advices from Stockholm, published in The Times yesterday.

The Swedish Antarctic committee, an association formed last year with Admiral Palander at its head, and Professors Nordenskjold, Andersen, De Geer, Nathorst and Lonnberg among its members, has planned the expedition which will start in the autumn of 1915.

It is intended that the proposed expedition shall establish a base in Grahamland, somewhere on the shores of the Antarctic Sound, the scene of Nordenskjold's and Andersen's former exploits, and spend five years in exploring the country.

The expedition will consist of ten scientific men, well acquainted with the Antarctic regions.

PORTERS ASSISTED.

Unwilling Negroes Gave This Lone Bandit a Hand.

CHICAGO, Jan. 24.—With the assistance of two reluctant but badly scared porters, a lone bandit held up four passengers on the rear sleeper of the Michigan Central passenger train due here from Detroit at 7.30 o'clock yesterday morning. The affair netted the bandit something under $300.

The robber entered the train at Jackson, Miss., and left it about fifteen minutes later when Louis Thombs, one of the porters, signalled for the emergency brakes.

There were about twenty passengers in the car, and most of them did not know that anything had happened until they arose in the morning. The hold-up took place at 1.45 o'clock. There were no women in the car.

Is Acting King's Printer.

OTTAWA, Jan. 24.—W. F. Boardman, formerly of Montreal, superintendent of the Government Printing Bureau, has been appointed acting King's Printer, in succession to Mr. Charles Parmalee, the King's Printer, who died Thursday night. A permanent appointment will be made at an early date.

HOUSEHOLD NOTES

Boiling in soapsuds will make an oil lamp burn as well as new.

If for any use you want a coal that burns rapidly use nut coal.

When sweeping thick carpets always follow the weave of the pile.

Stair carpets should be heavily padded if one desires them to wear well.

Black stockings should be rinsed in blue water to make them a good colour.

Salt sprinkled on a carpet before sweeping reduces the amount of dust that rises.

To clean Japanese trays rub a little olive oil on and then polish off with a flannel.

Good eggs will sink in a brine of two ounces of salt to a pint of water; bad ones will float.

To polish stoves use boiled linseed oil on the steel parts. Rub well with a woollen cloth.

Tincture of myrrh is a good thing in the water used to rinse after brushing your teeth.

Cut glass looks clearer when washed in tepid water and then brushed with a dry bristle brush.

A slip for a balsam pillow is best made of tan linen with a pine tree cross-stitched upon it.

Let potatoes lie in cold water for a little while before paring if you wish them to be white.

When fruit leaves a stain on the teeth it should be removed at once by rubbing on a little salt.

COAL

My policy—To make you want my COAL as much as I want your business and I know I can do it if you give me the opportunity—by giving you the BEST QUALITY COAL properly Screened at prices as low as the lowest.

Notes From The Labour World

Detroit is to have a $100,000 labour temple.

Bavaria plans a system of unemployment insurance.

Boston Typographical Union has declared in favour of Government ownership of the telegraph and telephone.

The Belgian Chamber of Deputies has passed a bill granting a pension of 360 francs a year for miners 55 years of age, who have worked 40 years in a mine.

Sir Charles Louis, Bart., who has been appointed treasurer of the British National Union of Masters and Mates, is thought to be the first baronet to be connected with a labour union.

The New England District Council of Electrical Workers' Unions has undertaken a campaign for the immediate organization of employees of every electric light and power company in New England.

In 61.7 per cent. of the cases of women factory workers in the State of Washington, investigated by the Industrial Welfare Commission, the wage was less than $9 a week. The average was kept up by the pay of employees of fish canneries, who are permitted to work more than eight hours a day.

Tailors' Union No. 63, of Minneapolis, is one of the oldest labour unions in the Northwest. It was first organised forty-one years ago and has ever since been an important factor in all organised labour movements in Minneapolis.

If a measure just introduced in the New York State senate is enacted it will become unlawful for any grocery store employee in the first-class cities to be permitted to work more than 70 hours a week or more than 11 hours a day except Saturday, on which day he may work 15 hours in order to eliminate work on Sunday.

One of the largest single orders of groceries on record was given a Chicago wholesale firm recently by the Western Federation of Miners. The order was for $60,000 worth of staple groceries to be distributed among the families of the striking copper miners in the Calumet region.

Boston Telephone Operators' Union has received official notice from President McNulty, of the American Federation of Labour Electrical Workers' Union that it has been granted Charter No. 1 of the new women's branch of the international organization.

In Texas the State industrial accident board has held that street railway companies do not come within the purview of the Texas Workmen's Compensation Act; that they are exempt from the clauses which provide that common carriers are not subject to the new law, thus making all steam and electric roads exempt.

Records for membership were broken in the United Mine Workers' organization during 1913, according to the reports of the international officers. The paid-up membership on December 31, as announced, was 415,142. The previous record, at the end of August, 1913, was 409,158 members. The paid-up members on December 31, 1912, numbered 386,965.

An appeal to the members of every local union of organized labour in Canada has been issued by the British Columbia Miners' Liberation League, asking that on January 30 a 48-hour "holiday" be inaugurated as a gigantic protest against imprisonment of the 39 miners now in jail at New Westminster in connection with the recent big strike on Vancouver Island.

Toronto Savings & Loan Co.

Annual General Meeting

THE Annual General Meeting of the Shareholders of the Toronto Savings & Loan Company was held at the Head Office of the Company, No. 437 George Street, Peterborough, on Friday the 23rd day of January, 1914, at 2 o'clock p.m.

Directors Report

The Directors submit herewith their TWENTY-NINTH ANNUAL REPORT showing the result of the business for the past year accompanied by the Balance Sheet to the 31st Dec., 1913.

The Gross Earnings for the year were $286,422.83, and after the payment of Interest on Deposits and Debentures, and all expenses of management, there remained a Net Profit of $157,102.01. To this amount has been added $53,232.54, the balance carried forward from last year, which makes a total sum for distribution of $210,334.55.

This amount has been disposed of in the following manner:

(1) By payment of Four Quarterly Dividends at the rate of 10% for the year, amounting to	$100,000.00
(2) By addition to the Reserve Fund	50,000.00
(3) By amount carried forward to Profit and Loss Account	60,334.55

The above addition to the Reserve Fund increases it to $850,000.60 or 85% of the Present Paid-UP Capital.

All payments maturing during the year on the Company's Investments have been satisfactorily met, and the rentals from the property owned by the Company have also been promptly paid. The books, accounts and securities of the Company have been carefully examined by the Auditors, and their Report is attached to the Financial Statement.

It is with feelings of deep regret that we have to record death of Senator Geo. A. Cox who was President of the Company since its inception and to whom in a very large degree, the present strong position of the Company is due.

General Statement 31st December, 1913

AUDITORS' CERTIFICATE

We hereby certify that we have carefully audited the Books and Accounts of the Toronto Savings and Loan Company for the year ending 31st Dec., 1913. All disbursements have been properly vouched for, and the postings and balances of the Company's Ledgers have been checked and found correct. The above Statement of Assets and Liabilities shows the position of the Company on the 31st December 1913, and the Profit and Loss Account is a correct showing of the operations of the Company for the year ending on that date. We have also examined the Securities and find everything in order.

Peterborough, January 8th, 1914. JAS. A. HALL and F. J. A. HALL, Auditors.

A PLEA FOR THE SNOW PLOUGH MAN

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I noticed a complaint in last night's issue of The Examiner against the East City snow plougher. I am also an employee in Auburn, and think people ought to have more consideration and charity in their hearts.

In my estimation snow ploughing is the most difficult employment of winter on account of the manner in which the snow drifts and fills up the track, especially on a stormy night like the one which we have just had.

I think the work was done just as well as any man could accomplish this hard task.

It is just like life in this way. I also live in East City and the former writer and myself have the same road to journey over. Now, my only motive in speaking like this is I think under the circumstances people ought not to be so fast to complain.

Thanking you Mr. Editor, for space in your valuable paper, sincerely,

EAST CITY.

PETERBORO' REPRESENTATIVES ON COMMITTEE

The wholesalers and manufacturers of Ontario will meet a committee of the Retail Merchants of the province in Toronto to discuss the bulk sales bill, which is designed to prevent a merchant from selling his business without the consent of creditors. A committee of twelve has been selected to look after the interests of the retailers. Messrs. Thomas Barrie and N. C. Cameron will be the representatives from Peterborough.

ADDRESS AND PRESENTATION

At the regular meeting of Queen Alexandra Circle, No. 136, A.O.F., the members presented their Secretary with an address and gold-headed parasol. Following is the address:

Peterborough, Ont,
January 21st, 1914.

Dear Miss Martin

Dear Companion,—We, the members of Queen Alexandra Circle, No. 136, desire to show you in some little measure at least our appreciation of the faithful services you have rendred our Circle for so many years, in filling so very satisfactorily the important and difficult office, that of Secretary. By your presence and brightness you have ever helped and encouraged us in our work, and we trust you will be spared to be with us for many years yet to come. And we now desire you to kindly accept this little gift, as a slight token of our appreciation of these services, and ask also to accept our heartiest wishes for a prosperous future and pleasant relationship of the Companions of Queen Alexandra, A. O. F.

Signed on behalf of the Companions, by C. C. Mrs. Wm. James; Outer Guard, Mrs. Parks; P. C. C., Mrs. Wm. Stevens; District Deputy, Mrs. John Scott; S. C. C. Miss Jessie Stevens; Treasurer, Miss E. Record, Cor.-Sec., Miss E. Jackson; R. Guide Mrs. McLean; L. Guide, Mrs. Magee; Chaplain, Miss E. Wiggins; Inner Guard, Mrs. Tremaine.

OFFER MADE TO LOCAL MAN

Mr. P. H. Spies of this City, is said to have received a letter from a firm organized in Detroit offering him several thousand dollars for his interests in the United States patents for the water wheel he invented. This water wheel is designed to develop power without the need of a head of water or dam.

NO DATE YET FIXED.

February 17 Declared by Whole Cabinet to be Merely a Guess.

TORONTO, Jan. 24.—A meting of the Ontario Cabinet was held yesterday, and as the Ministers came from the Council Chamber they were asked concerning the dat on which the Legislature is o be called. All of the Ministers deny that any date has been decided upon and that no authority was given to announce the date of opening as the 17th of February. This has not been decided nor has the question as to who will move and second the adoption of the address from the Throne been decided. Every Minister in the Cabinet asserts that no date has yet been fixed for the opening of the Legislature.

C. T. R. TRAIN WINS RACE WITH STORK

Woman in Runaway before she boarded Cars—Girl born at Kingston.

KINGSTON, Jan. 24.—The Grand Trunk train from Toronto which is due here at 11 o'clock, won a race with the stork last evening. Mrs. Thos. Robinson of Shannonville, a small station near Belleville, was driving towards the station when her horse ran away, throwing her out of the sleigh. Mrs. Robinson, who was in a delicate condition at the time but did not feel any ill effects of her shaking up. She took the train and her condition became serious.

At Collins Bay the first stop was made and an urgent call was sent to Kingston, and a doctor was waiting when the train pulled in. The woman was first taken to a local hotel and thence transferred to the Hotel Dieu. She had hardly arrived when birth was given to a daughter. Both mother and child are doing well.

Germany has a paper chimney that is 50 feet high and perfectly fireproof.

STRAWBERRIES

Strawberries will survive the winter without any special attention—occasionally. As a general rule, however, it is much more advisable to mulch the strawberry plantation in the fall. This mulch, which in my plantation consists of straw, is applied to a depth of three or four inches over the matted rows as soon as the ground freezes and a heavy cart can be driven over it without injury to the plants. In the spring this mulch is drawn off the plants into the space between the rows. It then tends to keep the berries clean, keeps down weeds, and is very effectual in retaining moisture. Last summer, when the weather was particularly dry, we picked half as many strawberies again on the main portion of the plot as on two or three rows at the sides that, owing to a shortage of straw, had not been mulched.

Our raspberry plantation is conducted on what we call the mulch system. For the first year the plantation was kept thoroughly cultivated and that fall straw was scattered around to a depth of almost a foot. Fall work with our raspberry plantation consists in adding a little more straw mulch where necessary.

We are not sure that this mulch sytsem would work satisfactorily with bush fruits such as strawberries and currants, but we intend to give it a trial.

A REMINISCENCE

I can remember the day when almost every farm house in this county had alongside its family orchard. In many cases the trees have been allowed to die out or have been cut down, and the family orchard is not the popular institution that it formerly was. This is a mistake. A plentiful supply of raw fruit in summer and fall, and of preserved fruit in the winter, is a source of pleasure and satisfaction that we can't afford to miss.

I would suggest that in planning for a family orchard that we have one tree of Astrachan, one of Yellow Transparent, one of Duchess, and one of Snow apples. Then for the main supply of fruit have a few trees of such varieties as the Spy and Blenheim. I am also favorable to a tree or two of Talman Sweets as this variety is an exceptionally good cooker.

Some of the varieties that I have here mentioned, notably the Spy and Blenheim, do not come into bearing until 10 or more years after setting. I would suggest that these varieties be planted 40 feet apart each way and every 20 feet plant such early bearing varieties as the Wagner.

For cherries I would recommend two or three trees each of Early Richmond for early fruit and Montmorency for late fruit.

My favorite variety of pear is the Bartlett. Clapps is a good variety of early pear and the Busch of late pear. A few plum trees also might be planted to good advantage. In selecting varieties here the housewife knows her own preferences best.

—Farm and Dairy.

This Isn't Reasonable.

"Now," said the magician, smiling, "I am not about to extract from this hat a rabbit. That trick is too easy. I will remove from his hat a choice porterhouse steak, the sort you pay 28 cents a pound for. After which I will show you how the trick is done, so that each of you may easily——"

But the magician got no further. In his eagerness to learn the audience fairly mobbed him.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

BELLEVILLE SURPRISED THE PETES OUTLASTED THEM AND WON BY 3 TO 2

Half Time Score Was 2 to 0 But the Blue and White Team Blew Up in the Second Period and Were Nosed Out.

A DESPERATE BATTLE

After blanking the Belleville seven in the first half of the game, last night, at Belleville, the local Intermediates fell to pieces in the second period, and lost the game by 3 to 2. The first thirty minutes was a lively tussle from start to finish, the homesters having the best of the play throughout. But the second half was a spectacle in which only one man on the visitors' line-up emerged with a spotless record, and that was Bert Janes, the brilliant net guardian for the Petes, who gave one of the most spectacular performances ever pulled off by a goal tender in a Peterborough uniform. The Cavan boy blocked shot after shot from close in, with the whole blue and white line-up crowded in on top of the goal, preventing him getting a chance to nail the rubber. From the time the bell for the second period sounded until the Belleville crowd went wild, at the finish of the game, the Petes were corked up in the south end of the rink, and the red and white kept one continuous bombardment on the visitors' nets. Without half a show to grab the shots that were showered from all quarters of the rink, Janes nipped all but three, and the final one, which handed Belleville the battle, went in after the course of its flight to the nets had been suddenly changed by hitting the stick of one of the Petes defence men.

The first half of the game was satisfactory from the local point of view. While Janes was called upon to block repeated shots and rushes, Bradshaw, Denison, Kelly and Giroux were relieving nicely, and Park was there with his usual bullet-like shot to the goal. Time after time Denison, who looked better than in any previous engagement this season, got the rubber from in front of his own goal and broke away in a splendid rush that invariably ended in a shot on Brotherhood. Kelly was checking back like a fiend and Park was getting his usual number of shots at the Belleville nets. Giroux was right there with the same old speed, and Bradshaw had his man guessing to keep track of him. But no combination was attempted.

The Belleville seven looked good for a battle from the start, but in the first half their combination, while frequently tried, was of a slow variety. Dunning, the little rover, and Brant, at right wing, looked to be the only speed boys on the line-up, while Brotherhood was no slouch between the iron posts. But the locals had it all over them in speed, and, in spite of the fact that the Belleville brigade got three shots to their one, they were picked to come back and hold the homesters in the second half. The half-time score was 2 to 0 for Peterborough, Park taking the first goal from a scrimmage in from of the nets, and Denison the second, on a pass out from behind by Bradshaw.

Then the boys trotted out on the ice for the second period, and for the first fifteen seconds the puck was bounding and rbunding off Brotherhood. Then Brant took the fight to the other end of the rink and there it remained. The 1,500 Belleville fans, who had been reduced to silence for the last ten minutes of the first period, broke loose again and their team came through. The ice was very soft, but in spite of the vry sticky surface the homesters began to look less and less like clubs until it become very evdnt that they had the rest of the play sewed up, whether they took the big end of score or not. They took the first goal in seven minutes and the next in two minutes. Then they rained shots on the locals' nets until it seemed impossible that Janes could keep up his spectacular work. About seven minutes before the final gong was due Kelly made a beautiful dash the whole length of the ice and shot. Brotherhood stabbed at it and missed, but the rubber caught the inside of the iron post and dropped at his feet, coming within a fraction of an inch of being a goal. Then when the final bell sounded the score was 2 to 2, and it looked like an overtime contest. But a discrepancy of two minutes between the timekeepers prolonged the game another minute. During that time, with thirty seconds to go, Goyer tok a long shot at the Petes' nets. The rubber hit Bond's stick and deflected into a corner of the fancy work and the game was won.

In the second half the Belleville seven looked to be in their element and looked a three hundred per cent. better team than they did on the local ice. Dunning, Symonds and S. Brant came through with splendid rushes and stick work time after time, and Goyer, the junior, who played on the Intermediate line-up for the first time last night, made good with a whole lot of neat defence work. On the other hand the Petes could not get going on the soft ice, and it was due to Janes' sensational performance that the score did not run into bigger figures.

The teams lined up as follows:

Peterborough		Belleville
Janes	Goal.	Brotherhood
Bond	Left Defence	Goyer
Denison	Right Defence	d. Brant
Giroux	Rover	Dunning
Park	Centre	Whalen
Bradshaw	Right Wing	Symonds
Kelly	Left Wing	S. Brant

Fifteen seconds after the face-off Janes blocked his first shot. Bond and Giroux relieved nicely but Belleville came back strong and buzzed around the nets. Kelly, on an end-to-end rush, took a shot at the nets but Brotherhood blocked it. Brant drew the first penalty for tripping Park, after the latter had made a sensational rush the length of the rink. On a face-off near the nets, Dunning shot, but Janes nailed it and cleared. Kelly and Park took the puck to the other end, where Park's shot was handled by Brotherhood. Dunning came back in a nice rush, but Denison took the puck and got inside the red and white defence. Dunning and Whalen relieved and joined by Brant, they passed the entire local brigade. Brant shot and jumped in on the rebound, but Janes fooled him both times.

Giroux relieved and passed to Park who shot. In a scrimmage in front of the Belleville nets two of the opposing team jumped on Park. Giroux tackled one of them (Symonds), and threw him down on the ice. Giroux and Symonds were benched for four minutes. Brant took the puck from the face-off and got inside the whole defence, but Janes cleared. Brant was given a rest for tripping.

The Red and White brigade got orders to try long shots and began peppering from centre and following up well but could not beat Janes. Park, Denison, Kelly and Bradshaw were all going fine, but showed no combination at all. Brant and Dunning were showing considerable speed on the forward line and a lot of promising team work was pulled off. Denison's rushes were the feature.

Denison broke away and passed to Bradshaw, who was skated into the corner. He passed to centre and Park scored from a scrimmage.

Soon after Denison notched another on a pass from behind the goal, making the score 2 to 0. No more scoring was done in the first half. Both net guardians were kept busy and showed class, but Janes, with twice as many shots to stop as Brotherhood, kept the Belleville figure at 0.

Second Half.

Enough has been said already about the last thirty minutes of the game. For the space of a few seconds the Petes came back in their old style, but soon they were backed up in their own end of the rink, and there they remained. Park and Kelly fought hard for a counter but neither could get the nets. Only once did Denison come through with a rush and it fizzled outside the Red and white defence. On the soft ice the team was completely disorganized.

On the other hand the Belleville briade came through with some real fast stuff and god team work. They played like demons on the soft ice, and after a seven-minutes' bombardment Symonds got their first tally. Symonds, Brant, Whalen, Goyer and Dunning and S. Brant were all right up on the bit, checking back and rushing fiercely.

Two minutes later Dunning took a long scoop at goal. The puck bounded badly and took a leap into the corner of the ice—Belleville 2, Peterborough 2.

A battle royal followed, the Petes playing the defensive, and when the gong sounded the score was 2—2.

The scoring summary follows:

First half.
Park, Peterborough, 18 mins.
Denison, Peterborough, 3 mins.
Second half.
Symonds, Belleville, 7 mins.
Dunning, Belleville, 2 mins.
Goyer, Belleville, 29 1-2 mins.

GIVEN POLICE PROTECTION AFTER BELLEVILLE GAME

After the game in Belleville last night an attempt was made by some of the rougher element to mob the local players and fans. The police had to interfere, and for the first time in many years, the team, press representatives and local spectators were given police protection from the rink to the hotel where they were staying.

Bradshaw was almost scalped by having his hair pulled by spectators along the boards, utnil finally the referee threatened to call the game if it was not stopped. The management, who seemed most anxious for a clean game, had the dirty work stopped.

PETERBOROUGH JUNIORS GAVE FRONTENACS A BIG SCARE

Youngsters Played by Far Their Best Hockey of the Season and It Was Anybody's Battle Until the Last Fifteen Minutes--Final Score Was 6 to 2.

The Peterborough juniors were defeated 6 to 2 at Kingston last night, and knocked out of the running for the district honours, but they went down with their colours flying and gave the Frontenacs a battle that surprised the Limestone city fans. Frontenacs scored three goals in the first ten minutes before the Petes got their bearings, but the blue and white youngsters took a brace and outplayed the Easterns for the balance of the half, getting the only goal in the last twenty minutes of the period. When they came back and scored a goal after three minutes' play in the second half, making the score 3 to 2, Jim Sutherland bit pieces out of his megaphone. It was anybody's battle at that stage, with the Petes playing their positions better and showing a more effective combination than the Frontenacs. The ice, bad at first, grew worse as the game progressed and during the last half, combination became more and more difficult. The Petes' attack fell off when the passing game had to be discarded, and it was here that the brilliant individual efforts of the Millan brohers came to the rescue of the Frontenacs and saved the game for them when the Petes appeared to have a royal chance of carrying off the honours. Three pretty rushes by the two netted the Frontenacs three goals and settled the issue.

It was one grand game of hockey all the way. "Fast and hard as a junior final" remarked Jim Sutherland in the middle of the second half. The youngsters on both teams gave all they had and checked each other the length of the rink. Neat combination, fine goalkeeping and pretty individual work kept the crowd enthused. It was clean, too, in spite of the fast going, and all the penalties were for tripping, Kingston having six men off while the Petes stayed on the ice, not a man being ruled off.

Referee Dobson of the Queens University team handled the game in splendid style and gave every satisfaction.

The Petes played by far the best hockey they have shown all season. The line held their position well, passed beautifully and checked back all the way while the defence both checked and rushed well. Dwyer, in spite of the fact that he was so ill that he could hardly stand up in the nets, played magnificently, picking out shots in great style. Richardson and Long rushed splendidly and the latter showed his best game of the year. He was the hardest man on the ice to stop and kept coming down under full steam all night. Rose also played the best game of his career, doing some grand stick handling and rushing, while he looked after R. Millan in good style when the latter was near the Peterborough nets. Grover Halpin was going all the time, and his rushing and back checking were effective. Barrie and Knapman lost nothing in comparison with the Kingston wings and held their positions better.

For Kingston, the two Millans were easily the pick. Although closely watched throughout they came through in the last fifteen minutes with the speed and stick handling that won the game. Godard rushed nicely, and Mills performed brilliantly in the nets, handling a lot of dead-on shot in good style. The teams were:

Kingston—

Goal, Mills; right defence, Godard; left defence, Mills; rover, N. Millan; centre, R. Millan; right wing, Cook; left wing, Derry.

Peterborough—

Kingston opened out as if they were going to run away with the Petes. They rushed from the start and in a minute Cooke found the nets with a side shot that Dwyer nailed, but which rolled in when he dropped the puck. The Petes came back, and rushes by Long and Richardson nearly resulted in scores, Mills pulling off several pretty stops. It was even going for some time until R. Millan batted Goal No. 2 in from a scrimmake. A minute late Cooke again scored from the side and the Frontenac supporters sat back to watch their pets pile up score.

Right there the Petes surprised them. The forward line came working down with a pretty combination that carried them in while the Frontenacs found trouble stopping the rushes of the defence. For the balance of the half they outplayed the Frontenacs and only clever goal keeping by Mills saved more than one goal. Finally Long came up alone and shot dead on. Mills caught the puck, but before he could clear, Long followed him in and bodied him into the nets. It looked like a gaol, but the Petes made it sure when Mills dropped the puck back of the nets. Long went in behind and passed out to Rose, who banged it through. From then on until the half, the Petes were buzzing around, but Mills kept them out.

Almost immediately after the second half opened, N. Millan and Derry were ruled off for tripping, and the Petes had the Frontenacs on the run. Knapman made it 3—2 when he banged in a rebound on a rush by Long. With the Petes only one goal behind it was anybody's battle. For twelve minutes the play raged up and down, and then R. Millan made it 4 to 2 when he shoved one past Dwyer from a scrimmage.

Norman Millan added two more for Kingston before the final gong, getting one beautiful goal when he carried the rubber from the corner around Richardson and Long for counter.

The summary:

1—Frontenacs, Cooke—1 min.
2—Frontenacs, R. Millan—8 mins.
3—Frontenacs, Cooke—3 mins.
4—Peterborough, Rose—9 mins.
Half time.
5—Peterborough, Knapman—3 mins.
6—Frontenacs, R. Millan—12 mins.
7—Frontenacs, N. Millan—5 mins.
8—Frontenacs, N. Millan—4 mins.

The rink management to use a Shaughnesseyism, "pulled a bone head" when they flooded the rink at 6 o'clock. There was only one degree of frost and the result was the ice was soft and watery.

Cobourg Game Here May Decide The Championship Of Group

Peterborough's defeat in Belleville last night keeps every team in the group still in the running with the exception of Bowmanville, and with the end of the schedule in sight next week, there promises to be the most exciting climax in the history of the O.H.A. season. They all have a chance yet but it looks as if the Petes would have to win the two remaining games to stay in the race. Their next game will be staged here on Tuesday night when the fast Cobourg team will be here and the contest should be by long odds the hardest fought of the season. Peterborough has to win to keep in the running and Cobourg is just in the same position. The lake shore bunch have the class and if they catch the Petes in the form they should be in the last half of the game at Belleville, and in the contest with Bowmanville here, the locals chances for the group championship will go a-glimmering. At all events it will be a royal battle, and should pack the rink.

BASEBALL

NEW YORK, JAN. 24.—Without any idea or intention of "knocking" the new Federal League or its promoters it can truthfully be said that there is one man among the backers of the organization who has had more baseball experience than all of the others combined. That man is Edward Hanlon.

When it comes to actual baseball experience, first as a player, then as a manager and afterward as a club owner, Hanlon has a record of past achievements that none of the other Federal generals can measure up to. "Foxy Ned," as he was called in the old days, knows big league baseball from turn-stile to flag-pole, and if the new organization can be made a winner Hanlon looks to be the man to turn the trick.

In Baltimore, where Hanlon is to place a Federal League team, he managed a National League team for several years. Later he owned the Eastern League team in the same city.

Hanlon's first move after taking over the Baltimore franchise in the Federal League was to engage Otto Knabe, the crack second sacker of the Phillies, as manager of the team. In grabbing the Philly star Hanlon showed that the prospect of a war with the National League did not bother him.

A baseball war would be no new experience for "Foxy Ned." He was with Pittsburg when the Brotherhood was formed, in 1891, and promptly jumped to the new organization. When the American League made its famous raid on the Nationals, which resulted in the capture of more than one hundred players of the older organization, Hanlon was managing the Brooklyn team. What the American Leaguers did to Hanlon's team was a-plenty. When the new league got all the Brooklynites they wanted Hanlon didn't have much better than a Class B outfit left to represent the Dodger City.

His Chief Objection

Turning to the newspaper reporter who was his passenger, the aviator exclaimed:

"It's all off: the propeller is broken, and we are doomed to fall six thousand feet!"

"Great guns," cried the reporter, "I hope we don't fall into the water. I can't swim a stroke!"

SECRET OF SPEED LIES IN LONG ARM

Johnson's Reach Five and a Half Inches Greater Than Normal—Almost Deformity

The terrific speed of Walter Johnson has been a seven years' wonder, and a writer in the Baseball Magazine seeks to explain it. He says:

I sat in the lobby of a hotel and Johnson sat beside me. I noticed that, although he was erect in his chair, his arms were crossed in his lap before him. Fold your own arms in that position. It is hardly comfortable. The only person who would find it comfortable is a person with abnormally long arms. "Pretty long arms, Johnson," I ventured, looking at them. "Yes," he said, and smiled. "I guess I have the longest arms of anyone in baseball."

The long-armed pitcher can move his arm through the sweep of the throw as fast as the short-armed pitcher. And since his hand describes a larger arc, actually travels through a greater distance, the result is that he gives the ball a greater velocity, because of that added length of arm.

Johnson has an extreme reach from tip to tip of his outstretched hands of 78½ inches. Vean Gregg has a reach of 77 inches. Ed. Reulbach can extend his open palms a distance of 78 inches. So can Slim Sallee, while Cy Falkenberg has a reach of no less than 79½ inches—a full inch overtopping Johnson. Does this damage our theory? Not at all.

We have seen that Johnson's reach is great, actually being topped only by Cy Falkenberg. If we glance at the figures comparatively, we shall see Johnson's superiority.

Cy Falkenberg has a reach of 79½ inches, but the human obelisk has a height of no less than 77 inches. His excess of reach then is 2½ inches above normal. Slim Sallee has a reach of 78 inches, but he surpays the world from an elevation of 75½ inches, so his excess of reach is also 2½ inches. Gregg has a reach of 7 inches, but he is six feet two and a half inches tall. His excess reach is also 2½ inches. Christy Mathewson has a reach of 76 inches, full three inches above what it should be normally. Walter Johnson is six feet one and has a reach of 78½ inches. Here we see a variation of no less than 5½ inches. This is a variation from normal verging almost on deformity. It is the greatest we have ever seen in the case of a pitcher. Ed. Reulbach has a reach of 77½ inches and a height of six feet one. His excess reach is 4½ inches. It is only necessary to add that in his prime Reulbach was the speediest pitcher in the National League.

Let us examine the pitching arm itself. The figures are:

Length of arm: Gregg, 32 inches; Sallee, 32 inches; Reulbach, 33 inches; Falkenberg, 33 inches; Johnson, 34 inches.

With the exception of Reulbach, Johnson is the shortest man in the list. Even the gigantic Falkenberg, with the advantage of no less than four inches in height, has a pitching arm a full inch shorter. Compared to his height the difference is all the more noticeable.

Utilizing Nile Power

It is understood that the Egyptian irrigation department proposes to utilize the water which flows through the great Assuan dam for the generation of electric power. For about five months in the late autumn and winter the water is accumulated in the reservoir formed by the dam, and what is allowed to pass the sluices flows through under a large head. It would be possible to develop over 150,000 horsepower. The electrical energy generated is to be employed in the production of chemical fertilizers by the fixation of atmospheric nitrogen. In a year Egypt spent $3,250,000 on such fertilizers, 56,000 tons out of the 70,000 tons imported being nitrate.

EDUCATION OBTAINED IN OPEN AIR

Hedge Schools Only Means of Teaching Pupils in Ireland For Years

DEAN McCOLL'S ADDRESS

The Ladies' Literary Society of St. Peter's T. A. S. held their first meeting for the new year in the Lyceum last evening, when an exceptionally interesting lecture was given on "The Hedge Schools of Ireland," by Rev. Dean McColl. A very good musical programme was rendered:

Instrumental solo—Miss M. Gorman.
Vocal solo—Miss Annie Simons.
Instrumental solo—Miss L. Hill.
Vocal solo—Mr. Ed. Hanrahan.
Vocal solo—Miss M. Mahoney.
Accompanists—Miss Aileen Sullivan and Miss Marion Gorman.

Rev. Dean McColl treated his subject in a very interesting way. It was during the troublous times of the latter part of the 18th century that this method was resorted to by the Irish people to obtain for their children that education which was so prized and desired by them. The children of the rich were sent abroad, to the schools in France and Spain, but the poorer classes, of which Ireland has always possessed a very good share, were obliged to resort to other means of obtaining learning. Some of the most beautiful and picturesque spots in which Ireland abounds, were utilised in this way. The rustic schoolmaster would gather the children for miles around on the sunny side of the hedge, and there conduct school, and these men were proud of their work, although one master might have under his charge as many as 150 pupils. They were doubtless very noisy at times, especially when heated discussions took place, but the teachers were capable and efficient, and, besides the rudimentary work, were capable of preparing scholars for the universities. There are instances of these scholars, often poor, and insufficiently clothed, who attended their classes regularly, and afterwards proved the value of their early training, by their achievements in the universities.

Rev. Father McColl read a couple of amusing advertisements, one for a schoolmaster and another by a "philomath" himself, in which he describes his own qualifications at length, the whole comprising a knowledge of nearly everything under the sun, and of some subjects never heard of before or since. But the people reverenced learning, and had a great respect for its possessor. The schoolmaster was welcome in every house, and the best of its contents were at his disposal. The custom was, when a boy had attended regularly, and had come to feel that he knew almost as much as his teacher, for him to challenge the master to an argument. Judges were appointed, and the whole countryside flocked to hear the debate. If the master overcame his scholar the latter remained and pursued his studies under him, but if the case was reversed, the pupil usually went in search of some man of greater learning, often to distant parts of the country. These "poor scholars," as they were termed, were received by the people, who admired their talent and ability, with open arms, and were lodged free of charge wherever they went. They, in turn, helped the children with their studies. These "poor scholars" were called "Intellectual knights errant," but they often had difficulty in proving themselves, as the master would sometimes exercise unfairness to save himself from defeat, as in the case of one, who took a commanding position at his desk, ferrule in hand. This he brought down with resounding whacks on the desk, to emphasize his arguments, thereby unpleasantly reminding his opponent of the many times his frame had been made acquainted with its eloquent force. They also made use of every available trick to puzzle and outwit an opponent, and had a stock of unanswerable questions, of which "Find the solid contents of a load of thorns," is an example, to embarass and non-plus the presuming scholar.

Learning Was Revered

In that country, and at that time, learning was regarded with awe and reverence, and its possessor was looked upon as a walking encyclopaedia of knowledge. The Irish people had a great love of, and desire for, education, and if a boy showed the least inclination to be "cute at the larnin'," his parents and the rest of the family would endure almost any hardship, and sacrifice a great deal, to do without the help of his labour, and give him a schooling. It was a common sight to see a boy, perhaps insufficiently clad, coming with a piece of turf on his back, to contribute his share to the heating of the lean-to at the side of the hedge, or the old shed where they took refuge, in the cold weather.

Father McColl brought his address to a close by reciting very effectively the description of the village schoolmaster from Goldsmith's "The Deserted Village," who, although he lived in a later age, and under different conditions, had yet many of the characteristics possessed by the men who taught "The Hedge Schools of Ireland."

The chairlady, Mrs. A. Lehane, then called upon the clergymen on the platform, and Rev. Fathers Guiry, Galvin, Cote and Meagher, spoke in turn. Father Guiry remembered having received assistance in his early studies from an old man who had been a "poor scholar," and who had come to this country with the Robinson emigration, and Father Meagher alluded to a learned teacher in his preparatory school, and another in a Dublin college, who had received their first lessons as "hedge" scholars.

THERE IS WORK FOR THIS WEEK

In last night's Examiner an item appeared giving particulars of a family, the head of which was looking for work. In the letter received the name was given, but no address. If the man will call at the Examiner he will be given information where he can get several days' work.

Whitney Much Better

Special Wire to The Examiner:

TORONTO, Jan. 24. — "Sir James Whitney decidedly better this morning. Much less delirious and took a good breakfast." This was the bulletin issued by the doctors at Toronto General Hospital this morning. Some of the Premier's friends assert that their redoubtable leader may yet be sufficiently recovered to take the leadership of the house on Feb. seventeenth. In other quarters it is stated that Sir James can never again safely enter the legislative buildings or make any exertion which will cause him much excitement.

Blount Signed As Manager

Curley Blount of Youngstown, O., will be the manager of the Peterborough 1914 Canadian League Club. He arrived in Peterborough last night, and after a long consultation with the local directors in regard to the situation, formally signed a contract as manager. The directors are very much impressed with Blount's appearance and bearing, and he has satisfied them that he will be able to place a strong club in the field. He has a host of players at his command and expects little difficulty in rounding up a squad that will make them all travel.

THE MORNING MUSICAL SOCIETY

A meeting of the Morning Musical Society was held on Thursday at Miss Robertson's, Water Street, when the Polish and Russian masters were studied, a paper on Tschaikovsky was read by Mrs. Frederick and some very interesting remarks about the other composers were given by other members. Following was the programme:

Solo, Miss Gladman.
Song, "I Will Wear no Red Sarafan," Mrs. Allan.
Solo, "Study on the Black Keys" (Chopin), Mrs. Porter.
Solo, "Mai," (schaikovsky) Mrs. Gilman.
Violin solos, "Legende," (Wienawski), "Mazurka," Mrs. Tomlins, accompanist Mrs. Porter.
Solo, Miss Jean Hill.

The next meeting will be held at Miss Morrow's, 484 Weller Street, on Thursday, February 5th, at 10.30, sharp, when Wagner will be the master studied.

Cattle Must Be De-horned

Drovers have been notified by the Department of Agriculture to the effect that after the 1st day of April next all cattle for shipment must be dehorned. Providing the consignor fails to comply with this law, the sum of $2.00 will be deducted from the purchase price of each animal.

The reason assigned for the levying of this amount on cattle, has been brought about through so much bruised meat being placed upon the market. In transit the animals often engage in fierce battles, bruising one another, and on those animals being killed shortly afterwards, the flesh is found to be bloody wherever they received a bump from the horns of other ones.

Such a law will have a tendency to prompt the dehorning of all cattle at an early age. He also stated that it is also considerel a profitable move for the breeder, as animals are more docile when minus horns, and much easier fattened. The dehorning kills the pugnacious feeling which most animals possess, and leaves them as loving and peaceful as doves.

HAS BEEN A MAN OF MANY ACTIVITIES

Mr. J. J. Thompson Has Been an Inspiration to Clean, Manly Sport of All Kinds Since Coming Here

A GENERAL FAVOURITE

While the citizens generally will regret the departure of Mr. J. J. Thompson, they nevertheless will join in congratulating the popular physical director of the Y.M.C.A. on his well earned promotion.

Since coming to Peterborough in May, 1910, he has been an indefatigable worker, and there are few branches of athletics that have not felt the touch of his magic wand. Previous to this he spent two years as physical director in Kingston, where the work was well built up under his supervision. An invitation to return to that City, is an indication tha his work was appreciated. Lindsay was his first official appointment in connection with Y.M.C.A. work, having come there fresh from the "gym" of the West End Association in Toronto, where he won so many of the laurels that bespoke a successful career in the athletic department of the Association He was a member of their senior baseball team, captain of the Harrier Club, all-round athletic champion for two years, and holder of the Ontario cross-country five-mile championship.

His special training along the line of his chosen profession has made him very valuable to the local Association, in that he has been qualified to attend to the instruction of the students attending the Collegiate Institute and Normal school. He holds a Grade A. instructors certificate of physical training for the instruction of Public school teachers according to the methods approved by the Executive Council of the Strathcona Trust, and adopted throughout the Dominion by the educational authorities for use in schools. Mr. Thompson is the only Y.M.C.A. physical director in Canada holding such certificate. He is also a graduate of the Canadian Training School, having completed three summers' course at the Institute held at Lake Couchiching. Besides, he has a certificate from the S. John's Ambulance Association for a course in "First Aid to the Injured."

His activities have not been confined to the Association, however. During his residence here he has come in close contact with such organizations as the Peterborough Rugby Club, the Church Hockey League, School Baseball League, and has assisted in conducting athletic events throughout the City, particularly Labour Day sports.

In other directions, as well, his influence has been felt. He took a special interest in the spiritual welfare of his associates. The Young Men's Bible Class, which meets Sunday afternoons, is under his direction. He is a local preacher of the Baptist Church, and has supplied very acceptably in many of the churches and Young People's Societies of the City and surrounding country.

Mr. Thompson will be greatly missed by the local Association, where he has certainly made good, the work having advanced in every department since he took charge.

No one will regret his departure more than the boys of the junior department who were in the habit of attending the annual camp at Sandy Point, Clear Lake. In the art of managing boys, Mr. Thompson is a born genius; everything goes off with a swing when his hand is on the helm.

As a promoter of good, clean sport in the City, Mr. Thompson will be long remembered.

Captain Scott Reached Pole 2 Years Ago

The Thought of the Civilized World is Turned on the Pathetic Scene

DRAMA OF DISASTER

It was two years ago Saturday last that Captain Scott and his little band stood on the spot which they had so bravely sought at the South Pole. All the civilized world has turned its thought to that pathetic scene; when, in the hour of achievement, disappointment at being out-distanced by a friendly rival vexed their spirits; and they who had drawn from out the boundless deep of our modern life, to those inaccessible wilds, turned again home and perished on the way, providing the human race with a drama of disaster, and a tale of heroic comradeship, which will take high place among the imperishable annals of the world.

Provision for Dependents.

The recent publication of the authentic account in the volumes of "Captain Scout's Last Expedition"; the report of Dr. E. A. Wilson's artistic work, as recited in the catalogue of the exhibition of his sketches at the Alpine Club in London, and the probating of the wills of members of the expedition have all served to recall the tragic story. With characteristic spantaneity, public generosity made ample provision for those who suffered by the calamity; windows and brasses tell the story in the former haunts of the heroes; and in raising a permanent memorial Canada is proceeding to act upon her own soil.

The Honourable Donald Howard, son and heir of Dr. J. W. Howard, and his wife, who was Lord Strathcona's only child. On the death of his mother, who is now Baroness Strathcona in her own rights. Hon. Donald Howard will be Lord Strathcona. He has been many times in Canada with his late distinguished grandfather. He is 23 years of age and was born in England. Recent despatches from New York indicate that he may have to fight for his title and the fortune, however, as a man named James H. Smith of Boston, is a claimant for the fortunes of the late Donald Smith, Lord Strathcona. At this time of writing it is not divulged what relationship he alleges.

A WARNING TO MAGISTRATES

TORONTO, Jan. 26.—Mr. Justice Middleton yesterday promised to draft a word of warning to police magistrates who proceeding under the summary conviction part of the Criminal Code think they have the power to act as in the summary trial of indictable offences.

"It is a very common mistake," declared Deputy Attorney-General Cartwright.

The matter came up at Osgoode Hall on a motion to quash the conviction of Herbert Frizzell, of Napanee, who was convicted by Magistrate William Rankin, of that place, on a charge of receiving 20 pounds of butter known to have been stolen. The Magistrate committed him to the jail for a week, and fined him $100 or six months in jail.

Hugh Rose, K.C., for the accused, argued that the magistrate had no jurisdiction, an opinion in which Mr. Cartwright concurred. The $100 fine was quashed.

"How about costs?" queried his Lordship. "It is hard to impose costs on the magistrate where there has been no intentional wrong doing. I am sorry that there is no fund available out of which the Crown might pay the costs. There will be no costs. I will write a memorandum to prevent others falling into the same error."

THE ETHICS OF SPECULATION IN LAND

An Interesting Resume of a Debate at George Street Methodist Church

Editor Examiner:

Criticism having been made publicly of the debate that took place last Monday evening in the Sunday School of the George Street Methodist Church on the subject, "Resolved that it is worse to make money from speculating in land than from gambling at cards," I would like the privilege, having been the leader of the affirmative, to make reply.

In the first place I would like to make it clear that the speakers for the affirmative did not intend to reflect in any way on the real estate agents of Peterborough, who contain in their ranks Christian men of the highest standing. These men have proved their willingness at all times to advance worthy causes and are highly respected on that account.

I would point out also that the judges, when announcing their decision, stated that the affirmative had not proved that it was any more immoral to speculate in land than to gamble at cards, but that the effects on the public welfare were worse. It was on these grounds that they gave their decision to the affirmative. The George Street Church Epworth League challenged the Young People's Guild of St. Paul's Church to a debate. In a conference between us three subjects were suggested for discussion. Our object in selecting the subject we did, in preference to the others, was our desire to draw attention to certain aspects of the land question that are rapidly forcing themselves to the front and which are attracting world-wide attention. I refer to the essential difference between buying and selling land for legitimate business purposes (in connection with which there will alawys be need for the co-operation and assistance of legitimate real estate agents) and that of buying land for the purpose solely of obtaining unearned wealth through increases in land values.

Land values are created by the presence if the public and not by the individual. Where population is dense, land values are high. Where there is no population, land has little or no value. As population increases, land values advance. In our large cities the choicest sites are worth several million dollars an acre.

The public does not realize as yet that it creates this wealth and that it is entitled to receive it. In time the people will vote in favour of appropriating these values for public purposes just as the citizens of Peterborough recently voted overwhelmingly in favour of controlling their own light and power system.

Speculators in land are just a little sharper than the public. Therefore, consciously in some cases and unconsciously in others, they are taking advantage of the public's ignorance. They rush in and buy land where ever they see that population is likely to increase. People who buy land in this way often never even see it and never spend a dollar to improve it. One of the arguments the agents who handle this land use when trying to sell it, is that it will never be necessary to improve it. Millions of acres of western lands and of city and town lots have been trafficked in in this way The real, if undefined object of these pjeople is to get something for nothing.

What is the effect? Let us take the west for example. Poor immigrants who go to the west seeking to find a home find most of the choice land in the hands of speculators. Thus they are forced to go back 50, 75 and 100 miles from the cities and railways to obtain land at a price within their reach. Thus settlement is retarded, the poor congregate in the cities and production is restricted, thus adding to the high cost of living, concerning which there is such general complaint. So injurious have been the results in the west from this condition of affairs they have led to a general protest. The following quotation is taken from an eastern paper which had copied it from a recent issue of Th Grain Growers' Guide, the official organ of the three great farmers' organizations in Western Canada:

"Why the Famer is Poor."

"Every farmer who hauls a load of "wheat past an idle quarter section "on his way to market is paying toll "to the speculator who holds that "quarter section out of use. The load "of wheat because of "vacant land "has a lower purchasing power by several cents per bushel, and this loss "to the farmer is gain to the speculator. The speculator is doing just "what the barons of old did, but he is "doing it under the shadow of the "law and is therefore respectable "This evil could be largely removed "by the provincial legislatures. Why "do they not act? Are the people satisfied to pay toll to speculators?"

In consequence of these conditions all three of the prairie provinces are now taxing land values instead of improvements in order that they may shake off the hold of the land speculator. Saskatchewan recently has taken a step still further in advance by following the example of Lloyd-George, and of many German cities, and arranging to secure for public purposes a percentage of all increases in land values.

Christian people are only beginning to realize what conditions such as these mean. In consequence they are beginning to speak out concerning them in no uncertain way. The following example is taken from among many that might be given.

The Toronto Methodist Conference on June 16th last, unanimously adopted the following resolution:

"Whereas there is an infinite difference between the use of the land for the multiplication of crops, buildings and other products, and the use of the land by speculators, not to add anything to the welfare of mankind, but to secure a share of the wealth produced by the industry of their neighbours. Therefore, be it resolved that this conference strongly recommends that the Assessment Act be so amended as to encourage the use of the land for beneficent production, and to remove the temptation to speculation."

Practically all the points here given were brought out in the course of the debate. My object in restating them is to give the public who were not present, but who may have become interested through the discussion the debate has aroused, an insight into its real character.

Orion (the Giant Hunter.)

The constellation of Orion seems to have excited the admiration of all ages, and rivals Ursa Major and the famous Pleiades in historical interest and the mythology of the past. It is the most brilliant of all the constellations containing, as it does, two stars of the first, and four of the second magnitude. Aside form the "Dipper," the "Belt of Orion" is probably the best known and most popular of stellar obects.

The constellation being so conspicuous and visible from all parts of the earth, poets of all ages have sung its praises. Hesiod of old wrote:

"When strong Orion chases to the deep the virgin stars."

Manillius sang:

"Orion's beams, Orion's bears;
His star gemmed belt and shining blade,
His isles of light, his silver streams,
And glowing gulfs of mystic shade."

Shelley in his Revolt of Islam, wrote:

"Whilst far Orion o'er the waves did walk
That flow among the isles."

And Longfellow:

"Begirt with many a blazing star
Stood the great giant Algebar
Orion, hunter of the beast,
His sword hung gleaming by his side.'

Tennyson also refers to Orion in "Locksley Hall," in "Maud," and "The Princess."

Orion's bright stars are overhead a litle to the south, at nine o'clock at night, and are so conspicuous they cannot well be mistaken.

Orion has been identified with Merodach, first king of Babylonia, and with Nimrod, "the mighty hunter." In Egypt the soul of Osiris was said to reside in Orion. The star Betelgeuse is receding from us apparently at a velocity of 10 miles a second. Bellatrix, the "Female Warrior," and "Amazon Star" is moving away at the rate of five miles a second. Rigel, the bright star at the foot, is going away at the rate of 10 miles. The three stars in the belt have been referred to as "the Bands of Orion"; when once noted will always be remembered.

ROBERT AULL IS MISSING.

Was Defendant in Action Brought on Behalf of Doris Reid For Annulment of Her Marriage to Him at Cobourg Last Summer.

TORONTO, Jan. 4.—Where is Robert Aull, defendant in the action brought on behalf of Doris Reid for the annulment of her marriage to him at Cooburg last summer? Mr. Aull left the city for Christmas holidays at home, and since then his solicitors have been unable to get in touch with him.

The desire to learn his whereabouts is intensified by the fact that a motion to have the case heard in camera has been adjourned indefinitely to allow his solicitors to get in touch with him. The motion [illegible] secret hearing has been made by the representative of Miss Reid, whose family is most desirous that nothing of the proceedings shall reach the public.

The motion is made in face of the ruling of the House of Lords in the Scott divorce case that no court in British dominions can properly be held in private. In Canada, or rather in Ontario, this ruling of the House of Lords is honoured in the beach rather than in the observance by some judges. There are certain judges who are recognised as willing to entertain motions in their private rooms, while others on the Ontario bench hold that it is improper to do so, aand resolutely set their faces against any such proceeding.

CAMPBELLVILLE, ONT., May 5th, 1913.

"Our little boy, Lawrence, was sorely affected with Chronic Indigestion, and the doctor did not think he would recover. He started with a sore mouth and it developed into this other trouble. Everything he ate just passed right through the system without change. He cried incessantly and life was a misery to him. My husband had been using "Fruit-a-tives" for Indigestion, getting much benefit from them, and I thought what did him good, might help our boy. Made the Journey Quite Cheerful.

Mr. Justice Maule once went on circuit with Judge Coleridge in a part of England where the high sheriff was a shy and modest man and very much alarmed at having to entertain his cynical lordship. Coming home in his coach with the two judges he thought it his duty to make conversation for them. He observed that he hoped there would be better weather, as the moon had changed.

"And are you such a fool, Mr. Jones, as to imagine that the moon has any effect on the weather?" said Maule.

"Really, Brother Maule," said Coleridge, who was politeness itself, "you are very hard upon our friend. For my part, I think the moon has considerable effect upon it."

"Then," said Maule, "you are as great a fool as Jones is." After which, conversation in the sheriff's carriage languished.

Napoleon's Masterful Mother.

The relationship between Napoleon Bonaparte and his mother, the Mme. Mere of imperial times, was peculiar. Mme. Letizia, who was thirty-four when her famous son was born, had always been complete mistress of her household. Even when her son was emperor and his word was law, willing as she might have been in public to do him honor, in private she insisted on the privileges of her motherhood.

Baron Larrey, in his historical essay, writes: "One day there was a family meeting, and Napoleon gave his mother his hand to kiss, but Mme. Mere moved aside the proffered hand. Napoleon then took his mother's hand and kissed it, and she said to him, 'Sire, you know quite well that in public I must treat you with due respect, because I am your subject, but in private I am your mother.'"

Safe Either Way.

A farmer in a cyclone district was building a superb stone wall. He was building the wall stanch and solid, five feet across the base and four feet high. A stranger stopped his horse and said to the farmer:

"You're taking a lot of trouble with that wall."

"You bet," the farmer answered. "I'm putting her here to stay."

"What's the good of that?" sneered the stranger. "A cyclone'll come along and she'll blow over just the same."

"Well, let her," said the farmer. "She'll be a foot higher if she does."—Minneapolis Journal.

BAD BLOOD

IS THE DIRECT CAUSE OF Pimples.

Pimples break out on the face and body, and it is impossible to get rid of them, unless you cleanse the blood of all of its impurities.

Burdock Blood Bitters is without a doubt, the very best medicine for this purpose.

This old, and reliable medicine has been in use for nearly forty years, and has a reputation unequalled by any other preparation for removing all the impurities from the blood and banishing the pimples.

Mr. Edward Paquette, Navan Centre, Ont., writes:—"One month ago my face was covered with pimples and a rash. I had tried a number of these so called blood purifiers with no avail. Seeing an almanac of yours in which you strongly recommend Burdock Blood Bitters, I decided to try a bottle, and after I had taken it I could see a decided change, and after using three bottles more all the pimples had completely disappeared."

FOR YOUNG FOLKS

Grand Duke Alexis, Only Son of the Russian Czar.

A LONESOME LITTLE BOY.

Some Things of Interest to Children. Robbing the Parson's Henroost a Jolly Game—Why Four Little Lads Were Late at School.

It is very much better to be an American boy with a sound pair of legs and good health than to be heir to the Russian throne with illness of a serious nature. It is said that the Grand Duke Alexis is afflicted with a lameness that may be permanent. His left leg has to be supported by a metal frame, so the story goes. The czarevitch is very fond of the sea and spends much time in summer on board the imperial yacht. The little czarevitch dresses as a bluejacket. He wears the uniform of the sailors of the imperial guard, a picked body of men. Last summer he spent some time at Eupatoria, the Crimean cure station on the Black sea. There he was given mud baths in the hope that his physical condition would be improved. The czarevitch has just entered his tenth year, an age when all boys like to romp and play, but that is forbidden him because of his weakness. So it will appear that it is not worth while to envy him his high station. It is much more fun and satisfaction to be just a plain healthy American boy.

CZAREVITCH OF RUSSIA.

Robbing the Parson's Henroost.

To play this game every one, except the questioner, must choose a word and use it for every answer he gives. The leader asks questions of each in turn, and each must use his word in his answer. If he forgets or says "yes" or "no" he must take the questioner's place.

For example, suppose the players A, B and C have chosen the words "elephant," "keyhole" and "thimble." The questioner begins by saying, "The parson's henroost was robbed last night—what did you take?"

A.—An elephant.

Q.—How did you get in the henroost?

B.—Through the keyhole.

Q.—Where did you put what you stole?

C.—In a thimble.

And so on around the circle till all have answered.

Riddles.

My first implies equality, my second the title of a foreign nobleman, and my whole is asked and given a hundred times a day with equal indifference and yet is of so much importance that it has saved the lives of thousands. Pardon.

Why ought meat to be only half cooked? Because what is done cannot be helped.

Who had the first entrance into a theater? Joseph, when he was taken from the family circle and put into the pit.

When is a clock on the stairs dangerous? When it runs down and strikes one.

What do we often catch, yet never see? A passing remark.

Quite Right Too.

Oh, Jeremy, Jonathan, Joseph and James
Were four little lads who delighted in games.
Each morning they started with books and a slate
To trot off to school, but they always were late,
Because on the road I am sorry to say,
They stopped here and there "just a minute" to play.

One morning when running from lessons slack,
They met a policeman, who ordered them back!
And Jeremy, Jonathan, Joseph and James
The four little lads who delighted in games,
Went quickly to school with book and with slate,
And ever since then they have never been late.

SHILOH CURES COUGHS & COLDS

A youngster was much depressed by loneliness. His own brother had gone away for a week, and the lad across the street, with whom he played occasionally, was ill in bed. Moreover, there were no toys that he found amusing.

In this sad state his mother found him. "Perhaps," she suggested, "I can play with you. What is it you wish—to play Indians?"

"No, ma'am," sighed the boy, "I wish I was two little dogs, so I could play together."—Lippincott's.

Formally Opened in Cleveland by Pastor Russell.

GOD'S KINGDOM IS PICTURED

Messiah Was to Be of David's Lineage—God's Typical Kingdom—Overturned 606 B. C.—One Long Line of World-Empires—"The Times of the Gentiles"—Israel's "Seven Times" of Chastisement—The Two Periods Synchronous About to Expire Now—The Fifth Universal Empire — Jerusalem and Messiah.

[The matter under this heading is supplied by the Pastor Russell Lecture Bureau, who conduct the Brooklyn Tabernacle (unsectarian) Bible Studies, and who have arranged for its insertion.]

Cleveland, O., Jan. 25.—Pastor Russell yesterday afternoon in the I.B.S.A. Temple, corner of Prospect and East 22nd Street, personally conducted the opening exhibition in this city of the Photo-Drama of Creation. This Drama is acknowledged by art critics to be by far the finest production of moving pictures and slides ever presented, and is to be shown, free to the public, in all cities and lands throughout the world, under the auspices of the International Bible Students Association, of which Pastor Russell is President.

In New York City, in his new $500,000 Temple, two weeks ago, Pastor Russell presented the Drama for the first time to houses crowded from pit to dome. Last Sunday in the famous Music Hall in Cincinnati he personally conducted the opening of the Photo-Drama of Creation there.

The Photo-Drama of Creation is produced in conjunction with remarkably clear phonographic discourses, which have behind them the forty years of Bible study by New York's famous Pastor. By some process never before attained the phonographs used in this production have been relieved of the metallic sound altogether, thus producing the very finest oratorical effects. It is the wonder to-day of talking-machine dealers in the metropolis. The voice is resonant, clear, full and restful, and audiences rarely detect it as the voice of the talking machine.

The exhibition is in three parts:

Part I traces the creation of the earth and of man, its king—then his fall into sin and its death punishment, the first promises of complete deliverance from the penalty, and the Deluge and its causes on to Moses' time.

Part II points us through the types to Messiah, the great Emancipator of the death-stricken race, and the world-wide blessings His soon-to-be established Kingdom will bring. It introduces us to the Heavenly Logos, who became the man Christ Jesus. It also shows and explains His sacrificial work and His unwavering faithfulness in fulfilling the prophecies concerning Himself, and how His miracles picture the restoration of mankind during His Second presence and reign.

Part III traces not only the sufferings of Christ, the Head, but also those of the Church, His Body, preparatory to their exaltation and consequent glorious work of blessing the non-elect for a thousand years—"whosoever will."

Pastor Russell yesterday forenoon discussed that feature of the Production of the Photo-Drama that relates to the overthrow of Israel's typical kingdom and the foretold reestablishment of it at the end (now due) of the "seven (symbolic) times" of chastisement at the hands of Him whose right it is.

His text and discourse follow:

"Remove the diadem, and take off the crown: this shall not be the same,. * * * I will overturn, overturn, overturn it—until He come whose right it is; and I will give it unto Him." (Ezekiel 21:26, 27.) He said:

God established the Jewish nation as His representative nation, or kingdom, in the world, with the understanding that in some manner and at some time that nation would be the channel of Divine blessing to all the families of the earth, in harmony with the original Oath-bound Promise made to Abraham. After a precarious existence of nearly six centuries the star of Jewish Empire set, and has not risen since.

The particular date at which the typical Kingdom passed away is clearly marked in the Scriptures. The solidity of the Empire in the hands of King David, and his son, King Solomon, was lost in its division in the days of King Solomon's successor. Nevertheless, in harmony with the Divine prediction, the royal line continued in the tribe of Judah; as it is written, "The sceptre shall not depart from Judah, nor a lawgiver fom between his feet, until Shiloh come."—Genesis 49:10.

The Lord's covenant with King David was that One from his seed should be the great King over the more glorious Kingdom of God, when it should be established. In other words, Messiah would be of David's lineage. The royal family of David's line had a precarious course for several centuries after King Solomon's death until Zedekiah, the last king of Judah. Of him the Divine declaration was, "And thou, profane and wicked prince of Israel, whose day is come when iniquity shall have an end, Thus saith the Lord God, Remove the diadem, and take off the crown: this shall not be the same. * * * I will overturn, overturn, overturn it: and it shall be no more, until He come whose right it is; and I will give it unto Him."

That statement was made just prior to Israel's captivity to Babylon. And the crown and the sceptre have been overturned ever since, and will continue so to be until Messiah Himself, at His Second Advent, shall take the Throne as the antitypical Son of David. No king of David's line has been in power for even a moment since the overthrow of King Zedekiah. True, Israel had the Maccabean kings under Gentile suzerainty, and later they had the House of Herod. But neither of these lines was of the House of David; indeed, neither was Jewish at all. King Zedekiah lost his crown in 606 B. C.; and surely the kingdom has been well described as "overturned, overturned"; and it is still overturned, because the foreordained time has not yet come—although it is near.

There were Gentile kingdoms in the world long before Israel became a monarchy. Yet God recognized only Israel and entered into covenant relationship with no other nation. But as soon as the verdict of our text was given against Israel, to hold until Messiah's Reign, then Divine providence recognized Gentile governments, although not in the same way in which Israel had been recognized—not as kingdoms of God, but as kingdoms of the Gentiles.

Nor were all Gentile nations recognized, but one great line of World-Empires of several dynasties which, so to speak, were given temporary or leasehold privileges covering the period of the overturning of Israel's crown—until the time for Messiah's Kingdom. Indeed, in portraying these kingdoms and their leases of power, it is particularly shown that their dominion will terminate absolutely when that of Messiah will begin.

Furthermore, Moses prophesied the chastisement of Israel, and in symbolic numbers told that it would last Seven Times. (Leviticus 26:18, 21, 24, 28.) The lease of Gentile Times, or years, is likewise Seven Times. Both began to count at the same date. Hence both will terminate simultaneously. When the lease of Gentile domination ends, Messiah's Kingdom will by right begin its Reign; and Israel, "Jacob," will be associated with Messiah's Empire as His earthly people—Abraham, Isaac, Jacob and the Prophets being made princes in all the earth as promised.

God through the Prophet Daniel supplies us two pictures of the Seven Times of Gentile domination of the world. One of these pictures was given by vision to King Nebuchadnezzar, who overthrew the crown of King Zedekiah. Properly, it gives the worldly view of Gentile governments. The whole period was represented by a glorious image, whose head was of gold, his breast and his arms of silver, his belly and his thighs of brass, his legs of iron, his feet of iron and clay mixed. Given the pointer that Nebuchadnezzar's kingdom represented the head of gold, any scholar can show that the next Universal Empire was Medo-Persia, the third Greece and the fourth Rome—the feet representing Rome ecclesiastical, with her daughters dominating Europe to-day.

We cannot here go into details except to note that "in the days of these kings" represented by the toes, the God of Heaven promised to set up His Kingdom—Messiah's Kingdom. This is symbolized as a stone cut out of a mountain, which struck the image on its feet and demolished it completely. Then the stone became a great Mountain, or Kingdom, and filled the whole earth—Messiah's Kingdom.—Daniel 2:31-45.

The vision of Nebuchadnezzar represented Gentile domination as gorgeous. But when a vision was given to Daniel himself it showed matters in a different light. All Gentile kingdoms to him were pictured as beastly. The golden head of Nebuchadnezzar's vision, picturing the Babylonian Empire, was represented as a ferocious lion; the Medo-Persian Empire as a bear; the Grecian Empire as a leopard; and the Roman Empire of the Caesars as a nondescript, great and terrible beast, ferocious and destructive, as the pages of history corroborate.

In contrast with these Gentile governments, the coming Kingdom of Messiah was represented as human. "One like unto the Son of Man" took dominion under the whole heavens, in the name of God and as His Kingdom. The beastly forms of government disappeared, but that of the Son of Man endured—accomplishing to the full the Divine purposes.—Daniel 7:1-14.

As before suggested, the key to our problem lies in the Seven Times—the period of Israel's chastisement and that of Gentile lease of power. The measurement in both cases begins at the time of King Zedekiah's dethronement, 606 B. C. A Time is one year; hence the Seven Times are seven years—yet not literal years, but symbolic; and, as God declared through the Prophet, and fulfilled, each day is symbolic of a year. (Ezekiel 4:6.) The year is lunar—360 days; hence each of the Seven Times is 360 years; and the Seven Times equal 2,520 years. Now note that these Seven Times are almost expired; and hence Zionism is the watchword of all Jews who are trusting still in the Divine promises.

Reckoning from the date of the dethronement of King Zedekiah, we have the date 1915 A. D. This indicates that in 1915 Messiah's invisible, spiritual Kingdom will be in power. The lease of power to the Gentiles will then have expired, and Israel's disfavor will be at an end. This fact implies an awful Time of Trouble at that date, as foretold by the Prophet Daniel and also by our Lord.—Daniel 12:1.

The great trouble of 1915 will suffice for all time, as says the Prophet. (Psalm 46:9.) There will be no more war. Then the "princes" of Israel will have dictatorial powers, backed up by the spiritual Kingdom—just what the world needs, but what it dare not trust to any imperfect men under the present reign of Sin and Death.

The time has therefore come for the message of Isaiah 40:1, 2 to be given to God's ancient people. The time has come for the fulfilment of the highest ideals of Zionism! He that blesseth Israel shall be blessed of God! He that curseth Israel shall be cursed of God! Let us all encourage God's ancient people to go up and possess their land, as Cyrus did in a figure long ago!

It is not our thought to encourage all Jews to return to Palestine. Many of them are better off where they are at present. Only those who have faith in the precious promises do we encourage to go now. Gradually their numbers will increase, as faith in the promises of God returns to the Jewish heart.

But there is a work in which every Jew should have a share. If favorably situated, and unready to go personally, they should go by proxy—they should put plenty of money into the hands of the Zionist Manager at Jerusalem. He should be enabled to assist every worthy son of Abraham fleeing from Russian persecution. He should be prepared to advance money to every settler to purchase every foot of land in Palestine that is offered for sale. He should be enabled to supply all with tools, etc. He should have a free hand to do exploits in the name of God and of His Chosen People.

Zionism will prosper, whether or not. Messiah's Kingdom will be set up. But who will have the honor of having manifested his faith by his works and by his money? The love of money is a root of all evil amongst all people, and the Jew has not escaped it. Both Jews and Christians need the exhortation not to worship the Golden Calf, but the true God. I can thus reprove and exhort Jew, Gentile and Christian the more freely because it is well known that I never solicit money for myself or the work entrusted to me by the Lord—not even Church collections—not even insinuations that money is scarce and desirable. I do, however, exhort Jews in prosperous circumstances to bless their own hearts by helping their own countrymen to fulfil the holy prophecies.

The fault of Christendom has been the rejection of the Divine Plan and the acceptance instead of a human plan of salvation. The Church, it was asserted, was to convert the world for Jesus and present it to Him as a trophy. Alas, we have not been able to convert ourselves, which is the particular work the Master gave us to do! Greater humility would have shown us our folly long ago.

All through the Old Testament God's promises abound, telling all who have ears to hear of the glorious Reign of Messiah and of the success of His Kingdom—that the result shall be that "every knee shall bow and every tongue confess, to the glory of God"; that "the eyes of the blind shall be opened and the ears of the deaf shall be unstopped."

We remember the prophecies which picture earthly governments and show us their termination and the establishment of the Kingdom of Heaven on their ruins. We remember the Jubilee picture repeated by the Israelites every fiftieth year, proclaiming liberty and restoration of property for the people and typifying restitution of all that has been lost through sin and that is to be restored through Messiah's Kingdom.

Bible students are more and more coming to see that the Gospel Age is the time in which Messiah is selecting from amongst men a saintly class, and is proving and testing their loyalty to God and to righteousness. These are to be Messiah's assistants—"the Bride, the Lamb's Wife." Bible students all know that the New Testament abounds with references to the Kingdom. Nearly all the parables that our Lord gave were in illustration of something connected with the Kingdom or with the class being called out of the world to inherit the spiritual Kingdom as joint-heirs with Messiah. All such know, too, that the Great Teacher proclaimed that Kingdom, taught His followers to pray for it, "Thy Kingdom come; Thy will be done on earth, as it is done in Heaven."

Bible students all know that the Apostles referred to that Kingdom and pointed the Church to its establishment for the realisation of her hopes—the time when the Marriage of the Lamb will take place—the time when God's New Law Covenant with Israel will go into effect—the time when He who scattered Israel will also gather them, and when the Law will go forth from Mount Zion, the Celestial Kingdom, and the Word of the Lord from Jerusalem, the capital of the earthly princes. Messiah's Kingdom is just what humanity is coming to realize that it needs. In its establishment, as the Scriptures declare, "the desire of all nations shall come."—Haggai 2:7.

The Scriptures teach that Messiah's Kingdom is not only to bless those living at the time of its establishment, but gradually to awaken the dead from the tomb, and to give all of Adam's race a full opportunity for attaining life everlasting—or death. Indeed, the Bible assures us that eventually the whole world shall receive new life from Messiah, in offset to the life received from Father Adam, forfeited through sin. Thus amongst the various titles of Messiah mentioned by the Prophets is that of "the Everlasting Father."—Isaiah 9:6.

Backache Banished.

Thousands of men and women are suffering from weak, lame and aching backs, and many of them unable to do any work for the pain.

The stitches, twitches and twinges are bad enough and give enough misery, but, back of the backache, and the cause of it all are the disordered kidneys crying out in warning through the back.

Backache is kidney ache, and there's serious trouble ahead for you if you neglect it.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure every form of backache by curing the sick kidneys that cause it.

Mrs. Jack Mason, Springhill, N.B., writes:—"I have been suffering from backache for a very long time. I tried everything and did everything, but still I would suffer. One day I was looking over your Almanac, and saw your advertisement for Doan's Kidney Pills, so I got 5 boxes, and I am glad to say that they brought me back to life again, and from now on I will never be without them."

Doan's Kidney Pills are 50 cents per box, or 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

If ordering direct specify "Doan's."

Insects That Walk on Water.

Insects that walk on the water by means of pneumatic floats are the familiar water and the pond skater spider. Not many people know why they can walk on the water. The pond skater really walks on pneumatic floats. There are tiny hairs on the feet of this insect, so fine that they cannot be seen, that are arranged to collect air. The amount collected in and about these hairs is sufficient to allow the insect to float or walk upon the surface of the water. As each foot is put down it forms a cuplike depression or tiny pit in the water. The foot does not sink because the air bubble that has been formed is too light to let it. A fine covering of hair protects the water spider, too, and even if it is submerged in the water it is never really wet. The hair keeps a layer of air between its body and the water. It looks like a white pearl when below the surface. The scientific name of this curious insect is the Velia currens.—Chicago Tribune.

Lightship Risks.

It would seem that the perils of a lightship crew in a gale exceed even those of a lighthouse keeper. Mr. Talbot, in his "Lightships and Lighthouses," gives an example of the havoc played by one Atlantic wave in the case of the lightship that guards the terrible rocky fangs known as the "Seven Stones," which lie between Land's End and the Scilly Isles:

"Once a wave tumbled aboard, crashed a man against the pump, knocked him half senseless; picked up the lifeboat and threw it against the deckhouse, and in so doing caught another member of the crew, mauling his thigh badly in passing. Two out of the seven men forming the crew were thus put hors de combat by a single wave."

The lightship is a British idea, and the first ever used was placed in the mouth of the Thames in 1713.

The Speed Fiend.

With fevered haste he leaped from bed
And shaved and bathed and combed his head
And kicked the cat, dressed, ate some food
So quickly that it was not chewed;
Then lighting up a big cigar
He hopped into his motorcar,
Threw on the clutch, yelled back "Good-by!"
And took the corner turn on "high."

His face bent o'er the steering wheel,
He did not hear or see or feel;
He struck a peddler's cart and horse,
But on he went without remorse.
He struck a man—the corner cop
Came out and yelled at him to stop,
But on he went, he did not pause;
He broke the speed and traffic laws.

He reached his office door at eight,
Glanced at his watch—was he too late?
Nay; here he grinned and said, "At that,
I made it here in twenty flat!"
Did death or fortune, then, betide
That he should take the frantic ride?
Against his time he sought to win
And see what he "could do it in."

Peculiar Japanese Rite.

Segitera temple, in the province of Ise, Japan, is the scene each July of a peculiar rite dedicated to the worship of Acalanatha, the faithful servant of Buddha. The rite is known as a "goma" (a corruption of Sanskrit "homa") or "burning." Buddha taught that the cause of suffering is desire, and therefore the priests of the Shingon, a Japanese sect of Buddhism, kindle a fire to consume all human desires, at the same time offering prayers to Acalanatha. In one matter the rite may be said to defeat its own ends, for it attracts a crowd of farmers full of desire to obtain embers or ashes from the fire which is supposed to have consumed all desires. The tradition is that the possession of an ember or ashes from the sacred fire insures a farmer good crops the next autumn.—Argonaut.

Most Civilized Nation.

The question "Which is the most civilized nation on earth?" is difficult to answer. Civilization is a very elastic term and is understood differently in different times and places. In scientific attainment, education, wealth and all the things that go along with wealth the United States, Great Britain and Germany would appear to lead the procession, with some other nations following closely; but, taking all things into consideration, eliminating the sole matter of wealth, the most civilized country on earth is probably Norway. In that far northern land the ideal civilization—that is, the civilization that rests on common sense and justice—seems to have matured to a greater extent than it has anywhere else.—New York American.

The Cheerful Life

It is the right of everyone to live and enjoy the cheerful life. We owe it to ourselves and those who live with us to live the cheerful life. We cannot do so if ill health takes hold of us.

The wife, mother and daughter suffering from hot flashes, nervousness, headache, backache, dragging-down feeling, or any other weakness due to disorders or irregularities of the delicate female organs—is not only a burden to herself, but to her loved ones.

There is a remedy. Forty years experience has proven unmistakably that

ABYSSINIAN THRONE * ROYAL CHILDREN * LORD ROBERTS' ARTI

Princess Mary and Her Brothers See and Shudder in Dungeons of Castle

While at Norwich with Their Mother They Have Some Exciting Adventures with the Surviving Horrors of the Old Days of Torture—London Society Not Yet Very Lively.

(Special Dispatch.)

LONDON, Jan. 24.

WEDDINGS in town and hunt and county balls in the country sum up the present doings of society. The King and Queen still are at Sandringham with their family. Prince and Princess Arthur of Connaught have gone to York, where the Prince will be on duty with his regiment for the next three months at least.

The royal children had a great day with the Queen at Norwich on Wednesday, where they made a private call on Bishop Pollock. After luncheon Princess Mary, Prince Henry and Prince George overran the palace gardens and saw the cathedral, where they were greatly interested in the memorial window to Miss Hansell, aunt of Mr. H. P. Hansell, their tutor.

In their desire to see everything they had an exciting little adventure. They descended the steps from the palace kitchen into the dungeon, where still are to be seen the rings to which chains were attached for the fastening of prisoners. While there the keepers closed the doors and turned out the lights, so the children had the opportunity of realising what it was like to be confined in such a terrible prison.

Then they went to the ramparts and witnessed more horrors in the form of instruments of torture, the official in charge reciting in a monotone the usual stereotyped history without recognizing his callers, to the great delight of the royal children.

King to Ride Again.

It is expected there will be an influx of society before the beginning of February, when the King and Queen return to Buckingham Palace. It is understood that the King then intends to resume his series of morning rides in the park, and since society generally takes the lead from the sovereign, Rotten row is likely to enjoy a greater popularity for morning rides than hitherto.

The King, of course, takes these rides more from a sense of duty and upon the advice of Sir Francis Laking than from mere pleasure, as riding does not greatly appeal to him.

From Dublin comes the report that there is likely to be a gay season there this year. The Lord Lieutenant and Lady Aberdeen already have begun to issue invitations for several afternoon receptions, and the first drawing room affair occurs at the Castle on February 4. Next Monday Lady Aberdeen is to give a children's party and entertainment at the Castle, when the youngsters will dance in St. Patrick's Hall and have tea in the adjoining picture gallery.

Lord and Lady Aberdeen also intend to be present at the Daffodil Ball in aid of the Dublin charities on February 2, as well as Lord and Lady Granard.

Much interest is being taken in the civic exhibition which Lady Aberdeen is promoting in Dublin. It is to be arranged on American lines and will picture conditions of city life vastly improved by modernized sanitation, heating, lighting, cleansing, and so forth. In connection with the exhibition Lady Aberdeen has offered a prize of $2,500 for a scheme for the reconstruction of the slum area of Dublin.

Princess and Duchess.

While the Princess of Pless and her sister, the Duchess of Westminster, have been drawing lots of money in aid of charity, appearing at performances in the new play "Pistols for Two," by "Tom" Gallon and Mr. Leon, along with professional players, including Mr. Arthur Bourchier and Mr. Clive Kelsey, at the Winter Gardens, Bournemouth; the Duke of Westminster has been entertaining a shooting party at Eaton Hall, Chester, his guests including the Duke and Duchess of Teck, Prince George of Teck, Lord and Lady Arthur Grosvenor, Lord and Lady Essex, Lady Iris Capell, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Wyndham, Major Ricardo, Captain Richard Molyneux, Captain Harold Brassey, Captain Grenfell and Captain Ronald Graham-Murray.

The Duchess of Roxburghe has been entertaining children on the Floors Castle estate. It is only a little while ago that these children subscribed for a present to the youthful Lord Bowmont of a spoon and silver porringer. The Dowager Duchess of Roxburghe, who stopped over for the new year at Floors Castle, has now returned to Broxmouth Castle.

Lady Valda Machell, who is a sister of Count Gleichen and daughter of Prince Victor Hohenlohe-Langenburg, caused a profound impression by singing the solos in Farmer's well known oratorio "Christ and His Soldiers" at Kirkby Stephen Church. Lady Valda, who has a fine contralto voice, is the wife of Captain Percy Machell, the owner of Crackenthorpe Hall, near Appleby.

Lord and Lady Barrymore, who have been passing Christmas and the New Year at Fota Island, Queenstown, are not yet done entertaining there, for they are giving a ball on January 29.

Americans in London.

The American Ambassador, who has almost recovered from an attack of influenza, which happily proved slight, and Mrs. Page were present at a dinner given by Mr. John L. Griffiths, the American Consul General, on Monday to Senator James Hamilton Lewis. Several other American members of the Safety at Sea Conference and Mr. Sidney Buxton, president of the Board of Trade, also gave dinners to Senator Lewis. Among others present were Viscount Bryce and Mr. Winston Churchill.

Mr. Ira Nelson Morris, United States Commissioner for the Panama-Pacific Exposition, has arrived at Claridge's Hotel from Rome.

Mrs. George W. C. Drexel and Mr. L. L. Biddle have arrived at Claridge's from America.

Mr. Mitchell Depew, of New York, has returned to the Carlton Hotel from Newcastle.

Other American arrivals still at the Carlton Hotel are Mr. Richard T. Jader, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Loines, of New York; Mr. W. L. Maine, Mr. C. Laske and Mr. F. W. E. Waelne, of Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Dickerson, of New York, have returned from the Continent to the Carlton.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Spickerman have gone to Berlin.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Young, Jr., of New York, and Mr. G. Shaw, of New York, have arrived at the Carlton from the Continent.

Mr. R. W. Lewis and Mr. and Mrs. P. V. Lebedjeff and Mr. Amos French, with his son, have arrived from New York and are stopping at the Piccadilly Hotel.

Mr. J. D. Duggan has arrived from Boston and Mr. G. F. Nason from Pittsburg.

"AN AMERICAN AMBASSADOR FOR AMERICANS" IDEA OF MR. GERARD IS VERY POPULAR WITH HIS COMPATRIOTS

In Carrying It Out the New Envoy in Berlin, When He Opens His Embassy, Does It to Admit and Receive a Group of Americans Instead of Representatives of German Diplomatic and Court Society—Other Americans Take Leading Parts in the Week's Doings.

(Special Dispatch.)

BERLIN, Jan. 24.

THE outstanding event of the week in American circles was the eleventh anniversary banquet of the American Association of Commerce and Trade at the Hotel Adlon on Wednesday. This annual event is considered more or less a family affair and, as on former occasions, was confined to the membership of the association and very few guests, among whom were the American Ambassador, the American Consul General, the two exchange professors, Professor Paul Shorey and Professor Archibald Coolidge; Mr. Joseph Clark Grew, Mr. Willing Spencer, Mr. Charles Ferguson, Mr. Harry B. Hirch, of the Belmont Iron Company, of Philadelphia; Dr. R. W. Dreshsler and Dr. Berthing, of the Amerika Institut, and Mr. Henry Theobald, president of the Computing Scale Company, of Toledo, Ohio.

Mr. Isaac Wolf, Jr., president of the association, who presided, emphasized the importance of keeping ever in mind the two controlling maxims of international relations as set forth by the secretary, the Golden Rule and the open door.

"In the annual report of the association just issued," Mr. Wolf said, "Mr. George Atwood, the permanent secretary, has some pertinent advice to give to American firms wishing to increase their export trade, the crux of the situation as represented in the address being that American firms should send out bright, promising young men to study conditions in foreign countries. The salesman who can converse in the language of the country has an immense advantage over one who is tagged around by a guide or a translator."

"An American Ambassador for Americans" was the chief note struck by Mr. James W. Gerard in his first public utterance made after coming to Berlin, and his statement found very concrete confirmation this week in the fact that the first time the doors of the new embassy swung open it was to admit, not a gathering from court and diplomatic society, but a body of the Ambassador's compatriots. Officially the occasion was the annual meeting of the American Benevolent Association, but Mr. and Mrs. Gerard took the opportunity of extending the hospitality of the embassy to about one hundred and fifty Americans allied with this philanthropic cause.

The formal business of the afternoon was disposed of in the magnificent ballroom of the embassy, with the Consul General, Mr. Thackara, retiring president of the Managerial Board, in the chair.

After the name of Mr. Joseph Clark Grew, Secretary of the embassy, had been proposed and voted upon as the successor of Mr. Thackara, the remaining members of the Board were re-elected unanimously. Mr. Frederick Wile will serve again as vice president; Mr. W. Alton Derrick as treasurer, and Dr. Alice H. Luce, Mrs. S. H. McFadden, Mrs. Morris Cottlow, Mr. Frederick W. King, Dr. John H. Cleves Symmes and Mr. S. B. Conger are the Investigating Committee. Ex officio members are the American Ambassador and the pastor of the American Church.

[illegible]ving Days.

The list has been sent from the Lord Chamberlain's office indicating the official reception days throughout the season of the wives of the Cabinet Ministers, Ambassadors and Ministers Plenipotentiary. Countess Brockdorff, mistress of the robes of the German Empress, is receiving three days each week, as this frequency is made necessary by the fact that every one expecting to participate in the defiler cour or the later court functions must first pay respects to this recognised social arbiter. She often receives as many as 300 persons in an afternoon, and is assisted in her task by Fraulein Gersdorff, first lady in waiting.

According to this list Mrs. Gerard, wife of the American Ambassador, will not be receiving until February, this delay being necessitated by the still incomplete state of the new embassy. She then will have Monday as her official day.

German aristocracy is leisurely getting back to Berlin in time to participate in the round of court festivities.

Count and Countess Adalbert Sierstorpff are again in their Berlin apartment. The Count now has fully recovered from the automobile accident which befell him en route from his Rhenish estate.

Count and Countess Johann Sierstorpff have taken up their winter residence in the Hotel Bristol.

Home for the Winter.

Prince Stolberg Wernigerode, Prince Salm-Salm and Prince Salm-Reifferscheidt are among habitual stoppers at the Hotel Esplanade for the court season.

The Prince and Princess of Pless, Princess Biron von Cortland, Marquise [illegible]oise de Jaucourt, of Paris, the Prince and Princess of Schoenburg-Waldenburg and Count[illegible] Maltzan-Militsch, with their charming daughters, who were introduced to society at a large ball given at the Hotel Adlon last season, Baron von [illegible]agenheim, the newly appointed master of ceremonies; the Landgrave of Hesse, Countess Schaffgotsch, Court Marshal von Yorry, Count and Countess von Reventlow, Count and Countess Saurma, Count and Countess Guido Otto Henckel von Donnersmarck will occupy their customary apartments at the Adlon.

It is doubtful if the town palace of the last named family, in the Pariserplatz, will be opened this season, as the venerable head of the house is eighty-three years old and Prince Guido has not yet sufficiently recovered from his late serious illness to leave the quiet of his country home in Silesia.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Clark Grew entertained at dinner on Tuesday Mr. Edwin V. Morgan, American Ambassador to Brazil, now in Berlin, on his way back from St. Moritz, where he was one of the first at the opening of the winter sports season. Among those invited by Mr. and Mrs. Grew to meet Mr. Morgan were Mrs. Arthur Claflin and Miss Gertrude Claflin, of New York; Mrs. James N. Winslow and Mr. J. Lanier Winslow. There was dancing afterward, participated in by additional guests.

Mrs. Stilke's Dinner.

Another dinner and dance of the week was given by Mr. and Mrs. Hermann Stilke, who had among their guests many distinguished personages from high military circles and the German world of art and letters. Mrs. Stilke has left for Celerina, where she will be joined by Frau Otto Eyser, also of Berlin.

An illustrated lecture on Yellowstone Park was given by the Rev. Dr. A. A. Pfanstiehl, pastor of the Highland Park Presbyterian Church, of Chicago, and attracted a large audience to the American Church on Tuesday. The silver offering taken at the door will be applied to the British House Fund, which is being slowly accumulated toward the erection of a social centre for American students in Berlin. The fund in hand amounts to something like $18,000.

Berlin operagoers are still under the sway of the "Parsifal" production at the Royal Opera, and so unprecedented has been the application for tickets that fourteen successive performances have been found to be entirely inadequate to meet the demand. By consent of the Kaiser the "Parsifal" period will be extended until January 25, at which time the work must be taken off to make way for the command performance of Meyerbeer's "L'Africaine," the first act of which will form the gala opera to close the Kaiser's birthday festivities on January 27.

The Kaiser again witnessed "Parsifal," coming in for the last act to join Prince and Princess Eitel Friedrich, whose appearance together in public is considered a refutation of persistent reports concerning an approaching separation.

SYNTHETIC GEMS START ARGUMENT AMONG DEALERS

London Experts Discuss the Merits of the Jewels That Are Easily Manufactured but Difficult to Detect from Genuine Article.

(Special Dispatch.)

LONDON, Jan. 24.

THE "Synthetic Sapphires Case," as it has been called, has aroused wondering comment among the uninitiated.

Mr. C. Mathews, a Hatton Garden expert in precious stones, has declared that synthetic sapphires can be bought by the bushel, in all shapes and sizes, for about a dollar each, but other experts are not disposed to go quite so far.

"There are, of course, very considerable quantities of synthetic gems to be obtained," a famous dealer said in reply to inquiries. "But," he added, "not by bushels."

"What are the principal stones to beware of?"

"Rubies, sapphires and emeralds. Some of these synthetic gems are wonderfully well done, and it is very difficult indeed to detect the fraud. My advice to the public is to deal with reputable houses only when buying stones."

At the Piccadilly Gem Box, where pearls and precious stones and semi-precious stones of every description gleam and glitter, the manager agreed that rubies, sapphires and emeralds were the stones to be most carefully scrutinized if their history was not fully known.

"Are these synthetic stones difficult to detect?"

"For any one but an expert, certainly, and I have not the slightest doubt that in many cases reputable firms unwittingly pass them as real stones. They are usually small stones, and may have been manufactured in France, or even in Birmingham.

"Then they are sent out to India and return as part of parcels of genuine rubies, sapphires, or emeralds. Reconstructed rubies have, I am sure, often been sold for real stones without either seller or purchaser being any the wiser."

"What test can be applied?"

"Under the microscope the 'silk,' which is the hall mark of the real stone, has ever been known to have this hall mark. Then there are always microscopic bubbles in the reconstructed stones, but it needs the expert to detect them. Pearls can be very cleverly imitated. Even some of what we may call the semi-precious stones do not escape, but the reconstruction of these is very difficult.

"Aquamarine, chrysoprase, garnet, amethyst, lapis-lazuli, chrysoberg, kunzite, tourmaline, peridot are some of the stones that defy successful reconstruction.

"Here is a synthetic submarine. We keep it for purposes of comparison. When placed alongside a real stone there need not be the slightest hesitation in deciding which is which. The rich browns, greens, pinks, sherry and wine colors of the tourmaline defy imitation, and the fire opal's rays are quite beyond reproduction. So with the black pearl; its colors cannot be reproduced."

GREAT LONGEVITY IS SHOWN IN ENGLAND

(Special Dispatch.)

LONDON, Jan. 24.

THE remarkable longevity of persons nowadays is shown by the obituary notices in the newspapers. The Times in one day recorded the deaths of ten octogenarians, including Mrs. Coster, 99; Miss Reed, 98; Miss Younger, 87; Miss Matthews, 91; Mr. Sydney Jones, F. R. C. S., 83; Mrs. Sarah Collier, 81; Miss Emma Ibbetson, 91, Lord Radstock, 80; Mrs. Lambert, 96, and Mr. Spencer Austen Leigh, formerly a famous huntsman and point-to-point rider, 85. Lord Roberts on Army Difficulties

100,000 Fewer Soldiers in Course of Last Ten Years—How to Solve Problem of Recruiting.

(Special Dispatch.)

LONDON, Jan. 24.

AN article by Lord Roberts on the difficulties and duties of the regular army appears in a recent issue of the London Saturday Review. Lord Roberts shows that only by national service can the ranks of the regular army be filled, and he sums up his argument in the following paragraphs:—

"It is clear that we cannot allow matters to drift any longer. In the course of the last ten years our soldiers, trained and partially trained, have fallen in numbers by over 100,000 men. Unless the press is misinformed, the Army Council has been driven to resort to advertising in the daily papers for recruits, and a big contract for the purpose has been placed in the hands of an enterprising advertising agent.

"Though I am convinced that nothing short of soldiers of good character being given hope of employment on their return to civil life will give us the number of recruits annually required, I see no objection to this measure, for in these days of strenuous competition every one must cry his wares aloud and attract attention to any post which he has to offer, and I do think that there can be no better method of placing the advantages of an army career before a lad than by putting him through a course of army training.

"The great merit of such a training would be that the lad would test the life for himself, and in joining the army he would do so with his eyes open. If recruits were not obtained in sufficient numbers after every able bodied youth had seen for himself what an army career was like, it would be obvious to every one in the country that there was something wrong with the regular army as a career—and the country would insist on it that the defects should be remedied.

"In short, if we adopt universal training for home defence we shall not only solve the problem of recruiting for the regular army, but we shall possess military forces which will provide for the safety of the United Kingdom, the defence of the possessions of the Crown, and the preservation of the balance of power in Europe."

Soldiers of many regiments and a large number of prominent military officers and War Office officials will be present at an invitation matinee for the first public presentation of the British Army film at the Palace Theatre on Monday, January 18.

The film has been taken for purposes of advertising the army and stimulating recruiting. It was recently shown by command before the King and Queen, at Sandringham.

Colonel Sir Edward Ward, Under Secretary of State for War, will preside at the inaugural luncheon which will precede the matinee, and it was at his suggestion that Mr. Alfred Butt and Messrs. Keith, Prowse & Co., who own the picture, decided to invite to the upper part of the house for this performance detachments of various regiments.

Heir to the Throne of Abyssinia, Lidj Jeassu, Is at Addis-Abeba

Son of Ras Michael Arrives at Capital from Home of Father.

MINISTER OF WAR GOES ON MISSION

Changes Are Very Likely in the Ethiopian Cabinet of the New Monarch.

(Special Dispatch.)

ADDIS-ABEBA, Jan. 24.

LIDJ JEASSU, heir to the throne of Abyssinia, has at last returned to Addis-Abeba. For months he had been stopping at Dessie, the residence of his father, Ras Michael.

His return to the capital was immediately followed by the leaving of the influential and powerful Minister of War, Fitaurari Apte Giorgis, who was sent to the western provinces in order to settle a frontier question with the Anglo-Egyptian authorities. He also will have to look into the circumstances that led to and followed the assassination of an Englishman in the west, at Boroma.

It is said that this mission is not much to the liking of Apte Giorgis, whose absence is much regretted by natives and foreigners alike. It is also rumored that other changes are likely to occur in the composition of the Ethiopian Cabinet.

Lidj Jeassu, who is to become the new Negus of Abyssinia, is the grandson of the late Emperor Menelik, a son of his daughter and Ras Michael, of Wollo, one of the Emperor's chief feudatory lords. He was born in 1897 and was proclaimed heir to the throne by the Emperor Menelik himself in 1908.

"MONA LISA" FAILS TO ATTRACT PARISIANS

(Special Dispatch.)

PARIS, Jan. 24.

Before being restored to its old home in the Louvre, from which it was stolen a couple of years ago, "La Gioconda," which was brought safely back to Paris, is being exhibited at the Ecole des Beaux Arts.

But whether it be that the enigmatic smile of the "Mona Lisa" has lost its legendary fascination or that the Parisian public, with its usual fickleness, has tired for the moment of the picture of which it has recently heard so much, to the general surprise but few persons have been to see Leonardo da Vinci's masterpiece.

On New Year's Day the numbers were but small, while a few days later there were not more than sixty callers at the Ecole des Beaux Arts. This may be explained to some extent by the fact that an admission fee of 5f. (1/) was charged.

WIDOW OF PEER ENTERS CONVENT IN EDINBURGH

True Romance, Which Reads Like Fiction, Recalled When Lady Lyveden, Who Was Once a Shop Girl, Leaves Society for Cloister.

(Special Dispatch.)

LONDON, Jan. 24.

A FASCINATING romance of the peerage is recalled by the report that Julia, Lady Lyveden, has entered a convent in Edinburgh.

Seventeen years ago Lady Lyveden was a pretty assistant of eighteen in a fancy shop at Eastbourne. Miss Julia Kate Emery, as she was then, attracted the attention of the late Lord Lyveden, who was seventy-seven years old and an invalid. He fell in love with her and was drawn in his bath chair every day to the shop.

After fulfilling an engagement as secretary to the aged peer Miss Emery consented at length to accept her patron's name and coronet, and in 1900 the marriage took place at All Souls' Church, Hastings. The marriage lasted only four years, the late peer dying in 1903, and as there was no issue the title passed to a nephew, the present peer. Eight years later the widow became engaged to Mr. Henry Hugh Maclean, but the engagement was broken off.

The present Lord Lyveden has had a most adventurous career, having been in his time a soldier, a market gardener and a ship's steward. When he was reaching it in America without any apparent expectancy of becoming a peer, he lodged over a stable and earned a precarious living as a cab driver.

Winter Chores.

The winter nights
Are long and dear;
The chill wind bites
The goodman's ear
And tweaks his nose
When with a "scat!"
The clinging cat
Outdoors he throws

The fire he shakes
The banks with slack;
'Tis thus he breaks
His poor old back!
Shut out those sounds—
His language shocks,
He makes his rounds
And winds the clocks.

He's barred the door
And leaped in bed;
There is no more
For him to dread.
At half-past three,
His wife awakes
And him she shakes—
"The rubber tree!"

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

A Scientific Experiment

With a View to Demonstrating the Nature of Love

By F. A. MITCHEL

Notwithstanding that every effort has been made recently to prevent a certain scientific discovery, or, rather, its application, from being known to the public, it has leaked out and is producing a great deal of talk. We are happy to announce that a reporter of this paper got wind of what has been going on and by diligence has ferreted the matter out. A part of the story comes from a private gentleman, Mr Samuel Higginbotham; a part from investigators in the Institute For Original Research, while the rest is made up from various persons connected with one of the most remarkable scientific wonders the world has ever seen. This is the story as constructed from the material at hand:

One bright morning Mr. Higginbotham entered the reception room at the Institute For Original Research and sent in a card to Dr. Carrelton. When the doctor appeared Mr. Higginbotham said:

"Doctor, I am not a scientific man, but I have been thinking on some of the results obtained by your experiments, and I have come to believe that a certain something I wished produced is possible."

"Be seated, sir," was the response.

The two sat down, and Dr. Carrelton gave his visitor his attention.

"As you are aware," Mr. Higginbotham proceeded, "this is an age of interest in human beings physically and scientifically considered. A few years ago the great Edison asserted that memory was a camera by which events are photographed on plates to be called up at will. Then came another scientist proposing a possible clew to determining sex by watching plants, and lastly a president of the Association For the Advancement of Science has indicated that the immortality of the soul may be proved scientifically.

"The especial branch of these discoveries to which I would direct your attention is the photographic nature of the human brain. Thirty years ago a single photograph of an object was taken; now a quick succession of pictures of a moving object passed before the eye gives motion. By the development of this principle photographic plays are enacted on the mimic stage. Likewise infinitely delicate photographs on the human brain produce impressions which make up our relations with the outside world."

Mr. Higginbotham paused and then added sententiously, "In other words, photo plays are enacted on the same principle as those of human life."

Carrelton's attention changed from indifference to interest. "I don't know," he said, "that the matter ever occurred to me in exactly that light."

"My object in seeking this interview," resumed Mr. Higginbotham, "is not to enunciate a thought, but to consult with you on the application of a principle. I have accumulated a large fortune, sir, and desire to transmit it to my descendants. I have one child, a son, but he has met with a misfortune in the loss of a girl he loved and has vowed that he will never marry. He eschews women's society, nourishing his love for the dead through a picture of her when she lived. On account of his celibacy, at his death the fortune that I have spent years of toil in heaping up must be disintegrated."

The speaker paused. Dr. Carrelton said that he did not understand the connection between his enunciation of a principle and this disappointment in his son's celibacy, whereupon Mr. Higginbotham proceeded.

"My son's love I do not consider in the nature of romance, but a material condition. Indeed, today since the death of the object it is reduced to a matter of memory. No more mental photographic pictures of her are imprinted on his brain; instead of photographic action, so to speak, there is photographic sameness, just as before the moving we had but a single immovable picture."

"I think I begin to get your drift," said Dr. Carrelton. "What you propose is to start again the life pictures on your son's brain, producing impressions which may tend in another direction."

"Exactly!" exclaimed the visitor, evidently much pleased at being understood.

"And you would like me to invent a process by which this may be done?"

"That was my object in calling upon you, sir."

"H'm," said the scientist thoughtfully. "You have given me a problem to solve which I believe will one day be solved, but I fear that I am not now up to the work. However, I will think it over and if I hit upon any method worth the trying I will advise you."

The visitor departed, leaving his address, but owing to the difficulty of the problem he had left for solution he had but little hope of the scientist's success. He heard nothing from Dr. Carrelton for several months, then received a note inviting him to call on him at the institute. When the two were again together the doctor said:

"I have been unable to dismiss from my mind the problem you entered me. Various plans have suggested themselves for accomplishing your object. To change the impressions on your son's mind from one who is dead to one who lives must be effected, if at all, in one of two ways—first, a new woman may be introduced to make him forget his dead love for her."

"Impossible," said Mr. Higginbotham. "He will have nothing to do with any woman."

"The other alternative is to find a woman—not unlike his dead love—give an artist a likeness of both the dead and the living, have him paint a number of portraits showing a gradual transition of the features of the dead to those of the living and substitute these pictures, one after another, in place of the one through which your son nourishes his love."

"Solved!" exclaimed Mr. Higginbotham, grasping the scientist's hand enthusiastically.

"Not so fast. You must remember that it is not a face or figure that alone produces love; there are many idiosyncrasies that combine to that end. While the photographic impressions on your son's brain may be gradually replaced by another combination it does not follow that the individuality we call soul will be able to charm him."

"We may at least make the experiment."

"Yes, we may do that, and there is a reasonable expectation that if we are successful in effecting the substitution of physical features in your son's brain he may fall in with the other differences under the influence of another mental faculty."

"That is?"

"The imagination."

"The imagination?"

"Yes. Let your son once be introduced to the living woman whose features through the portraits have replaced on his brain those of the dead, and he will be so pleased that he will imagine the living possesses the charms which he admired in the dead."

"Professor," exclaimed Mr. Higginbotham, "I have read of your scientific victories published to the world, but I never thought that I should be the humble instrument of drawing forth one of the most remarkable of them all."

"You are showing the importance of one of the faculties I have mentioned," remarked the doctor coolly.

"What one?"

"The imagination. No sooner do I suggest a method of procedure than you imagine the work to be accomplished. You may overcome the obstacles that are to be expected, but I fear you will not."

"Leave that to me. I shall leave no stone unturned to accomplish my purpose. I shall proceed with all the care, exactness and delicacy that you scientists practice in your own experiments."

Grasping Dr. Carrelton's hand and squeezing it so that the scientist cried out with pain, the enthusiastic Higginbotham took his departure.

It was not long after this that Albert Higginbotham, standing before the picture of his dead love, noticed a slight change, it being fresher looking than before. He spoke to his father about the matter and was told that he had sought to please his son by calling in a picture cleaner to take the dirt off it. Occasionally thereafter Albert fancied he saw some change in his picture, but was not sure. During a year a dozen pictures were substituted. In the twelfth little remained of the features of the dead; indeed, it was a portrait of Miss Anna Scarsdale, a living person.

Mr. Higginbotham, Sr., had found this young woman somewhat resembling his son's dead love after a long search. He had interested her in his plan concerning his son, and she had consented to lend herself for the experiment. But she did not consent if it were successful to marry Albert. She was well off in her own right and disposed to marry only for love.

After her own portrait had taken the place of the one worshiped by young Higginbotham, one day when he was at home she called on his father ostensibly on a matter of business. Albert saw her as she passed out and was paralyzed with astonishment. Hastening to his father, he inquired who she was and, taking him to the supposed picture of the girl he had lost, exclaimed:

"Can it be possible?"

"What possible?"

"That there was some mistake—that Edith lives."

"No, my dear boy. This young lady is not Edith. She is Miss Scarsdale, a very estimable person."

"Where can I find her?"

"Do you wish to know her?"

"Indeed, I do."

"Very well. We will have her to dinner."

"Tomorrow—today?"

"Tomorrow if she is disengaged."

Dr. Carrelton that afternoon received a visit from Mr. Higginbotham, who took the doctor in his arms in a bear hug and nearly crushed the life out of him.

"Success."

"Success?"

"Yes. My son has seen the living woman, and she will dine with us tomorrow. You must come to the wedding."

"If it takes place."

It did take place within a few months. Albert Higginbotham married Anna Scarsdale, and the match turned out a very happy one.

This is probably the first case in which the material constitution of love has been scientifically proved. Parents with sons and daughters who persist in making unfortunate marriages should be encouraged to hope that their children's unions may be guided scientifically.

Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets Quickly Put Disordered Stomachs Right

It's a revelation to the chronic dyspeptic to feel no discomfort after a hearty meal, when that meal is followed by one Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablet. He is hardly prepared for the almost magic relief which the tablet gives him from the various discomforts to which he is accustomed after eating.

Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets sweeten stomachs that are sour—relieve stomachs that feel as if a stone had been swallowed—stop heartburn—and give the needed assistance to stomachs that are weakened.

Containing in themselves the active principle needed for digesting every kind of food, Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets enable even the weakest stomachs to get the good out of what is eaten, preventing the accumulation of undigested food and gas. With a little help for a while, the digestive organs recover their strength, do their work properly, and your troubles are over.

Noblesse Oblige

Rank imposes obligations—
or—as the French put it—"Noblesse Oblige."

It is a very natural and right principle that those who by their position in life command the respect of others should deserve it and be worthy of maintaining their position. "Much is expected of those in high station."

But this principle is not confined to persons of noble birth—it has a hundred applications. It applies, for example, to those manufacturers of reputation and prestige who make goods of high quality and who advertise them constantly in the newspapers of the land.

By their advertising they have attained an eminence where the very best in quality and good service is expected of them. They have set a standard and their very business life depends on the constant maintenance of it.

So that when you buy advertised articles you rest assured that you are getting the best value that money can buy.

Well may you place your faith in advertised goods. Well may you give them preference over articles which you can only hope may prove satisfactory.

For the principle of "Noblesse Oblige" is your guarantee of excellence in Advertised Goods.

If you are doing a local business talk over your advertising problems with the Advertising Department of this newspaper. If you are doing a provincial or national business it would be well for you to have the counsel and assistance of a good advertising agency. A list of these will be furnished, without cost or obligation, by the Secretary of Canadian Press Association, Room 803, Lumsden Building, Toronto.

HINTS TO HOUSEWIVES

When next cooking asparagus add a little rice. The dish will be found most satisfactory.

A clothesline may be cleaned by wrapping it around a washboard and thoroughly scrubbing it in soapsuds.

When you wish to wrap presents in the prettiest, most unique fashion, use raffia in several shades for tying.

Apply glycerine to a scald directly it occurs and covers it up with strips of cotton soaked in glycerin.

Flannels that have become hard and shrunken may be restored to their former softness by soaking in gasoline.

Allow the children to eat almonds. One dozen blanched almonds are about equal to one pound of round steak in nutritive value.

If the top of the kerosene lamp becomes loosened it may often be effectually tightened by applying a little melted alum.

When making sago pudding allow three dessertspoonsfuls for each pint of milk; let all soak for two hours before cooking.

When the sick room is being ventilated a screen should be placed in front of the window to prevent danger of a draught.

When storing cutlery wipe the blades lightly with a little gasoline. Before using wash in soda water and clean in the usual way.

When you wash your door panels of lace or net applique to fit the door glass, tack them on the door to dry and they will keep their shape.

To make jam or marmalade look clear without skimming it add a piece of butter about the size of an egg before removing the fruit from the fire.

Tarnished silver can be brightened if placed for a short time in boiling water in which a fair sized lump of washing soda has been dissolved.

A weak solution of carbolic acid applied carefully to ink stains on the carpet will remove them. If this appears to change the color it may be restored by ammonia water.

To keep the table salt dry and soft dry it, then crush it under a rolling pin till perfectly free from lumps and sift into it a tablespoonful of cornstarch.

Fifty Hydro Men Out.

BRANTFORD, Jan. 26. — Fifty men employed on outside work on the Brantford hydro-electric system are out on strike. They claim that they should not be docked for not working on wet days, when the work is called off through no fault of theirs.

The men declare they will remain on strike until they receive a guarantee that they will get straight time and a readjustment of wages to a higher point than they are now.

Assailant Not Identified.

HOUGHTON, Jan. 26. — None of the members of the crowd who assaulted Charles H. Moyer, president of the Western Federation of Miners, in Hancock, on the night of Dec. 26, and then deported him, were identified to the satisfaction of the special grand jury, and a "no true" bill was returned in the case Saturday.

George E. Nichols, the special prosecutor, decided that there was no law under which the men who are alleged to have forced Moyer on the train, could be punished for kidnapping, even if they could be identified and he so informed the jury.

Will Build Alaskan Railway.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26. — By a vote of 46 to 16, the Senate passed late yesterday the Alaska Railway bill, directing the President to purchase or construct 1,000 miles of rail road in Alaska, at a cost not to exceed $40,000,000.

JOINT CANAL IS WANTED

U. S. Members of Waterways Commission Suggest Scheme

FROM MONTREAL TO DULUTH

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26. — A project for the joint construction by the Governments of the United States and Canada of a deep waterway for ocean-going steamers from Montreal to Duluth, Minn., has been inaugurated through the international joint commission which has jurisdiction over the boundary waters of the two countries.

The discussion instituted through the international joint commission are the result of a recent conference in Washington in which Secretary Bryan, Chairman J. A. Tawney, of the American section of the international commission, and Senator Charles E. Townsend, of Michigan, participated.

It was arranged that the matter should be taken up first with the Canadian Government through the commission. Chairman Tawney will confer soon with T. Chase Casgrain, K.C., chairman of the Canadian section.

The project for an ocean waterway from the head of navigation on Lake Superior to the Atlantic has been agitated for many years. It was considered seriously at the time when President Taft entered into reciprocity with Canada.

Several routes have been proposed for the waterway, the cost of which is estimated from $100,000,000 to $300,000,000, but the one most favored in the United States provides for the utilization of all the lakes and the St. Lawrence river.

This route, it is contended, would not result in any material lowering of the waters of the great lakes, while it is said a considerable change in the lake levels would result if any of the other proposed routes were decided upon.

Senator Townsend, of Michigan, is one of the most ardent advocates of the project. He said recently:

"It does not require an economist nor an expert traffic man to show the economy which would result to the stupendous industry of the middle west of the United States and Canada if the burdens of reshipment were removed and cargoes could be loaded at lake ports and unloaded at the ultimate destination.

"This benefit would be increased by the similar advantages resulting to inbound freight rates from the Atlantic coast and from foreign ports, but these benefits, coming directly from the actual use of the ocean waterway, would not be the only ones enjoyed by industry.

"Such a waterway would produce the result which has always followed, and will also follow, from the creation of water transportation, namely, it will cause a reduction of rail rates and an improvement of rail facilities from all points on even remotely competitive rail lines."

Senator Townsend recognises three obstacles to the realisation of this project. The railroads will oppose it, the international complications will have to be met, and the cost necessarily will be so great as to make its realisation difficult.

The Senator believes that if the question were properly handled the Government of Canada undoubtedly could be persuaded to join in the scheme, the burden of cost to be shared on the basis of proportionate benefits accruing to each country.

Until the Government have actually agreed on the project, Senator Townsend believes it would be wise for the United States to plan every harbor improvement on the great lakes, with a view to the ultimate construction of a 35-foot channel from Duluth to Montreal.

Epidemic Now Broken.

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., Jan. 26. —The backbone of the smallpox epidemic that has held this city in its grip for the part month, is broken, in the opinion of the health officer, E. E. Gillick. There was no increase in the number of cases to-day, the total being the same as Friday, 122. While three new cases were reported Saturday, three were released from quarantine. A representative of the state department of health is expected here to-day to co-operate with Dr. Gillick in handling the situation.

Yesterday was the quietest Sunday Niagara Falls has had in years. With the exception of the Roman Catholic Churches, all the churches were closed, and the theatres, which are open every day in the year, were closed by the board of health, but the schools have not been closed.

RUN-DOWN PEOPLE

Let Vinol Make You Strong.

Run-down conditions are caused by over-work, worry, too close confinement, a chronic cough or cold which it is difficult to cure.

We want to say to every person in this condition—you need Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic without oil, the great strength creator. It will supply iron to the blood in the most easily assimilated form, create healthy appetite, strengthen your digestive organs and make you eat better, sleep better and feel better.

A case has just come to our attention from Racine, Wis. Mrs. W. H. Brill says: "I was in a very bad run-down condition. Life was not worth living. I could not sleep—was nervous and not able to work—and doctors failed to help me, but Vinol did wonders for me. In a short time I was stronger than ever and had gained 22 pounds."

We are confident that Vinol is the best body builder and strength creator we have ever sold. Try a bottle on our guarantee to refund your money if it fails to benefit you.

Sage And Sulphur Darkens Gray Hair

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Restore Colour, Gloss and Thickness

Hair that loses its colour and lustre or when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless, is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our grandmother made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful, and thousands of women and men who value that even colour, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive, use only this old-time recipe.

Nowadays we get this famous mixture by asking at any drug store for a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," which darkens the hair so naturally, so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied. Besides, it takes off dandruff, stops scalp itching and falling hair. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also brings back the gloss and lustre and gives it an appearance of abundance.

Home Rulers Would Placate Ulster If They Could Says Redmond.

WATERFORD, Ireland, Jan. 26.—"Every sane man knows that, barring accidents, the home rule bill will be the law on the land this year," said John Redmond, leader of the Irish Nationalists, speaking before an immense gathering here yesterday afternoon.

"If any change is made in the home rule bill," continued Mr. Redmond, "it will only be to buy the good will of our opponents. But I say frankly that I see no prospects of their good will being purchased at any price whatever. That good will is worth purchasing at a big price, but any change in the bill should be consistent with the unity of Ireland. There are no lengths short of abandonment of the principles you and I hold to which I would not go to win the confidence of the men of Ulster."

Referring to Wm. O'Brien's resignation from his seat in Cork, Mr. Redmond asked his supporters to refrain from contesting the seat, declaring that a fight between two professing Nationalists at the present moment would be a scandal and an injury to the cause.

TO EDIT NEW PAPER.

Hon. W. S. Fielding Is at Head of Herald-Witness Merger.

MONTREAL, Jan. 26.—It was officially stated yesterday afternoon that Hon. W. S. Fielding, former Minister of Finance, will be president and editor of the new Liberal paper, The Herald-Witness, which will appear here in the evening field in place of The Herald and The Telegraph, which are now being amalgamated. It was stated yesterday afternoon that a week would see all the details worked out and the new paper on the streets. The subscription lists of The Telegraph and The Herald have already been merged, and all that remains now is to chose the staff.

Mr. C. Gordonsmith will be one of the editors. The staff will be a very large one, it is possible that very few will be out of employment or be inconvenienced by the amalgamation of the two papers. Meanwhile there are reports of new papers appearing.

"Arson Squad" Resumes Work.

GLASGOW, Scotland, Jan. 26.—A bomb outrage, believed by the police to have been carried out by suffragettes, Saturday, virtually destroyed the extensive conservatory in the Glasgow Botanic Gardens, known as the Kibble Crystal Palace.

Besides the great glass room and sides of the structure, which were blown into thousands of atoms, many valuable tropical and other plants were ruined.

A caretaker succeeded in severing the fuse of a second bomb just before the first one exploded. He had a narrow escape of losing his life by being struck by some of the flying splinters of metal and glass.

Noted Turfman Retires.

LONDON, Jan. 26. — George Edwardes, the theatrical manager who for years past has been deeply interested in horse racing, has decided to retire from the turf. He will sell his his big racing stable in Wiltshire at once.

St. Lawrence Frozen Over.

BROCKVILLE, Jan. 26.—The first crossing on foot between here and Morristown was accomplished on Saturday. The hard frosts have sealed the channel of the river and the ice is now considered safe for walking.

The Views On The Snow Question Of Alderman Johnston

He Says, In Effect, Let the People Clean Away Their Own Snow

THE SNOW PROBLEM

To the Editor, The Examiner:

Sir,—Have we citizens of Peterborough—a no mean city—to go back to the glacial period or the "stone age?" Yet it would appear to be so, assuming the remarks made by our representative for the North Ward to have been reported correctly.

In a Council discussion over the snow removal question, Alderman Johnston is reported to have taken up cudgels for the inefficiency of the snow removal (?) by the contractors.

"Bless my soul," said that alderman. "It would take them a month to get over the town if they lived up to the demands of the contract." * * It will never be worked out right until it is done by individuals. * * * * The residents should shovel the snow from the walk in front of their residences. Many are doing it now."

And is it not a burning disgrace to this enlightened (?) city that elderly ladies or delicately nurtured girls should be forced in weather, degrees below zero, to suffer the agonies and physical pain of intense cold, to say nothing of other evils, to perform a work which ought to be done by the municipality. Is it not bad enough that they should have frequently to sweep their own doorsteps or pathway.

Each year there is a kick against the contractors for snow removal, who do not remove it—they merely displace it, or misplace it. And when a thaw sets in and the snow becomes a filthy slush, then nothing is done except by individual effort, or sun and time. And then, again, elderly as well as young ladies are called upon to perform a work which no man should allow them to do. Shame on it!

Surely the city should possess its own waggons and teams available for removal of garbage or snow as the case may be, road repairs and general utilities.

We live in an age when these petty contracts should not exist—especially if they cannot be efficiently carried out.

As Mayor Buller—all honour to him—rejoined "why should girls have to wade through deep snow?"

Why indeed? I echo!

It makes a decent man positively squirm when he sees elderly ladies, who have no husbands or sons to help them, or gentle girls without fathers or brothers to do such rough work on their behalf, slaving at such a distasteful task as snow-clearing. It's bad enough to see them performing such laborious manual labour on their own premises. But, shame on it, that they should be called upon to carry out such a task on the public sidewalks, even if to supplement the work of the snow plough.

Apologizing for trespassing so much on your valuable space.

CORRUPTION EXTENSIVE.

British Military Canteen Scandal Worse Than Supposed.

LONDON, Jan. 26.—The bribery and corruption in connection with the British army canteen supplies has on investigation by the authorities proved even more extensive than was at first believed. When the case was resumed at the Bow street police court yesterday Lt.-Col. Whittaker, who recently retired from the command of the 2nd Batt. Yorkshire Light Infantry, at Malta, was added by R. D. Muir, the prosecuting attorney, to the list of eight army men and eight civilians who were called to answer summonses.

The eight army men concerned are in the quartermaster's department, in which the officers have risen from the ranks, but Lt.-Col. Whittaker, who held a higher rank than any of the others, was an active soldier. The charges against the men are the giving and receiving of bribes in order to influence contracts and to prevent complaints against high prices.

Revolution In Hayti.

PORT AU PRINCE, Jan. 26.—The revolutionary movement is gaining headway in the southern section of Haiti, and the position of the Government is considered critical. The authorities at Port Au Prince, however, hope to check the movement and prevent disorders, but the absence of foreign warships for the protection of foreign residents is regretted.

GREY HAIRS A HANDICAP

Visit of Dominions Royal Commission Announced For Next Year.

OTTAWA, Jan. 26. — The Dominions Royal Commission, that recently created body representative of the British Empire, which deals for the most part with matters concerning the trades interest of Great Britain and her overseas Dominions, will spend three months in Canada next year. While the commission is in Canada, the question of ocean freight rates, not only transatlantic, but transpacific, will be examined in all its aspects.

This was the important statement made last night by Hon. George E. Foster, Minister of Trade and Commerce, on his return from England, where he had been attending the sittings of the Dominions Royal Commission. He left Canada for London on Dec. 26, so that he has been absent from Ottawa just one month.

Mr. Foster states that the question of the recent increase in ocean freight rates was not gone into by the commissioners at the London sitting, but will be taken up in South Africa where the commission goes next month. South Africa is deeply interested in the question as well as Canada.

YOUNG GERMAN SUICIDES.

Farm Hand Near Guelph Had Been Acting Strangely.

GUELPH, Jan. 26. — Theodore Mann, a young German, 24 years of age, committed suicide on Sunday morning on the farm of Robert Laidlaw, Paisley Block, six miles from Guelph, by hanging himself from a beam in the barn. He was discovered by one of the farm hands at 10.30, quite dead and the body still warm.

Young Mann had been in the employ of Mr. Laidlaw since November last, but spent the three months previous to that in Berlin. He had been acting quite strangely for some time past, and looked as though he was worried about something. He wrote three letters to his mother in Germany during the week, the last one being written Friday night. He was a single man as far as could be learned.

British Aviator Killed.

LONDON, Jan. 26. — George Lee Temple, a British aviator, was killed yesterday while flying at Hendon. He was making an especially difficult dive when a strong gust of wind caught the tail of his monoplane, and the machine crashed to the ground. The aviator's neck was broken.

Temple was the first British aviator to make a flight upside down in this country, having accomplished this feat on Nov. 24, two days before R. C. Hucks looped the loop at Hendon.

Tore Bible To Pieces.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Jan. 26.—Members of the congregation of the Lyon Street Church of Christ sat aghast yesterday when Rev. William Nelson picked up a small Bible and tore it into bits, scattering the fragments on the heads of the parishioners. When he had finished the destruction he volunteered the explanation that his topic for the evening's sermon was "Tearing the Bible to Pieces."

AD. BROUGHT RESULTS.

Recruiting Has Boomed Since War Office Turned to Papers.

LONDON, Jan. 26.—The scheme of recruiting the British army by newspaper advertisement, recently inaugurated by the War Office, is excellent testimony to the value of newspaper publicity. About ten days ago the War Office inserted in most newspapers alluring announcements detailing the advantages resulting from enlistment in the army, and inviting would-be recruits to write for booklets with further information given. Fifty thousand copies of this booklet were prepared, and Saturday the last of a whole edition was applied for, thus showing that newspaper advertisements reached the quarters desired. What results were attained in the increased enlistments, however, has not yet been announced.

Committed For Trial.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 26.—After a preliminary hearing, occupying nearly three days, Percy Hagel and John Westlake were committed for trial by Magistrate Macdonald Saturday afternoon on a charge of aiding John Krafchenko to escape from the Central police station, after commitment for trial for the murder of H. M. Arnold, manager of the Bank of Montreal at Plum Coulee, Man.

The police have decided not to lay charges against Frank Holt, who helped in the hiding of the alleged murderer in fear of his life, and J. H. Buxton, jr., who turned "King's evidence," which led to the re-arrest of Krafchenko. Percy Hagel was counsel for the prisoner.

Cornwall To Be Centre.

CORNWALL, Jan. 26. — It is announced that Cornwall will be the chief distributing centre for the Cedar Rapids electric power. The transmission line will be completed by the spring of 1915, when 120,000 horse-power will be available at the cheapest rates in the province. This will make Cornwall one of the best locations in the Dominion for industrial plants, as, besides the electric power that will be available, there is an unlimited water supply at the town's doors.

STILL GOING UP.

Labor Department Records Higher Cost of Living.

OTTAWA, Jan. 26.—The trend of prices of general commodities in Canada continues upwards. Statistics issued by the Labor Department show that during 1913 the upward movement was most noticeable in animals and meats. The average prices in this class of foodstuffs rose during the year from the department's index number 167.5 in January to 185.9 in December. Dairy produces also advanced considerably, rising from 160.4 in January to 182 in December.

There was a very heavy decline in the price of furs as a group, the index number falling from 358 in January to 247 in the last three months of the year. The general level of miscellaneous groceries throughout the year was two points lower than 1912. In textiles prices rose from 127.8 in January to 136.9 in December.

Royalty Will Attend Funeral.

LONDON, Jan. 26.—(C. A. P. Cable.)—It is stated that many thousand applications have been received for admission to the funeral services of Lord Strathcona at Westminster Abbey to-day. Not only will the King and Queen and Queen Alexandra be represented, but several members of the royal family will be present and representatives of a large number of societies and institutions with which Lord Strathcona was connected, or of which he was a supporter. The service will be conducted by Bishop Ryle and Rev. L. H. Dixon. Sir Frederick Bridge will be at the organ.

Bargain Day For Butter.

BROCKVILLE, Jan. 26.—A Toledo farmer came to the Brockville market with 100 pounds of butter in one-pound prints. The crush of purchasers surrounding the cutter was so great that he could not keep tab on them, and after the lot had been cleared at 30 cents per pound, he found that he was short in his receipts by $6, showing that 20 pounds had been carried off. One woman was reported to have taken a basketful.

New Zealand Sends Butter.

OTTAWA, Jan. 26.—W. A. Beddoe, Canadian trade commissioner for New Zealand, reports that the steamer Makura, which sailed from Auckland for Vancouver late in December, had one board 26,698 boxes of butter, which was the largest shipment of New Zealand butter ever taken to Vancouver. The Makura also carried to Canada 1,197 quarters of beef, 362 carcases of veal, and 170 sacks of meats.

Portugal Railway Strike Over.

LISBON, Jan. 26. — The railroad strike, which began Jan. 14, was declared ended last night. The employes return to work without having obtained any advantages. The recent wholesale arrest of the ring leaders of the general strike, by order of the Government, led to its collapse.

The Skin Troubles of Childhood

School Records Show Much Time Lost From Eczema.

Chafing and skin irritation, whether from changing temperature, rough winds, strong soap or the action of the clothing, naturally develop into eczema, spread over the body and defy ordinary treatments.

Most doctors do not give much attention to skin diseases, and, consequently, it is necessary for parents to select some treatment which has proven a cure for such ailments. If records of cures count for anything, then you can turn to Dr. Chase's Ointment with fullest assurance that in this you will have the means of controlling itching skin diseases.

By affording prompt relief from the terrible itching, Dr. Chase's Ointment puts an end to suffering, and removes the cause of scratching. As the fires of eczema die away the ointment sets up the process of healing, and brings about thorough and lasting cure. As a treatment for the skin troubles of children nothing has ever proved so satisfactory as Dr. Chase's Ointment.

LADY STRATHCONA'S SON.

James H. Smith Lays No Claim to Late Commissioner's Wealth.

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—James H. Smith, of Brookline, Mass., who, according to despatches from Boston on Saturday, might claim the vast estates of Lord Strathcona as the son of the peer, was in this city yesterday and said that he had no intention of making a claim for the estate or any part of it. The following statement was given out for Mr. Smith:

Mr. Smith is a son of Lady Strathcona by her former marriage. He was born in June, 1852. Lord Strathcona was married to Lady Strathcona in 1853 at Northwest River, Hamilton's Inlet, in the Province of Labrador, within the jurisdiction of Newfoundland. Lord Strathcona did not arrive at Northwest River until the autumn of 1852.

Lord Strathcona's only child and daughter, now the wife of Dr. Robert Jared Bliss Howard, F.R.C.S., lives in London and is the heir presumptive of Lord Strathcona by a special act of Parliament. Mrs. Howard was born in January, 1854, at Northwest River.

Mr. Smith said that he did not care to go into the matter to the extent of making a statement, but that he merely explained the family connection for the purpose of setting forth the true conditions and relationship.

ECZEMA ON THE HEAD

Mr. Petersen, South Bay, Ont., writes: "For years I suffered a sort of eczema on the head. I tried four different doctors, giving each a fair trial, but the disease grew worse and spread to my arm. I got Dr. Chase's Ointment, and it has entirely cured me. I give you my name because I want other sufferers to know about this splendid Ointment."

HUERTA REFUSES TO ADMIT DEFEAT MEXICAN TREASURY IS DEPLETED

Dictator Displays Pride in the Strength of His Army Which he Estimates at More Than 100,000

WOMEN SLAIN

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 26. — President Huerta betrays no sign of yielding, although he is cognizant of the increase in the strength of his enemies intriguing within the capital, and those in the field; is handicapped by inability to procure money, and is confronted with Washington's determination that he must retire from Mexico's affairs.

Personal and political friends and the highest officials of the Catholic Church in Mexico who have been endeavoring by methods for the most part discreetly indirect, to bring about his elimination, are seemingly convinced that they have failed.

Gen. Huerta talks optimistically of the outlook, displays pride in the size of his army, which he estimates at considerably more than 100,000, and appears to believed that in spite of all obstacles and reverses he will be able to dominate the situation within three months. It is conceded here that ex-Minister Flores Magon has failed in his mission to Mr. Lind at Vera Cruz, and that the United States will listen to no proposition short of the unconditional elimination of Gen. Huerta.

No one—not even President Huerta—attempts to disguise the fact that the Mexican treasury is practically empty. In the capital, the Government payrools are being liquidated with reasonable promptness, but it is no secret that the diplomatic representatives and consols abroad in many cases have not been paid for weeks, and that the troops outside the capital often receive their pay long after it is due. In most cases these funds are derived from local sources; sometimes they are from forced loans levied on the inhabitants where the troops happen to be stationed.

Extraordinary taxes have been levied in the capital as well as outside points, and there are rumors that other decrees are soon to be issued that will exact still greater tribute from the people.

Women and Children Slain.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 26.—One hundred women and children and 150 Federal soldiers were massacred by rebels recently near Vanegas, to the north of San Luis Potosi, according to reports received here yesterday. The soldiers, with the women, surrendered to the rebels, and were taken to a ranch near Matebuala, where the alleged butchery occurred.

Major Rebollo and Capt. Ramirez and a handful of men were the ones to escape. They arrived here Saturday, bringing news of the occurrence.

MASS MEETING THIS EVENING

The public is cordially invited to the mass meeting under the auspices of the County Temperance Alliance, in the Sunday School room of the George Street Methodist Church, tonight, at 7.45 o'clock. Devotional exercises will be conducted by Rev. F. E. Connors. Addresses will be given by Rev. Ben. H. Spence, and Rev. Dr. McTavish of the Dominion Alliance. It is expected that there will be a large attendance.

SERIES OF SERMONS AT CHURCH OF SACRED HEART

A series of special sermons on the Ten Comandments is being given at the Church of the Sacred Heart on Sunday evenings, and in the mornings on the Sacraments.

Rev. Father O'Brien, pastor, referred to the evening series yesterday, and pointed out the desirability of large attendances at Vespers in connection with the proper keeping of the Lord's Day.

A BIG LEEWAY

The man who quits his advertising in January and February will inevitably find when he comes back, that he has got a big leeway to make up over those in business who have been keeping everlastingly at it. Then, too, the discontinuing of your advertising tends to jolt the buyers shopping habits. They have been accustomed to be reminded by your regular advertised store news, and, if its continuity is broken the chances are they will switch over to another store or try another line of merchandise.

FUNERAL OF STRATHCONA A SIMPLE ONE

Notable Lack of Pomp and Display But Many of Empire's Great Men Were in Attendance

FLORAL TRIBUTES

Special Cable to The Examiner:

LONDON, Eng., Jan. 26.— With a ceremony remarkable for its simplicity, the funeral services of the late Lord Strathcona were held to-day in Westminster Abbey, before the body was removed to Highgate for burial. There was a notable lack of pomp and display, but many of the Empire's greatest nobles attended The cortege consisted of an open hearse and only twenty carriages. It was not a military funeral, and there were few uniforms. Among those present were representatives of King George and Queen Mary and Queen Mother Alexandra, Prince Arthur of Connaught, Premier Asquith, Ambassador Page of the United States, and various representatives of the Canadian government. The full Anglican ritual and choral music was used at the service in the Abbey, which was very impressive. The floral tributes filled ten automobiles and were taken from the Abbey to Highgate by another route.

BIG STRIKE THREATENED IN LONDON

Special Cable to The Examiner:

LONDON, Eng., Jan. 26.—With detachments of polile guarding all London buildings under construction, the city to-day was threatened with a general strike of building trades, involving two hundred thousand men. Alreay fifty thousand labourers and coal porters are out and parading the streets, making demonstrations. Unless the differences are settled to-morrow and the locked out employees return to work, the strike may be general to-morrow.

RIFLE MATCHES AT THE ARMOURIES

The 57th Regiment is arranging to hold rifle matches in the shooting gallery in the Armouries during the coming month. Handsome individual and company prizes will be offered, and the contest promises to arouse a lot of interest. The gallery will be open each evening for practice under the supervision of Musketry Instructor Edwards, or Sergt. Instructor Dunkerly.

GIVES THANKS

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I notice in Saturday's Examiner a letter written by a correspondent rather sympathizing with the snow plough men than blaming them for any neglect through the past severe storm. As one of the snow plow contractors I desire to thank your correspondent for his kindness in writing that letter, and I think I can assure you that the men on the snow plough are doing the very best they can to satify any reasonable person.

Thanking you and your correspondent.

I am, yours very truly,
PERCY FRANCIS

GETTING UP A NEWSPAPER.

Many people believe that a newspaper falls together without work, concerted action or plan. The Rev. McLeod, a Presbyterian minister, of Pasadena, was of this opinion, and asked to be allowed to edit one edition of the Pasadena (Cal.) Star. This is how he felt himself at last at the end of the task, which, it must be said, had been done quite creditably. "My time is now almost up, as I pen this last line; my brain is befuddled, and I am free to confess that I am right glad to vacate the holy spot. Such rush and riot disarray. Such a jumble and crush. It strikes me as the effort to bring order out of chaos and do it lightning quick. I am reminded of the memorable words, "The earth was without form, and void and darkness was upon the face of the deep. And the spirit moved upon the face of the waters." Never again shall I criticise newspaper men more. I shall pray for them. They will have my heart's' forbearance henceforth. They are the hardest worked, shortest lived, poorest paid brain workers in this weary old world."

TEMPERANCE CONVENTION IN SESSION

Various Churches of City and County Will be Represented at Meeting in the Y. M. C. A.

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS

The first session of the annual convention of the Peterborough County Temperance Alliance was held in the Y.M.C.A. rooms this afternoon. There were present a representative gathering of delegates from the various churches of the City and County. The session was opened with devotional exercises by the Rev. R. Pogue, after which Mr. H. B. Cowan, President of the convention, declared the meeting open for the transaction of routine business.

Mr. Cowan's Address.

The President in his address, outlined the work of the past year. Dealing with the work of the County Association, Mr. Cowgan said that the work was distinctly limitel, owing to the fact that the greater portion of the County was on the "dry map." There was only one license in Peterborough County outside of the City. The moral effect of such an association was, however, considered good. The campaign held in Peterborough a year ago, was a fair fight. It was believed that the contest was won up to within three days of the vote. The opposing forces introduced a number of outside workers, and local otion was defeated by a small majority.

Two years ago there was upwards of one hundred anl fourteen licenses in Peterborough County. This number has now been reduced to about fifteen. At the last local option contest, it was decided to introduce the measure in North Monaghan in anticipation of the campaign being successful in Peterborough, and forestalling any effort on the part of the liquor interests to establish a license in Monaghan.

Mr. Cowan suggested that it would be a wise move to have county deputations come into the City and ask for the abolition of the two shop licenses, The Association, he added, had the power to bring on a license reducing campaign.

Mr. Cowan said that the prospects for the County were particularly bright and that little difficult was anticipated in eleminating the sole remaining license in Peterborough, which was established at Burleigh.

A resolution of appreciation for legal services rendered by Mr. G. N. Gordon was adoted by the meeting.

Master George Branton, the well-known boy soloist of Toronto, rendered a couple of solos in good voice.

Rev. Dr. W. S. McTavish, Field Secretary for Central Ontario, gave an address on "Law Enforcement," in the absence of Rev. Ben H. Spence, who was unavoidably absent. Speaking of law enforcement, Rev. Mr. McTavish said that every effort should be made to see that the law was enforced, specially as local option was carried by a three-fifths majority. Men who hold the licenses are often the greatest tranegressors of the law. It has often been said that you can't enforce a local option law. Why not? Local option is not a law in itself; it is a part of the License Act which governs the province.

There is no more liquor sold in local option territory than is sold illegally in licensed places.

Mr. Haddy of Bowmanville has stated that not one-quarter of the liquor is sold in Bowmanville now than was sold illegally before local option was passed.

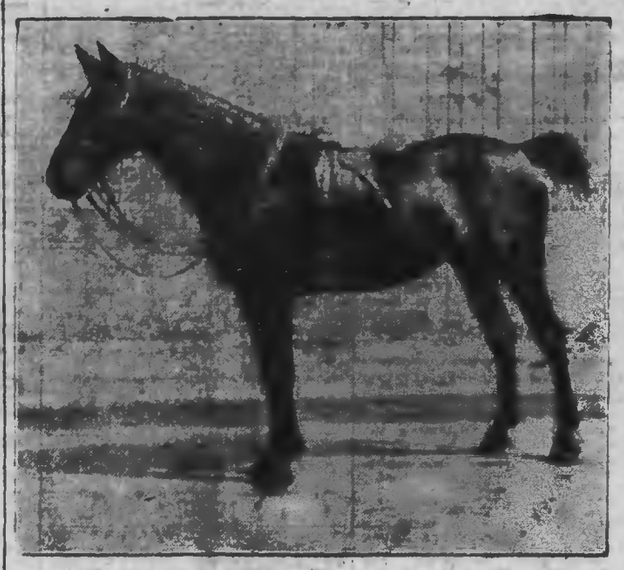
There are more blind pigs in licensed places, because they can carry on their work to better advantage.

It is just as reasonable to say that a man with a can of peas in one pocket, a can of corn in another, and a cod fish up his sleeve, will sell as much groceries as a man who is established on the corner, as to say that a blind pig operator will sell as much liquor as the licensed house.

To send the first complaint of infractions of the local option law to the government is not recommended as the best thing, or that the work should be undertaken by the private individual. The informer will merely receive a polite letter from the Mr. Saunders, the Inspector, that the matter will be lookedw into. It is better to refer the matter to a committee who are instiinted under the supervision of the local Association.

THE WEATHER

Six below zero was the figure for Sunday morning as the lowest during the night. This morning eight below was recorded as having been reached during the night. At seven o'clock, however, it had risen to six degrees above.—W.P.



Champion Jumper Destroyed—Mr. George Pepper's "Sarah Moore," which won the military jumping class at Madison Square Gardens, New York in November, beating the celebrated Amazons, valued at $30,000, owned by the French Government. She was destroyed with seven others owned by Mr. Pepper, in the explosion at Ottawa on the 21st when 3 men also were killed.

VALUABLE HOUND FELLED WITH AXE

And Chas. Proffitt Who Struck the Blow Will Appear Before Magistrate Edmison

BELONGED TO CYRIL LECH

A summons was issued this morning by Magistrate Edmison against Chas. Proffitt, who resides just beyond Jackson Park, on a charge of maliciously wounding a hound belonging to Mr. Cyril Lech. The incident occurred on Friday afternoon. The dog is a valuable deer hound, and on some occasions was taken out for a fox run by a boy named Wilson. On Friday afternoon the boy was walking out past Jackson Park. The hound, running ahead of him, went a short distance into the woods. Upon hearing a loud wail from the dog. Wilson followed it, and found the dog lying on the snow with a deep wound on its head. Proffit was standing nearby with an axe upraised. Wilson is alleged to have said, "Who did that?" and that the man's reply was that he did it, and would hand the boy a "wallop."

Young Wilson managed to lead the dog to Blade's, where Mr. Lech was called and the hound handed over to Dr. Rogers. The cut was a long one, extending from behind one eye back between the ears. It was so deep that the brain was exposed. The doctor sewed up the gash and the animal may recover. It was one of the best hounds in this vicinity, and Mr. Lech stated that he would not have taken $100 for it. Towards persons it was always gentle and it is believed that there was absolutely no occasion for the blow beyond the fact that the dog was on Proffitt's property. The case will be tried on Wednesday morning, beginning at 10.30 o'clock.

MASS MEETING OF BIBLE CLASSES

The mass meeting of the Men's Bible classes of the City, in the lecture room of Charlotte Street Methodist Church to-morrow night, promises to be a large and most interesting assembly. The most prominent speakers of the City on "Moral and Social Problems and Their Uplift" have been secured. An excellent musical programme will be provided by the best local talent. Civic opinion is aroused, and people are deeply interested in the great problem of the evening. Every man, professing to be a Christian, is in duty bound to be interested in furthering the welfare of our City, and to be present. Chairman, R. F. Downey, B.A. Meeting at 8 o'clock sharp.

THE DANCE OF THE MILKMEN

The Peterborough Milkmen's Association is issuing invitations to the first annual hop under the auspices of the Association, to be held in the Hall of the Woodmen of the World, on Feb. 4th. If the Association makes as great a success of its premier terpsichorean attempt at it did on the initial excursion and picnic last summer, it will score one of the greatest social successes of the season.

BOSTONS TO PRACTICE WITH INTERMEDIATES

The Boston Exploits will practice at the Brock Street rink to-night between 7 and 8 o'clock, with the Intermediate O.H.A. team.

PREMIER IS IMPROVING

There Will Not However be the Slightest Chance of His Attending Opening of the Legislature

TO-DAY'S BULLETINS

TORONTO, Jan. 26.—This morning's bulletins from the General Hospital intimate that Sir James Whitney's condition continues to improve.

"Any chance of his being able to attend the Legislature on its opening on February 17th?" was the query put to one of the attending physicians.

"Not the slightest chance of that," said he.

Another close friend of the sick Premier prophesied that Sir James would never sit in Legislature again.

TORONTO, Jan. 26.—According to the doctors in attendance, it now seems probable that Sir James Whitney will completely recover from his illness. Dr. Alex. McPhedran said last night that the Prime Minister had passed a very satisfactory day, and when asked whether the distinguished patient would ultimately regain his health he stated that Sir James was making very good progress and that the outlook was exceedingly hopeful.

Dr. C. K. Clarke, superintendent of the General Hospital, also was quite hopeful. "The condition of Sir James is very favorable," said he. "The Prime Minister is taking nourishment well and altogether he is much improved in health. Of course," added Dr. Clarke, "we still regard Sir James as a sick man."

Both doctors said that the patient was much better yesterday than at any time since he was brought home from New York, and that he was not nearly so restless as he has been.

Dr. H. A. Pyne, too, was pleased at the improvement in the Premier's

TO-DAY'S DEBATE IN THE HOUSE

Special Wire to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, Jan. 26.—It is expected that the debate on the address in the Commons to-day will be largely in the hands of the French Canadian members. La Fortune, the Liberal member for Montcalm, leads off, and will be followed by a French Canadian Conservative. On Tuesday morning both parties will hold their first caucus of the session. At a Liberal caucus the advisability of moving other amendments after that of Sir Wilfrid Laurier has been voted on will be discussed. This vote will be taken on Tuesday evening. Some of the Western Liberals are inclined to view that the resolution declaring for free wheat should be brought in by a private member.

As an amendment to the address it would be want of confidence motion in government, and the Western Conservative members for that reason would have a good excuse for not voting for the proposal.

J. A. SHARPE CLAIMS $5000 FOR DEATH OF HIS SON

Action Resulting From Death of Thomas L. Sharpe on March, 1913 in T. H. & B. Yards, Hamilton—Two Railways Defendants

WAS C. P. R. LINEMAN

A writ for $5,000 damages has been issued by Mr. J. Arthur Sharpe, through Peck, Kerr & McElderry against the Canadian Pacific and Toronto, Hamilton & Buffalo Railways, in connection with the death of his son, Thomas L. Sharpe, in Hamilton, last March. The writ states that the death was due to the negligence of the defendants, their servants and workmen.

Thomas Sharpe was killed on March 19, 1913, in the T. H. & B. yards, in Hamilton. He was engaged as a C. P. R. Telegraph lineman, and was walking west along a track with five others. Sharpe and Wm. Askings, of Toronto, stepped out of the way of a freight train and were run down by a light engine on the other track. Both men were instantly killed. The other four shouted when they saw the danger of their two companions but apparently were not heard, or the interval was too brief.

HORSES BLOWN THROUGH FLOOR AND OUT OF ROOF

Graphic Description of Howick Pavilion Disaster by Mr. J. F. Staples of Ida, Who Was in the Building at the Time

AN AWFUL SCENE

In an interesting interview this morning with Mr. J. F. Staples, of Ida, the Examiner heard a graphic description of the scenes following the terrific explosion that wrecked the Howick Pavilion at the Winter Live Stock Show at Ottawa last week. Mr. Staples was in the building at the time, having gone there quite early that morning to look after his horses, quite a number of which he had entered in the prise competitions. Even more thrilling was the experience of Mr. Lloyd Sutton, who accompanied Mr. Staples. Mr. Sutton was one his way to the dairy to get some milk. His route led directly over the boiler. Fortunately, however, he had not gone far, when, feeling a sort of compression in the air, he turned back. He had only gone a few paces when the crash came, and all was confusion. Mr. Staples was one of the lucky ones, inasmuch, as in addition to receiving no personal injuries, his horses also escaped.

A SPLENDID SHOW.

Mr. Staples, with his horses, arrived in Ottawa on Sunday, and fully anticipated a pleasant and profitable week. The Howick Pavilion is the finest of its kind. The horses were comfortably stables alongside the arena. The building was filled to its utmost capacity. The basement floor, where the immense boilers for heating were situated, was also filled with hogs and sheep. The next, or main floor, was taken up with horses and cattle, from all parts of Canada, the best the country could produce. The second floor was packed even to the extent of being crowded with all kinds of poultry and fancy pet stock.

The show opened on Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock with a grand parade in the arena of all the different breeds of horses. Following this, some half a dozen classes were judged, when an adjournment was made until evening. In the class "for mares foaled previous to January, 1911," Mr. Staples had two entries. Ten splendid specimens were shown, and after due consideration and putting some of them through their different paces, many times, the judge, Mr. John Boag, awarded Mr. Staples first and fifth prizes.

AN UNTIMELY ENDING.

On Wednesday morning Mr. Staples and Mr. Sutton were up and about at six o'clock. After feeding and exercising the horses, preparations for breakfast were progressing nicely when the rude interruption in the form of that awful explosion occurred. Mr. Sutton had gone to the dairy to get some milk, while Mr. Staples was about to make his morning ablutions.

Suddenly there was a rushing, roaring sound, accompanied by a terrific noise, that left no doubt as to what had happened.

PANDEMONIUM REIGNED.

Instantly the whole place was filled with smoke, steam, dust and debris. Horses were rearing in their stalls. Many had torn loose. Within ten feet of where Mr. Sutton was standing, there alighted the carcasse of a horse that came down through the roof of the arena. It had been thrown upwards in the explosion. It was torn in pieces, its blood splashing all around him. Mr. Staples saw three more carcasses come down outside the building. Two more in another place had been blown through the wall.

Outside the annex, the sight was almost beyond one's description. The dead and dying were all around. Willing hands carried out those who had lost their lives and others injured. Cattle, sheep, and hogs were running and clambering everywhere. The fowl were flying aimlessly about. Pigeons, pet stock and rabbits were wounded and dying. Mr. Staples captured a beautiful pheasant out in the snow with its back broken. Fire immediately started from the boiler, but firemen were quickly on the spot and flooded the basement. The annex part of the building was a complete wreck, the centre part being blown right out, and the walls being of steel frame, were twisted into every conceivable shape. Houses in the next block had their windows blown out.

Some idea of the mighty force of the explosion can best be realized when it is considered that horses that were blown upward went through the floor above them, through the poultry building, through the roof, and one that came down through the roof must have gone many feet into the air to gather force enough to break through again in the descent.

Thus ended one of the best live stock exhibitions ever held in Canada, but Mr. Staples is very grateful that his party was able to return without injury to either themselves or their horses.

New York Woman Will Address The Women's Council

At the executive meeting of the Women's Council, held on Saturday afternoon, it was decided to have Mrs. Hurst, of New York City, come to Peterborough and lecture on "How Women can help to meet the problem of the High Cost of Living." Mrs. Hurst will give her address in this City on the 23rd of February next.

The final arrangements for a mother's meeting to-morrow night in the Y.M.C.A. have been made. Mrs. J. C. Davidson was appointed to address the mothers who attended. This action is the result of the Board of Education's permission for them to hold meetings in connection with the public schools of this City, so that the parents of the pupils and teachers may more easily co-operate.

HON. GEO. E. FOSTER BACK IN OTTAWA

Special Wire to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, Jan. 26. — With the return of Hon. George E. Foster, Minister of Trade and Commerce, who arrived in Ottawa this morning, new interest will be added to the debate in the House of Comomns. Mr. Foster has been attending the conferences of the Imperial Trade Commission in London. It is now over a year since he has been seen on the front benches of the House of Commons. The last time he spoke in the House was when he delivered an eloquent speech on the naval bill just before the Xmas recess of 1912. Now, however, economic issues, including the tariff and the high cost of living, will be the features of debates during the present session. On these subjects the Government has no more effective debater than Mr. Foster, and the Government needs his assistance, and so he has returned. Mr. Foster stated that the conference of the Imperial Trade Commission which he has just been attending, was devoted largely to considerations of preliminary arrangements for investigation into ocean freight rates.

Next July a commission will hold a session in Canada, when the matter will be gone into again from the Canadian side.

HIGH COST OF LIVING

Special Wire to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, January 26.—The commission which is enquiring into the high cost of living, will visit Ontario cities shortly where in enquiry will be held. At these points particular research wil be made into the packing, storage and storing of fruit and dairy products and its bearing on the cost of living.

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unparalleled."

MONDAY, JAN. 26, 1914

MORE STICK, MR. PELLETIER.

Hon. Mr. Pelletier, Postmaster-General, can do it if he likes. He can stick to his cabinet seat He says he is "bolted, padlocked, and clamped" to his cabinet position and will hold it so long as it brings him in $9,500 a year. If he has so much sticking quality, he should have a little stick-fast to spare, in order to put enough gum on his postage stamps that they will stick, when licked. It is notorious that our postal stamps, of all denominations are very faulty that they won't stick, without the help of a supplementary glue pot. This defect helps stampless letters to go astray, and speeds them on the way to the dead letter office, to come back, like bread cast upon the waters, after many days.

PULL TOGETHER.

A minister in a City pulpit last night was rather, and possibly not too, severe in his denunciation of the gossippy character of Peterborough citizenship and gave some attention to the trivialities dealt with by newspaper correspondents. And why not? The newspaper, rightly regarded, is the people's tribune, the rostrum from which the voice of public opinion is heard. The subjects dealt with are not heavy, and on the principle that people like to read about what they like to and do talk about, are justifiable. Small things make the sum of the average conversational circle. A newspaper would soon have to "shut up shop" if it printed only heavy things. Heavy articles on the "Stone Age" or the Nebular Hypothesis would soon kill a newspaper. A newspaper welcomes letters on subjects that interest its readers, and small matters to many people can easily become the sum of great matters to the ordinary reader. We welcome letters on timely subjects, from the people. These letters are a sign of interest in matters that concern the people, and though they may seem trivial to great minds, they are important and, in many cases, vital, to those concerned. A minister has at least one hundred and four scheduled opportunities — twice every Sunday — for giving his opinions to the world, and a newspaper correspondent should not be debarred from an ocasional chance to air his or her opinoins, as important to them as those of the greatest preacher in the world are to him. If, as we are told, "the moral life of Peterborough is on a low level,' it is so in spite of the work, honest and conscientious and able as it may be—of twenty pulpits speaking twice every Sunday. We can't, therefore, blame some other good people if they think it worth while, to try what little plain preaching from the pulpit of the press will do. When we are all fighting the same evil, it would seem best for all agencies, public and private, to try to work together. It seems to be only lost time, to turn aside from the work of the moment to criticise the weapons of those fighting in the same cause. There is so much room for improvement, so much need of it, that we should welcome the cooperation of the pulpit, the press, and every other agency that can be used to promote reform. The good Lord, only, knows why we see so little apparent result from so much well meaning effort; we don't know and don't need to know; all we need to know is to know how to do our best and help others similarly engaged. We must pull together in everything that involves our material or moral welfare. We must work together and won't waste much valuable time in so doing, if we give a word of cheer and help to the worker alongside us.

RAISING THE GHOST.

Mr. Birden finds that the naval question, like Banquo's ghost, will not down. He thought he had it safely stowed away in the lumber room where he keeps his decrepit political furniture—broken promises, fractured Halifax platform, etc. He held his emergency contribution policy so sacred, that after it had been manhandled by the wicked Senate, he would not trust it even to vice-regal annointed hands—he shut it out from the wordy emptiness of the Speech from the Throne. But it will not down. The Nationalists are "on the job." It is expected that Mr. D. O. L'Esperance, M.P. for Montmagny, Quebec, a member of Conservative - Nationalist coalition, will bring in a bill to repeal the Laurier naval law, which even Mr. Borden himself has not had the courage to strangle. We can imagine how distasteful this will be to Mr. Borden. He outraged the sentiments of the imperial wing of his following, by making the abandonment of a self-respecting Canadian and Imperial naval policy to which the House had unanimously subscribed, the price of Nationalist support. Thanks to the united support of the flag wavers and the flag shooters, Mr. Borden sits securely, for the moment, in the seats of the mighty. But he can't expect that there will be no aftermath of so unrighteous a party harvest. He can't expect the Nationalists to consent to be kicked aside like an old boot. They must have some fun for their support of the jingo militia estimates of Col., the Hon. Sam Hughes. The proposed action of Mr. Borden's Nationalist henchman will make matters extremely awkward for Mr. Borden. He kept the naval question in the background, thought he had the skeleton securely locked in the closet, but here comes a meddling Nationalist to bring the buried quest ion out of its grave. If the Laurier Naval Act which is in effect the act that a whole parliament voted for, is repealed, Mr. Borden will be called upon to bring out his permanent naval policy, and anything but that from him. If Mr. Borden had a safe majority without the Nationalists, he could afford to be a man again. He could consider a big, broad imperial naval policy without the consent of the party that "had to shoot holes through the flag to breathe the air of liberty." But he will have to listen, he has gone as far in the way of humiliation as to trafficking for support that he can't turn back. He must muzzle the mouths of the Imperialistwing of his supporters, and let the Nationalists "cry havoc and let slip the dogs of war" upon the Laurier Naval Act. If a Liberal premier had place himself in such a humiliating, dust-eating, position, the Conservative party would rightly denounce him and demand his head. But we can't imagine any other Canadian Premier making his nest in the Nationalist crib.

THE "NOES" HAVE IT."

The gentlemen who write the headlines are having a great run on the word "No" just now. For instance, in The Adverstiser of yesterday morning appeared the following captions:

"No revision of the tariff this session."

"No action toward navy.'

"No reduction in debt."

The Borden Government promises to give Canada the greatest display of inaction in the country's history.—London Advertises.

CANADIAN "EXTRAVAGANCE"

If one may judge from appearances it begins to look not only as if Canada was on the march to freer trade, and without any qualification towards free food, but was experiencing in her finances the result of having a Tory Government in power. When Sir Wilfred Laurier went out of office, the whole expenditure of the Government was £17,400,000. In the opening year the Borden Government propses to spend about £50,000,000, or nearly three times as much. Some three months ago it was boasting a surplus of $11,000,000; all that has gone, and the Government is in the market for money, for which it will have to pay interest at the rate of 4 per cent. An expenditure of fifty millions sterling represents some ten millions more than the value of the whole wheat harvest of the Dominion, and it is calculated that in order to meet its spending, the Government will have to borrow up to twenty millions. The financial interests, seriously alarmed, are in indignant protest. They say that already, owing to the extravagant borrowing of the Borden Government in London and elsewhere, no one else, banker, railway man, or manufacturer, can sell his securities.—Ayrshire (Scotland) Post.

TO WHOM HONOUR IS DUE.

"The Manchester Guardian concludes a generous eulogy of Lord Strathcona with some criticism of the Canadian railway policy, which, says the Guardian, assumes that though the State has given it land and money, and either secured its loans or lent to it direct, the railway company's duty, and its only duty, is to its shareholders."—Canadian Press Despatch.

The Guardian is right. Lord Strathcona and those who were associated with him in his early days of the Canadian Pacific Railway deserve credit for courage, and optimism. But do not forget the courage and generosity of the Canadian people, who gave the railway $25,000,000, completed portions of railway worth at least $28,000,000, and 25,000,000 acres of land, on which $100,000,000 has already been realized.

And remember that the subsidy of $53,000,000 in cash and completed railway was given more than thirty years ago, when Canada was a poor country, and when $53,000,000 was as heavy a burden as $200,000,000 would be at the present time.

Those capitalists who risked their money in the enterprise in the early days have their reward both in money and in praise. Those who held aloof until the success of the project was assured are entitled to a fair return on their investment, but the business of feeding them melons has been overdone.—Toronto Star.

WHAT WAR WOULD EAN.

What war, say with Germany, would mean to millions of Britishers of the lower classes is pointed out by Major Stewart L. Murray, of the Gordon Highlanders, a recognized authority on the economics of war. Major Murray declares that were such a war to break out, and even were the British navy to sweep the seas, destroying the German fleet, the result would still be terrible to contemplate. Food would quickly reach famine prices he declates. Those who could afford to pay these prices would have food and those who could not would starve. He estimates that there are nearly ten millions of people in the latter class, and he adds the significant comment that they "would not starve quietly." What of Germany? Her greater population might be somewhat offset by the greater numbers of her people on the land as producers, but without doubt a number equal to that in Great Britain would be facing actual starvation within a very few weeks of the outbreak of hostilities. No doubt they would protest as vehemently against starvation as would their cousins across the German Ocean. This would mean, if Major Murray's estimate is correct, that a non-combatant population about three times as great as that of Canada would be suffering actual starvation a few days after war broke out, while another population half or more than half as great would be doing the actual fighting—and perhaps living the best of it, at that And in face of an unbelievable catastrophe of this kind there still exist certain gold laced lunatics of the Von Forstner type who are responsible for Zabern incidents and similar incitements to international ill will—Montreal Herald.

NO NAVY, NO HIGHWAYS

OTTAWA, Jan. 16. — The Government with all its boasting about what was to be done to all and sundry who opposed a contribution by Canada of $35,000,000 for the construction of three empty, unmanned, unmaintained Gibraltar-bound ships, has gone under the barn. The manufactured emergency has gone too, and scarcely a decent sized memory remains of the muttering thunders, or the forked lightning flashes which Messrs. Borden, Pelletier and Foster so vividly depicted a year ago.

The two former have apparently recovered from their shivers, and now hope to accomplish by the lavish expenditure of public funds, what was intended to be attained by the Borden-Nationalist straddle on the navy question.

But the navy fiasco has been abandoned and finds no place in the Government's programme. If they believe in their policy, then their action in dropping it, is cowardly in the extreme. If they did not believe in it, then they stand self-convicted of having made a desperate and reckless attempt to deceive the public and soak them the modest sum of $35,000,000.00 for the privilege of being soaked.

The Highway's Bill has also been left dead on the Government door step, after being strangled because Hon. Frank Cochrane could not piledrive it through the Senate in such form as would allow the debauchery which was attempted in South Renfrew to be repeated in any county in Canada.

If the speech from the throne can be taken as an indication, the Government is in a very vascillating frame of mind, and far from agreement on several impirtant questions.

My Easy Way For You TO OWN YOUR HOME

If you have or ever intend to have a wife and family you must have a home by renting or buying. Doubtless you have read my ad. in the Examiner, where I offer to do for you as I have done for others, viz., to guide you to a home of your own, on as easy terms as you now have, paying rent.

If you rent you pay for ever, and have nothing to show. If you buy you have a valuable property to use, rent or sell. You are a man amongst men, with a stake in the country, honoured and respected, not a floater, here to-day and away to-morrow. My desire to sell and retire causes me to offer prices and terms that will never be repeated; so close to work and in the way of the City's growth. Come in and see plans; get full particulars, then you can lay out your plans for early Spring action.

A Word To The Wise

The exceptional conditions prevailing during the last year have made it possible for us to offer to shrewd investors some great bargains in real estate.

You can purchase through us several properties at from one-half to two-thirds their real value, that will in the Spring be in demand for building purposes owing to their location in the heart of the section which saw such phenomenal building activity last year.

Reports show that business in all lines is picking up and 1914 is said to promise the greatest development for Canada that she has yet enjoyed.

Will Peterborough get her share? You should worry and get yours.

THE CANADIAN LEAGUE IS TO PLAY IN TORONTO

TORONTO, Jan. 26.— The definite announcement was made last night that the Canadian League would play in Toronto next season. President Percy Derwin, who put through the deal for the purchase of the Berlin franchise, will announce the name of the Toronto manager on Wednesday.

The Toronto Canadian Leaguers will play either at the Island Stadium or at Scarboro Beach, the schedule being so arranged as not to conflict with the Toronto Internationals.

Again last night the Federal League moguls stated emphatically that they will have a team in this city. Toronto will not want for baseball, even if the Fed do not come.

THE OBJECTS OF THE JUNIOR CITY LEAGUE

Players are Reminded of the Fact that Good Hockey Habits should be Formed Now.

Among the City League players this year there has been a tendency to use ordinary common sense on nearly all occasions. Recently, however, members of one of the teams have been guilty of a babyish attitude that will get them nothing. If all the members of this team were working together as they should be they would give the best of them a hard run. But when several players begin to pull in an opposite direction to the rest it is good-night to success and achievement. If all the players were not mere youths this would not be written. They should remember that the attitude they cultivate will stick to them in after years, and no team in the country wants a man who places himself before the best interests of those with whom he should be playing. The quitting habit is a poor one. It has never won respect, and has never accomplished anything. The last game demonstrated clearly that the four teams in the League are well matched, and it is up to every player to do all that he can for his team. Only one can win the championship and the others should make that team win on its merits.

The development of good losers is as necessary as sportsmanlike winners. The City League after all is but a "pup" school for future O.H.A. players, and this is the point the League officers want the boys to keep in mind..

CURLING

One of the curling events of the season at the local rink will be the District Cup games to be played at the Charlotte Street rink to-morrow. Rinks from Lindsay, Port Hope, Bobcaygeon, Fenelon Falls, Hastings, Cannington, Keene, Lakefield, Norwood and other towns, are expected to be present.

The winning rink is entitled to enter for the Governor-General's trophy to be played for in Toronto. It looks like a big day on the McIntosh sheet. R. M. Waddell will be referee.

Lindsay is sending two rinks for the District Cup games. The northern curlers coming are A. Williams, Dr. Irvine, A. Williams, R. F. Thomas, skip; and B. Robson, T. A. Fisher, E. Gregory, George G. Beal, skip.

TO-MORROW NIGHT'S GAME MAY DECIDE DISTRICT

To-morrow night's game between Cobourg and Peterborough at Brock Street rink promises to be the tit-bit of the local hockey season. A loss for the Petes will make their chances for the group distinctly gloomy, while a Cobourg defeat will have the same effect upon the Lakeshore bunch. It will be a battle all the way, with the championship of the group looming up in the background. Belleville, Cobourg and Peterborough, with two losses apiece, are putting up a terrific fight for the district, and to-morrow night's game will be one of the big factors in deciding the title. The game will be called at 8.30 o'clock, and every indication points to the biggest crowd in years in attendance. It has not been announced who will referee the game.

Roy McGiffin, Hockeyist—of the Toronto professionals. He was recently fined one hundred dollars and costs for rough playing with the Ottawas.

Ain't Nothin'.

An Englishman was boasting to a Yankee that they had a book in the British Museum which was once owned by Cicero. "Oh, that ain't nothin'," retorted the Yankee. In the museum at Boston they've got the lead pencil that Noah used to check off the animals that went into the ark."

BASEBALL

Pitcher Cy. Falkenberg of the Naps got on the bases no fewer than 25 times last season, but didn't score a run.

Rumour has it that Davenport, Ia., is trying to toss the Three-I League and take Wichita's place in the Western League.

Jack Dunn, the Baltimore pilot, is the first manager in organized baseball to get all his regulars in line for the coming season.

The Meriden franchise in the Eastern Association has been transferred to New Britain, which place was formerly a member of the League.

Jack Thoney, Red Sox outfielder, at one time, is thinking of returning to baseball. The "Bullet" used to pack a speedy pair of legs, but his throwing arm was a Republican.

According to a Pittsburgh scribe Honus Wagner has been drawing a salary of $10,000 a year for the past seven years. A Smoke Town scribe and a typewriter are a wonderful combination.

Two pitchers of the name of Hagerman will start in the big show this spring. "Casey" Hagerman of Denver will be with the Cardinals, and "Rip" Hagerman, the Portland (Ore.) twirler, has been signed by the Naps.

Brockton, Fall River, New Bedford, Newport, Pawtucket and Woonsocket may form a new League. When Woonsocket is mentioned it is always correct to say that Larry Lajoie was born there.

The Ohio and Pennsylvania League has been recognized on a six-club basis with Keesport, Altoona, Johnstown and Connellsville, Pa., and Canton and East Liverpool, O., composing the circuit.

President Britton of the St. Louis Cardinals has offered his players a 10 per cent. bonus all round if the team finishes fifth or sixth, 15 per cent. for fourth place and 20 per cent. if the team finishes one, two, three. Mr. Britton should offer a little something for seventh place, and give the Cards a chance.

BOXING

Milwaukee promoters are trying to arrange a clash between Leach Cross and Charley White for February 22.

Gilbert Gallant's clever work in defeating "One Round" Hogan has given quite a boost to the reputation of the Chelsea boy.

Joe Woodman, manager of Sam Langford, has written from England that Langford is fast getting the fat off and will soon be in the best of condition.

Gunner Rawles, whoever he may be, has the distinction of being the only boxer Bombardier Wells can whip. Bombardier put out Rawles in ten rounds the other night.

Promoter Dick Burge of London, has presented Bandsman Blake with one of the belts that Jem Mace won. In England they are touring the "musician" as the coming middleweight champion.

Packey McFarland's manager wants the McFarland-Gibbons fight in New York, postponed until March 7th, on which date the world-touring baseball players are scheduled to arrive in that City.

Hockey--That's All

The Peterborough intermediate O.H.A. team will practice at Brock Street rink to-night at 7 o'clock in preparation for to-morrow night's game with Cobourg. The juniors will practice Wednesday night between 7 and 8 o'clock. The youngsters will keep in shape, as exhibition games with Orillia and other towns will be arranged.

The Y.M.C.A. Junior City League team will practice to-night between 6 and 7 o'clock. The following players are expected out: Darling, Smyth, Cranfield, Jackson, Stevenson, Quinn, Knapman.

Tommy was for the time being lost. For an hour his mother had seen nothing of him—had heard nothing of him; and this was unusual—so unusual that Tommy's mamma became anxious.

She questioned Tommy's sister, Elsie. But Elsie only shook her curls. She knew nothing: she hadn't seen Tommy for an hour. Then Tommy's mamma rang for the cook, and cook came in looking hot and uncomfortable. "Oh, mum—mum!" she began, wildly.

"Gracious, cook! What has happened?" shrieked Tommy's mamma, as she flopped into a chair. "My boy! my sweet cherub! Tell me the worst."

And the cook told her. "Please, mum, Tommy's locked himself in the larder with the mince pies, and—and he says he's going on eating till he's too ill to be whipped."

MATTY A WONDER

Champion Shut-out Pitcher of the National League

Christopher Mathewson is the champion whitewasher of the National League. The one hurler who has blanked more teams than any other twirler in the history of the old league. No pitcher has Six Six approached in this respect in the 37 years the National has existed.

Mathewson leads all or any hurler in the old organization by seventeen games, then along come some real old-timers now almost forgotten—Jeems Galvin and Tim Keefe, these two old heroes of the diamond are tied for second place with 56 shut-out games apiece.

Mordecai Brown of present-day fame is third. John G. Clarkson and Kid Nichols are in the lists and were very handy in applying the brush in their time. But these grand old warriors of bygone days have their records dimmed and shattered by the brilliant performances of the great Mathewson and the three-fingered hurler of the Cincinnati Reds.

Here is the list, giving the shut-out games made by the expert brush wielders in the National League since its organization, all games nine innings or better:—

Mathewson	18	73
Galvin	12	56
Keefe	17	56
Brown	17	51
Clarkson	11	46
Nichols	14	46

If other major leagues are included Mathewson goes down to second place, Cy Young leading him by one game, but Young worked in 200 more games than Matty in his nine years longer of service. Eddie Plank stands third in the list, but Walter Johnson has a better record equal to Mathewson if the figures are based on the number of seasons he has been pitching. In seven years Johnson placed 40 shut-out games to his credit.

Nimrods Displeased

Hunters in the United States complain that the new federal law prohibiting the shooting of migratory fowl during the hours before sunrise and after sunset is hurting the sport. Many protests are being made on the ground that it practically amounts to a closed season all the year for those whose only time for hunting is early in the morning, or in the evening after work is over. The Government officials, however argue that protection of the birds means, in the end, the conserving of the sport for the hunters.

PROMOTER'S TRIALS

McIntosh Tells How Johnson Was Lured to Australia

Hugh D. McIntosh, the Australian, tells some funny stories about his dealings with world-famous colored heavyweights. When McIntosh, who was in London at the time, first conceived the idea of taking Jack Johnson to Australia to box Tommy Burns for the world's championship, it did not take the promoter long to discern that he had a hard task on his hands. Johnson, who was spending his time flitting between London and Paris, was eager enough in a way to have a try at the championship, but he hated to leave the fleshpots of England and the wine cups of gay Paree. He was brought to the point of signing contracts and articles several times but he always contrived to delay matters and finally McIntosh had serious thoughts of abandoning his project.

One particular day matters looked far from favorable. McIntosh had placed things in such a light that Johnson seemed ready to sign up and the pair jumped into a cab and started for the office of McIntosh's lawyer where the papers were waiting and everything was to be settled.

Here is how McIntosh tells the balance of the story:

"Johnson, you know, is very superstitious. On our way to the lawyer's we rode through a back street to make a cut and Jack spied a fortune teller's sign.

"Hold on, Mac," he yelled. "I'm going to have my fortune told."

"I was annoyed because I scented another delay, but I made up my mind quickly that the best thing to do was to humor him and not let him out of my sight. I therefore said that the fortune telling idea was a good one and to show him I believe in such things I insisted on having mine told first.

"I went into the curtained recess with the lady with the red turban, and said quickly to her, 'Here, I don't want you to peer into my future, but there's a colored fellow outside who needs a sea voyage. You understand. Here's five pounds for you. See that he takes the voyage.'

"When Jack came out, I asked him what she told him.

"'Oh,' Jack said, 'a lot of stuff about fame and fortune waiting for me across the sea. I don't suppose it was on the level, but I'm going to take the trip anyhow.'

"He signed articles that afternoon."

McIntosh had one to tell on Sam McVey. The negro fighter went to Australia from France a few years ago and fought Sam Langford so many times that the sporting public lost count of the score. When McVey landed in Australia he had trouble figuring out money values. He had become used to French money and could not learn the pounds, shillings and pence system.

For a fight at the Rushcutter's Bay Stadium, McVey's percentage was 1,500 pounds. When told the amount, he remarked, "Fifteen hundred francs isn't so much. I'd get more for a match in Paris."

When it was explained to him that each English pound was worth over a score of francs, he could not grasp the immensity of the amount. He bubbled over with delight and started out on a high old time. For a full week McVey and his trainers drank nothing but champagne. "They even had it at breakfast," said McIntosh.

Breaking into a Church

At Newport William Gerald Sergant was charged with breaking into Rumney Parish Church and stealing a brass cross, four brass vases, a brass almsdish, an altar curtain, and an altar cloth, of the total value of $25.

Nonagenarian Motorist Fined

At Dunblane Edward Hopkins, a Londoner, was charged with driving a motor car over the Stronslaney road, near Balquhidder, which is one of the roads on which such traffic is prohibited. Mr. Hopkins is about ninety years of age, and was driving himself when the offence was committed. He was fined $2s.

WHIPPET RACING AN ENGLISH SPORT

Speedy Little Animals Very Popular in North—They Get the Very Best of Care

In England, the racing dog, or whippet, might almost be called the poor man's racehorse, for these races are particularly popular amongst the workingmen in the North and Midlands, and also, to a lesser degree, in the South. The whippet resembles a miniature greyhound; he wears a neat cloth coat and a perforated leather muzzle. This prevents him from picking up stray scraps of harmful food, which would not be good for him when training. It also prevents "doping" just before a race.

The different competitors in a race are distinguished from one another by means of different colored collars; and, in order to judge the winner, the judge has a small pit prepared in a line with the winning-post, so that, when he gets into pit he is on a level with the dogs, and can see which first crosses the line without any difficulty.

The length of a whippet race is generally from 100 to 200 yards, and the heavier dogs are handicapped when racing against lighter competitors. Each dog is held by a man who acts as starter, and this starting of the whippets is in itself quite an art. The starter holds his dog by the back of the neck and the base of the tail. At the sound of the starting-pistol the man slightly raises the dog from the ground, and tosses him forward. The idea is to drop the dog so that his hind legs touch the ground first, and he can then take up his stride at once.

A good whippet will complete 200 yards in 12 seconds, or 16 yards 2 feet per second. Whippets are trained to race by means of what is technically known as the "rag," or, in other words, a piece of cloth. The animal is taught to run to the man who waves a "rag" at him, and it is in order to reach the rag-wavers that the whippets run down the racecourse at full speed.

The men with the rags stand on the far side of a line ten yards beyond the winning-post. The rag-wavers are placed thus, instead of standing at the winning-post, because the dogs thus pass the post going at full speed. If the rag-wavers stood at the post, the dogs would naturally slow up before they reached them, and the race would consequently be spoiled.

The little whippet has a very good time in his master's house. He is very carefully looked after, and is often the pet of the whole family. His diet probably consists largely of bread and mutton, and he is taken out for systematic gallops after the rag. He is groomed as carefully as a racehorse by his devoted owner.

RICHARD HALL & SON LIMITED

"MORAL LIFE OF THIS CITY IS ON A LOW LEVEL," SAID THE REV. R. G. PEEVER LAST NIGHT

Pastor of George Street Church Delivers Powerful Address on "How To Improve the Morals of the City"--Advocates More Policemen, Larger Place For Home Life, Morality Inspector and Brightly Lighted Streets.

"If we shirk the situation it may be your child next, or it may be my child next," said the Rev. R. G. Peever, in the course of a powerful sermon in the George Street Church, last night on "How may we improve conditions so as to help the moral life of our City?"

The Church was filled to overflowing, and during the speaker's earnest and eloquent exhortation for a higher moral life in Peterborough he was given a very attentive hearing by the large number present.

In opening his sermon Mr. Peever quoted his text from Amos 5:15—"Hate the evil and have the good, and establish judgment in the gate." That message of Amos' was an arraignment of social, moral and economical conditions of his time. But the Word of God was meant not only for the past, but for the present century—the present hour.

"How can we improve the moral life of our City?" That was a question that should be asked time and time again by every interested citizen. It must never grow old until the Kingdom of God was established on this earth."

"I have been in Peterborough six months," said Mr. Peever, "and I believe the moral life of this City is on a low level. I say that kindly; and that is my judgment after much thought. And I have had indisputable evidence that it is so on my right hand and on my left."

The speaker continued, saying he would give the reasons why the moral standards were so low:

First, this City was a City of gossip and small talk. He said that before God, and kindly of course he didn't know other congregations. The speaker thought that the men of the press of this City must be men of infinite patience. Had those in the congregation seen the numerous unsigned letters written about such petty subjects and grievances?

Secondly, "I don't think I have ever been in a place where lines are drawn so distinctly between the Catholics and Protestants as here in Peterborough." And the speaker had lived in Quebec municipalities. Then, too, the lines of politics were distinct, alienating the men on the opposite sides and causing a distrust and lack of confidence in one another. This too, was because the small things divided the people who were not bound together by any one great issue.

Thirdly, the low moral life was due in a measure to the large place that was given to the public dances in the life of the City. You may tango them, or you may not tango them, public dances belonged to the ideals of fifty years ago. The freight sheds could not be opened without a dance being held, just as fifty years ago a barn dance was held when a barn had been erected.

"I can take you to communities where they have changed ideals," said the speaker; "where the young men hold ploughing matches for trophies, in the summer, and the young people have debates on great issues in the winter." The public dance ought not to have a place in the public thought and life. "You say it is necessary to develop health and carriage. Is there anything wrong with my carriage? I never attended one," and he drew attention to the fact, that the right way to secure health was through proper care of the body and outdoor exercise.

The public dance stood closely identified with the downfall of thousands of girls. We must drop the low ideals of the public and lift our people up to high ideals. Did the congregation know that juvenile crime and desecration of the Sabbath were terribly on the increase? Who were responsible for that—the Christian people in a measure. The Christian people and Christian ministers should stand together to lift up the ideals and help the moral conditions.

The automobile was responsible for much of the desecration of the Sabbath. And the automobile was largely responsible for the ruin of the lives of a large number of girls every year. The charge of robbing girls of their virtue in this manner was preferred against the young men of this City.

Look at the press reports from day to day—what stealing, what scandal, what gross immorality was going on in this City. Then there were the statements of the Women's Council, that young women could not go from the Y.W.C.A. to the Public Library without being interfered with, and even mistreated. We ought to take the matter seriously.

How can we remedy these matters? Certainly not by carping criticism. But if we shirk the situation it may be your child next, or my child next.

There was no cause for frenzy or panic; nor fake modesty in trying to hide the real conditions. They must face it honestly, as a growing community. They must put away the small talk. They must set up the ten commandments before the young people. They must be taught to honour their father and mother as the first step to wrongdoing is often disobedience. They must say to the young men "Thou shalt not commit adultery." We must preach a positive gospel of helpfulness.

"I believe in one standard for both sexes," said the speaker. Why should the poor girl with her innocence destroyed and virtue gone, go down in her shame and the young man go out and be recognized in society. He should be a social leper.

Then a larger place should be given to home life. Children could not be kept in the home all the time. They must go out for exercise and the streets should be made safe for them. It was a pity that a place the size of Peterborough had only one good-sized rink. Then the streets should be brightly lighted; they were a great help to the policemen. We should have a morality inspector, more policemen and a woman police officer, too, if she was needed. There should be enough policemen to give them all one day a week holiday, then they would be awake the other six.

The objection was "taxes." But if he is going to live in a City he must pay the price. Peterborough, he believed, was destined to become a great City; but those who want to live here will have to pay the price.

Mr. Peever also advocated the throwing open of the central church-es during week nights for the friendless. He said, too, that the City Council were just as responsible for the morality of the City as for its sanitation.

In conclusion, he paid a glowing tribute to the Women's Council for their efforts to have conditions bettered.

RE TRESPASSING ON THE RAILWAYS

Editor of the Examiner:

Sir,—I see by your paper that the County Attorney is sending out notices to magistrates to enforce the law against trespassers on railway property. Does this mean that they need not enforce the law in other matters? Why favour railway companies? I thought that all laws were to be respected alike and certainly to be enforced with the same uniformity by magistrates.—Yours, etc.,

PETERBOROUGH'S MANUFACTURING POSSIBILITIES

Were Not Materially Effected by the Condition of the Money Market—The Outlook for 1914 is Bright—Land Values Have Not Receded

INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT

The manufacturing outlook in Peterborough, forms the subject of an interesting article that appears in last week's issue of The Financial Post. Reference is made to the new industries that have been acquired by Peterborough during the past year, and comprising the De Laval Dairy Supply Co., the Vermont Marble Company and the Henry Hope & Sons, of Birmingham, Eng.

The article in part states that there was considerable movement in real estate in the City last year, and for several years past. The City has been growing at a good and steady rate, having increased in population over 75 per cent. in the past ten years. This has resulted in a considerable increase in land values and a consequent activity in real estate. In the earlier months of 1913 this movement was marked, both in the increase of value and in the sales of property. A large number of sub-divisions outside the City limits, as well as those within, shared in the movement, and the population just across the civic boundaries to the south-west, now numbers two or three thousand. The activity was most noticeable in the south and west, but was not confined to any section of the City.

Towards the end of the year the condition of the money market, which affected the whole country, had the effect of quieting the dealing in land here, and there was not as much movement, but the values did not recede. The values were kept up by the industrial development that has taken place and which is still going on.

OBJECTS TO OVER HEAD BRIDGE PLAN

Editor, Examiner:

Sir,—I see by your paper of Saturday that an effort is being made in certain quarters to resuscitate the scheme for the City to construct an overhead bridge across the river at Hunter Street for the benefit of the Street Railway Company, the Quaker Oats Company and the C.P.R. To say nothing of the unsightly appearance of the stilted structure, its cost and maintenance, it would be a tremendous burden upon our already heavily taxed ratepayers. One would suppose that the council had already given away enough of our moneys, streets and lands to these gigantic corporations without making further sacrifices. The promoters of the scheme admit that it was shelved before, but give for one excuse the many difficulties that confronted the council, not the least of which was the cost. I would ask if the same difficulties do not still confront the council when the much-needed bridge at Sherbrooke Street, at a fraction of the expense, was agitated by citizens outside of the council. We find that body getting rid of their responsibility by submitting it to a vote of the people. Are they prepared to take the same course in this case, or to take the people into their confidence? Another excuse is given that the Street Railway Company would be induced to share part of the cost in order to extend their railway into Ashburnham, but, again, I would ask —Was it not part of that company's agreement, upon which their written contract was founded, to make that extension at that time, but which they have been evading all these years because of an alleged "joker" inserted in the contract? Why is not the responsibility for that "joker" disclosed? And now the railway company wants to hold the citizens up for more concessions. Will they stand for it, or will the council respect the wishes of the people? —Yours, etc.,

CITIZEN.

Will Wait Upon The King

Special Wire to The Examiner:

LONDON, Eng., Jan. 26.—On February 10th, shortly before the opening of Commons, five thousand women of England will march to Buckingham Palace to demand from King George their right to vote. This was the arrangement made at a stormy meeting of the Women's Social and Political Union this morning. Volunteers were adopting the systematic campaign to creat disturbances in theatres, restaurants and other public places during the Commons' session. Scotland Yard detectives, at the end of the meeting, said the suffragettes wouldn't be permitted to approach within a mile of King George with their petition.

McClay Trial In Progress

Local Man Before Judge Huycke Accused of Supplying Drugs to Girl for Illegal Purposes

PLEADED "NOT GUILTY"

John McClay, committed for trial by Magistrate Dumble on a charge of supplying drugs to a local girl for illegal purpose, came before His Honour Judge Huycke in the County Court this morning. At a previous sitting of the Court he had pleaded "not guilty" to the charge, and the trial was proceeded with this morning.

Mr. Joseph Wearing conducted the prosecution and Messrs. D. O'Connell and V. J. McElderry, the defence.

The first witness was the girl to whom McClay is alleged to have supplied the drugs. Examined by Mr. Wearing she said that she came from Cardiff, Wales, about two years ago. She had no relatives living nor any friends in this country. In June last the prisoner accosted her and asked her to go to the circus. She went, and that night he treated her with all consideration. But a few nights later they went walking to the lift lock and he, in spite of her resistance, took undue liberties with her. Then for some weeks after that their relations with each other were very intimate.

Shortly after she became sick, and McClay insisted that she was in serious trouble. He gave her the box of pills produced in court, and said, "If you take these, things will come out all right." At the time he promised that "if the worst came to the worst" he would marry her. Later, however, when the worst had come to the worst he refused to do anything for her. She did not think she was in a serious condition but took the pills in the hope of curing the trivial illness which she felt she was the victim of. When he gave her the pills he asked her not to tell anyone.

To Mr. O'Connell witness said that prisoner did not have improper relations with her the night they went to the circus. It was only a few days after she told him her condition that McClay brought the pills, saying, "These will fix you all right."

Adjutant McElhinney was the next witness. The girl was now staying at his house. On the 15th of December, McClay, in his house, absolutely refused to help the girl. He accused her too of having been just as intimate with other men, and said he was not responsible for her condition. The girl then said, "Why did you offer Dr. —— $50, and why did you give me the box of pills?" Prisoner had replied, "To get you out of your trouble."

Mrs. McElhenney corroborated her husband's evidence. She had appealed to the man to help the girl, who had no friends or relatives. He absolutely refused.

The case was adjourned until 2.30 o'clock this afternoon.

STEEL PLANT IS OPEN AGAIN

Special Wire to The Examiner:

SYDNEY, N.S., Jan. 26.—The Dominion Steel Plant, which had been shut down two weeks for repairs, re-opened this morning. All hands are working and the general manager said that sufficient orders had been received to keep the works going at full blast until well on in the summer. The orders include a big one from the Australian Government.

Failed

"Considering how long I have been away, you might have made some preparations to receive me." Husband—"You do me injustice, my dear. I have had the library and parlour aired and cleaned." Servant (interrupting)—"Please, sir, the man has come with a waggon for them empty bottles."

Stock Markets

A. H. Stratton & Co., Brokers, report the following:

Greater firmness was shown by the market at opening to-day than the American department in London. There was a considerable volume of activity and price changes were small, the majority, however, being on the down side.

Developments of the past week demonstrate that the securities market have under them a foundation stronger than in many years. Looking ahead we are impressed with the tendency towards lower money rates. This is certain to increase investment and speculation activities. The trade reaction is doing much the world over to break money rates. Practically the only disturbing feature ahead is the Mexican situation, which is, however, apparently failing owing to lack of money ammunition. The tariff, the currency, the trust and other big problems are solved to a great extent, and we believe the stock market will give them very little consideration. The market cannot go on up for ever without reactions, which will occur in their usual times. They will be governed broadly by the law of action and reaction. Purchases on all reactions are advisable. U.P., G.O., N.P., S.P. and L. & N. are the best stocks to buy on reactions. Speculative activity will ran Rdg., St. Paul, U.S., A.C.P., and A.R. C.P.R. holds strong at present level and should be a purchase especially on any recession.

A woman says that a middle-aged man in a bathing suit is not a thing of beauty. Of course not—he doesn't pretend to be. He wouldn't wear a suit if it wasn't because he has to in order to get his skin wet. He prefers the old swimmin' hole and nature's garb but the fashionable women would all follow him there, and in sheer self-defence he has to don the hideous bathing suit. By the way, is a middle-aged woman in a bathing suit a thing of beauty?

TRADES AND LABOUR NOTES

Notes by the Official Scribe

This week's meeting was called to order promptly at the appointed time by J. J. Hartley, president. The new head officer remarking that he wished punctuality to be one of the characteristics of the year's meetings.

The attendance of delegates was not numerous, considering the possibility of the appearance of delegates around the seventy mark, chosen by the various locals of the city to represent them on Peterborough's Trades and Labour Council. The sinking mercury, the social season and the all-too-prevalent feeling of "my absence will not be noticed" are the main factors at present in reducing interest in the labour movement. Several committees to be appointed were left over till next meeting by the President, who wished for a more representative gathering before he chose his men. The scribe hereby takes advantage of the space kindly given by the local press for these notes, to notify the wayward delegates to be on hand next meeting night, February 4.

Labour Minister Scored.

The outline of the Minister of Labour's proposed amendments to the Lemieux Act, as published in a Toronto paper recently, was vigorously attacked. It means nothing less than an attempt to break up the labour unions of Canada. If published as a "feeler," then a strong resentment was a sure result, and as for the proposed arbitration boards, they were about as fast as Royal Commissioners, delegates remarking that jobs over which there was a dispute, could be finished long before the Board of Arbitration had partaken of its first supper prior to deliberation on the case. Confidence in the Trades and Labour Congress was also expressed; the ever watchful officials would be sure to spread the alarm when this new attempt against trades unionism was really started.

A Pulmotor For the City.

Representative Lyburn asked the President whether the Council would endorse the request made to the City Council by a local medico that a pulmotor be secured for the City. Artificial respiration administered by the average man was, as a rule, unskilful, though kindly meant. The pulmotor, which was the scientific instrument for restoring to life asphyxiated persons, could be kept at the Fire Hall, and rushed wherever it was needed, as in the case of a drowning accident, fire, coal gas, etc. The firemen, constables, first aid students, etc., could be instructed regarding its use, which was not by any means complicated teaching, and humanity at large would be the safer. Action was deferred to next meeting for reasons aforementioned.

Next meeting, February 4th.

ROUND DOZEN OF REASONS OF "JUST AN ORDINARY MAN"

To the Editor, The Examiner.

As there is widespread interest in the question of police protection, and as the Commissioners will no doubt be glad to know what the people are thinking, I crave space for a few remarks:

1. If I were a Police Commissioner I should feel humiliated if the street life of my city were such as to call for general complaint and alarm?

2. If I were a Police Commissioner, I should endeavour to leave no doubt in the minds of man or woman as to my gratitude to all and sundry, who are sufficiently interested to come to me with suggestions.

3. If I were a Police Commissioner, I should not tell people to build rescue homes to take care of the by-products of a weak administration of my department.

4. If I were a Police Commissioner, and so deaf to the call of duty, that I could not or would not hear the advice of those interested in my work, I should feel the necessity of so re-arranging my attitude, that I would listen to things that really concern the proper discharge of my duty.

5. If I were a Police Commissioner, I would not talk about the necessity of using the few police men we have to guard the banks and stores — I would guard the boys and girls, and if necessary let the banks and stores be robbed.

6. If I were a Police Commissioner I would not do the kicking about high taxation and take kicking from the taxpayer because I fail to preserve decency on the streets of my city through an insufficient police force.

7. If I were a Police Commissioner I would leave the taxpayer to do salary by keeping the street life of the city strictly within the requirements of Canadian law and Canadian decency. I would ask the chief how many men and women he needed to do this and I would ask the City Council to pass the necessary appropriations. If I got the appropriation I would give the chief the necessary men and women, and if he did not make good I would dismiss him. If I could not get the appropriation I would resign and let the powers that be appoint some one else to make bricks without straw.

8. If I were a Police Commissioner, I would see to it that neither the Women's Council nor Salvation Army, nor any other organization were more in earnest about my work than I would be myself.

9. If I were a Police Commissioner I would appoint a morality officer as requested by Adjutant McIlhinney, and a woman police as requested by Mrs. McIlhinney, and the Woman's Council. I would keep them both on the task until the people for whom I work were convinced that both were not needed and then I would dismiss the one who was least valuable.

10. If I were a Police Commissioner I would consider the sympathetic co-operation with my department of a large body of women like the Women's Council cheap at the wages of a police woman even if she were not more efficient than a police man.

11. If I were a Police Commissioner I would enter into a covenant with the Ministerial Association and the Salvation Army and Bishop O'Brien, that while they went after the depraved with the Gospel I would "sock it to them" with the law and the honours would go to him who landed the largest number.

12. If I were a Police Commissioner I would take care that there should be no grounds for the suspicion that the Police Commission would have to be cleaned out as the first step in cleaning up the city.

Yours truly,
Just An Ordinary Man.

QUEBEC IN GALA ARRAY

Special Wire to The Examiner:

QUEBEC, Jan 26—With His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught as the guest of honour Quebec's annual winter carnival was inaugurated today. The City is gaily decorated and thousands of visitors throng the streets. An entire week will be given up to winter sports, including skating, tobogganing, curling, hockey, and snowshoeing. Brilliantly illuminated carnivals will be nightly features on the ice. Leading in the programme of social festivities will be the vice regal ball in Parliament House, which promises to surpass in brilliancy any festivity of its kind that Quebec has seen since the great tercentenary celebration.

SPECIAL RETURN ENGAGEMENT

Of the Eminent English Actor, Mr. Tom Terriss, at the Grand Opera House Jan. 31st

Mr. Tom Terriss, who has made for himself a world-renowned name for his masterly adaptations of Dickens, is of course the son of the late Mr. Wm. Terriss, one of the best-loved actors that England ever possessed. The dastardly murder of Mr. William Terriss at the hands of an insane stage hand paralized the theatrical world, but the genius of the father has descended to the son, and Mr. Tom Terriss is carrying on all the traditions of his lamented Father.

Mr. Tom Terriss presented "A Christmas Carol" to an admiring public some five years ago—a sketch of such sterling merit that it has achieved success the world over. It is the only sketch that had the honour of being played at a special command performance before the late King Edward at Windsor Castle, where it was enthusiastically acclaimed a masterpiece. The instantaneous success achieved by this gem from the library of Dickens proves the masterly manner in which Mr. Tom Terriss has accomplished his work. All the well-known and popular types in this wonderful story are depicted in the sketch: Old Scrooge, the Ghost of Jacob Marley, Bob Crachit, and of course the pathetic figure of Tiny Tim.

This wonderful emotional story, combining as it does tears and laughter, humour and pathos, appeals to the hearts of all the playgoing public and makes a surprisingly rich and wholesome Christmas pudding—with a plum in every line. "The New York World" of Sepetember 27th truly remarked that "it is a veritable masterpiece"; and Mr. Acton Davies of the "New York Sun" prophesied that it would hold the boards for years to come.

The whole production has been brought in its entirety (scenery, costumes and all accessories) from London. It has been staged under the personal supervision of Mr. Terriss, a past master in the art of producing, and this ensures its excellence in every line.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS

During this month Geo. Kingsbury, of Eyemore, Alberta, district seeded sixteen acres of wheat on his farm.

Vallentti Guirdotti, a young Italian boy living in Port Arthur, was strangled to death Saturday by a short screwnail lodging in his throat.

Andrew McLean, one of Walkerton's oldest residents, is dead, at the age of 89. He was born in Argyleshire, and came to Canada about 60 years ago.

The Allan liner Alsatian, on her maiden voyage from Liverpool, docked at Halifax Saturday. Hon. George E. Foster was among the cabin passengers.

Miss Eliza French, a member of one of the oldest and most highly respected families in Cornwall district, died Saturday in the hospital. She was 69 years old.

William Campbell, colored, was hanged Saturday morning in Bordeaux jail, Montreal, for the murder of George Muir on Aug. 14. He maintained his innocence to the last.

Sir David Gill, the Scottish astronomer, died in London in his 71st year. He was on one occasion president of the British Association and held scientific degrees from many universities.

The abolition of international wars by means of a general strike was proposed in a resolution passed by the United Mine Workers of America at their convention in Indianapolis Saturday.

The civic investigation into the waterworks conditions which resulted in the break in the conduit on Christmas Day may be delayed indefinitely. Mr. George Jauin, the city engineer, is very ill.

Woman suffragists met another defeat Saturday in Washington when the House rules committee by a tie vote, four to four, failed to report a resolution for the appointment of a standing suffrage committee.

Dairy Industry Fails To Supply The Dominion

OTTAWA, Jan. 25.—The annual report of the Department of Agriculture, laid on the table of the House yesterday, shows that the past year for the first time in sixty years, Canada shipped no butter to England. On the contrary there was imported no less than 6,694,722 pounds, mostly from New Zealand.

Industry is Growing.

The report adds: "The decline in our export trade and the increase in the butter imports does not indicate any decline in the dairying industry. The fact is evident when the various sources of information are considered, that the production of milk in Canada is larger at the present time than it ever was in the history of the country; and that there has been a constant increase in production since the exports began to decline, the difference being accounted for by the increased home consumption.

People Take More Milk.

"There is a large per capita increase in the consumption of milk, cream and ice cream, in addition to the increase due to greater population."

The report reviews the work done for the year to encourage the sheep and live stock industry. The steady decline of these industries in recent years is attributed to the lack of practical knowledge on the part of farmers and breeders, and the Department of Agriculture has been carrying on a vigourous educational campaign.

GEORGE STREET EPWORTH LEAGUE

The regular weekly meeting of the George street Epworth League that was to have been held this evening, has been cancelled. A mass meeting of temperance workers will be held instead.

A SKATING PARTY

On Friday evening next a skating party will be held at Jackson Park. All those who propose to attend are requested to meet at the church at 7 p.m. Other amusements will be provided for non-skaters.

BACK BROKEN LIVED A YEAR

TORONTO, Jan. 26.—After having lived for a year and five months with a broken back, Louis T. Tezzalato, of North Bay, died at St. Michael's Hospital Saturday evening. Tezzalato was a miner in the employ of the Victoria Mines, and on Sept. 19, 1912, while working near a huge derrick, was struck down by a falling beam, which broke his back midway between the waist and shoulders. He was rushed to Toronto and taken to St. Michael's, where he has lain at the expense of his employers ever since.

The body was removed to the morgue, but the matter of an inquest has not yet been decided.

A Rara Avis, An English Tax-Lover

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—My attention has been called to Friday's issue, (Jan. 23). My worthy friend calls us tariff reformers, or protectionists. Thank you. Will any man give me anything for nothing in return? No, sir. Has any country a right to give its trade away and get nothing in return? Only it fits one side of the classes that benefit by it. Everything in the world can be dumped in England free of tax and you take your merchandize into Germany, Russia, France, Italy, Sweden, the United States, or in this country you are taxed. Well, I say, tax them in return and let's get a living at home, where we have a right to be. Free trade is a thing of the past with us English. No one can blame any country for taking advantage of a good thing for the outsider. But, oh my! where do our own little Islanders come in. Here are a few things made outside the island: Electric cars, bridges, boilers, rails, coffins, matches, toys, pianos, gloves, boots, doors, sashes, glass, tin, copper, lead etc. They want no home industry at that rate. When outsiders get our good trade then they wonder what fetches a lot of us fellows out. Why free trade drove the whole lot out. You free traders are very nice fellows, give away a fair deal and let your brother starve at home. I have no fault to find with Lloyd George. He does the best for the poor man. But give us a fair deal. Tax those that tax us and if they let us in free, let them in free. If you don't do them, well, they will do you I remain

Yours truly,
Edward Kelso,
250 Charlotte Street, Peterborough.

TRIAL OF LABOUR LEADERS IS NEAR

Special Wire to The Examiner:

HOUGHTON, Mich., Jan. 26.—The term of the Houghton County circuit court, which began to-day, promises to be made notable by the trials of the thirty-eight labour union leaders, who were recently indicted on charges of conspiracy to interfere with non-union mine employees. The charges grow out of the great strike in the Calumet copper mine region. Prominent among those under indictment are Charles H. Moyer and C. E. Mahoney, President and Vice President, respectively, of the Western Federation of Miners. The maximium sentence for the offence charged in the indictments is two years in prison and a maximum fine of $3,000.

ENTERTAINED YOUNG FRIENDS

Miss Jean Kidd entertained twenty of her little friends at her home, 33 Benson Avenue, on Saturday evening, the occasion being her ninth birthday. Dainty refreshments were served. The table decorations were specially pretty, the colour scheme being in pink and white. After an hour or two spent in merry games, the little guests departed, each bearing a favour and wishing their wee hostess very many happy returns of the day.

Giving her Away

"Uncle, we want you to give the bride away."

"Very well. I'll announce to the gathered assembly that she is thirty-two!"

WILL EVICT ESSAD PASHA

Powers Plan to Drive Out Usurper of Albania Throne

SHIPS TO GO TO DURAZZ

LONDON, Jan. 26.—(C. A. P. Cable.) — The powers of Europe have decided upon an international demonstration in Albanian waters to enforce their demands that Essad Pasha give up his claim to the throne of Albania. Each nation will send one ship to Durazzo.

This action of the powers also is taken as an intimation to Turkey that the future of Albania is now a European question.

In the event of Essad Pasha yielding before the arrival at Durazzo of the international fleet, as is possible, the ships will be utilized to welcome Prince William of Wied, who has been selected by the European nations to occupy the Albanian throne.

The demand of the prince for a loan of $15,000,000 with which to finance his administration of the new state has now been agreed to by the powers, so that the reason for delaying his assumption of sovereignty has been removed.

Prince William of Wied has now completed arrangements to leave Berlin for his new Kingdom of Albania, and in the course of the next month will go to Trieste, there to board the yacht Mohican and make an impressive entry into his dominions.

Essad Pasha, who at one time was regarded as a serious candidate for the throne of the new Albanain Kingdom, and who, according to most reliable reports, has a strong local backing, professes allegiance to William Wied, but some doubts are expressed of his sincerity and are unlikely to be dispelled until Wied's arrival at Durazzo. Essad is in virtual command of the country with a force estimated at 15,000 men under his orders.

WOLVES ATE CHILD

Terrible Story of Famished Animals Reported From France.

PARIS, Jan. 26.—The long-continued cold, especially in the central districts of France, is bringing numbers of wolves frantic with hunger out of the woods. A little girl returning from school at Lacoquille, near Perigueux, was devoured by wild animals, the searching party finding only a torn pinafore and a few bones. Hunting parties are being organized everywhere.

The temperature in Paris has shown a slight improvement in the last day or two, owing to the brilliant sunshine, the mercury on Saturday standing above the freezing point for the first time in many days. In the country districts the cold is growing more intense, and the weather bureau sees no immediate probability of higher temperatures.

The thermometer registered six below zero yesterday at Puy de Dome. The cold is likely to prove disastrous as many farmers have sown late wheat, trusting to a repetition of the mild autumn and winter of the past few years, and it is feared that crops in many places will be destroyed.

People of Turin Shiver.

TURIN, Jan. 26.—This district is still experiencing intense cold, 20 degrees of frost having been recorded for the past few days. Despatches from Acqui, in the Province of Alessandria, reported 27 degrees of frost.

$50,000 BREACH OF PROMISE SUIT

Special Wire to The Examiner:

BOSTON, Mass, Jan 26—What promises to be one of the most notable breach of promise suits on record in this State was called for trial to-day in the Superior Court of Massachusetts. The suit was brought by Miss Elizabeth M. Ryan, of New Haven, against Henry K. Mansfield, the wealthy proprietor of Ferncroft Inn, at Middleton. Miss Ryan seeks to recover $50,000 in damages because of the failure of Mr Mansfield to fulfill an alleged promise to marry her.

BUSINESS NOTES

More evidence is at hand of the reliable service given by the Peterborough Pure Milk Co., as well as the sanitary manner in which it is handled. The steady growth of milk routes and the increasing number of pleased customers, all attest this fact. That the business is a growing success is also proved by the increasing number of gallons of milk received at the Peterborough Creamery, direct from the farmers. Here the milk is received, pasteurized, clarified and bottled, in addition to the other dairy products produced there.

Mr. T. L. Anderson, who established his tailoring business a year or two ago, in the Taylor Block, 313 George Street, south of Charlotte Street, has made his trade grow steadily from a modest beginning. Anderson-built clothes bear the distinctive marks of tailor-made clothes that fit. Mr. Anderson is a graduate of one of the best garment-cutting schools in the United States and follows the standard methods so popular with men. He uses select patterns of imported materials, and employs skilled work people.

The announcement is inside by the Reid Co, exclusive dealers in ladies' and children apparel that they have inaugurated an "Inventory Clean-up Sale" of all goods left from 1913. Added to the unusual marked-down prices is the exceptional high-class character of the goods, and the excellent and agreeable service given by the firm. Only seven days have been allotted for these reductions to hold good, so that the ladies will need to think quickly and shop early. Special attention is directed to their window tickets, as the price reductions on coats, skirts, waists, etc., are worth knowing. Children's wear hosiery, corsets and underwear are also priced for quick sale.

LIVED IN PORT HOPE.

Death of Mrs. Elizabeth Stevenson in Toronto.

The death occurred in Toronto on Friday of Mrs. Elizabeth Stevenson, at the residence of her son-in-law, Mr. W. T. Martin, 1490 King Street west, after an illness that had confined her to her bed for thirteen months. Mrs. Stevenson was the widow of the late John W. Stevenson, a well known resident of Port Hope, who died a score of years ago. She was born in the county of Cornwall, England, over 75 years ago, coming to this country when quite a young girl. For many years she had lived in Port Hope, but for the past three years had been living with her son-in-law. Deceased, who was a Methodist, is survived by five daughters, one of whom lives in Toronto, and three brothers and two sisters.

FIVE ARE KILLED IN BIG FIRE

Special Wire to The Examiner:

QUEBEC, P.Q., Jan. 26.—Madame Joseph Robin, her two sons and two sons of Edmond Labrecque, were burned to death in a fire which destroyed their house at Notre Dame Rosaire, some miles from here, early this morning. The fire was caused by an explosion which followed when Joseph Robin attempted to stir up his kitchen fire with coal oil. He is so badly burned himself that he may not recover, although he made gallant efforts to save the woman and children.

OBITUARY

MRS. P. D. LEAHY

Mrs. P. D. Leahy of Douro, passed away at St. Joseph's Hospital yesterday, after an illness of considerable duration. The late Mrs. Leahy has resided in Douro for years, and she has a large number of friends who will regret her demise.

She is survived by seven sons, Frank, John, William, Vincent, Albert, Leo, Martin, and three daughters Elizabeth Adeline and Genevieve.

The funeral will be held on Tuesday morning at 9.30 o'clock.

MRS. ALICE HEENAN.

The death occurred in Toronto yesterday of Mrs. Alice Heenan who, with her son, Bernard, used to reside in this City, at th corner of Lake and Crescent Streets.

The funeral will be held to-morrow morning at 9 o'clock, from Lane and Eano's undertaking parlours to St Peter's Church and Cemetery.

OLIVE MAY ROBB.

Olive May Elizabeth, infant daughter of Mrs. George Robb, passed away at 12.30 this morning, aged one year. Circumstances surrounding this death are the sadder, in view of the fact that the child's father died only a little over a year ago, also Mrs. Robb's mother, the late Mrs. Daniel Hatherly, East City.

The funeral will be held to-morrow afternoon at 2.30 from the residence of Mr. Daniel Hatherly, 136 James street, to the Little Lake Cemetery. The service will be held at 2 o'clock.

JOHN MIDDLETON.

The death occurred very early yesterday morning of Mr. John Middleton of this City, after an illness of two months. The deceased was taken to Nicholls Hospital about two weeks ago, but the attention he received there could not ward off death, and he passed away Sunday morning.

The late John Middleton was born in Dummer, and in his native township he was held in high respect by all who knew him. He came to this City about six months ago, where he resided with his daughter at 202 Dublin Street. He was 63 years of age and a Methodist in religion.

Deceased is survived by two brothers, William of Warsaw, and Robert of Syracuse. One son, James of this City, and five daughters, Mrs. Douglas of Peterborough, Mrs. Legault of Toronto, Mrs. Castle of Peterborough, Mrs. Newell of this City, and Mrs. Brown of Buffalo, also survive him.

The funeral will be held Tuesday morning at ten oclock to Warsaw, the Rev. J. N. Clarry officiating. Service at the house at 9.30 o'clock.

SCIENCE SIFTINGS.

A mixture of slaked lime, linseed oil, and cotton fibre is used in some portions of Turkey as a substitute for cement.

All field guns hereafter built for the United States Army will be so mounted that they can be used against aeroplanes.

A material resembling celluloid but clearer, tougher, and more durable, has been invented in England for automobile wind shields.

Mirrors can be backed with almost any metal in 30 seconds by a new process of electro deposition in the presence of hydrogen gas.

In Japan recently there was completed a railroad bridge nearly seven miles long, built of native materials, at a cost of $375,000.

The French Army has adopted a bicycle with a removable front wheel and a folding frame that enables it to be carried on a man's back.

A mirror supported by a bracket to be held in the mouth has been invented by a Parisian to leave a woman's hands free to arrange her hair.

So that a barber's breath will not strike the faces of his patrons there has been invented a branching tube, to be fastened to his nostrils.

To aid in finding an electric light switch in a dark room, a Philadelphia inventer has patented one containing a luminous composition to shine in the dark.

A French motorboat with an engine of only 40 horse-power is making a voyage round the world to make meteorological and astronomical observations.

An underground garage, 13 blocks long, is proposed for Chicago to relieve business streets of the congestion caused by parking automobiles in them.

The erection of an extensive aerial station midway between Berlin and Vienna is expected to lead to regular aeroplane service between the two cities.

A Massachusetts inventor's automatic fire alarm system may be attached to the electric lighting circuit in a building to allow the latter to ring a bell.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

MOTHER'S CLUB OPEN MEETING

The Mother's Club of the Y.M.C.A. is holding an open meeting Tuesday evening, January 27th, at 8 o'clock, in the parolurs of the Y.M.C.A.

We need the fathers, the childless man and woman; also teachers and ministers, in this work, as well as the mothers.

All who are interested in the welfare of the child are cordially invited to attend, and all who are willing to work in an organised effort for the welfare of the child and for a higher, nobler, national life, which we believe can only be attained through the influence of the individual home, are cordially invited to become members.

The following programme will be given, with Mr. J. Connal in the chair:

Devotional exercises— Rev. R. G. Peever.

Greeting.

Report of work in Boys' Department—Boy's secretary, Mr. Galley.

INTERNATIONAL WATERWAY TO THE ATLANTIC

Special Wire to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 26.—That the proposal for an international waterway from Duluth to the Atlantic originated primarily with a number of influential western Ontarionans, who called themselves the great waterways union, is the opinion of C. A. Magrath, chairman of the Canadian section of the joint international commission. "The question has been under consideration for some time," said Magrath this morning. "The fact that W. J. Bryan is behind the move would indicate that it may take a very definite shape. Of course the question is one over which the international commission has no control. It will have to be submitted to the Government of Canada."

OYSTER SUPPER TO HARWOOD PATRONS.

Mr. J. J. Gillman of Harwood was in the City on Saturday purchasing supplies for an oyster supper in connection with the annual meeting of the Harwood Cheese factory on Thursday, Jan. 29th. The catering has been placed in Mr. Gillman's hands and a big attendance is expected. Jack states that spending a winter in a hamlet is a tame existence, but it provides splendid physical preparation for the work of the summer. The annual dance at the Lakeview House was the best ever, in spite of the fact that it fell on the coldest night in twenty-five years.

Doubly Sold

The newly-appointed master at a school had learnt all about "cribbing" and such little dodges as schoolboys practice, and had not forgotten them.

One day, during a lesson in history, he observed one of his pupils take out his watch every minute or two.

He grew suspicious.

Finally he strode between the desks and stopped in front of the boy.

"Let me see your watch," he command ed.

"Yes, sir," was the meek reply.

The master opened the front of the case. He looked somewhat sheepish when he read the single word, "Fooled!"

But he was a shrewd man. He was not to be thrown off the scent so easily.

He opened the back of the case. Then he was satisfied, for he read, "Fooled again!"

TONE OF PETERBOROUGH COUNTY HAS SHOWN IMPROVEMENT

Less Children Coming as Wards to Children's Aid Society—City Now Leads the Country—Mr. E. L. Goodwill's Report an Annual Meeting.

R. W. TRAVERS IS PRESIDENT

The annual meeting of the Children's Aid Society was held in the Bank of Montreal Chambers on Monday afternoon. The president, Mr. R. W. Travers, was in the chair, and a comparatively large number of members were in attendance.

The reports of the various officers testified to the increased workings of the society, and in a general way indicated the good that it is accomplishing.

Mr. E. L. Goodwill's secretarial report gives an idea of what is being done. It does not, however, delve into the acutal nature of conditions which produce what are termed the cases that come before the attention of the secretary and the other officers. The report does not contain these facts, for the simple reason that in many cases they would be unfit for publication, and their true nature would be an extremely delicate matter to present in cold words. Even the reference to the conditions is merely adding fuel to fire that has been fairly well fanned of late. They are situations which Mr. Goodwill has to deal with to the best of his ability and sympathy, and with the present inadequate equipment. Possibly this is exceeding the demands of a report of the meetings, but it seems that certain conditions which were not emphasized might be at any rate thinly underlined, conditions which the general public possibly knows in a vague manner, but the real circumstances of which are known only to those who officially deal with them.

Mr. Goodwill's Report.

I have the honour to present the annual report of the executive of your society for the year 1913.

The year just closed has been one of progress in every department of the society's sphere of usefulness.

At the close of the year 1912, we had three children in the Shelter, and during the year our books show that in addition to these, thirty-eight children were registered in the Shelter, making a total of forty-one. Of this number, twenty-three came from the city, thirteen from the county, and two from outside places. It is of interest to note that of the total forty-one children in the Shelter during the year, twenty-one were girls and twenty boys.

In addition to the children registered in the Shelter, thirty-two were dealt with direct in the secretary's office without being placed in the Shelter.

The Shelter has as usual been kept up to a high standard of efficiency, under the care of Mr. and Mrs. Henry, to whom too much praise cannot be given for their careful attention and care given to the children.

To the ladies' auxiliary of the society is also due much praise for their active work in preparing clothing for the children.

Work Increases in Volume.

The work of the society continues to increase in volume. We found this especially so during the latter part of the year, when we were called upon to assist a number of families deserted by the husbands. In this class of cases, deserted mothers are usually obliged to go out working, leaving a family of small children in the house to do as they please all day. These deserted mothers earn barely enough to supply food and pay for the rent, and when they become ill or incapable of working, situations occur which call for the immediate attention of your society's officers.

The increased cost of living and the present industrial situation necessarily mean the production of a large number of cases for the attention of your society this winter. Reports are made to us of a number of cases which will probably need early assistance on account of the wage earners of the families being out of employment, and these wage earners have failed during years of prosperity to provide for the period of depression.

Medical Aid Provided.

Your society during the year has provided medical and hospital attention for a number of deserving cases, and have been the means of having a number of crippled children receive proper attention, and we are glad to report that in two of the cases the children are now free from physical deformation. In connection with this branch of the work, I may say that upon investigation we found that it was beyond the means of the parents of these children to provide the necessary medical and hospital attention.

The Feeble Minded.

We regret to find in the prosecution of our work the number of defective and feeble-minded children passing under our observation; also to learn from time to time of marriages of this class of people. A prominent writer, speaking on this subject, says: "It makes one ask, will the time ever come when this danger of the future wellbeing of society can be better safeguarded than at present? A long line of weakness, incapacity, drunkenness, immorality, and crime follows in the train of these marriages." It is impossible to place these defective children in foster homes when they are far below the moral standard, mentally, morally, and physically. These children, if placed in foster homes, are soon returned because of various faults and defects, many disgusting beyond description. It is a matter well worthy of being seriously pressed upon the attention of the Legislature of this province, and that some provision and some means be provided to meet this unfortunate social condition.

Make Curfew Practical.

A sad feature of our work is the frequent interviews with broken-hearted parents, who, perhaps while often in fault themselves for neglect and lack of parental control, are prostrated with grief because of the ruin of their children. In most cases the errors and faults complained of are the evils usually resulting from allowing their girls and boys the freedom of the streets after dark. It is well said, "Small children neglected grow into legal and moral lawbreakers by the simplest rule of evolution." While the remedy for this position of affairs seems difficult, yet it would appear to your executive that if the present curfew law was amended, and made of more practical value so that its provisions could be adequately enforced by constables and police officers, and if our outlying streets and parks in the summer, at least, had adequate police supervision it would to a large extent prevent the accomplishment of the ruin of the girls and boys of the community.

Attend Juvenile Courts.

Your officers are in constant attendance at the Juvenile Courts, and I am pleased to say that the provisions of the law governing the trial of juvenile offenders are strictly observed. In this department of our work we have the sympathetic cooperation of the police magistrates of the city and county, and I also wish to acknowledge the valuable assistance furnished us by Chief Thompson and his staff.

The work of the society has been similar to that of former years, and has as its object to extend protection to every neglected child in the city and county, irrespective of nationality or creed. Every complaint made to us of cruelty and neglect of children has been investigated and action promptly taken if your officers found the complaint well founded. We have served a large number of warnings upon the parents and others having children in charge, and where these warnings have not been followed by immediate improvement in the homes then informations have been laid and the parties brought before the Court.

All our wards placed in foster homes have been carefully visited and reported upon by agents of the Provincial Department of Neglected Children.

I am glad to say that we have received on the whole very encouraging reports from the inspectors. The condition and conduct of the children of the Shelter and their education, together with their physical condition, will be reported on by Mr. Henry and Dr. Amys.

E. L. GOODWILL,
Secretary and Hon. Solicitor.

Mr. Henry's Report.

I am glad to say that all of the children cared for in the Shelter during the year have enjoyed good health, and there has been no serious illness nor any deaths during the year.

All children admitted to the Shelter of school age are regularly sent to school as soon as properly clothed and cleaned. I am pleased to report that our wards do remarkably well at school, and during the year I received no complaints from any teacher respecting them. On the contrary several teachers have spoken to me, stating how pleased they were with the deportment of th children.

Number of Children Cared For.

During the year 38 children were admitted and registered on the books of the Shelter, and we had three at the beginning of the year from 1912, making a total of forty-one. Of these seven were cared for in the Shelter for a temporary period pending treatment of their mothers in the hospital. A number were placed in the Shelter by the Chief of Police pending trial. This applies more in particular to the cases of several young girls. Four were placed in the Shelter pending charges and trials for theft, all of whom were convicted. Two were escapes from foster homes. One child was committed to the St. John's Industrial School. A number of children were placed in the Shelter due to charges against parents for neglecting to send children to school. These were after returned to the parents on condition that the children were sent regularly to school in the future. A number of the children made wards of the society were allowed to return to their parents pending probation by the parents.

I am glad to report that as a result of my visits to these families, that all are continuing to do well.

During the year I was appointed by Mr. J. J. Kelso, Superintendent of the society, to visit the wards in Peterborough city and county. I find on the whole that your wards are well placed. As a result of my visits I recommended three removals, one of whom was a ward of this city and two were wards of the Provincial Society and placed by them direct.

I would call the attention of the society to the need of a new fence at the Shelter around the front adjoining Water Street and along Mill Street.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

WM. HENRY,
Superintendent of Shelter.

The Brighter Side.

Mr. Goodwill read a number of reports from those who have wards of the society in their homes.

One girl is reported bright and intelligent, with a fine standing in school. A boy in another home is treated as a child of the family, and is doing well. Another boy who was brought during Mr. Dennistoun's time from the North country, is healthy, but does not learn well at school. A girl who would not remain in any one place, would wander about the country, sleep in hen houses, and such places, and was generally considered hopeless, was sent to an industrial school. After a year there she was given out, and is now eleven years old, a very good girl, healthy, fond of school, attends church regularly, and is doing splendidly.

These and other reports represent some of the fruits of the society's existence and endeavours.

Mr. Cochrane's Report.

Mr. Geo. Cochrane, agent of the society, stated that he had travelled 226 miles and visited 35 children outside of the city. Until about five or six weeks ago there was not a great deal of attention required in the city, but since the coming of winter there have been a number of cases. A husband in one family is unable to get work, and the mother is earning the livelihood for the family. In another case a widow is forced to leave her children during the daytime, a situation that is not safe, and the care of the children is a serious matter.

County Has Improved.

On the whole there has been an improvement throughout the county. The difficulties of a few years ago are disappearing. "We have got rid of many of the rough people, and the hard drinkers in Belmont township. I don't know where they have gone. Someone else possibly has to deal with them. I don't know why the law allows idiots to marry." Mr. Cochrane mentioned a family, the father and mother of which were practically degenerates, and of the five children, who were no better than the parents, three had married.

Even the Mite Helps.

In regard to the assistance of the townspeople he stated that even small donations of one and two dollars go a long way toward relief. One woman to whom two dollars was given was asked if she purchased any meat. She replied that by the time she bought bread and potatoes there was not much left for meat. Mr. Cochrane spoke of her case to a woman whom he knew was interested in worthy charity, and she is now providing meat for the family. "As long as the good ladies will invest their money in that work our efforts will be more successful.

The Help of the Ladies.

Mrs. Jas. Scott presented the report of the Ladies' Auxiliary. During the year 189 articles of clothing have been made for the children at the Shelter. The ladies worked every month excepting July and August. These figures speak for themselves, but they do not dwell upon the sacrifices made by the ladies in their work.

Officers Elected.

The officers for 1914 were elected as follow:

Hon. Pres.—Mayor Buller.
President—R. W. Travers.
1st Vice-Pres.—Mrs. Birdsall.
2nd Vice-Pres.—E. A. Peck, M. P.P.
Secretary and Hon. Solicitor—E. L. Goodwill.
Treasurer—Horace Walkey.
Hon. Physician—Dr. Amys.
Agent—Geo. Cochrane.

Mr. Peter Campbell resigned his position as treasurer, which he had held for fifteen years. He was urged to continue the work, but he stated that while he would take an active interest in the society he did not wish to hold office.

Mr. Goodwill intimated that this would be his last year, unless it would be possible to provide an assistant.

Officers of Auxiliary.

The officers of the Ladies' Auxiliary were elected as follow:

Pres.—Mrs. Wm. Gibbs.
1st Vice-Pres.—Mrs. W. Stocker.
2nd Vice-Pres.—Mrs. Westlake.
Secretary—Mrs. Jas. Scott.
Treasurer—Mrs. Hopwood.

Chief Howard presided during the election of officers.

Thought Nothing But Death Would End Her Misery.
WAS TROUBLED WITH Heart Disease.
Mrs. J. D. Talbut, Owen Sound, Ont., writes:—"I have been a great sufferer from heart disease, and leaking valves. I have had resource to every kind of treatment I could think might help me, including the skill of several doctors. I suffered so for years that at times I have felt that nothing but death could end my misery. I was advised by a friend, who had suffered untold pain and misery, just as I had, and had been cured by Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, to give them a trial, so I decided to do so. I am delighted with the result, as I am now completely cured, and can eat and sleep as I have not done for years.
You are at liberty to use my name at any time as I am convinced they are the best pills on the market for any form of heart disease."
Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50 cents per box, or 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

FOR THE POCKET BILLIARD TITLE

Special Wire to The Examiner:

SEATTLE, Wash., Jan. 27.—Bennie Allen, of Kansas City, will defend his title of national pocket billiard champion against James Maturo, of Denver, in a match that will have its opening in this city to-morrow night. Play will continue for three nights. The contest will be the first championship affair of its kind ever staged in this part of the country, and is attracting wide attention among the followers of the green table sport.

No Hairy Growths After This Treatment
(Beauty Notes)
After much experimenting it has been found that Delatone is as effective for removing hairy growths as the electric needle. And the argument in favor of the new method is that it is inexpensive, painless and takes little time. Here is the treatment: With powdered delatone and water mix enough paste to cover the undesirable hairs, apply and after 2 or 3 minutes rub off and with it comes every trace of hair. The skin should then be washed to remove the remaining delatone.

BIRTHDAY OF EMPEROR WILLIAM

Special Wire to The Examiner:

BERLIN, Jan. 27.—The fifty-fifth birthday anniversary of Emperor William was celebrated in the customary maner to-day throughout the Empire. Berlin was gay with flags and bunting and business was generally suspended in honour of the holiday. Messages of greeting were received from all of the rulers of Europe and from the President of the United States.

"That ain't soap, ma'am," interrupted the grocer, as he took the substance in his hand and examined it. "Your little girl was here yesterday for a half a pound of cheese and half a pound of soap. That's the cheese."

PANGS OF HUNGER.

Contractions That Sound the Call of the Empty Stomach.

When the stomach is empty it at once begins a series of contractions. It is these that give us that empty feeling, that sensation, not of pain, but of yearning, which we call the pangs of hunger.

The stomach is a bag made of layers of muscle and mucous membrane, plentifully supplied with small glands that secrete a fluid called the gastric juice and discharge this into the stomach, where it mixes with the food therein contained and prepares it for digestion.

In the normal stomach—that of a baby—as soon as the stomach has emptied its contents into the intestines the hunger contractions begin. In adults many distracting agencies prevent the contractions from starting at once. That is why most of us do not feel hungry the moment we have finished digesting a meal. Babies do. This has been proved by experiments by A. J. Carlson. In infants there is no mental distraction; they have not yet acquired habits of eating.

A recent medical writer says:—"An infant given only four ounces of food exhibited phenomena of hunger—that is, called for more after about two hours. When seven or eight ounces of the same food were furnished the call for food was delayed for three or four hours. If the child was given a limited amount of food at bedtime it waked up much earlier than when the feeding was carried to the point of satiety.

"Carlson cites these observations as evidence of the close parallelism between the time of emptying the stomach and the appearance of the hunger contractions which initiate the sensation. He suggests that the more frequent calls for food during the day are obviously due to the fact that the gastric hunger contractions must reach a certain degree of intensity before they cause the soundly sleeping infant to wake up."

When a man draws in his belt to stave off the pangs of hunger he merely applies a mechanical pressure to prevent the contractions of his stomach.

"Perhaps, after all," remarks the learned editor, "the sensation of hunger is a better guide to gastric conditions than has been admitted in the past, so that we ought to cultivate a familiarity with it more intelligently than is the custom with the majority of persons."

Fish Test.

The sure sign by which to tell fresh fish is the eye. If the eye is clear the fish is fresh, but if it is sunken and shrunken you may be certain that the fish is not fresh, even though the gills look red.

The Quickest, Simplest Cough Cure

Easily and Cheaply Made at Home. Saves You $3.

This recipe makes 16 ounces of cough syrup—enough to last a family a long time. You couldn't buy as much or as good cough syrup for $2.50.

Simple as it is, it gives almost instant relief and usually stops the most obstinate cough in 24 hours. This is partly due to the fact that it is slightly laxative, stimulates the appetite and has an excellent tonic effect. It is pleasant to take—children like it. An excellent remedy, too, for whooping cough, croup, sore lungs, asthma, throat troubles, etc.

Mix two cups of granulated sugar with one cup of warm water and stir for two minutes. Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a 16-ounce bottle, and add the Sugar Syrup. It keeps perfectly. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

Pinex is one of the oldest and best-known remedial agents for the throat membranes. Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, and is rich in guiacol and all the other natural healing elements. Other preparations will not work in this formula.

The prompt results from this recipe have endeared it to thousands of housewives in the United States and Canada, which explains why the plan has been imitated often, but never successfully.

A guaranty of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex, or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

Italy's Mountain-Top Villages.

Most of the villages of southern Italy are situated at the extreme summit of lofty mountains, being so constructed for purposes of defence in the stormy days of long ago. In many cases these village eyries are far removed from the railroad and are approached by means of winding roads and trails. So steep are some of these mountains and so correspondingly tortuous the trails by which they are ascended, that it may take as long as two hours to go a distance of little more than a mile as the crow flies. One of the most fascinating of these mountain hamlets is, Anticoli-Corrado. The picturesqueness of this little village, with its ancient archways and winding step streets, is noted throughout Italy, and the charming peasant types to be found are greatly in demand among artists, who flock here in numbers during the summer months.

Sultans and Beards.

Mohammed never shaved, and his beard was considered sacred. His namesake, the conquerer of Constantinople, is described as having had "mustachios like leaves over two rose buds, and every hair of his beard was as a thread of gold." It was he who in reply to a question as to his plans for a campaign said, "If a hair of my beard knew them I should pluck it out." Great was the scandal when one of his successors, Selim the Grim, took to shaving. "I have cut my beard in order that my vizier may have nothing to lead me by," he replied, and Selim's viziers knew better than to bandy jokes with him.

In the Wrong Scoop.

An old gentleman walked up to the pretty girl attendant at the counting room of a daily newspaper office and said, "Miss, I would like to get copies of your paper for a week back."

"You had better get a porous plaster," she abstractedly replied "... get them just across the street."

Feminine Finance.

A woman who has some rental property, but not much business ability, had been asking $30 a month rent for a house that had been vacant for several months.

Finally a prospective renter called and inquired about the place and the amount of the rent.

"Well," replied the owner, "I have been asking $30 a month, but the house has been vacant so long I will have to ask $35 a month.

She wondered why the man did not rent the house.

Wheels and Sails.

In 1622 one of the wonders to be seen at The Hague was a wagon or a ship or a combination of both. A traveler of that time wrote: "This engine hath wheels and sails, will hold above twenty people and goes with the wind, being drawn or mov'd by nothing else, and will run, the wind being good, above fifteen miles an hour upon the even hard sands."

Wells Should Be Deep.

Experiments have proved that shallow wells contain twenty times as many dangerous germs as are contained in the deeper wells, and considering that the water supply usually is stronger as the depth increases, the putting down of deep wells ought to appeal strongly to every farmer.

Child Had Bronchitis

Once people get acquainted with the wonderful control which Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine exerts over bronchitis, whooping cough, croup and colds it is not easy to persuade them that anything else is "just as good." This is why the imitators never get very far.

In 1902 Mrs. Eugene Iler, King street, Truro, N.S., wrote as follows: "From an infant one of my children was troubled with bronchitis, and the least cold would aggravate the trouble. We could not get anything to help her, and were often greatly alarmed. Hearing of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine as a treatment for bronchitis, we used it, and are glad to state that it effected a complete cure. If any of the children take a cold or cough I give this medicine, and have never known it to fail to bring relief."

Mrs. Iler now writes that she has since proved this medicine to be a cure for whooping cough, and would not be without it in the house.

TRIP ON A PILGRIM BOAT.

Vivid Pen Picture of Conditions Under Which Pilgrims Travel.

In an account of the writer's experiences on a pilgrim boat, Stephen Graham, in a recent article, gives a vivid pen picture of the condition under which Russian pilgrams to Jerusalem travel in the steerage. Four hundred, he declares, were accommodated in the hold unoccupied by cargo.

"I went down the dark ladders into the bowels of the ship," the writer continues, "and saw how they lived there. I had not as yet found a place for myself, and cold nights were in prospect. The hold was something never to be forgotten for the crush there, the darkness, the foulness and the smell.

"There was first a wilderness of linen sacks, hand-embroidered with crosses, with the word Jerusalem, with bears clutching sticks, with grey wolves following one another's tails round and round. Among the sacks men and women were lying, combing out their hair or examining their underclothing.

"As far as eye could see, looking into the dark depths of the hold, were bundles and pilgrims, bundles and pilgrims, to the last rat-gnawed timbers, where were ikons and holy pictures, before which bleamed little candles. Here in the most noisome recesses were the ill, the very feeble, the blind and the maimed, the seasick—all those who had either no power or no wish to get up and feel the air and sunshine above board. I reflected that it would in any case be impossible for me to spend the night there even if I found room.

"All night long the pilgrims prayed aloud and sang—they had their watches of prayer as the ship had its nautical watch, and even in the witching hours the ikons in the hold were not without their votive pilgrims prostrating themselves and singing to God. In the stern about two hundred read and sang with a priest until midnight, and after they had dispersed and each went to his own there was still to be heard the pleasant, deep bass prayers of 'the slaves of God'."

A Matter of Course.

A famous cricketer who had always pretended to regard golf as "a game for old men and cripply women" was once persuaded to try his luck at the sport. Almost the whole club went to the first tee to see him drive off.

"What have I got to do, caddie, my old friend?" he remarked, in languid tones.

"You drive off from here, sir," said the caddie, pointing to the tee, "and you've got to put the ball in that little hole with the red flag flying above it. I'll go on and mark your ball."

The caddie moved on and the cricketer, with proper deliberation, drove off. By an extraordinary stroke of luck, he drove a beautiful ball, which landed just on the edge of the green and slowly trickled down into the hole. The caddie, wild with excitement, came dashing back, shouting, "You're down in one, sir—the ball's in the hole!"

"Oh, is it? I'm glad of that," replied the novice unconcernedly. At first I was afraid I might have missed it."

The Son's Answer.

After his son's great success with the "Dame aux Camelias" Alexandre Dumas wrote to him as though a stranger, congratulating him on the book and expressing a desire to make the author's acquaintance. "I myself am a literary man," said he in conclusion, "and you may have heard my name as the author of 'Monte Cristo'."

Dumas fils was equal to the occasion. He wrote immediately in reply, expressing the great pleasure he would have in making the correspondent's acquaintance, principally on account of the high terms in which he had always heard his father speak of the author of "Monte Cristo."

Hardly a Compliment.

"My mother says she'd like to look like you, Mrs. Bennett," remarked little Mary to one of her mother's friends.

"Indeed! Like me, my dear?" said Mrs. Bennett, who was very plain, but not aware of it. "Well, I consider that a very nice compliment indeed from so pretty a lady as your mother. Are you quite sure, dear, it was I your mother meant?"

"Oh, yes!" replied the child. "She said that if she could have your strength and health she believed she'd be willing to look just as you do!"

Soon we shall not be able to have any kind of complaint to make interesting invalids of us. A London doctor has discovered a remedy for lorssickness, which was unnecessary considering how many there are who like the disease.

It is estimated by dictionary makers that for the past three centuries the English language has been accumulating an average of four new words every day. Yet it is not capable of any more eloquence than when the accumulation began.

FIRE CLAIMS FOUR.

Kerosene Accident Causes Death of Woman and Children.

MONTREAL, Jan. 27.—Mrs. Napoleon Rodin and three children were burned to death yesterday morning at Notre Dame des Rosaire, Quebec.

Mrs. Rodin was starting the fire with kerosene and the flames jumped to the clothes of her little girl, who was present. Mrs. Rodin tried to extinguish the flames and her own clothing caught fire. Two othes little girls in the room, one of whom was the daughter of a neighbor, were panic-stricken and ignited their dresses by attempting to put the flames out.

Mrs. Rodin tried to get out of the house but was unable to open the door. In her terror she tried to open a window and the curtains caught fire.

In a few moments the house was a mass of flames, and though the husband tried to enter the burning building he was forced back by the smoke and fire. He desisted in his frenzied efforts only when badly burned.

OPERATION A FAILURE.

Pneumonia Ruined Effects of Radium Treatment for Cancer.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 27.—After a successful race against death from Iowa, by his daughter, and while the rays from $11,000 worth of radium were working their mysterious way, Elhanan Zook, one of the superintendents of the Panama railroad, died in the Hahnemann Hospital at four o'clock yesterday morning, not from cancer which the radium was obliterating, but from operative pneumonia.

As it had been observed that the cancer in Mr. Zook's throat had progressed so far as to render a surgical operation useless, the surgeons, as a last resort, turned to the gift of mother earth, and last Wednesday inserted the $11,000 worth of radium crystals within the growth.

The crystals, which in the aggregate would not cover half the nail of a matured little finger, were encased in capsules of glass and lead, and inserted into the cancer by Dr. I. G. Shallcross, Dr. Frank Benson and Dr. Frederick Smith.

Workman Meets Death.

ST. CATHARINES, Jan. 27.—While engaged on the water tower at the Pilkington Glass Works at South Thorold yesterday afternoon, Floyd Keller, a structural iron worker, met death.

Keller fell from the scaffold on which he was working and struck his head on some ice at the bottom. His head was frightfully gashed, his jaw broken and his skull fractured. While being taken to the St. Catharines hospital he died.

Keller, who was about 26 years of age, came from Conneaut.

Million Bequest For Peace.

BOSTON, Jan. 27.—The continuance of the work of the World Peace Foundation, established by Edwin Ginn in 1910, is assured by a provision in his will made public yesterday. Mr. Ginn, who had contributed $50,000 annually for the support of the foundation, bequeated one million dollars for the same purpose, the income to be administered by the trustees of the foundation. The abolition of war through education in the advantages of peace is the object of the foundation.

WAS SUBJECT TO SEVERE BRONCHITIS.

Doctors Only Gave Temporary Relief.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup CURED HIM.

Bronchitis is generally the result of a cold caused by exposure to wet and inclement weather, and is a very dangerous inflammatory affection of the bronchial tubes. Neglected bronchitis is one of the most general causes of consumption, so cure it at once by the use of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

Mrs. C. G. Dring, Hamilton, Ont., writes:—"Our little boy has been subject to severe bronchitis ever since birth, and different doctors claimed to be only able to relieve him temporarily. A neighbor advised us to use Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, so I got a bottle, and after the third dose noticed a decided change, so kept on with it, and a couple of bottles were enough to completely cure him. Now we always keep a bottle on hand, and give it to him as soon as we notice him troubled with a cold, after which it disappears as if by magic. We recommend it to all our friends who find it is just as good as I say."

Price, 25 and 50 cents a bottle.

Be sure and get the genuine "Dr. Wood's" when you ask for it. Put up in a yellow wrapper, three pine trees the trade mark, and manufactured by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Radial Plans Near Completion.

LONDON, Jan. 27. — Hon. Adam Beck is expected in London on Wednesday or Thursday, and as soon as possible a meeting of the London and Port Stanley commission will be called to discuss important matters.

The report of the engineers will be practically completed by that time and the purchase of supplies will be authorized.

The appointment of a manager will be the first matter undertaken. There are eight men in sight for the place. Confidential reports on all of these have been received and these will be presented when the question comes up.

Forger To Be Hermit.

SAN JOSE, Cal., Jan. 27.—F. E. Murray, convicted forger, was sentenced yesterday by Superior Judge Beasly to serve two years as a hermit in the mountains forty miles from here.

Because Murray is 58 years old the judge was not inclined to give him a jail sentence.

Nervous Energy Is Limited

There is only so much energy in the human body. A few people have an abundance, but more have not enough. Hence the necessity of conserving vitality.

If wasted by mode of living, disease or worry there must be a reckoning, and trouble is sure to come. It may be headaches and weak, aching eyes; it may be nervous indigestion, or it may be merely lack of energy and ambition, and feelings of fatigue or helplessness. Of course, sooner or later exhaustion of the nerves leads to prostration, paralysis or locomotor ataxia, but there is no need to let the trouble develop that far.

By using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food you can restore to the feeble, wasted nerve cells the energy they have lost. It will take some egort on your part to give up worry and anxiety, but you should realize your serious condition, Rest and use this great food cure and you are bound to improve in health and vigour.

DIVORCE GOES FORWARD.

Sweden's Royal Separation In Hands of Commission.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Jan. 27.—The divorce proceedings pending between Prince William of Sweden and his wife, who, before her marriage, in 1908, was the Grand Duchess Marie Pavlovna of Russia, have been advanced a further step by the appointment of special commissioners who are to meet in St. Petersburg to arrange various matter arising out of the dissolution of the royal marriage.

King Gustave has commissioned Dr. Otto Hack Roland Printaskoeld, chief marshal of his court, and Dr. Harmarskjoeld, Governor of Upsala, to proceed to St. Petersburg to discuss with the representatives of the Emperor of Russia, the question of financial arrangements and of the custody of the one child of the marriage, Prince Lennart.

Another Added to Commission.

OTTAWA, Jan. 27.—J. U. Vincent, assistant deputy minister of internal revenue, has been added to the High Cost of Living Commission. The board is anxious to complete the enquiry as soon as possible, so that it was decided to add another member. The commission expects to visit Montreal, Quebec City and other points in Quebec Province next week.

After visiting Quebec City the commission will go to Toronto and other points in Ontario. It will then visit Winnipeg. Whether it will go further west has not yet been decided.

Carson Prepared To Co-operate.

LONDON, Jan. 27. — Sir Edward Carson, leader of the Ulsterites, in a speech at Lincoln last night, said that he was ready to join John Redmond, the Irish Nationalist leader, in an attempt to extend real local government to Ireland, or to remove any abbses or injustices, social or religious.

Referring to Mr. Redmond's speech at Waterford on Sunday, he declared: "If this is the last word from his side we are in a lamentable and critical state of affairs. I am a man of peace, but not of peace at any price."

In his speech Mr. Redmond said that if any change was made in the home rule bill it would be to buy the good will of the opponents of the bill, and he added that he saw no prospects of their good will being purchased at any price whatever.

THE MARKETS

CHICAGO, Jan. 26.—Evidence that Australia and Russia were underselling the United States, had a bearish influence here today on the price of wheat. Largely in consequence the market, although steady at the close, was ½c to ⅝c down, compared with Saturday night. Each of the other principal staples, too, showed a net decline—corn ⅜c to ⅝c, oats ⅛c to ¼c, and provisions 5c to 22½c.

Liverpool close: Wheat unchanged to ⅛c lower. Corn, ⅜c lower.

CATTLE MARKETS

UNION STOCK YARDS.

TORONTO, Jan. 26.—Receipts of live stock at the Union Yards were 128 carloads, comprising 2011 cattle, 1868 hogs, 408 sheep and 72 calves.

Butchers

Choice butchers' steers, $8.40 to $8.65; good, $8 to $8.25; medium, $7.25 to $7.75; common, $6.25 to $6.75; choice cows, $6.75 to $7; good cows, $6.25 to $6.50; medium, $5.50 to $5.75; common, $4.75 to $5.50; canners and cutters, $3.50 to $4.25; choice bulls, $7 to $7.50; good bulls, $6 to $6.75.

Stockers and Feeders

Stockers and feeders were in demand at steady prices. Choice steers, $7 to $7.35; good steers, $6.25 to $6.75; stockers, $5.50 to $6.

Milkers and Springers

Receipts of milkers and springers were limited and sold at firm prices, ranging from $55 to $95 each. The bulk sold at prices ranging from $65 to $75.

Veal Calves

Receipts of calves were light, not being enough to supply the demand. Choice calves sold at $10.50 to $11.50; good, $9 to $10; medium, $7.50 to $8.50; common and rough, $5.50 to $6.50.

Sheep and Lambs

Receipts were moderate. Ewes sold at $6.50 to $6.75; rams, $5.50 to $6.25; lambs, $9 to $9.25.

Hogs

Hog prices were lower. Selects, fed and watered, sold at $9; f.o.b. cars, $8.65; weighed off cars, $9.25.

MONTREAL LIVE STOCK.

MONTREAL, Jan. 26.—At the Montreal Stock Yards, west end market, receipts of live stock for the week ended Jan. 24 were 1556 cattle, 550 sheep and lambs, 1650 hogs and 300 calves. The supply for sale today amounted to 1100 cattle, 450 sheep and lambs, 850 hogs and 150 calves.

The trade in cattle was very slow, owing to the fact that both packers and butchers generally bought pretty freely last week and they all have fair supplies on hand. Prices declined 25 cents per cwt., but even at this reduction the few buyers present showed little disposition to operate any way freely, and the trade on the whole was unsatisfactory. A few small lots of choice steers sold at $8 to $8.25 per cwt.

BREAKS A BAD COLD IN A JIFFY! TRY IT

"Pape's Cold Compound" ends cold and grippe in a few hours—Don't stay stuffed-up!

You can end grippe and break up a severe cold either in head, chest, body or limbs, by taking a dose of "Pape's Cold Compound" every two hours until three doses are taken.

It promptly opens clogged-up nostrils and air passages in the head, stops nasty discharge or nose running, relieves sick headache, dullness, feverishness, sore throat sneezing, soreness and stiffness.

Don't stay stuffed-up! Quit blowing and snuffing! Ease your throbbing head—nothing else in the world gives such prompt relief as "Pape's Cold Compound," which costs only 25 cents at any drug store. It acts without assistance, tastes nice, and causes no inconvenience. Be sure you get the genuine.

Fish Combine To Be Probed.

OTTAWA, Jan. 27. — The alleged fish combine in Ontario will be investigated when the high cost of living commission pays a visit to Toronto. The commission will go thoroughly into the whole question, and fish dealers and packers from all over the province will be summoned to give evidence under oath as to the existence of the alleged combine for the shipping of fish across the line and the enhancing of prices.

Would Break Monopoly.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27. — Secretary of the Interior Lane told the House mines committee yesterday that Congress should break up "the monopoly that keeps radium at a fabulously prohibitive price," and enact legislation to put the curative mineral on the market cheaply for large numbers of sufferers.

Conditions In Hayti Grave.

PORT AU PRINCE, Jan. 27.—An extraordinary session of the new congress which was elected on Jan. 1 last, was held yesterday, 72 members—more than sufficient to constitute a quorum—being present. Organization was completed and the acts of the executive ratified.

Conditions both here and in the south are for the moment quiet. In the north, Gen. Bellard having withdrawn his candidacy, Senator David near Theodore, who is in command of the rebel troops at Cape Haitien, remains the only serious candidate for the presidency.

Family Involved In Robbery

BUFFALO, N.Y., Jan. 27.—The entire family of Elmes Schall, consisting of a mother, a son, a daughter, and a boarder, were arrested here yesterday morning in connection with the robbery of a meat market on Dec. 2 last, when $501 was taken. The boarder planned, the boy executed and the others shared the profits.

LUEBECK, Germany, Jan. 27.—A bequest of $125,000 for the expansion of the German navy was left to Emperor William by Herr Vahldick, a patriotic artist of this city, who died a few days ago.

IF KIDNEYS AND BLADDER BOTHER

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys and neutralize irritating acids

Kidney and Bladder weakness result from uric acid, says a noted authority. The kidneys filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it often remains to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread, the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again, there is difficulty in avoiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it, because they can't control urination. While it is extremely anoying and sometimes very painful, this is really one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, continue this for two or three days. This will neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs which then act normally again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by uric acid irritation. Jad Salts is splendid for kidneys and causes no bad effects whatever.

Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink, which quickly relieves bladder trouble.

HE APPROVES OF TANGO.

Jewish Rabbi Says It Is Beautifuly If Well Danced.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 27.—Rabbi Jacob Nieto, addressing the congregation of Sherith Israel yesterday, warmly commended the tange and kindred dances.

"The old padres in the early days of the California missions were wise men," said the rabbi. "Every Sunday afternoon they let the people dance, and watched them while they did so. In the middle ages the Jewish rabbis had the young people dance every Sunday afternoon, in the presence of the parents, and all enjoyed it.

"What we need is more common sense and less theology. The tango, danced by cultured persons, is beautifully pleasing; by the awkward it appears vulgar. You can take a religious ceremony and make it a farce."

Four Killed on Mauretania.

LIVERPOOL, Jan. 27.—An explosion occurred yesterday on the Cunard liner Mauretania, which is in dock undergoing repairs. Four men were killed and many injured. A bottle of condense gas which was being used in a brazing process in the engine-room blew up from some unknown cause, resulting in tremendous havoc among the engine-fitters. Several of the injured are in a serious condition.

NEVER HEARD OF IT.

T. C. Casgrain Will Not Discuss the Waterways' Idea Just Now.

MONTREAL, Jan. 27.—E. Chase Casgrain, K.C., chairman of the Canadian section of the International Joint Waterways Commission, has heard nothing of the proposal said to have been broached by members of the American section for the construction of an ocean-going ship channel from Montreal to the head of the Great Lakes, and at present declines even to discuss the proposition.

The subject has never been brought up at past meetings of the Waterways Commission when both Canadian and American sections met together, Mr. Casgrain said, and he has no further intimation that Chairman Tawney of the American section intends communicating with him on the subject than what was appearing in the press.

King Alfonso's Trip Doubtful.

MADRID, Jan. 27. — The report that King Alfonso is preparing to visit the Argentine Republic in June lacks official confirmation. It is pointed out in official quarters that in view of the present political situation it will be impossible for the King to absent himself from Spain for two months.

Specialist Could Not Remove Stone In The Bladder

GIN PILLS PASSED IT

JOLIETTE, P.Q.

"During August last, I went to Montreal to consult a specialist as I had been suffering terribly with Stone in the Bladder.

He decided to operate but said the stone was too large to remove and too hard to crush. I returned home and was recommended by a friend to try GIN PILLS.

They relieved the pain. I took two boxes and went back to the specialist. He said the stone was smaller but he could not remove it although he tried for two hours and a half. I returned home and continued to take GIN PILLS, and to my great surprise and joy, I passed the stone.

GIN PILLS are the best medicine in the world and because they did me so much good, I will recommend them all the rest of my life". 170

A Story from Real Life

"QUEEN OF PICKPOCKETS," LEAVING TRAIL OF LOOTED PURSES IN WAKE, FACES PRISON TERM

Mary Beckler, One of the Most Notorious Thieves in the Country, and Known from Coast to Coast, Could Make $100,000 a Year "if She Cared to Work."

ALMOST without funds and deserted by the scores of friends who once enjoyed her bounty, Mary Beckler, long known as the "Queen of Pickpockets," is again behind cell doors, and this time the police say she will not be attended by the rare run of luck which heretofore aided her in walking forth free from the jails that housed her. Mary Beckler, as she is best known, although she has a score of aliases, is in the New York Tombs, and the chances are it will be some time before she can ply her old trade again.

One of the boldest and most dextrous "operators" who ever opened a woman's shopping bag or rifled a man's pockets, Mary is known from coast to coast as one of the most skilful thieves that ever fell into the clutches of the police. Many a woman has been her victim, and man, too, for that matter, for the police say she can extract a watch from waistcoat or fob pocket with all the dexterity of the many children working the streets who have been trained from infancy in the art of pocket picking. Her stealings mount high into the thousands. A detective of Philadelphia, who has followed her career for many years, tells brother detectives here that he believes she could make $100,000 a year if she cared to work. Wherever she went she left a trail of empty purses and pockets and her associations with "fences" throughout the country, to whom she disposed her loot, were so agreeable that she always received top prices for the articles thus disposed of.

The police record of Mary Beckler is not quite as extended as others of her clan, and this, the detectives who know her well say, firmly establishes her right to the title of "queen." Had she been less clever, they contend, she would have "fallen" oftener and spent the greater part of her time in a cell.

In scanning her record it was learned that Mary has been arrested in Chicago, Boston, St. Louis, Baltimore, Philadelphia, Brooklyn and New York. She has been listed in the various police stations to which she was haled as Mary Beckler, Catherine Mullins, Lizzie Stingle, Madeline Zeigler and Mary Londen. She was born in Philadelphia, and in appearance might be mistaken for any well to do housewife of Teutonic parentage. She is always well dressed and has rather a motherly and benevolent expression. Her hair is fast turning white, although she is an adept in the art of disguise, and the police declare that until a few years ago she could "make up" the part of any young woman of good looks and "get away with it."

In looking her over at Police Headquarters the novice would be moved to compassion, for there is little or nothing about her to suggest a dangerous criminal. Her matronly figure is invariably draped in garments of good texture and fashionable make and there is a noticeable absence of the jewels which those of her class take such keen delight in wearing for the sake of a "flash." Modesty in both attire and demeanor seem to be the rôles she essays and, as Detective O'Connell puts it, "Mary, take it from me, can play any old part she likes and get away with it, too."

But to those who have made a study of criminals of this class Mary possesses one feature which invariably attracts attention and proclaims her a person well worthy of watching. This is her shifty and hawklike eye, which fairly flashes fire as she looks about her. No matter how preponderous the evidence that may have been amassed against her, she will fight to the last ditch, matching her wits, which are as sharp as her eye, against those of the most skilful and brainiest thief catchers in the world. To attempt to "sweat" this woman is labor lost, for, no matter what inducements are held out to her, she will invariably put the burden of proof up to her accusers and demand that they "show her" before she will even consider talking terms. Her faith in lawyers is as slight as is her fear of police, and for both she has unbounded contempt. When she finds herself in a particularly tight hole she will engage a "mouthpiece" to represent her in court.

"Tim" O'Leary, once superintendent of detectives of Philadelphia, professes to know more about Mary than any other detective in this country. He has followed her career for many years and whereas he failed to earn a long prison term for her on the many occasions she was arrested in Philadelphia, yet he asserts it was luck, pure and simple, which enabled her to walk free. About two years ago Mary was caught picking a pocket in Philadelphia. According to the police, it was an open and shut case. She had sidled up to an exceptionally well gowned woman in a department store and, watching her opportunity, opened this woman's handbag and, extracting her purse and several pieces of jewelry reposing there, calmly walked away and, approaching another victim, rifled her handbag quite as effectually. Although the store was not crowded at the time, there were many persons within a few feet of the thief and her victims, yet none saw the actual theft. Her hand moved with the rapidity of a rapier and even when it was withdrawn from the handbag there was no undue exertion on her part to transfer the loot to some hiding place about her person.

Finding this store a ripe field, Mary decided to reap her harvest while the harvesting was good. She went from woman to woman throughout the store, and all by whose side she had tarried sooner or later discovered that they had paid dearly for her presence. Growing bolder, she would prey on one woman and, turning to another at her very side, she would rifle her handbag, until at last, becoming more reckless, she made a false move. The victim, feeling a tug at her handbag, cried out that she was being robbed, and the next instant seized the hand that had found its way to her purse. The store was in an uproar at the first outcry and store detectives and floor walkers came scurrying to the scene and took the accused woman in charge.

A score of women in that part of the store who were aware of the excitement and learning the cause of it, immediately inspected their handbags, and those who found they had been robbed added their cries of indignation to the general chorus, and for a moment it seemed as if they intended to mete out punishment in their own way, for there was a wild scramble among the victimized to get at the author of the thefts and tear from her the booty she had concealed about her.

The suspect was dealt with in the customary manner. She was taken to the office of the superintendent and after being interrogated was turned over to several of the women detectives, who searched her. Purses, bank notes, loose change and jewelry in a varied assortment were unearthed from all manner of hiding places, chief among which was the false skirt affected by shoplifters of olden times. Many of the women who had been victimized insisted that their property be restored to them forthwith, indignantly protesting the mandate that they must appear in court to identify their cash, jewelry and other articles after they had been placed in evidence at the trial. Throughout the turmoil that ensued in the office and without the office of the store superintendent Mary was the coolest and most collected person there.

It was useless to deny her guilt, for many purses were found in her possession, many of them positively identified by the minute description their owners gave of them and their contents. This being the case, she decided on a saner and more discreet course, and that was to maintain a strict silence. She made no statement whatever and declined to reply to any of the many questions with which she was plied. Removed to Police Headquarters, she adopted the same course.

But realising the gravity of the situation the prisoner, who by this time had been thoroughly identified and confronted with her photographs, which were on file in the Rogues' Gallery, insisted that a lawyer be summoned. After consulting with him for a time she was returned to her cell and there remained, mute and sullen, until her case was called for trial.

The trial was both speedy and conclusive. There was no hope of clearing the prisoner in the face of such overwhelming evidence of guilt, and apparently her counsel made little or no effort to prove her innocent. The case was dead against her from the start, and when the verdict of guilt was pronounced Mary was seemingly as indifferent to her fate as she had appeared when first taken to Police Headquarters. But it was noticed that when the prisoner was returned to the prison cell, immediately following the rendering of the verdict, her counsel held a long consultation with the presiding judge. When Mary was recalled to the dock to hear sentence pronounced upon her it was with a buoyant step and air of confidence that was amazing in one who was about to suffer the sealing of her doom.

The reason for this was soon apparent. The judge, after addressing the prisoner and reviewing her criminal career, said that if she would consent to deportation to Germany, her native country, she would be permitted to do so under a suspended sentence. But if she was ever caught in Philadelphia again she would be picked up on sight and at once committed to the penitentiary for a year.

There was a steamship leaving for German ports a day or two later and it was decided that Mary should be placed aboard her and sent back to her father's land. She remained in her cell until the day of embarkation and was then taken from the prison and in the custody of a detective started for the pier.

Perhaps the custodian of the queen of pickpockets was not as vigilant as might have been, or else some valuable article figured which momentarily separated him from his prisoner, but in any event Mary never reached the pier. Search for her as he might no detective could get no clew to her whereabouts. Mary had vanished, apparently into thin air, and the dumbfounded detective ran around in circles searching for her.

Mary did not linger in his vicinity long enough to observe his discomfiture, for once she breathed freedom she valued it too highly to jeopardize it for an instant. She made tracks from that neighborhood as rapidly as she could, and whereas a city wide search for her was instituted as soon as the general alarm was sounded from Police Headquarters, all efforts to pick up her trail were futile and Mary was on her way rejoicing. One year later she was arrested in St. Louis and returned to the Philadelphia authorities.

In discussing this woman a clever Headquarters detective said:—

"Mary is just as smooth to-day as she ever was. We have noticed that she has been working alone of late. She is now what we term a 'bag opener,' confining her operations to thefts of that character. There was a time when she worked with her 'mob.' That means she had confederates, sometimes men and women just as skilful as herself, and again with children who were adepts in the art of separating the unwary from their valuables. In those days she would work the crowded thoroughfares, such as Fourteenth and Twenty-third streets and lower Sixth avenue, in New York city. She would direct the operations of those working under her, and was duly careful to see that her operatives turned over intact to her their loot. She could stand by and watch the operations of each and knew at once whether the pickpocket had abstracted purse or bill from the handbag he had opened or had gotten the watch from the pocket of the man he had jostled on the sidewalk. There was no fooling Mary, and woe to the thief who tried to hold out on her!

In those days Mary paid her "mob" good wages. They did not share in the profits of the spoils, but were paid a stated sum each day instead. She had dealings with the cleverest fences in the city, and insisted on having the fence get the lion's share. Always demanded and received this for herself. From what I have been told—and I have every reason to believe it—Mary would clean up in the neighborhood of $15,000 to $20,000 around Christmas time, when the streets were filled with shoppers. She could go through a crowd in a store with the slippery ease of an eel, and when she emerged to the street it was a safe bet that she came with pockets lined with the Christmas savings of many unfortunates.

"The boys and girls that worked for her were all artists in their line. They had been carefully drilled and schooled until they could slide in and out of a crowd getting at least something of value from every person they rubbed against. These children worked the sidewalk, while the men and women of the mob would take a crosstown car line and operate in first one car and then another until they garnered a score of watches, purses and wallets. A favorite trick of the pickpockets was for two or three of them to take up their stand at a corner and wait for a crowded car to come along. When the scramble to board the car began one of the thieves would spring to the lower steps of the car. Chances were there was a crush on the platform, and he would remain on the lower step, blocking the progress of others behind him, and apparently struggling to make his way to the platform. If some one behind him attempted to struggle on to the step below him, the thief ahead of him would turn and throw his arm about his waist, ostensibly to prevent his falling and to aid him in securing a firmer footing.

"In reality he was but pinioning the struggling passenger into a position of helplessness, taking due care while encircling him with his arm to raise his coat in such a manner as to raise it, thereby exposing the rear or pistol pocket, where so many men are foolish enough to carry their wallets. If the wallet or purse reposed in that pocket the confederate on the street would close in on him and either slip the wallet from its place or else cut out the pocket with its contents. Chances are the victim would not discover his loss until he felt for his purse to pay his fare after having struggled on to the platform. When he proclaimed his loss the man who had aided in his looting would, if he had tarried long enough, be the first to commiserate with him, for he would be the last of all those present to fall under suspicion. When he conveniently could, he would alight from the car, restrain his steps and join his confederates and prepare for just such another encounter.

"Some say Mary was the inventor of this scheme of thievery, but in any event she directed the operations of several such squads, and she was always lucky enough to escape conviction when picked up on such a charge. Only once did we get anything on her, and that was some years ago when she was caught red handed. We succeeded in sending her to the Island that time. At the completion of her term she went West, where she operated with marked success, I am told. When she returned East she peddled her own canoes, and from then on worked alone. Somehow other thieves had come to distrust her and refused to work with her. You know the old saying about 'When thieves fall out'? Well, perhaps some of them had reason to be aggrieved over the small percentage of their loot Mary allowed them when it came to a division of the spoils. They were afraid of her, and shunned her.

"In later years Mary has been working the better and more aristocratic thoroughfares. Fifth avenue has been a fertile field for her, and many shoppers in this vicinity have had reason to regret that they chose an afternoon for their shopping when Mary was abroad. She did a thriving business in the big and little shops of the avenue, and the mystery of it is that she should be poor to-day. Certainly thousands upon thousands of dollars have fallen into her hands in the last few years, and just what she could have done with it all baffles us. I don't think she has planted it, for if that were the case she would be in a position to employ a high priced lawyer to extricate her from her present difficulty, for the case we got her on in Brooklyn is complete, and we don't think we will have any trouble in sending her to the Island for a long stay. In any event, bargain hunters who are flocking the stores at this time are much surer of keeping their cash than they would be were Mary circulating among them, for she is of an inquisitive turn and she never overlooks a bet. She's the queen of them all, and when in her prime hadn't a superior in the world."

Daughter of George Inness Finds One of Her Father's Masterpieces Hidden Underneath a Coat of Silver Gray Paint to "Cool Its Atmosphere"

"AUTUMN WOODLANDS, MONTCLAIR," the painting by George Inness which his daughter, Mrs. J. Scott Hartley, widow of the sculptor, found on a canvas which the artist had obliterated by spreading over it a coat of silver gray paint, has caused much discussion of Inness and his methods among New York artists. Much wonder was expressed that the artist should destroy so fine a picture. According to Mr. Elliott Daingerfield, Inness' biographer and his closest friend in the profession of painters, the artist never intended to destroy his work, but merely to improve it by means of a peculiar process he continually made use of—that of smearing a picture over with fresh pigment and then with a cloth and a solvent wiping most of it off again. According to Mr. Daingerfield, the artist wished to change the "atmosphere" of "Autumn Woodlands, Montclair," and was interrupted in the task by death.

Mrs. Hartley had kept the canvas for nearly twenty years without knowing that a masterpiece by her father was underneath the silver gray paint that alone showed. One day not long ago she noticed a peculiar coloring on a part of the surface and, scraping off some of the paint, discovered a landscape beneath. She continued the process until the whole picture was bared, and it turned out to be a warm autumnal scene in Inness' very best manner of composition. It had been signed by Inness and dated "1890." It was the very warmness of the work, Mr. Daingerfield asserts, that caused Inness to keep it in his studio four years without disposing of it. The artist realized that something was the matter with it, and finally, just before he started abroad, where he died in 1894, began the process of "cooling its atmosphere."

Mr. Daingerfield and Inness had adjoining studios in the old Holbein studios, in Fifty-fifth street, New York city, and a great friendship sprang up between them. Mr. Daingerfield became in many ways Inness' pupil, applying a great deal of his methods in his own chosen field, that of figure painting. When seen in his studio in the Gainsborough Studios Mr Daingerfield said concerning the newly discovered painting:—

"Contrary to the general notion regarding this picture, I can positively state that Mr. Inness never intended to 'paint it over,' but that it was merely passing through one of the processes which he so frequently used of covering a picture with solid color, then bringing it through the color so as to change its atmosphere. I have seen him do this many times. He would paint a picture and keep it in his studio for weeks, studying it and thinking it over. Then suddenly he would decide that it lacked luminosity, or that it was too warm or too cold, and would seize his brush and spread color entirely over it, obliterating everything, so that one not familiar with his method would think he had destroyed it.

"He would then set to work to bring the picture through the yellow or gray or brown veil which he had spread over it. Taking a cloth he would wipe away part of the new pigment, and now and then he would use other color to bring out parts of the obliterated work. At the end of a few hours the same picture would be back on the canvas, but it would have an entirely different atmosphere.

"Sometimes Mr. Inness would be interrupted in his work, or he would grow tired and leave the task so that the paint would dry. Then the work became more difficult, and he would have to remove the paint with a solvent. The process, however, was the same, and the result would always be a better picture than before he obliterated it.

"I remember one occasion very distinctly when Mr. Inness came to his studio from Montclair with five pictures which every one admired. They were complete in every detail and were most beautiful. Mr. Inness, however, was not satisfied with them. He said he would regard them with that peculiar look that [illegible] we learned to recognize when he was not satisfied with his own work.

"He went back to Montclair and studied the scenes again. I met him at the head of the stairs on his return and saw a look on his face that meant he was going to paint like everything again and [illegible] I remained in my studio [illegible] of the five pictures.

"'Mr. Inness,' I exclaimed in consternation, 'what have you done?'

"'Never mind,' was the answer. 'Don't worry about the pictures; they'll be all right.'

I could see he was absorbing in what he was doing and left him. He spent all day at [illegible] work and even locked his door to keep intruders out. Late in the afternoon he called me into his studio, and there were the five canvases, with the selfsame scenes on them, but so much better in quality and atmosphere that I could [illegible] it. Mr. Inness had seen [illegible] wrong with them, and had [illegible] the problem. The pictures, as he explained to me, needed more luminosity. The yellow ochre which he smeared over them gave them just this quality. It was a lesson I shall never forget.

"Mr. Inness actually modelled in the paint. He would manipulate it with his finger nail much as a sculptor models his clay. This was the secret of the simplicity of his painting.

"It was marvellous to see what Mr. Inness could do with simple black and white pigment. He used to scold me for using so many colors, and, by way of demonstration, I have seen him apply just black paint on his canvas in a way that gave him all the effects that another painter might have taken a dozen colors to obtain.

"I remember distinctly the picture which Mrs. Hartley found under the coat of what she thought was priming. It stood in his studio for years, and I supposed it was a completed work. However, I am now positive that Mr. Inness decided it was too warm in tone and had painted over it a coat of silver gray paint, made by mixing a little black with white.

"That the picture had already been worked over several times by Mr. Inness is evident from an examination of it. The white flecks that Mrs. Hartley supposed were caused by the silver gray coat which through the early pigment were in reality caused by the partial coming through of a sky which Mr. Inness had originally painted, where the distant wood now appears. There are also signs that he had set his trees backward, painting grass on the spots where they formerly stood.

"The work is a very great picture, in spite of the fact that Mr. Inness was not satisfied with it and would have improved it. It belongs to his very best period. He was probably interrupted at his work, the paint dried, and soon afterward he went to Europe to recuperate his health. He died in Scotland. If Mrs. Hartley had not removed the outer coating of paint it would probably have been possible to have brought the painting out in the manner in which Mr. Inness intended, thus obtaining the effect he sought."

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

Gustav Schreiber's Music Box

An Attempt to Produce Human Feeling Automatically.

By F. A. MITCHEL

In a Swiss chalet looking out on Lake Leman, directly below, and on Mont Blanc, in the distance, lived a musical instrument maker. His workshop was near his house, and all day he worked at making those little mechanical contrivances in which steel prongs are made to discourse melodies by means of a revolving cylinder.

Gustav Schreiber gradually increased the size and scope of his instruments, constantly endeavoring to make a better one than any he had yet made, and when he had done so setting out again to make a still more exact one. In this he displayed a human trait which, when kept within bounds, is a valuable one, but which uncontrolled is liable to produce bad results.

Schreiber in his old age set about making a music box which was to be far more wonderful than any he had yet produced. It was to play a dozen different melodies. Each melody was to be a gem and be rendered with a sweetness, a strength or a rapture equal to that of a human being. In order to accomplish this he must have the pieces he used played by a musician whose touch, expression—indeed, all those qualities that go to make up perfection in music—were of the highest order.

The old man found such a one in his daughter, Hilda. She was noted far and wide for her rendering of all kinds of music, from that portraying a cascade to that descriptive of the storm wind.

Schriebe kept Hilda playing for him, first trying to produce in his box delicate airs, and, failing in this, he tried different kinds, hoping to succeed better in one kind than another; but, though he secured some remarkable results, still there was something in Hilda's rendition of every piece that he could not reproduce mechanically. So fretted did the girl become that at last her power of expression deserted her and her music, instead of partaking of human feeling, became mechanical like the airs rendered by the box. Then the old man began to curse and swear at her, and at last, seizing her violin, brought it down on an iron lathe and broke it in pieces. Hilda fled to the house, where her sobs and cries reached the neighbors, one of whom, a woman, cried out:

"The devil take old Schreiber's music box!" He will drive poor Hilda into bedlam."

Schreiber heard the woman say, "The devil take old Schreiber's music box!" and she had scarcely spoken the words when his gate clicked and, looking out through the open door, he saw a man walking up the steep path that led to the shop with a step as light as if he had wings at his ankles.

The stranger came straight up to Schreiber and with a smile—a singular smile, Schreiber thought—bade him good morning and said that he would like to buy one of his music boxes. Schreiber, making an effort to throw off his trouble, showed the man all the boxes in the shop, making each one play a tune, but none of them was good enough for the would be purchaser. At last the latter asked about the box under process of construction, and this led to his getting the whole story from the maker.

The stranger examined the box carefully, then said:

"You have an excellent mechanism here and should succeed in making what you have attempted. I am quite sure that I can do what you have failed to accomplish."

"You! Are you a mechanic?"

"I am."

"Very well. Take the box and do with it what you like. I have had enough of it."

"My dear fellow, do you suppose I would take something for nothing? That is a human business trait which is beneath me. But I'll tell you what I will do. I will complete your music box for you, and when it is finished it shall belong to you."

"That is very kind of you. Where will you do your work on it?"

"Right here, where the tools are handy."

"Will you work all day?"

"I shall work when the spirit moves me. A man cannot write poetry when he has a toothache nor compose harmonies when he is asleep. I may work in the morning or the evening or at the dead of night. It does not concern you or any one else when I work. But one thing you must remember—when I am at work I don't wish to be disturbed. If any one does so I shall not take it kindly."

There was a malignant look in the stranger's eyes when he said this that frightened the old mechanic and made him feel like saying a paternoster. He promised that the man should not be disturbed. Then the stranger said he must go, and Schreiber, locking the door of his shop, gave him the key, and he went down the declivity as lightly as he had come up. Schreiber called to him, asking when he would come again, but the only reply was a faint echo: "Come again?"

"That's singular," remarked Schreiber to himself. "I've lived here man and boy sixty years, and that's the first echo I ever heard. There are no hills nearer than the other side of the lake to send it back."

A week passed and nothing was heard or seen of the stranger. There was only one key to the shop, and Schreiber could not get into it without breaking down the door. But he had no desire to go there; he had wearied of trying to produce human harmonies on a mechanical contrivance.

One night there came from the shop sounds of music, not of a violin or a flute or any instrument that requires a human touch, but a music box. Yet there was nothing mechanical about it.

EVERY DAY SHE WAS OBLIGED TO PLAY FOR HIM.

Indeed, it was full of feeling. It was low and sweet, a lullaby. At times it would rise in a plaintive crescendo, then gradually sink, softly, as it had risen.

Schreiber rose up in his bed and listened.

"Father," came a voice at his door, "do you hear the music? Isn't it delicious?"

Schreiber saw something white and knew it was Hilda in her nightgown.

"Yes; the stranger must have been working on the music box and is trying it. I wonder how he has done it."

"Let us go out to the shop and see."

"No, no, my child; he distinctly said that he must not be interrupted. Go to bed."

The music ceased and Hilda went back to her room. Then suddenly came a burst of melody entirely unlike what had gone before. It seemed as if it were intended to incite men to deeds of glory. There was a fierceness in it that the Schreibers had never heard before. It seemed as if an army were about to march to its death, dealing death in dying. Hilda ran into her father's room and to his bed, where she remained locked in his arms, the two trembling as if they were about to be slaughtered between opposing hosts.

The music ceased and all was still for some time, when it recommenced. This time it was a dirge, sad, regretful, the wail of a broken heart. The girl clung to her father till it ceased, when she broke into a hysterical sobbing such as she had given way to when her father had broken her violin.

One more piece came in this nocturnal concert, a piece that made the old man wonder how it could be produced on so circumscribed an instrument. At first a faint, low muttering was heard, then a gradually increasing roar, then shrieks mingled with deafening thunder.

"It is the storm wind," said Schrieber, holding his daughter closely to him.

The sounds increased—musical sounds interpreting a tempest—until it seemed that all the devils in hell had been let loose. The commotion ended with one vivid flash of real lightning and a crash of actual thunder. Then all was again still as the grave.

"Something tells me that the climax has been reached," said Schreiber to Hilda. "Neither human nor divine power could go further. We shall hear no more. Go back to bed."

Hilda, trembling, went to her room, but in a few moments called:

"Father, the shop is afire. Come to my room. You can see it through the window."

The old man ran as hastily as his trembling legs would carry him and saw his shop shooting forth flames. There was a lurid glare in it that he had never seen in a fire before. Every tongue of flame hissed like that of a serpent, and a sulphurous odor came in through the open window.

For more than an hour the old man and his daughter watched the burning. As it died down there were fitful flashes, like temporary recoveries from some dying beast. At last all was still, and father and daughter went back to bed.

There are various explanations given of the matter by those living near Gustav Schreiber. Some say that the bolt that occasioned the loss of his shop was sent from heaven to punish him for trying to produce human feeling on an automatic instrument, others that he had worked long enough and he would never have stopped had not his shop been burned. There are also those who blame his neighbor for saying, "The devil take old Schrieber's music box," averring that Satan took her at her word.

A MIGHTY CLEVER TRICK.

How One Man Went About It to Get the Best of the Gas Meter.

The most adroit scheme yet reported to beat the gas meter and get gas for nothing was recently discovered in Honolulu, and its success was due to the use of a modern scientific laboratory apparatus. The customer was supplied with gas coming through a common quarter-in-the slot meter, a quarter dropped into the meter supplying gas to the burners until a quarter's worth of the illuminant has been used, when the flames begin to die out and warn the customer that another quarter is required. The collectors for the Honolulu company regularly opened this meter to take out the expected quarters, but they never found any. A watch kept on the house showed that gas was being used every night. The customer explained it by saying that he was using gas as he had done for years, but that he did not drop any quarters in the slot because the gas kept coming without them. A new meter was put in, but the next collection trip did not bring any quarters, nor were there slugs or any substitutes found in the meter. Every few days then a newly-tested meter was put in, but the customer continued to use gas and the company found no quarters.

At last the company surrendered and offered to pay the customer a sum of money if he would tell his scheme, promising not to prosecute. He agreed and took the inspectors to his little laboratory. First he showed a little mold, to cast disks about the size of quarters. In this he poured water, and then in a few seconds, by means of an ether spray-freezing machine such as is in common use in science, he froze the water. Thus he had an ice disk the size of a quarter. This was dropped into the meter slot and the gas came.

The ice melted inside of the meter and the few drops of water quickly ran out, leaving no trace of his trick.

World's Largest Belt.

The largest conveyor belts in the world, it is claimed, are being built by the Perdrian Rubber Co., Ltd., of Sydney, New South Wales, for a coal loading plant at Fort Kembla. The belts are being made after specifications of the Public Works Department. Each is approximately 1,650 feet long and will weigh twelve tons, being made up of seven ply rubber and cotton in one continuous length without joints, thirty-six inches wide. When rolled each belt will be too large to pass through the railway tunnels on the way to the port. The conveyor will carry coal about 1,600 feet at a rate of 1,000 tons an hour.

WOMAN'S MOST SUCCESSFUL MEDICINE

Known All Over The World —Known Only For The Good It Has Done.

We know of no other medicine which has been so successful in relieving the suffering of women, or received so many genuine testimonials, as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

In nearly every community you will find women who have been restored to health by this famous medicine. Almost every woman you meet knows of the great good it has been doing among suffering women for the past 30 years.

Fox Creek, N. B.—"I have always had pains in the abdomen and a weakness there and often after meals a soreness in my stomach. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me much good. I am stronger, digestion is better and I can work with ambition. I have encouraged many mothers of families to take it as it is the best remedy in the world. You can publish this in the papers."—Mrs. William S. Bourque, Fox Creek, N. B.

In the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., are files containing hundreds of thousands of letters from women seeking health, in which many openly state over their own signatures that they have regained their health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, many of whom state that it has saved them from surgical operations.

Miss Violet Webster the Recipient of a Beautiful Autograph Quilt

An enjoyable evening was spent on Monday last, when about thirty young people of Salem neighbourhood, accompanied by the Superintendent of Salem Sunday school, Mr. Thos. E. Sargent and his wife, gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Webster, where their daughter, Violet, was made the recipient of a beautiful autograph quilt, presented by Miss Edith Craft, while Miss Margaret Johnston read the following address:

Salem, Jan. 19, 1914.

Miss Violet Webster:

Dear Friend,—We, your friends of Salem neighbourhood, wish to extend to you our appreciation of the genial and kindly interest manifested to all with whom you associate.

And especially the keen interest you have always taken in our Sunday school, in which work you have performed the duties of teacher so cheerfully and unassumingly for a number of years.

We, the members of the Ladies' Bible class, of which you have been president for the past year, ask you to accept this autograph quilt as a slight token of our esteem.

Hoping that in the years to come, as reading over the names here inscribed, it may recall our pleasant associations together.

Signed on behalf of the Bible class,
Ada I. Curtis.
Clara Armstrong.

Signed on behalf of the neighbourhood,
Edwin Sargent.
Stanley Johnston.

Miss Webster replied in a suitable manner, thanking her young friends.

The evening was spent in music and games, after which all did ample justice to the good things provided by the guests before returning to their homes.

BOUIN TO RACE KOHELMAINEN

Special Wire to The Examiner:

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—Quite the choicest tidbit that has been served up to followers of athletic sports here this winter is billed for Madison Square Garden to-morrow night, when Jean Bouin, the noted French runner, and Hannes Kohelmainen, the unconquerable Finlander, will engage in a two-mile race in an effort to settle the question of their relative supremacy. The two have long been rivals for the premier honours as distance runners. Kohelmainen defeated Bouin in the Olympic games at Stockholm, but the Frenchman hopes for a different result in the contest to-morrow night.

ANOTHER LETTER ON THE TARIFF QUESTION

To the Editor, The Examiner:

Sir,—My attention has not been called, but I read with pleasure "An Electors'" letter in Friday's issue, and how glad he feels in joining issue with me on the questions raised in letter of 12th inst.

I must congratulate him on anticipating I was a Tariff Reformer; in that he is correct, and as a working man am proud of it, and although I work 10 hours per day, I don't need to run away as he suggests Tariff Reformers do. I reply by return.

I did not comment on your Leader because it was in reality a comment on his letter, and you referred your readers to it. I commented on that part which referred to the Old Country and its advantages under (so-called) Free Trade. What does he mean by so-called Free Trade? England was once the work-shop of the world. What is she now? The dumping ground of the world. Is that what he means by so-called Free Trade? Tea, coffee, cocoa, sugar, form a great part of the food of the poor. Patent medicines which are largely used by the poor, and often relieve suffering, are taxed, leave alone the poor man's pipe of peace which is not a necessity, but often brings him comfort, and when he is blowing his weed he is paying a few shillings per pound duty for his comfort.

He quotes Reynolds. I take that Liberal paper; in the issue of Jan. 4th, 1914, is the following glowing announcement:

British orders for Germany. It is officially announced that the Port of London authority has place contracts for three pairs of Lock Gates, a Bascule Bridge, a Swing Bridge, and a Caisson for the Dry Dock in connection with the Royal Albert Dock South, with two German firms, who area at present constructing two pair of Lock Gates and Swing Bridge for the East India Dock (London Improvement Works).

In Lloyds, another Liberal paper, is the following: A three-months' contract for frozen meat for the British Army has been placed with the Compania De Carnes, Congelesdas, commencing Jan. 1st, 1914.

And the poor fellow who enjoys a cup of tea, cocoa, coffee, to which sugar is generally added, and who after partaking of his scanty meal enjoys a whiff from his pipe, pays for it in Free Trade England, when German contractors can bring steel for the largest dock in the world and dump it in free.

Although not blind, I still fail to see and I adhere to by statement—paupers at the age pensions are given (seventy years) would prefer out relief for the reasons I stated. My experience as a guardian may not be so pleasant as an electors. I never had the privilege of paying pensions nor relief, there were officers paid to do that.

About the achievements of the present Government and how they got to power, that never arose in his letter of the 12th. To stick to the subject is my policy.

The Insurance Act he admits is not complete. That's what I said, and the electors says so by the results. He also admits Mr. Bonar Law did say he would repeal the act. So did I But then he says Mr. Bonar Law retracted that statement by sending a postcard. Well, fancy the Leader of the great Conservative party communicating with a Cabinet Minister by postcard. If that is so it would be just be as well for Mr. Bonar Law to accept an old age pension if the party funds are so low as to have to resort to the postcard business.

The question of emigrants to "An Elector" is a minor matter, assuming his figures were correct (which they are nat), which show a decrease for 1913 of 278,253. There must have been about 400,000 emigrants from Great Britain in 1913, and yet this is a minor matter, and all leaving for protected countries, where there are neither pensions nor insurance.

Then he refers to the bye-elections, and says anyone who knows English politics knows the result. Yes Sir, the Liberal party knows it to their sorrow. Yes Sir, I saw the result of Ilkerton, Keighley and Wick. These were the only seats retained by the party. What about the ones they lost in N.W. Manchester, South Manchester, Oldham, Crewe, Midlothian, Bow and Bromley, South Lanark, Exeter, Cheltenham, Reading, etc., let alone the unopposed return of the chairman of the Tariff Reform League, the Treasurer of the same, O.K.

He concludes by again referring to Mr. Burnham. Surely he knows where Mr. Burnham is at present. If he only wrote to that gentleman as I once did he would get a reply by return and no doubt Mr. Burnham would be as pleased to join issue with "An Elector" as

Yours truly,
C. Perkins Lloyd.

FROM GREAT LAKES TO THE ROCKIES

Women Sing the Praises of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Saskatchewan Lady Adds Her Testimony to What Has Already Been Said of the Great Work Dodds Kidney Pills Are Doing.

Caesarville, Sask., Jan. 26.—(Special.)—The scarcity of female help in a new country subjects the women of the prairies to unusual strain, and first makes itself felt in the kidneys. For this reason Dodd's Kidney Pills are making an enviable reputation from the Great Lakes to the foothills of the Rockies.

Everywhere you will find women singing the praises of the great Canadian kidney remedy that has banished their pains and weariness, and brought them back to health. Among the many is Mrs. Edgar Cowen, an estimable lady of this place.

"I have found Dodd's Kidney Pills very beneficial," Mrs. Cowen states. "If anything I can say will help any sufferer I am glad to add my testimonial to what has already been said."

The kidneys strain all the refuse material out of the blood. If they are out of order this refuse remains in the blood, and becomes poison. That's why sound kidneys mean pure blood and good health. Dodd's Kidney Pills make sound kidneys.

BENCH WARRANTS ISSUED BY THE ATTORNEY-GENERAL

As a Result of Recent Investigation Into the Affairs of the Defunct Union Life Assurance Company

K. C. IS APPREHENDED

TORONTO, Jan. 27.—Following a prolonged investigation into the affairs of the defunct Union Life Assurance Co., instituted some time ago by Hon. W. T. White, Minister of Finance, at the request of the English shareholders, who had suffered heavy losses, the Provincial Attorney-General yesterday ordered the issuance of bench warrants for the arrest of four directors of the Union Life Assurance Co. and the National Agency Co., on separate charges of conspiring to defraud. Those included in the indictments were: Messrs. H. Pollman Evans, president of the defunct company; Dr. George E. Millichamp, vice-president and medical director; Harry Symons, K.C., of Toronto, and F. G. Hughes of Galt, managing directors.

No sooner had the warrants been issued than the city police, acting in conjunction with the county authorities, promptly started out in pursuit of those involved. The proceedings were carried out with such great secrecy that only a chosen few were permitted to participate in rounding up the quartette indicted; in fact, the whole proceedings were enshrouded with such mysterious movements that information respecting the operations of the police was withheld as far as possible.

Shortly before three o'clock yesterday Detective Montgomery walked into the office of Harry Symons, K.C., in the Crown Life Building, Queen and Victoria streets, and calling him aside, informed him that he had a warrant for his arrest. Mr. Symons was taken to police headquarters, where he had to stay several hours before bail was arranged for. Bonds for $15,000 were advanced and Symons was released.

While the local police were taking care of Symons the authorities were in communication with outside points in the hope of apprehending at least two others indicted by the grand jury in conjunction with Symons, all former directors of the defunct Union Life Assurance Co. At the home of Dr. Millichamp, whose name was frequently mentioned during the investigation held under the direction of Mr. George Kapelle, K.C., the official referee, it was learned by the authorities that he was at the Homewood Sanitarium at Guelph, suffering from a nervous collapse.

It was stated at police headquarters last night that the authorities at Guelph had been instructed to place Dr. Millichamp under arrest, but if his physicial condition did not permit his leaving the institution he was to be allowed to remain there until such time as his health improved.

The authorities at Galt notified the local police late last night that Hughes was not at home, and they had been unable to get any definite information as to his whereabouts. No effort was made to locate H. Pollman Evans, as it was learned that he had taken his departure for Europe about two weeks ago. It was stated at his office, 49 King street west, where he was doing business since his return from London to give evidence before the investigating commission several weeks ago, that he had gone to France to recuperate.

OFFICIALS ARE SUMMONED

President and Vice-President of Montreal Daily Mail to Appear Before Bar of House

WILL PRESS CHARGES

Special Wire to The Examiner:

QUEBEC CITY, Jan. 27.— Messrs. Nicholas and MacNab, President and Vice-President respectively, of the Montreal Daily Mail, who have been summoned to the bar of legislature because of bribery charges made in the Mail, arrived this morning, accompanied by a valise full of documents, which, it it said, they will produce in the Commons to-day as evidence supporting their charges. It is freely predicted here that the dissolution of Sir Lomer Gouin's government and a general election will immediately follow.

Legislators Under Weather At Ottawa

Special Wire to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 27. — Overheating within the Commons and the Senate Chamber and frigid weather without have been responsible for the full or temporary disability of many legislators at the capital. From the Senators, Sir George Ross, the leader of the Liberal majority, is now absent. Questioned as to his condition this morning, Sir George said, through his secretary, that he was simply suffering from cold. "Nothing to cause alarm in the newspapers."

Premier Borden is suffering from a recurrence of the old blood disorder. Boils have broken out again, with resultant sleeplessness, and it is not believed that the Premier will be able to be in the house continuously during the session. He is, however, expected to be in his place for some time at least this afternoon. Another victim of the extreme conditions within and without the House of Commons is Hon. W. T. White, the Minister of Finance, who is now suffering from a severe attack of la grippe.

YOUTH HAD A NARROW ESCAPE

A ten year old youth escaped serious injury by a miracle yesterday afternoon at five o'clock, when he was knocked down by a team of horses and run over by a delivery waggon.

The accident occurred at the corner of George and Simcoe Streets shortly after five o'clock. Two boys were coming north on the west side of George Sreet, and in crossing Simcoe Street got in the way of Innis' express rig, drawn by a team of horses, which was turning from George on to Simcoe Street. The older of the two saw his danger and escaped the horses' hoofs by darting toward the sidewalk. The younger did not see the approaching team and was knocked down by them and trampled under foot. The driver tried to bring the horses to a stop, but frightened by the occurrence, the horses got beyond his control and ran forward. The sleigh passed over the body of the little fellow, who lay on the road as if stunned. P. C. Brown who saw the accident, rushed to the aid of the boy, picking him up and examining his injuries. Singularly enough, the lad has emerged with only a cut on his face and a few bruises.

He was taken to his home at the corner of Rink and Aylmer Streets. A young man named Jamieson was driving the team when the accident occurred, and the name of the lad who had such a fortunate escape is Scully.

VOTE MAY CUT OFF 104 BARS

Counties of Welland, Bruce and Peel Are Voting Under the Canada Temperance Act

A HOT FIGHT

Special Wire to The Examiner:

TORONTO, Jan. 27.—The Counties of Welland, Bruce and Peel are this week the scent of the warmest general prohibitionl campaign in their history, and on Thursday there will be ballotting under the Canada Temperance 9Act, which if temperance forces are successful will result in making twenty-eight municipalities dry and wiping ont a hundred and four bars. "We have high hopes of success in each county," said Ben Spence, secretary of the Dominion Alliance to-day. "We are not handicapped this time by any three-fifths clause, and a simple majority vote will mean success. The Provincial Government has promised to see that the law is rigidly enforced if carried."

Strenuous meetings are being held every night in score of municipalities.

A NEW SCHEME OF TAXATION

Special Cable to The Examiner:

LONDON, Eng., Jan. 27.—(Special Cable)—It is understood that Lloyd George has practically pledged the single taxers who are strong in Scotland that he will support the new taxation on heavy land holders by imposing additional penny per pound on assessments on the capital value of urban land sites. This will cause a tremendous outcry from the property owners, but would materially increase the revenues for school purposes and poor funds, and help make up the deficit with which he is now face to face. A cabinet meeting to be held to-morrow will likely decide on the question. In the meantime strong influence is being brought to bear on other members of the Cabinet to baulk this new scheme of taxation.

LIVE STOCK MARKET

Special Wire to The Examiner:

UNION STOCK YARDS, Jan. 26.—Receipts were liberal, more cattle than were needed. 118 cars, 2,011 cattle, 1,968 hogs, 408 sheep and lambs, 72 calves and 47 horses.

Cattle.—The cattle trade was dull and slow. The supply being greater than the demand. Over 30 cattle were carried over from last week. Prices were unchanged. Choice butcher's steers, $8.25 to $8.65. Good butcher's steers, $8.00 to $8.25. Medium butcher's steers, $7.00 to $7.50. Common butcher's steers, $6.00 to $6.50. Choice butcher's heifers, $8.00 to $8.25. Common buteher's heifers, $7.00 to $7.75. Choice cows, $7.00 to $7.25. Good cows, $6.25 to $6.50. Canners, $3.50 to $4.50; bulls, $5.50 to $7.75.

Feeders and Stockers. — Receipts were not equal to demand, with prices very firm. Choice steers, $7.00 to $7.50. Medium steers, $6.50 to $6.75. Stockers, $5.75 to $6.25.

Milkers and Springers.— Receipts were light at $55 to $90 each; bulk sold at $70 to $80 each.

Calves—Receipts light, not enough to go around the several buyers. Choice veals, $10.50 to $11.50; common to good, $5.75 to $9.50.

Sheep and Lambs.—Receipts moderate and prices about steady with last Thursday. Sheep, $6.50 to $6.75. Culls and rams, $4.50 to $ .25. Lambs, choice ewes and wethers, $9.15 to $9.75.

Hogs.—The hog market was easier. Selected, fed and watered, $9.00, and $8.65 f.o.b. cars, and $9.25 weighed off cars.

CARE OF FEEBLE MINDED

One of the Vexing Questions Before the Officers of the Children's Aid Society—Legislation Needed

COMPLIMENTS PASSED

"What is to be done with the feeble-minded?" was one of the questions touched upon at the annual meeting of the Children's Aid Society yesterday. Mr. E. A. Peck said it was a matter before the people of to-day. Something should be done outside the Children's Shelter. A central home might be provided by a group of counties. The great difficulty is the consideration of expense. The Province has but a limited amount of money at its disposal. To its nine or ten million dollars the Dominion has between 150 and 200 millions.

In his report Dr. Amys said on this point: "It is not the work of the C. A. S. to look after them. The Children's Aid Society is only a stepping stone to a good home for the little ones. How can we do our work and be encumbered with feeble-minded children?

"It would be, and is a crime, to turn them loose and let them have offspring worse than the parents. Last year there was, or was to have been, a bill introduced into the Legislature to prevent, through the medium of surgery, such occurrences: but I am afraid we will have to keep on agitating until we impress, or force, the government to see its obligations not only to look after them in a sane and business fashion, but to see to it that they do not have offspring.

"About two years ago, I read an article on this subject, and the facts gathered by the author all went to show that the initial expense would be very slight, but when crime, degeneracy and disease was handed down through two or three generations the final results were appalling and costs to the State enormous."

CHILDREN HEALTHY.

Referring to the health of the children at the Shelter, Dr. Amys said: "During the past nine years I have looked after the sick ones in your Shelter, giving them what medicine and attendance they have required. We have had only one death. You may think I am blowing my own horn, not so. I think all the credit is due to our friends, Mr. and Mrs. Henry, of whom I can only speak in the most glowing terms. They are father, mother, nurse, guardian, all in one; they fulfil the requirements of a good nurse excellently, i.e., they do as they are told."

CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY HAS A GOOD BALANCE

The financial statement of the Children's Aid Society, presented by the treasurer, Mr. Peter Campbell, shows a comfortable balance. It is as follows:

RECEIPTS.

Balance on hand, Dec. 1, 1913	$1201 98
City grant	300 00
County grant	250 00
Tag Day	1255 85
Sundry subscriptions	120 32
	$3128 15

DISBURSEMENTS.

Board account	$1184 65
Officers' salary	250 00
Tag Dag expenses	109 52
Sundry accounts	320 60
Balance on hand, Dec. 1, 1914	1263 40
	$3128 15

During the 15 years of Mr. Campbell's treasurership the society has always had funds. Mr. Horace Walkey succeeds him in the position.

NEW SERIAL TO BEGIN THIS WEEK

"The Free Range," by Elwell Lawrence, is the Examiner's New Continued Story

A SPLENDID ROMANCE

The Examiners new serial story, which will be begun this week, "The Free Range" by Elwell Lawrence, promises to be one of the most enjoyable and most evenly read of any published by this paper.

The sheepman of the West has been neglected in our fiction. Somehow, authors have got in the way of making the cattle and their keepers, the cowboys, the chief picturesque figures of their work in portrayal of Western life. Now comes one who writes of the shepherd, and writes strikingly well. His genius gives romance to the woolly, blethering flocks, for they are made the pivotal cause around which thrilling events in love and war revolve. The reader learns that the men of the sheep ranches can fight, can hold their own in bloody warfare against the reckless daring of the cowboys themselves. There is splendid bravery, too, in that fighting, where only one of the sheepmen is left alive, and that against his will. Small wonder that the master they served set up a monument in the desolate place for these friends who fought for him to the death.

Cattle stampedes are familiar enough in fiction. But most readers will find the stampede of the sheep altogether strange, with its grim menace of death to those caught in the path of its blind fury.

The novel is written by one who knows intimately the life of which he tells. It is genuine literature, not merely entertaining fiction, because it faithfully interprets life. There is atmosphere throughout that causes the reader to feel the environment in which the chaarcters move. And those characters, as well, are made alive. The men are strong and brave; good men to meet in real life, good men to meet here in these pages. And the woman— the one woman!—is brave, too, yet very tender, altogether feminine, winsome as a heroine should ever be.

The story of the free range is worth reading.— Don't miss "The Free Range."

TAKEN FROM JAIL AND LYNCHED

Examiner Special:

OKLAHOMA, Okla., Jan. 27.—Ben Dickerson, a negro, was taken from jail by a party in six automobiles, who over-powered the jailer and took the prisoner to Noble where they hanged him and riddled his body with bullets. He was charged with robbing and murdering a travelling salesman named Chaffin

SCHOOL IS WRECKED BY EXPLOSION

Special Wire to The Examiner:

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 27. — Just an hour before a thousand scholars were to enter to school, a boiler in the big school here to-day exploded, totally wrecking the building, and setting fire to several houses nearby. The damage will be one hundred and fifty thousand dollars.

R. SHAW IS APPOINTED WARDEN OF THE COUNTY

WARDEN ROBT. SHAW

Elected by County Councillors to his second Wardenship in, twenty years. The vote was 9-8.

Second Time in 20 Years That the Popular Reeve of Harvey Has Been Placed at Head of County Council.

THE OPENING CEREMONIES

Robert Shaw, Reeve of Harvey, was elected Warden of the County at the meeting of the County Council which was opened at the Court House this afternoon.

All the members were present when County Clerk Elliott called for nominations. A. A. Wilde, Reeve of Belmont and Methuen Townships was nominated by Dr. Kindred.

Mr. Shaw was nominated by J. H. Garbutt and W. A. Anderson. On the resulting vote Mr. Shaw was returned with a majority of one, 9-8.

He retired to an anti-chamber accompanied by Mr. Garbutt and Mr. Anderson, took the oath of office and was robed in the Warden's gown. Returning to the Council Chamber he was greeted with a sound of applause.

The new Warden said: I thank you for this honour you have conferred upon me, and I will try to acknowledge it with honest and faithful service. Twenty years ago I was Warden of Peterborough county, and I think that I should be better qualified now after nineteen years of service. I am following one of the most popular and most efficient Wardens that has ever occupied the chair. I refer to J. H. Garbutt. This makes it all the more difficult for me on that account.

Moved by Mr. Squire, seconded by Mr. Brown, that Mr. Calder, of Norwood, be re-appointed auditor. Carried.

Moved by Mr. Cohen, seconded by Mr. Killen, that Mr. Casement, of Lakefield, be the other auditor. Carried.

The council then went into committee of the whole for the purpose of striking the standing committees. Dr. Kindred was appointed chairman.

The members of the council were present as follows: M. Brown, Asphodel; A. A. Wilde, Belmont and Methuen; N. Lean, Burleigh and Anstruther; D. Campbell, Chandos; C. J. Darling, Dummer; N. Wade, Douro; S. Killen, Enniskmore; C. Cobin, Galway and Cavendish; W. G. Howden, North Monaghan; W. A. Anderson and D. Deyell, Otonabee; J. H. Garbutt and F. McKee, Smith; B. Squire, Norwood; Dr. Kindred, Havelock; H. Fitzgerald, Lakefield; R. Shaw, Harvey.

LIBERALS ARE IN CAUCUS

Will Place Before the Country the Pressing Necessity of Relieving Economic Conditions

MEMBERS UNANIMOUS

Special Wire to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 27.—The Liberals were in caucus for a couple of hours this morning, and the course to be pursued by the party in regard to the debate on the address and the general legislation of the session was under review. Sir Wilfrid Laurier requested his followers to give close attention to their personal duties and encouraged free expressions of opinion from the representatives of the various constituencies on the big issues of the day. It will be the intention of the Opposition to place before parliament and the country the pressing necessity of reasonable measures for the alleviation of present unsatisfatcory economic conditions. The caucus was unanimously in favour of such revisions of tariff as would tend towards that end for the removal of handicaps under which the farmer at present suffers. The decision of the caucus will be verified in the budget debate, which will follow later. It is expected that the debate on the address will continue until Thursday at least. There is still a lengthy list of those desiring to express themselves on the issues of the day. It has not yet been fully decided whether there will be any further amendment offered.

SON SHOOTS HIS FATHER AND MOTHER

Special Wire to The Examiner:

ORANGEVILLE, Ont., Jan. 27.—His mind weakened through illness, Ed. Simpson to-day shot his father, Hugh Simpson, dead, then turned the gun on his mother, who is dying as a result. His sister escaped. The Simpsons are a prominent family at Orton, not far from here.

Bank Statement Shows Decrease

Special Wire to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 27. — The monthly bank statement will be out to-morrow. It is understood that it will show a considerable decrease in loans and deposits for December as compared with November or December of 1912.

Sir James Continues To Improve

Special Wire to The Examiner:

TORONTO, Jan. 27.—Premier Sir James Whitney's condition shows little change from yesterday, except possibly a slight improvement. He is taking nourishment very well.

Arrested On Charge Of Conspiracy

Special Wire to The Examiner:

TORONTO, Ont., Jan. 27.—At the request of the Toronto police, Fred Hughes, was to-day arrested in Edmonton in connection with charges of conspiracy, following the collapse of the Union Life. Hughes was a dentist in Galt for many years.

BAIL RENEWED TO SYMONS

Special Wire to The Examiner:

TORONTO, Jan. 27.—In the jury assizes to-day, the Crown consented to the renewal of bail in the case of Harry Symons, K.C., first President of the Union Life, arrested yesterday on a charge of conspiracy. The case will likely come to trial shortly.

FOUND GUILTY ON TWO CHARGES

A local man faced two charges in police court this morning. He was charged with being drunk and disorderly on Simcoe Street, and on this count was fined $2 and costs, $5.75 in all.

He was also accused of assaulting another man. The complainant said that on Monday night they were having a game of cards for money, and in an altercation that arose he was "beaten up." He was fined $5 on this charge.

They Never Quit

Did it ever strike you that none of the five largest dry goods houses in the city, doing the largest business on George Street, ever quit advertising?

Get the continuous advertising habit once, and you can't shake it off. Why? Because there is money in it every day of the year.

Here is the last week of January and these merchants are talking of Spring!

Merchandise used to move by season. Now it moves by Advertising.

There is no dull season to the live retail advertiser.

First Place To The Trent Canal Says John Bell

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—I see through the newspapers there is considerable discussion just now in regard to the Georgian Bay and the Welland Canal, and none to say a word about our Trent Valley waterway. I say, in the interest of our whole Dominion, from Halifax to Vancouver, that the Trent Valley waterway should be completed with the greatest haste, and before anything is done upon the Welland or the Georgian Bay Canals. Owing to the short distance between Midland, on Georgian Bay, and Trenton, Ontario. With ample elevators at Midland and Trenton the Trent Valley waterway should be of more value to Canada than either the Georgian Bay or the Welland Canal. It is said there is less than twenty-five miles of actual canal on this short waterway route, from Midland to Trenton. There will be eight feet of water on sills or four feet more dpth than the Erie Canal, which has built up New York City so much. To deepen the Welland Canal would help he Erie Canal much more than that of Montreal or Quebec. There are millions of cash locked up in this great waterway and millions of cash lost yearly by the non-completion of this great work. In future, with steam shovels and dredges and all modern facilities for the purpose of canal construction this Trent Valley waterway may become the deep waterway from Midland to England.

PUNISHMENT OF CRIME.

One must commend Magistrate Watt of Brantford for sentencing a convicted wife-beater to the lash. The lash is the only thing that will appeal to a coward and a bully—like him; for a man that will strike a woman is both. Such a man is bold and bullying before somebody weaker than himself, but shows the coward he is at heart when he meets a physical equal. Even such a brute has a thinner skin than moral sense. No degradation or shameful punishment will affect him; a well swung cat falling forcefully upon his back reaches the only responsive part in his make-up. Flogging may be regarded as degrading, but a few stripes carried on the back where nobody but the jail surgeon can see them, are not as degrading as the striped vestments of prisoners that can be seen. The lash is the true punishment for wife-beaters and ravishers—it's a taste of their own medicine which must needs be very bitter and stands to prove more of a deterrent — which is the main point—than any other form of diciplining degenerates.

We are apt to be too mawkishly sentimental towards criminals. We too often forget, the misery, pain, humiliation and irremediable harm they give their victims. A Mr. Bickerdike, M.P., of Montreal, St. Lawrence division, has introduced a bill to amend the criminal code. Its chief provision means the abolition of capital punishment and the substitution of life imprisonment; but there is some compensation in making the crime of rape punishable with life imprisonment—a proper thing if no other physical means is employed to make a repetition of the offence impossible. It is questionable whether the death penalty for murder should be abolished. Take the case of a degenerate like Taylor, who murdered a boy in a most revolting way, and was hanged the other day in Brantford. Are we not well rid of him? Society need not fear him any more. His account is settled. If he were put in prison for life he might murder his guards or the warden, and would besides, have to be maintained at the expense of hard-working honest people. The life of homicidal criminals is something that will not be missed—their room is better than their company in every sense, and the protection of society justifies their removal. It will not be a calamity from which there will not be quick recovery. Even great men like Lord Strathcona and Senator Cox, pass away and the world soon moves on as before. Their death was a loss to the world but, speaking reverently, the world survives. The world will be better for the absence of degenerates whose criminality takes the form of destroying human life; and Parliament should think twice, before it deprives society of the greatest possible deterrent, and what is better, an absolute prevention of murder on the part of the murderer. Keep the cat hanging before the wife-beater's and, the criminal assailant's eyes, and the rope dangling before the eyes of the man with murder in his heart and nature.

ANOTHER KIND OF SWORD.

The Toronto Star, under the heading printed above, preaches a rather tidy little sermon to them of the jingo cult, who drink blood and sleep on their arms—always ready for a fight, assuming that others do the fighting. These same jingoists burden people with immense expenditresu for war preparations in time of peace; these same jingoists uphold Col. the Hon. Sam Hughes in his mad militia expenditures, planting drill halls all over the country till they become as plentiful as country school houses. Anent one of these journalistic jingoists the Star says:

> The Hamilton Spectator, taking a gloomy view of the prospects of world-peace, says: "Even the Great Master said: 'I came not to send peace, but a sword.'"
>
> It is amazing that one writer after another goes on quoting this passage without looking up the tenth chapter of St. Matthew, from which it is extracted. Anyone who will take that trouble will find that the words so often quoted are followed by these:
>
> "For I am come to set a man at variance against his father and the daughter against her mother, and the daughter-in-law against her mother-in-law. And a man's foes shall be they of his own household."
>
> This was how the sword was to be sent. Now, does any man in his senses suppose that a physical sword was meant Does anyone suppose that Christ came to advocate the murder of parents by children and of children by parents? Clearly in order to make sense out of the passage we must read it in another way. It is plain that the reference was to a spiritual conflict to be brought about by the introduction of disturbing religious ideas into the Roman world. The result would be persecution, martyrdom, severance of old friendships, shocks even to the sacred ties of family.
>
> Social and moral reformers of this age know exactly what kind of "sword" is meant—know how a great and vital issue may cause conflict between friends and even between relatives. That is the meaning of the passage. It was not intended to bring comfort to the Krupps and other makers of the modern sword.
>
> This sermon is not remarkable for unusual profundity of thought, but it's a good sermon in that the hearer can easily understand what the preacher is talking about. But there is one thing about it worth remarking—it upsets largely obtaining ideas of the moral obliquity of editorial vision, of the cynical indifference and ignorance of newspaper men in regard to Holy Scripture and holy things. A newspaper man is not like other men. He very often knows more; knows more at least of human nature—a knowledge that best fits a preacher for effective appeal to his flock—invests him with the wisdom of the serpent whose lack often eliminates the harmlessness of the dove. The average newspaper man is capable from his knowledge of the Scriptures and his knowledge of human nature to, at a pinch, preach a sermon, criticise a sermon and keep tab on the preacher. Many a preacher doesn't know that "the chiel amang them takin' notes," can, and does take notes. You would not find the average newspaperman, if he undertook to read the lesson, mis-reading familiar Holy Scripture, as a minister was heard to do last night. He was reading the fifth chapter of St. Paul's letter to the Galatians, and prosed on in this wise: "Now the works of the flesh are manifest, which are these, envyings, murders, drunkenness, "revilings." Now, the man that would read "revilings" for the word which the sense and connection, if not the printed letters, made plain—"revellings"—shows either a remarkable carelessness or an unfamiliarity with the Scriptures—either, or both, inexcusable in a teacher. Yet we might easily find such a reverend gentlemen constituting himself a press censor, and a critic of newspaper work and policy and morals. We give this subject so much attention in order to justify the gentlemen of the press, who make mistakes, as a matter of course, for none of us "know it all." We are all poor, fallible creatures at the best. This should teach us the practice of the crowning Christian virtue—charity. We can give each other credit for honest intentions, work with each other in a kindly spirit of tolerance for the weak and practical sympathy with the more robust. The pulpit and the press are not essentially antagonistic, as some intemperates on both sides sometimes lead us to believe—they are complementary; or can be made so if both bear and forbear—work and co-work.

THE SOLUTION--- BORROW LESS; PRODUCE MORE

Canada is getting a great deal of advice just now from British economists as well as a great deal of capital from British financiers. Sir Edward Holden, who is both an economist and a banker, has been casting an eye over our international accounts and he is of the opinion that it is obviously the duty of Canada to go slowly, to spend less and to borrow less. The repeated warnings of the past few weeks have not been given, in a spirit of meddlesomeness. Lord Strathcona, in his last published words urged caution. Mr. Hirst and Sir George Paish, while agreeing that basic conditions in the Dominion are sound, directed attention to our huge borrowings on construction account, and insisted that greatly increased production was necessary to enable the country to carry the interest burden and begin the process of repayment. Every student of finance who considers what a debt of three billions of dollars resting on eight million people means regards it as an imperative duty that Canada shall borrow less and produce more.

There are signs that this advice is being taken. Imports show slight decreases, while for the nine months of the current fiscal year exports in almost every branch of industry show marked increases. Agricultural products to the value of $177,700,000 were exported in the nine months of the fiscal year ending December 31, as compared with $119,209,000 in 1912. Exports of animals and their produce increased from $36,740,000 to $43,508,000, of the fisheries from $12,180,000 to $16,080,000, and of manufacturers from $31,160,000 to $41,478,000. These are very substantial and satisfactory increases. They indicate that the opening of the American market to our cattle and meat and the material reduction of the grain duties have greatly stimulated the export trade in all agricultural products.

I would be well, however, not to put too much emphasis on the figures. Much of the increase in the agricultural products export is due to an earlier crop movement than we have had for many years. Mr. Norman Lambert, the Globe's western representative, writing from Calgary, says that during the 112 days following September 1, 140,000 cars of grain were shipped out of the Prairie Provinces, or 40,000 more than during the same period of 1912. He estimates that there are only about thirty million bushels of export wheat to come forward, or about half the amount awaiting shipment at this time last year. These figures indicate that there will be a rather marked falling-off in the export movement during the next few months, and that some part of the gain at present recorded will be lost during the coming spring.

The outlook for the future, however, is distinctly encouraging. The open market to the south will greatly stimulate stock-raising and dairying in Ontario. The favourable fall in the West has enabled the farmers to prepare two million acres mor for the 1914 crop than have ever been under cultivation west of the lakes in any previous year. The paper and pulp industries increase their output steadily, and the expansion in mining is marked. We are beginning to take the advice of our financial physicians. Sound national health is within our reach. But we must follow the prescription; we must spend less, borrow less and produce more. —The Globe.

A Word To The Wise

The exceptional conditions prevailing during the last year have made it possible for us to offer to shrewd investors some great bargains in real estate.

You can purchase through us several properties at from one-half to two-thirds their real value, that will in the Spring be in demand for building purposes owing to their location in the heart of the section which saw such phenomenal building activity last year.

Reports show that business in all lines is picking up and 1914 is said to promise the greatest development for Canada that she has yet enjoyed.

A Few Facts For All Who Want To Make Money

Wise and rich men advise their friends to buy lots in the way of a growing City Plain, common sense endorses that advice.

All must acknowledge that Peterboro is growing rapidly South and West.

It is generally known that I own a very desirable block of high land half mile South and West from C. G. E. Works, overlooking the South End Churches and School, the C. P. R. G. T. R., and Street Car line, also the big Factories. I have subdivided that land into blocks of two lots, 50 x 123 feet to a lane 12 feet, each lot containing 3075 square feet. These lots would be excellent value at $200, each but because of my desire to be freed from business I have decided to sell for $175 and accept deposit of $5.00 on one or two lots, to which I will add a bonus of $5.00, giving receipt for $10.00, no interest nor any further payments required, until May, when offered plan will be registered. All lots properly staked and balance of Streets Cantesmire, Ford Avenue and Western Avenue graded to the Gravel Road. Restrictions. Brick Brick Veneer, Concrete or Stone houses only permitted.

Other lots 50 x 157—7850 square feet for $150, and $200, on same terms. Free Deed and perfect title. Plans and all particulars at office. This offer will never be repeated.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

Leaders Of The Mercantile League Were Beaten By The Test Room Seven Last Night

The first of the Mercantile League games at the Brock Street rink last night was a lively clash between the Test Department and the Bankers. The game was a very fast one, the goals being taken after end-to-end individual or combination rushes, and every man on the ice showed up very well.

Carter worked very hard for the Test seven, and for the cash handlers Minorgan and Phelan came through oftener than the rest. But Corkery played a strong defence game, and the Bankers' defence was worked overtime at some periods of the game. Both net guardians behaved well.

The C.G.E. brigade were rather disorganised on account of the fierce checking of the Bankers and the rushes of their speedy forward line. But when they did get going, a shot at McCrimmon was almost invariably the result.

The half time score was 2—2, and there was no choice between the teams in this half. The Bankers were showing a little more individual speed, but the Test were using more team work than their opponents.

The only difference was that in the second half the Test Room broke away several times with the whole forward line in a row, and in the latter half of the period a combination rush took the puck right from the mouth of their own nets to the other end of the ice. This resulted in a goal, making the score 3—2. The teams were:

Bankers—Goal, McCrimmon; right defence, Corkery; left defence, Phelan; rover, Paton; centre, Minorgan; right wing, Smith; left wing, McCrostie.

Test—Goal, Dwyer; right defence, Brackenreed; left defence, McKean; rover, McDougall; centre, Carter; right wing, Boone; left wing, Munro.

Second Game.

The second Mercantile League game last night resulted in a victory for the Examiner team over the Plumbers. This is the first win of the season, and puts them even with the Plumbers and the De Laval for fourth place in the league.

The first half was strenuous and was marked by repeated rushes from one end of the rink to the other. Both teams were checking and checking back quite furiously, and neither seemed to be able to annex more than 50 p.c. of the play. Cook in goal for the garnet and white seven, had a easy time, while Dunford had to handle some difficult ones. The Examiner brigade were keeping too close a watch on Reynolds, the fast defence man in the blue and white uniform, for him to do much damage, and not once during the game did he get a shot at goal. But he was dangerous all the time, and made more than one sensational effort. Heard, Lees, Swanston and Barringer were working well for the Examiner, with Cook a reliable introduction of the crochet work.

Grange, Helson, Mullette, Reynolds and Dunford were showing good form for the Plumbers. The half time score was 0—0.

In the second half the Examiner stalwarts came back with a rush that forced the Plumbers to fight hard to keep the rubber off the lace. The blue and white came back, led by Mullette, in a dangerous rush that nearly resulted in a goal, Cook blocking the man and saving the count. The puck was coaxed to the north end of the rink, and the Examiner outfit had the Plumbers pretty well bottled up. Heard finally scored the only goal of the game on a neat, trickey rush. L. Dobson refereed the game.

The game was distinguished by the good, clean, honest sport on both sides. The "Examiner" boys evidently remembered—as they always do—their manager's slogan—"Let it be good, clean, honest hockey, boys, and win the game, if you can."

The teams were:

Plumbers—Goal, Dunford; right defence, Reynolds; left defence, Mullette; rover, Dobson; centre, Helson, left wing, Logan; right wing, Grange.

Examiner — Goal, Cook; right defence, Clancy; left defence, Swanston; rover, Heard; centre, Armstrong; right wing, Barringer; left wing, Lees.

Third Game.

The snappy Tool Room seven annexed the third fixture of the evening 4—2. But they took it only after a stubborn fight every inch of the way by the De Leval seven. The Dairy machine men showed a lot more spirit than in last weeks games, and gave Cassidy a few nervous minutes during the game. As before, Spratt was the backbone of the team, and his defence work last night was a feature. But all the other players worked hard, consistently and effectively and gave the Tool Room a stiff struggle every minute of the play.

Barrie and Kelly seemed to pull off the most effective work last night for the Tool Room, but Primeau was there with the goods as usual, and Jackson had a wicked shot from his wing. Cassidy was good in goal.

No particular man on the De Laval could be mentioned in particular, but Spratt, who of course would shine on any of the teams. But they worked hard and well together, and the game last night was harder than the score would indicate.

The half time score was 2—1, and the full time count 4—2 for the Tool Room.

The teams were:

De Laval— Goal, Denne; right defence, Rinter; left defence, Spratt; rover, Fitzgerald; centre, Todd; right wing, Byers; left wing, Hill.

Tool Room—Goal, Cassidy; right defence, Flemming; left defence, Kelly; rover, Barrie; centre, Hilliard; right wing, Primeau; left wing, Jackson.

Referee—L. Dobson.

INTERESTING RACE IN INTERMEDIATE GROUP

Whitby's defeat at the hands of Oshawa last night, eliminated them from the group race and it has practically sifted down to a battle between Belleville, Cobourg and Peterborough. Belleville have still four games to play and, as three of them are away from home, in Bowmanville, Cobourg and Whitby, they have a much harder row to hoe than the Petes who have only two to play and one of these at home. Cobourg have still four games to play, two away from home, at Peterborough and Belleville, so that the Petes have the easiest going from now on. By winning their two remaining games they cannot get more than a tie even if Belleville wins all the remaining games. The situation briefly is that Belleville must beat Cobourg both at home and abroad and win in Whitby to tie Peterborough if the latter beat Cobourg here and Whitby in the latter town. On the other hand Cobourg could win the district by defeating Peterborough here and taking both games from Belleville.

The standing is as follows:

	Won.	Lost.	To Play
Peterborough . . .	6	2	2
Belleville.	4	2	4
Cobourg.	4	2	4
Oshawa.	5	3	2
Whitby	3	4	3
Bowmanville	0	9	1

BIG CROWD FOR THE COBOURG GAME TO-NIGHT

The ice will be in fine shape for to-night's big battle between Cobourg and Peterborough, in spite of the soft weather outside and there is every reason to expect the fastest, hardest fought game of the season. A defeat for either team will practically put them out of the running, and with the group championship, as it were, at stake it looks like one grand fight. Don't overlook this Cobourg team. They gave the Petes an awful battle in Cobourg last week and the homesters will have to be right on edge to-night to earn the decision. Judging by the comment around Town over the game the biggest crowd of the year will be on hand. The puck will be faced at 8.30 o'clock sharp. The Peterborough Club have not been informed as to who will referee.

EXCITING GAME IN THE JUNIOR HOCKEY LEAGUE

The battle of the season in the Junior City Hockey League is on the cards for to-morrow night, when the Boston Exploits and the Y.M.C.A. seven will clash. Neither team has been beaten this season and both are supremely confident of winning tomorrow night. Both have shown good form in their games with the other League teams and a hard fight may be looked for. The Exploits and Y. play the first game of the evening, while the Alerts and Wanderers meet in the second fixture.

Oshawa Won From Whitby

OSHAWA, Jan. 26.—Oshawa defeated Whitby here to-night for the first time in the history of local hockey. The half-time score was 1 to 0 in favour of Whitby, and the full-time score 4 to 3 in favour of Oshawa.

Whitby—Goal, Jubbs; right defence, Smith; left defence, McIntyre; rover, Lorey; centre, Rice; left wing, Blanchard; right wing, Watson.

Oshawa—Goal, R. Fair; right defence, Riordan; lift defence, Freeman; rover, Quinn; centre, W. Fair; left wing, Morphy; right wing, Canning.

Referee—L. Whitehead.

Hockey--That's All

Oshawa Group Champions.

The Whitby juniors have defaulted to Oshawa juniors, who thereby win the championship of O.H.A. group No. 3.

The Oshawa intermediates will play their postponed game in Whitby Wednesday night.

Port Hope Juniors Drop Out.

Port Hope juniors yesterday defaulted their home game with Kingston Frontenacs Thursday night. Frontenacs are the group champions.

The Alerts will practice at the Sacred Heart Rink to-night between 7 and 8 o'clock. A full turnout of players is requested.

BELLEVILLE, Jan. 26. — By a score of 11 to 5 the Beleville O. H. A. intermediate team to-night defeated Bowmanville. The score at half-time was 5 to 2 in favour of Belleville. The line-up:

Belleville—Goal, Brotherhood; right defence, Gunter; left defence, T. Brant; rover, Dunning; centre, Whalen; right wing, Symons; left wing, B. Brant.

Bowmanville—Goal, Spry; right defence, Robinson; left defence, Jones; rover, Williams; centre, Cryderman; right wing, Hooper; left wing, Higginbotham.

Referee—Dr. Gilbert.

JUNIOR SECTION OF CHURCH LEAGUE

A meeting of the Junior section of the Church Hockey League was held in the Y.M.C.A. last night at which the schedule for the week was arranged. The following teams were represented: St.Andrew's, St. Paul's, Charlotte St., All Saints', Knox and the Y.M.C.A. The schedule for the week is as follows:

Wednesday, Jan. 28th—6 to 7, Y.M.C.A. vs. St. Andrew's.

Thursday, Jan. 29th—6 to 7, St. Paul's vs. Charlotte St.

Friday, Jan. 30th—All Saints' vs. Knox.

Each club must hand the secretary a list of its players before they go on the ice.

BASEBALL

Hamilton Spectator—Many Canadian League fans were inclined to doubt the report that the Berlin Canadian League franchise would be placed in Toronto. The general opinion was that it would be taken to Niagara Falls. The opinion was aired in spite of the fact that the rating of the Canadian League was raised from Class C to Class B on the strength of the decision of the Toronto Baseball club to place the Berlin franchise in the Queen City. This morning, President James McCaffery, of the Toronto Ball club, makes an announcement which should dispel all doubt as to the disposition of the Berlin club.

Splendid progress is being made in the organization of the local stock company, which is to take over the Hamilton Ball club. The business men of the city have greeted the opportunity to take over the club with satisfaction, and the response has been good. It is expected that the list will be cleaned up by Wednesday night.

The chief trouble in Erie seems to be a lack of knowledge as to the calibre of the Canadian League and failure to realize that this league is one of the most promising in the National Association. Erie fans have large-sized ideas as to the class of baseball they are entitled to. They had Class B ball for one season, and that was when they were with the Central League. Baseball in the Central League that season was no faster than the article given by the Canadian League, and this assertion is made on the strength of the statement made by Frank Shaughnessy, the Ottawa manager. Shag was manager of the Fort Wayne club in the Central League the year that Erie was in the circuit, and as Fort Wayne won the pennant, the Ottawa chap should know. Lack of knowledge as to Canadian League conditions, and the dog-in-the-manger attitude of one Mr. Connors are the two troubles which Geo. O'Neill must clear away.

St. Thomas and Peterborough have announced their managers for 1914. Midge Craven will have charge in St. Thomas, while Curly Blount is to be the Peterborough manager. Eddie Holly is suggested for Hamilton; Bill Bradley for Toronto; Shaughnessy will again hold forth in Ottawa, while Doc Reisling will be in charge at London. Rube Deneau is likely to be the boss at Brantford, while something definite on the Erie proposition can be expected this week.

Toronto World: President McCaffery, of the Toronto ball club, makes the announcement that the Toronto Canadian league team will play at Scarboro Beach, and there is no chance of the outfit being shipped over to the Falls.

This will give both the Ferry and Dailway companies baseball and lacrosse, and eliminate any cause for jealousy.

Charlie Dooin and Sherwood Magee, of the Philadelphia Nationals are in the city staying at the Bay Tree hotel. The former is here for his vaudeville engagement, and the latter just to keep his friend company. Both are staunch supporters of organized ball.

Toronto Mail and Empire: President McCaffery of the Toronto baseball club, stated last night that the International league had given their consent to allow the Canadian league to play in Toronto. The manager of the team will be announced on Wednesday, and a little bird whispers it will be Bill Bradley.

With the Canadian league classification being raised from C. to B. the patrons will be treated to a faster brand of ball. Had the rating remained at C. the Toronto club would not have received much benefit from their "farm," as players not good enough for Class AA. or International, would not get the experience in class C that they would in class B.

A NEW ENTERPRISE

Mr. J. H. Bell of North Monaghan is now engaged in the transportation business. During the stormy weather last week he put on a 'bus line between Orpington Road, North Monaghan and the C. G. E. and the enterprise was so well patronized that Mr. Bell has decided to keep up the service. His 'bus makes morning and evening trips and the accommodation is much appreciated by the C. G. E. employees who live in the Township.

CANNOT SIT IDLE

Government Must Meet Conditions, Says Hon. Mr. Lemieux

TIME HAS COME TO SPEAK

OTTAWA, Jan. 27. — Applying John Bright's famous quotation, "Heaven has dealt kindly with our people, but the foolishness of our rulers has made the goodness of God of no effect," Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux delivered a pointed criticism of the strained industrial situation in Canada in the Commons last night. He urged the need for active measures to cope with unemployment and the high cost of living, and expressed his view that free foodstuffs and vigorous warfare on trusts and middlemen would go far to meet the emergency.

The debate was resumed by Mr. LaFortune, the Liberal member for Montcalm, Que., who spoke in French. He was followed by Mr. Broder (Con., Dundas), who discussed the reports of financial stringency and unemployment throughout the country.

Mr. Broder said that while there might be some distress in the cities, farmers were never more prosperous than at present. It was much to be doubted whether 100,000 people were out of employment in Canada, but if they were it should be remembered that Canada was receiving immigrants at the rate of 400,000 a year, and it took time for all these people to find work.

"The people are making more money now and they spend it more freely. The Opposition urges the Government to reduce the cost of living, but the Government cannot make that hen running around the barnyard lay one egg more, and it cannot make the cattle any fatter. It is the man who feeds them who can do that. The solution is with the farmer."

Mr. Broder said he could not view the question of free wheat from the same point of view as the western man. He added: "The future of the west depends on mixed farming, and it needs the bye-product of the wheat. Without it dairying will suffer severely. We now grind enough flour in Canada for 14,000,000 people, but should grind enough for 50,000,000."

Mr. Broder then referred to the decrease in the number of milch cows in Eastern Canada, and the increase in the west. In Ontario, in the last four years, owing to lack of the right kind of hired help, the number of milch cows fell from 30,000 to 26,000, while the non-milch cows increased from 13,000 to 19,000, and from 1901 to 1911 the decrease in milch cows in Ontario was 32,784.

Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux followed Mr. Broder. After touching upon the Georgian Bay Canal, ocean freight rates, civil service reform, and re distribution, the ex-Postmaster-General dealt with the present financial situation.

Three years ago, he said, Canadian trade was buoyant, Canadian credit was good, and prosperity and progress were abroad in the land. To-day there was industrial unrest and unemployment, credit was impaired, and hard times were making their presence felt in almost every centre of population.

It was not the business of Parliament to sit idle and wail "let be enough alone." Neither was it well to degenerate into mere calamity bowling. The situation called for action. "The old order is passing under Lloyd George in Britain, it is passing under President Wilson in the United States, and it is time to speak the plain and honest truth to the privileged classes in Canada, who since 1879 have enjoyed the fruits of protection and monopoly," declared the ex-Postmaster-General.

He submitted to the House the program asked for by the Dominion Grange, by the Western Grain Growers, and by the Trades and Labor Council. "I know all this cannot be granted in one fell swoop," said he "but speaking for myself I believe the time has come to take a forward step, to join the international procession of advancement along the path of public weal."

Speaking for himself, Hon. Mr. Lemieux said he believed the time had come to remove all taxation on foodstuffs, on wheat, and on agricultural implements, to regulate exorbitant profits by middlemen, and to wage zealous and effective warfare on all combines and trusts.

At the conclusion of Hon. Mr. Lemieux's speech, Hon. Mr. Pelletier moved the adjournment of the debate. The division is expected to-day

POLICE GAZETTE SPORTING ANNUAL

The best little sporting reference book of the year is the "Police Gazette Sporting Annual" for 1914, published by the Richard K. Fox Publishing Company. It is a compendium of best performances in all branches of sports; ably compiled and edtied by Sam. C. Austin, the well-known sporting writer and critic. The athletic records are the records of the Amateur Athletic Union, and officially accepted by that organization; the rowing, yachting, racing, trotting, pacing, automobile, hickey, football, aeroplane and swimming records, made all over the world are officially correct. The baseball statistics were furnished by the National Baseball Commission, and include the details of the world's championship series.

The main feature of the book, however, is the pugilistic records, and includes the history of every boxer of prominence in the world. This splendid book is made doubly attractive by its high-class illustrations and photos if the champions. It is authentic and reliable, and stands to-day an authority on the subject upon which it treats. The price is ten cents, postage two cents extra.

MASTER WILLIE at The ROYAL THEATRE TO-NIGHT

McClay Was Found Guilty

After Mr. D. O'Connell for the defence, had made an eloquent and persuasive statement of his case for which he was complimented in Court yesterday afternoon by His Honour Judge Huycke, and after Mr. Joseph Wearing had outlined in a concise and extremely clear address, the claims of the Crown, the Court announced that it must find the prisoner, John McClay, "guilty" of the charge preferred against him.

McClay was charged with supplying drugs to a local girl eighteen years of age, for an illegal purpose. He pleaded "not guilty" and was defended by Messrs. V. J. McElderry and D. O'Connell. Mr. Joseph Wearing, of Wood and Wearing, conducted the prosecution.

At a previous hearing McClay had pleaded "not guilty" to the charge, and yesterday the case was heard in County Court before his Honour Judge Huycke.

The girl in the case told how the prisoner accosted her on the street one day in June last, and asked her to go to the circus. She agreed, and went walking to the lift-lock with McClay a few nights later. When they were alone near the lift-lock, McClay had forced her to have improper relations with him. Then for some time after that they lived on very intimate terms with each other, having improper relations several times. Finally the girl felt ill, and owing to certain physical disorders McClay told her that her condition was serious. She being innocent of the significance of her illness, did not think so. However, McClay persisted that such was the case and bought her a box of pills, saying "These will fix you all right." The pills were produced in Court. He told her at the time not to tell any one.

Then when the girl's pregnancy reached an advanced stage Adjutant and Mrs. McElhinney gave her shelter in their home. They got McClay to come to the house and appealed to him to help the girl, friendless and homeless, whom he had wronged. He refused and said he was not responsible for her condition.

"Then," the girl had said, "Why did you offer Dr. —— $50? And why did you give me those pills?"

"To get you out of your trouble," had been his reply.

Several local doctors were called as witnesses and swore that if the pills contained what the directions mentioned they were drugs.

Defence.

The prisoner was called in his own defence.

In the witness box he said that when he found the girl ill, he promised to marry her if she was in trouble. Then to ascertain whether that was her condition or not he gave her the pills. The object of this was to marry her in time to avoid the public knowing they had any improper relations.

"Why did you change your mind about marrying the girl?"

"Because I found out that she was an immoral girl, going around with other fellows."

Questioned further he said that a young fellow was going around with her. He objected, and she continued going with the other fellow so he "broke off his engagement."

In summing up the case for the defence Mr. O'Connell drew attention to the fact that the Crown had not proved that the pills were drugs. There had been no analysis made to show that they contained what they were purported to, in the directions. Or so far as anything the Crown had proved they might be made of quite harmless ingredients.

The law read that the accused must know that the girl intends to use the pills for an illegal purpose. The girl herself swore that when she received the pills she had no intention to use them for an illegal purpose, but to cure a trivial illness. So if there had been no intention on the part of the girl, how could prisoner know that there was such an intention? Mr. O'Connell quoted several authorities and cited some previous cases to prove his contentions.

In an able address Mr. Wearing presented the Crown's case.

In delivering judgment in the McClay case, His Honour complimented Mr. O'Connell on the admirable and persuasive manner he had handled the defence. In the matter of proving that the pills were a drug it would have been better to have had them analized. But the prisoner himself said that he read the directions before he gave the pills, and hence he must have believed they were a drug when he gave them. There was no doubt of his guilty intent as he was older in years and experience than the girl.

McClay was remanded a week for sentence.

RAGGED LAKE PRIZE FISH

For the past few years the well-known sportsman's magazine, "Field and Stream," New York, have carried on a fishing contest open to anglers in North America. The competition in this contest was very keen and many of the best prizes have been secured by sportsmen and tourists who have fished in Canada. The winner of the grand prize for lake trout caught his fish in Ragged Lake, Algonquin Provincial Park of Ontario. The fish measured 33 in. in length, 17 1-2 in. in girth and weighed 17 pounds. It was caught by Dr. Skinner, Guelph, Ont.

The ladies' grand prize for maskinonge was won for a fish caught near Stanley Island on the St. Lawrence River, a short distance from Brockville, Ont.

SECOND ANNUAL REPORT OF SANITARY INSPECTOR SPENCE

Made Two Thousand Calls and Inspections---Eight Hundred and Fifty Detailed Inspections---Fifteen Police Court Cases---Additional Help Needed.

The second annual report of Sanitary Inspector Spence was this morning presented to the Board of Health. Following the reading of the report it was pointed out that the Inspector's Department required additional assistance if the duties continuent upon that Department were to be carried out to satisfactory conclusion. The extension of the garbage collecting system and the inspection of dairies, restaurants, butcher shops, boarding houses and innumerable public places occupies considerable time that would otherwise be devoted to detailed inspection work.

The report, which was adopted, is as follows:

The Inspector's Report.

In submitting my second annual report for your consideration it is somewhat difficult to give a complete statistical record of the work accomplished but the following figures are an epitome of the most important work performed during 1913:

2000 calls and inspections.
850 detailed inspections.
71 visits to dairy farms.
63 visits to slaughter houses.
245 complaints investigated.
271 notices for the suppression of nuisances served.
305 samples of milk procured and tested.
76 recorded tests for dirt in milk.
13 Police Court cases.

The foregoing figures do not, of course convey an adequate idea of the amount of work done, as a considerable amount of time is consumed in clerical work, correspondence, records of milk tests, grading of dairy farms, records of detailed inspection work, etc. The extension of the garbage collecting system, with the organization of new routes, the breaking in of the collectors, and superintendence of the system has also occupied far too great a proportion of my time—time that should have been devoted to the detailed inspection work. A constant supervision of the yards and lanes has been maintained; bakeries, restaurants, laundries, butcher shops, boarding houses, hotels have been inspected from time to time.

The following particulars relating to what I have termed "detailed inspection" may prove interesting. Of the 850 that come under this head, 366 or about 43 per cent. possessed insanitary features of a greater or less degree; 480 were supplied with city water, 350 had wells, while 37 had no water supply on the premises; 225 had sewer connection; 604 were provided with outside closets, 250 of the total number, or about 30 per cent. kept poultry. Eight houses were condemned as unfit for habitation in their then present condition.

Complaints.

Of the total number of complaints received about half related to the garbage collecting, while of the remainder, on investigation, 17 were found to be either frivolous or groundless.

Notices.

A considerably less number of nuisance notices than last year has been issued. The accumulation of ashes and refuse formerly accounted for a grea number of these notices. This has been minimized by the garbage collecting system. Only 52 of the 271 notices issued referred to the cleaning of yards.

Milk Supply.

Th average test per cent. fat for the year of the 39 milk vendors of this City is 3.55, showing that the milk supply is of a good standard. The highest individual average is 4.45 and the lowest 3.1. Six vendors show an average test of 4 per cent. or over, sixteen between 3.5 and 4 per cent., and 17 betwen 3 and 3.5. There are also 33 other persons holding licenses for the privilege of selling milk to their neighbours.

The inspection of the dairy farms has resulted in many improvements being made, and I have almost invariably found that not only the milk vendors who produce their own milk, but the farmers who supply to the vendors, are willing to carry out any suggestions made by me with reference to the remodelling of their stables, and the ensuring of a pure milk supply produced under sanitary conditions. Forty-four dairy farms have been inspected and graded according to the standard recommended by th Provincial Board of ealth, defects pointed out and improvements recommended.

It is my intention to grade those again this winter, when, no doubt, a higher standard will be attained. The apparatus for showing the amount of dirt in milk has been of great value, as the milkman has an ocular demonstration made before him which serves to impress upon him the necessity of careful straining, and handling both in the stable and in the transit.

Boarding Houses.

The boarding houses have been carefully inspected; and the result of this inspection warrants the advocacy of licensing the same. I have found cases of inadequate lighting and ventilation, besides inadequate lavatory conveniences, and overcrowding, especially in Italian boarding houses.

Very unsanitary features have also been noted in apartments in the heart of the City, recently remodelled, or built, which justifies me asking a request that the plans of such be submitted to the Board of Health. For instance, a bathroom and lavatory placed in the middle of a suite of rooms with no light or ventilation, except a fan light opening into the drawing room; and this in a modern dwelling only lately completed. Or again a W. C. allowed to be placed in a clothes cupboard, with absolutely no light or ventilation except a door leading into a bedroom; or still worse, a W. C. in the middle of a bedroom, not enclosed in any way, and of an obsolete pattern at that. These instances are contrary to all laws of hygiene and sanitation, and we should be justified in condemning such conditions.

Meat Supply.

The expose last spring of the conditions under which the meat supply of Peterborough was produced has resulted in a vast improvement being made in the slaughter houses affected therby, and a better supply of meat being put on the market. The retail butchers are I believe, honest in their intentions to deal only in sound and wholesome meat, but they are at the mercy of unscrupulous drovers and farmers. The latter will refuse to sell their best beasts unless the poor ones are taken at the same time, and the buyer must either go without or make the best of a bad bargain. Naturally he chooses the latter course and as a diseased carcass can be so "faked" as to deceive any but a skilled and trained eye, it is foisted upon the consumer. The remedy for this evil is a public abattoir, which I trust, will receive the earnest attention of the Council of 1914.

Progress.

The past year has seen great strides insanitation, notably the extension of the garbage collecting system, the building of an incinerator and the passing of a compulsory sewer connection by-law, and I trust the coming year will be as fruitful in measures to safeguard the public health. Much remains to be done before Peterborough can stand in the front rank as a sanitary city, but with the co-operation of an enlightened public and a spirit of civic patriotism this desideratum will be attained.

TEMPERANCE ASSOCIATION ENDORSES THE DOMINION ALLIANCE POLICY

This Action Follows a Lengthy Discussion Arising out of the Question—"Should This County Alliance go Into Politics?"

OFFICERS ELECTED FOR YEAR

That the County of Peterborough branch of the Dominion Alliance reaffirms the policy adopted by the Dominion Alliance at its last annual convention and pledges itself to work in accordance therewith

The foregoing is the text of a resolution that was adopted at the conclusion of the first session of the annual convention of the Peterborough County Temperance Alliance that was held in the Y.M.C.A. yesterday afternoon. This thirty-one word expression of opinion was evolved after an animated discussion lasting nearly two hours. That this much time was sacrificed in the production of the resolution was due to a contentious difference of opinion. A section of the meeting would have endorsed the "Abolish the Bar" policy, as adopted by the Liberal party of Ontario, whereas others preferred to endow the resolution with a non-political complexion by following in the footsteps of the Dominion Alliance. The latter is credited with the origination of the policy that now constitutes a plank in the platform of Leader N. W. Rowell.

Spoke Eleven Times.

The resolution was moved by a Conservative, Mr. G. A. Brethen, of Norwood, who spoke to the motion eleven times before it was finally place on record by the Secretary, Mr. R. Lees. It was seconded by Mr. A. B. Cunningham. The original resolution as suggested by several of the delegates contained the "abolish the bar" clause. The objection to this was based upon the grounds that the Alliance would have to approach both political parties in which case it would be unwise to wait upon the Conservative party armed with a resolution embodying a clause that was looked upon as the battle cry of the Liberal party.

Rev. R. G. Peever was of the opinion that the Alliance should take a neutral position and the adoption of a plank from the platform of either one of the parties should not justify an alliance with that particular party. Rev. R. Pogue concurred in this opinion.

"Play Fast and Loose."

Mr. H. B. Cowan, President of the County Temperance Association, said that while it was admitted that the Alliance would have to approach both political parties they should not lose sight of the fact that both parties would play fast and loose with the temperance question.

"Go to the men who will make 'the 'abolish the bar' policy a plank in their platform irrespective of party politics" said Mr. Lees.

"That would settle the whole question," offered Rev. Mr. Rollins, who favoured the exclusion of the "abolish the bar" clause from the resolution upon grounds that have already been stated.

Mr. A. B. Cunningham—"What we want is to get out and support the most advanced temperance legislation. Personally I am a Conservative, but I would support Mr. Rowell's policy as being in advance of anything that has been proposed by both parties to date."

Nothing to Be Gained.

Rev. Mr. Peever contended that there was nothing to be gained by changing the definition of the "abolish the bar" policy. Any other definition would end to confuse the public mind. He recommended that the clause be inserted in the resolution as it more clearly defined the attitude of the Dominion Alliance. "It's no use hedging," interdicted Mr. Lees. "When it comes to an election we are going to be politicians anyhow."

At this juncture several of the members called for the vote on the question with the result that the resolution was adopted.

It was also decided to authorize the executive committee of the Alliance to appoint men to attend the party conventions with a view of ascertaining the position of the candidates on the temperance question. Upon the finding of these men will depend the attitude of the temperance party respecting their election.

The subject, "Should this County Alliance Go into Politics?" precipitated a few non-committal speeches.

CELEBRATED ANNIVERSARY OF BOBBIE BURNS

ROBERT BURNS.

BORN JAN., 1759—DIED JULY, 1796.

Coleman's parlours presented a festive appearance last night, when the Caledonian Club met there to celebrate the birth of Scotland's famous poet Burns. About forty members were there presided over by their President, A. J. Moyes. The menu left nothing to be desired, the chief dish being The Haggis. After the good things were done justice to an excellent programme was gone over.

The following toasts and songs were given:

Chairman's remarks.
Toast—"Immortal Memory," J. Witherstone.
Song—"There was a Lad," R. Hendry.
Toast—"The Empire," R. Burns.
Song—"O' a' the airts," W. King.
Toast—"The Lassies," T. Ogilvie.
Song—"Ye Banks and Braes," W. King.
Toast—"Our City," W. Leyburn.
Trio—"Willie brewed a peck o' Maut," Messrs Dickson, Elliot, and Witherstone.
Accompanist—R. Sinclair.

With songs, gramaphone selections and the usual votes of thanks, a pleasant evening was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem and "Auld Lang Syne."

Members!—Don't forget the meeting Friday night.

DOCTORS DECLINE TO TREAT DEAD-HEADS

At the request of His Worship Mayor Buller, the by-law respecting the appointment of Dr. McPherson, Medical Health Officer, was read at the meeting of the Board of Health, which was held this morning. The section of the by-law, that claimed the interest of the Mayor referred to the free dispensation of medicine to the poor. Mayor Buller cited a case that was reported recently of a man who had been refused medical attention. The case was reported to Dr. McPherson by Dr. Sutton. The former is said to have declined to supply free medicine. The Mayor who was then advised of the case, provided gratis, the necessary medicine.

Would Not Treat Dead Heads.

Dr. McPherson in explanation of the circumstances signified his willingness to supply patients with medicine upon the certificate of the Relief Officer, or member of the City Council. He declined to look after dead-heads reported to him by local doctors.

"There are a lot of dead-heads who go from one doctor to another and who practically refuse to pay their debts," said the Medical Health Officer.

Dr. Amys—"There are lots of people who are too poor to pay the doctor, but can buy furs and gramophones. No doctor will refuse to attend a person who is unable to pay."

The Mayor revived the free dispensary idea, which it will be remembered, formed a part of the policy inaugurated by Mayor Buller during the mayoralty campaign.

REV. F. A. CONNERS ON "LOCAL OPTION"

The following poem was recited by Rev. F. A. Conners, Pastor of Park Street Baptist Church, in concluding his remarks at the temperance meeting in George Street Sunday School room, last night:

We've got a class of men to-day,
Who go to Church and sing and pray,
Then go away and scoff and sneer,
And vote for whiskey, wine and beer;
Yes, vote for whiskey, gin and rum,
And then they pray "Thy Kingdom Come."
They claim to be of God's adoption,
But vote against the "Local Option."

Is there a son from Erin's Isle
Who is so wretched, base and vile?
Is there a son of Scotland fair,
Who'd stoop to such, or even dare?
Is there a son of English birth,
Or such a soul in all the earth,
Who'd dare defile that Holy name,
Supporting such infamy and shame?

If such there be, go mark him well,
He's on the road to death and hell;
For in God's Word 'tis plainly given
That such shall not inherit Heaven;
May God enable him to see,
That such, a Christian could not be,
For figs on thistles never grow,
But men shall reap just what they sow.

No agency between the Poles,
Has wrecked more homes, or damn'd more souls,
And yet we have the devil's den,
By vote of so-called Christian men;
Such temperance men we have enough,
God, give us those of nobler stuff,
Who will upon "Election Day"
Vote just exactly as they pray.

McClay's Case Goes To Court Of Appeal

Case of John McClay, who was found guilty of supplying drugs to a local girl for illegal purposes, will be appealed. It will be heard at an early date in the Court of Appeals.

LACKAWANNA SUIT COMES UP

Special Wire to The Examiner:

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Jan. 27.—The Government's suit against the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad and the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Coal Company, came up for argument in the United States District Court to-day. The action, which is designed to break up the alleged anthracite monopoly, was brought under the commodities clause of the Hepburn Act, forbidding a common carrier to engage in business as a producer in commodities transported over its lines. Violation of the Sherman anti-trust law is also alleged. The suit was started in February of last year by Attorney-General Wickersham, after the Supreme Court decision in the Temple Iron case.

Bishops Will Probe Charges of Suffragette Tortures

TO VISIT HOLLOWAY JAIL

LONDON, Jan. 27.—The Rt. Rev. Arthur Foley Winnington Ingram, Bishop of London, last night promised a deputation from the Women's Social and Political Union, that if he can obtain the Home Secretary's consent he will, in the course of a few days, visit Holloway Jail, accompanied by the Bishop of Kensington, in order to investigate the allegations that three suffragettes imprisoned there suffer excruciating torture while being subjected to forcible feeding. If official permission is obtained the two bishops will witness the operation.

This projected action on the part statements made at a meeting of the Militants' Union by Miss Florence Ansell, recently released from Holloway, that while there she heard shrieks and moans twice daily proceeding from the opposite cell occupied by Rachel Peace, who is serving an eighteen months' term.

At the same meeting Miss Barbara Wylie, referring to the purpose of the militants to call on the King, as announced by Mrs. Dacre-Fox, a week ago, said that the deputation would not prostrate themselves before the throne as Sir Edward Carson, the Ulster Unionist leader, said the Ulsterites would, but would stand before his Majesty erect. She did not think that the deputations would find any difficulty in obtaining an audience with the King. If nothing came of it, the women still had the same right to fight as Ulster.

TOBOGGANING FOR CHILDREN

Weather permitting there will be free tobogganing for the children at the Jackson Park slide from four until six o'clock to-morrow afternoon, Friday and Saturday. Mr. G. Galley, Boys' Secretary of the Y.M.C.A., and a number of the boys of the Junior Department, have kindly consented to take charge of the tobogganing for the little ones.

TRY WOMAN ON CHARGE OF MURDER

Special Wire to The Examiner:

NEW ORLEANS, La., Jan. 27. — The selection of a jury to hear the trial of Augusta Agnes Edwards, the young woman stenographer who shot and killed George W. Riehl last summer, was begun to-day. The trial will be a speedy one, it is believed, as few witnesses will be called by either side. Miss Edwards, who is of striking appearance, was formerly a cloak model in a department store in this city. Evidence will be introduced by the defence to show that her reputation was unblemished up to the time she resigned her place in the store to become a stenographer in Riehl's office. The girl claims to have been led astray by Riehl, who was a married man with grown children. When his attentions ceased, Miss Edwards, unable to gain admission to his office, awaited him on a street in the business section and shot him to death in view of many persons, whose lives also were imperiled by the bullets as the frenzied girl emptied the chambers of the weapon in rapid succession.

Glaciers Were Responsible For The Change

In the Topography of the Country Declares Speaker at Meeting of Royal Astronomical Society

INTERESTING PROGRAMME

The monthly meeting of the Royal Astronomical Society, Peterborough Centre, was held last evening in the Assembly Hall of the Collegiate Institute. The meeting which was fairly well attended was presided over by Mr. T. A. S. Hay. Two excellent addresses, one by Mr. L. Milligan, and one by Mr. J. W. Firth were interspersed by a varied programme of music.

In speaking of gravitation, Mr. Milligan pointed out that the popular conception of gravitation was a law that causes everything to fall. It is a hidden force pulling inward. It requires little to convince the average mind that if there is a force pulling inward there must of necessity be one pulling outward. Gravitation is therefore made up of two forces which are complimentary to each other. Should one force get the better of the other, disaster would result. The world would collapse like the culmination of a tug-of-war.

There is little doubt, said the speaker, but that this world will eventually be consumed by fire, but that will not be for some time yet. The world is only in its infancy. It contains many wonders that are locked up within the earth, and scientists are beginning to pick the locks. The remotest star which apparently remains stationary in the firmament, moves at an incredible rate.

Topography Changed.

"The Great Ice Age" was the subject of a thirty-five minute address by Mr. Firth. He gave a lucid description of the period when a large portion of North America was swept by vast ice fields of incalculable proportions. Two large ice fields were located in the north. One in Greenland and the other in the Antartic, which was recently explored by Captain Scott and his party. Greenland, if stripped of its ice would be very mountainous. This fact is made known by the mountain peaks that project above the ice fields.

For the great change in the topography of the land we are indebted to the glaciers which swept over the land pushing the eroded material south. The softer parts of the land were scooped out by the action of the glaciers, and lakes were formed such as Lake Superior, Lake Ontario and others.

"If you wish to see the work of the glaciers," said Mr. Firth, "you have merely to look across the country in which you live. The Trent Valley waterway might be taken as an example of how rivers were formed by the action of the huge ice-fields. You will find in the fields around Peterborough, rocks that properly belong farther north. They were deposited here by the glaciers. It is estimated that the great ice field once covered an area of three million miles, and its average thickness was two miles."

Mrs. W. R. Davidson, Miss L. Logan, Mrs. W. A. Logan and Mr. J. John contributed to the entertainment part of the programme. A very enjoyable evening was brought to a close with the rendition of the National Anthem.

A WEAK HEART

When the heart is weak or irregular in action, when the blood is thin and watery, remember the blood-forming qualities of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and by its use flood the system with rich, red vitalizing blood. This is Nature's way of curing weakness and disease. It is the only way to ensure lasting benefits.

CONFERENCE OF LABOUR PARTY IN ENGLAND

Special Wire to The Examiner:

GLASGOW, Jan. 27.—Important results are expected to follow the annual conference of the British Labour party here this week. The conference proper, which will meet to-morrow for a three days' session, was preceded to-day by a special conference on the electoral and parliamentary policy of the party. In view of the new Trade Union Act, by which it has been made lawful to apply funds of a trade union to political objects, it is expected that the labour organizations will agree upon a broader and more active political campaign than ever before in their history."

OPIUM SMUGGLING AT NEW ORLEANS

Special Wire to The Examiner:

NEW ORLEANS, La., Jan. 27. — Owing to the large number of steamships arriving at this port at this time of year to load cotton, the customs inspectors are having great difficulty in preventing the smuggling of opium. Many of the vessels are arriving from the Orient and considerable quantities of the contraband drug have been seized. In one recent case the Chinese members of the crew of a British ship attacked a party of customs inspectors on the wharves and it required the service of the strong arm squad before the riot could be quelled.

ASK FOR CAMPAIGN TO MAKE CANADA LIQUORLESS BY 1920

Result of Meeting at George Street Church Last Night—What the United States is Doing and What This Country May Do.

ALD. DUFFUS SPOKE

That the Council of the Dominion Alliance inaugurate a campaign for Dominion wide prohibition by 1920 was the resolution passed at the mass meeting in the George Street Methodist Sunday school room last night in connection with the County Temperance Alliance conference held yesterday.

It was moved by J. S. Knapman, and seconded by Geo. Powell.

The attendance was encouragingly large and the spirit manifested was strongly in favour of concerted action. Rev. Dr. MacTavish of the Dominion Alliance based his remarks on the big prohibition convention held in Ohio ten weeks ago. It was the convention of the Anti-Saloon League of the United States held in November when the slogan and determination was decided upon—"A dry United States by 1920." Their ambition is to secure legislation to prevent the sale, manufacture, transportation, etc., of liquor. The convention was attended by Governors, Congressmen, men of all creeds, black and white men, Indians, in short a representative gathering from the entire United States. The delegates declared that the time had come for another emancipation.

Rev. Dr. MacTavish stated that in October 2,000 delegates went to Washington, where they presented a demand for legislation that will make the United States dry. If thirty-six States vote in favour of it the bill becomes law automatically.

Possibilities of Success.

There are now ten States dry; seventeen are more than half dry, and thirteen are more than twenty-five per cent. dry. There is not one State in the Union that is not partially dry. Thus, in the next six years the prospects are bright for prohibition. The people may vote for the law either through the State Legislatures or by a referendum.

"Why should we not have a harless Canada by 1920." Dr. MacTavish asked. "Why not inaugurate a movement to run concurrently with that which has been undertaken in the United States? We are about to celebrate 100 years of peace. Would it not be a fitting thing that these two great nations should stand shoulder to shoulder in their determination to destroy the present enemy, that either nation has ever known? I mean the liquor traffic. But there are not only sentimental reasons. The same literature could be used in both countries. A good many of the forces making for prohibition in the United States are International in their scope and they should work just as well on this side of the border." Dr. MacTavish enumerated the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavour, the W. C.T.U., the Gideons, the Y.M.C.A. and other societies.

Canada's Possibilities.

Is there any possibility of carrying prohibition in Canada by 1920? Prince Edward Island is already dry, Nova Scotia is all dry except the City of Halifax. Nine out of fifteen counties in New Brunswick and two out of three cities are dry. In Quebec 859 out of 1168 parishes are dry. We think of Quebec as a benighted province, but on the question of temperance it is out in front. In Ontario 322 municipalities out of 520 are dry. One half of Manitoba is dry. Saskatchewan Alberta and British Columbia are somewhat behind the rest of the Dominion. Taking a survey of the country, the prospect is fairly bright. Turn rule

Elect Temperance Men.

We can have total prohibition by 1920 if we we want it, if we vote as we pray. We should send to Parliament men whom we know will support the measure. Dr. MacTavish closed his remarks by a reference to the general deprecation of liquor to-day by business and professional men, labour men, the pulpit and the press.

Ald. Duffus Spoke.

Mr. H. B. Cowan, who presided, called Ald. J. J. Duffus to the platform. The latter stated that he had been scheduled to give an address during the afternoon, but was called away and had returned in the evening simply to follow the outcome of the meeting and not to make a speech. He was deeply interested in things temperance and speaking on "Should the Alliance Go Into Politics?" The cause of temperance is of such a high moral character that any man should be proud to advocate it, and for the same reason it should be kept on a high plane and not treated only from a political standpoint. By the very fact of electing avowed temperance men you are getting in the thin edge of the wedge and preparing the way for greater progress. Ald. Duffus advised caution and consideration. If any gain is to be made by means of the ballot then every other traditional allegiance, politically speaking, must not interfere. The people must determine first to give whole-hearted support to their candidates and to continue in their support.

Mr. J. S. Knapman.

In moving the resolution quoted above, J. S. Knapman said that a beginning could not be made too soon. Geo. Powell in seconding it, said he had always intended to live until Canada had prohibition. He was pleased to see Ald. Duffus present, and hoped that the support of the body he represented would be forthcoming in the next campaign.

Those on the platform were Rev. Mr. Peever, Rev. F. A. Conners, who led in a brief opening service, Rev. Dr. MacTavish, and S. Armstrong of Otonabee.

The vocal solos of Master George Branton were delightful. He is a merry-eyed little chap, with a ringing soprano voice, which he used with fine effect.

Meeting Of The Board Of Health

Dr. C. H. Amys Elected to Chairmanship of Board

The inaugural meeting of the Peterborough Board of Health was recorded this morning. Those present were His Worship Mayor Buller, G H. Duncan, James Murty, Dr. C. H. Amys, A. W. McPherson, M.H.O., and Sanitary Inspector Spence.

Dr. Amys was elected to the chairmanship of the Board on motion of Mr. Duncan. The former in a brief address, thanked the members of the Board for the honour conferred upon him and pledged his interest in matters with which the Board would have to deal with during the year.

The first duty delegated to the new chairman was that of securing prices for a supply of ice for the Queen Mary Hospital. He was given power to award the contract.

J. J. Turner and Sons wrote the Board in reference to a supply of signs prohibiting spitting on the public streets. The matter was left over until the next meeting.

A Joint Meeting.

It was decided to hold a joint meeting of the Board of Health and the Property committee of the City Council for the purpose of considering the amalgamation of offices that will be of mutual interest to both Boards. The offices involved are the Plumbing, Wiring, Building and any other offices which the Board may deem advisable.

Mr. Duncan intimated that it was the intention of the Council to secure a new Plumbing Inspector.

LABOUR CRISIS IN BRITAIN

Building Trades Strike May Become a National One.

LONDON, Jan. 27.—The executive council of the Building Trades Federation yesterday adopted a resolution calling upon the plumbers, smiths, fitters, electricians, painters and allied trades to join in a strike. More than 100,000 men are affected.

In addition to calling out the foregoing the federation has decided in favor of bringing about a national building strike and the United Kingdom is face to face with a grave situation.

Should the recommendation of the executive council be ratified, London's building industry will be brought to a standstill. Work has already ceased on a dozen big buildings in the course of construction involving the expenditure of $50,000,000 These include London's new county hall and several Government buildings.

There is no sign of a settlement of the coal carriers' strike, and the employes of several big street transport companies threaten to support the coal men. Trouble is also brewing in the shipping world, on the eight-hour question and higher wages.

Tom Mann, formerly president of the International Transport Workers Federation, in a speech at Dublin last night, predicted a general strike in England in March, involving engineers, boilermakers and shipwrights

Celebrated Golden Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. John Dormer celebrated their golden wedding last night at the home of their daughter, Mrs. W. Hartley, 630 George Street, amidst the joy of a family re-union and of numerous congratulations.

Mr. and Mrs. Dormer were married in Brockville, Ont., on the 25th of January, 1864. They came to Peterborough in 1869 and for the past 45 years have resided in this City, living for some time in East City, and residing for the past three years with their daughter, Mrs. W. Hartley.

The fiftieth anniversary of their wedding fell on Sunday, so that it was celebrated last night by the children and grandchildren, who presented Mr. and Mrs. Dormer with a purse of gold and the following address:

Dear Father and Mother,— We, your children, felt that we could not let this, the 50th anniversary of your wedding, pass without in some way showing you that we are anxious to help you recall the pleasant and happy days which we have no doubt were connected with that occasion, and for that purpose we are gathered here this evening and are wont to go back with you for a few hours to that happy event which took place 50 years ago, on Jan. 25, 1864.

In helping you in the celebration of your golden wedding, a privilege which comes to very few, we feel that it is our duty to thank Him that rules on high for sparing us all to be present this evening, and to join in wishing you joy and happiness in your declining years. Dear father and mother, we would ask you as a slight token of our love and appreciation for your love and kindness to us during our years of childhood, and also since we have come to womanhood and manhood, to accept this portion of gold and trust that your lives may be spared to us for some years to come yet.

In closing we would ask you to count your blessings over one by one, and it will show you what the Lord hath done.

(Signed.) Geo. A. Dormer,
E. Dormer.
L. M. Dormer.
E. J. Dormer.
Florence Dormer.

Mr. and Mrs. Dormer, who are 80 and 70 years of age respectively, have five children and four grandchildren living. The children are Evelyn Dormer of this City; George, of Pittsfield; Mrs. Fred Heaslip, Mrs. Percy Fuller and Mrs. W. Hartley.

COUNTY JUDGES REVISE FEES OF SURROGATE COURT

A new schedule of Surrogate Court fees drawn up by the Board of County Judges who held one of their sessions in Peterborough last summer has been ratified by Sir Wm. Meredith, Chief Justice of Ontario. It becomes operative on March 2nd, 1914. The provisions are:

"Drawing all necessary papers and proofs to lead, grant, and obtaining order for probate or letters of administration in ordinary cases and taking out same;

"When value of property devolving is $1000 or under, $10; over $1000 and not exceeding $5000, $15; over $5000 and not exceeding $10,000, $20; over $10,000 and not exceeding $20,000, $30; over $20,000 and not exceeding $50,000, $50; over $50,000 and not exceeding $100,000, $75; over $100,000, $100; in cases of temporary administration, $10; on application to revoke any grant, $10.

"Any increase must be at the discretion of the judge, in cases of special or important nature, subject to approval by a judge of the supreme court upon a report from the judge.

Letters of Guardianship.

"For obtaining letters of guardianship, $10, subject to discretionary increases.

"Drawing necessary affidavits, inventories and schedules under the Succession Duty Act:

"Short form, where the aggregate value of the property does not exceed $5000, $5; above $5000, where no duty is payable, $10, also subject to discretionary increase.

"Where duty is payable, in addition to the foregoing fees for preparing proof for succession duty, for all services settling with the solicitor to the treasurer the amount of duty payable and attending to payment, or so securing payment, by bond or otherwise, of some, $20, with discretionary increase.

Auditing Accounts.

"On preparing petition, affidavits, accounts and all other necessary papers, and service in auditing and passing of accounts of an executor, administrator, guardian or trustee, and including the fixing of remuneration:

"Where receipts do not exceed $2000, $25; $2000 but not $5000, $30; $5000, but not $10,000, $40; $10,000, but not $20,000 $50; $20,000, but not $100,000, $100.

"Where the receipts exceed $100,000, the fees shall be such as the judge deems fair and proper, subject to approval of judges of supreme court.

"In all contentious cases and proceedings not hereinbefore provided for, the same fees and disbursements as are provided for in the county court, so far as the same may be applicable, may be charged and allowed on taxation.

In addition to the foregoing, all proper disbursements made by the solicitor shall be allowed.

"Where it has been proved to the satisfaction of the judge, that proceedings have been taken by solicitors out of court to expediate proceedings, save costs, or compromise actions or disputes, a fee may be allowed thereafter in the discretion of the judge."

The board has been composed of Judges McDonald, Leeds, chairman; Chadwick, Wellington; Hardy, of Brant; Harding, Victoria, Huyeke Peterborough.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Mrs. W. J. Thompson has been called to Toronto owing to the death of her sister, Mrs. Carl, who unexpectedly passed away last evening.

Mr. B. C. Porter and bride left this morning for Saskatoon, after spending the week-end with Mr. Porter's aunt, Mrs. Edwin Layfield, 580 Charlotte Street.

Miss Estelle Knox, Hunter street east, entertained a large box party at the Grand Opera House last evening, to see Margaret Anglin in "As You Like it." Following the performance, the party repaired to the Hotel Oriental where supper was served.

DISTRICT CUP GAMES TO-DAY

The District Cup games were commenced at the Charlotte St. Curling Rink this afternoon with six clubs represented. The competing clubs are Norwood, Keene, Hastings, Port Hope, Lindsay and Peterborough.

CONNAUGHT AT QUEBEC

Special Wire to The Examiner:

QUEBEC, Jan. 27. — The Duke of Connaught spent the day here visiting the Heights of Abraham and the famous pathway where Wolfe and his men climbed up; also making an inspection of the famous Quebec bridge on the Transcontinental, which is nearing completion. There will be a civic reception to-night.

Charity Board In Session

At the meeting of the Charity Board last night, Relief Officer Miller reported that a large number of local people had been given aid by him since the first of the year. His report contained the names of all those who had been given help, and was approved as submitted by the board.

There were present Messrs. H. Rush (chairman), T. W. Miller, J. McClelland, H. Carveth, C. L. Huffman, L. W. Pettey, W. Kemp, Jos. Batten, Geo. Cochrane, R. C. Braund, W. Buller and S. Gaskins.

A letter was received from Mrs. Helen Rogers, of the Protestant Home, asking that the board pay the maintenance of one of the inmates. On the motion of Messrs. Kemp and Gaskins, no action was taken in the matter.

The following statement of orders for this year was given:

Groceries	$169 00

The account of the Protestant Home was presented at $152, but only $128 of this amount was ordered to be paid.

A letter from Mr. P. Campbell, manager of the Bank of Toronto, was received, advising the board that the balance to their credit in the bank was $144.22. Received.

Music & Drama

'AS Y OU LIKE IT."

Altogether delightful was the presentation of Shakespeare's "As You Like It" by Miss Margaret Anglin and her talented company, at the Grand Opera House, last night. A large and fashionable audience pronounced the offering the most artistic and enjoyable of the season. Miss Anglin's conception of the fair Rosalind was a delicious piece of acting, unlike as night is to day, to the role in which she was last seen here, as Celia Faraday, in "Green Stockings." She made the most of a part that is full of possibilities, her charming personality, her pleasing voice and her delightful reading of her lines contributing to a remarkably successful interpretation. Miss Anglin has surrounded herself with a thoroughly capable company. Fuller Mellish, late of Wm. Faversham's All Star Shakesperian Company, had the role of the melancholy Jacques, and his delineation of the part was most effective. He won a well-earned round of applause for his deliverance of the well-known 'All the World's a Stage' speech. Ian McLaren was a manly Orlando; Sidney Greenstreet, a very funny Touchstone, and Ruth Hint Boucicault, a most charming Celia. There was not a weak spot in the company, while the production was most lavishly staged and costumed. A more delightful presentation of a Shakesperian play has never been given here.

Believes That Sanitary Conditions Should be Enforced at the Other End—Dr. Amys Would Favour Municipal Distribution Station

THE BOARD OF HEALTH

The report of Dr. A. W. McPherson, Medical Health Officer, was this morning presented at the inaugural meeting of the Board of Health. It contained an outline of the work accomplished by the Board during the pas year, and reported the absence of any serious epidemic. According to the Registrar Generels report for 1912, Peterborough has the lowest death rate of any city in Ontario.

The report is as follows:

It gives me pleasure to say that there has been more practical progress made this year than in any of the three preceding years that I have been in charge of the health department. This is due in part to the efficient health act we now have, in part to the active support of the members of the Board and not a little to the good work of the Sanitary Inspector.

During the eleven months past we have been blessed to a freedom from any serious epidemic, and in fact we have been very free from serious disease of any kind. It is interesting to note that according to the Registrar-General's report for 1912, Peterborough has the lowest death rate of any city in Ontario. That must be a source of very great gratification to you who are interested with the health of the citizens and should give you confidence to continue in the same aggressive manner in order that you may maintain the same high standard.

During the year we suffered from an epidemic of measles that began about the beginning of the new year, reached its height in April and terminated about the middle of May. In all about 126 places were placarded, including the Barnardo Home, the Children's Shelter and the St. Vincent's Orphanage. Quite a percentage of those attacked were adults. The disease was of a rather severe type, although only two deaths were reported. Both cases were complicated. Owing to the fact that quarantine was enforced, we found it advisable to use the diphtheria side of the Hospital for measles. Altogether we accommodated 44 patients.

13 Typhoid Cases.

Next in order comes typhoid with 18 cases reported in. In all probability there were more, as often times the case is not reported in at all. Many times the physician is in doubt until the disease progresses. By the time that he is convinced that his patient is suffering from typhoid he has forgotten or he neglects to report it. Thus it makes it difficult to follow up the case and determine the source of infection, and if we do learn the source, we are several weeks late in warning those who may be in danger fro mthe same cause. Of the 18 cases reported in, 5 had been visiting or living out of town just previous to being ill. Seven were using well water, one was a nurse who had been waitin gon a typhoid patient. The remaining five were using City water in their homes. In one of these cases boiled water was used exclusively. Where there are so many wells and so many houses without sanitary conveniences, it is surprising that there is not more sickness of this nature.

Scarlet fever comes next with 15 cases, eleven of whom were treated ni the hospital. It is interesting to note that in only one house was there a second case and that occurred before the first one was taken away.

Diphtheria was reported from 6 families, and in one family two children were affected. Four of these were treated in the hospital.

The following is a list of the cases reported in:

	No. of Cases Reported	No. of Deaths
Measles	126	2
Typhoid	18	0
Scarlet	15	1
Diphtheria	7	0
Tuberculosis	7	0
Smallpox	1	0

We have purchased three maps of the City, one for typhoid, one for tubercolisis and one for scarlet and diphtheria. As the cases are reported in, the locality is marked with a pin.

The Sanitary Work.

The sanitary work in the City has progressed very much during the year and we are planning for a further development next year. Before the warm weather began we had the attention of the public drawn, through the columns of the daily press to the section of the Health Act relating to cleaning up the premises. This was followed by a thorough systematic inspection of as much of the City as time permitted. In this tour, the inspector examines the premises inside and outside. The following are the important points that are note, the number of occupants, the amount of accommodation, the fitness as a dwelling house, the facilities for disposal of the sewage and kitchen refuse, the sickness during the year, the water supply, the animals kept, the cleanliness of the house and the premises generally. These are tabulated systematically in a book which we had made for the purpose. Where the conditions are unsatisfactory, these are pointed out and if necessary, a notice is left giving them a reasonable time to clean up. This is followed up and if our request is not acceded to, a complaint is laid before the magistrate. I am glad to say that during the year there were only 15 police court cases. We are of the opinion that our work is to a great extent educational. Sometimes it is the tenant sometimes the landlord that requires the training. But in spite of our efforts, there is a great deal to be done if we are going to have our citizens living under the conditions most conducive to health. We still have a great many outside privies that are contaminating the wells, the atmosphere providing a first-class breeding place for flies, and often making it uncomfortable, sometimes almost unbearable, for the neighbours in the hot, oppressive summer evenings. The compulsory sewer-connection by-law will make it much easier to remedy this unsanitary condition where there are sewers and City water on the street. But where these conveniences are not present, suggestions are made as to changes that will minimize the danger and discomfort.

Sanitary Condit ions.

The matter of keeping cows, pigs, chickens and other animals on the premises gives rise to conditions that call forth complaints from the neighbours. The larger the City becomes, the more this complaint must be listended to and action taken to provide a remedy. There is nothing definite in the Act with regard to the keeping of any animal except pigs. In respect to the others, the clause referring to conditions which are insanitary or detrimental to health is the one that forms the basis for any action we may take. There is no doubt that the insanitary conditions that are associated with the keeping of these animals are responsible for a certain amount of sickness. The wells often become infected through the source being contaminated or from surface water draining in or from infectious material which is deposited in the covering of the well and which is washed in through the cracks.

There are a large number of dwellings that are far from what they should be in the City of this size. Sometimes the building is not worth repairing of the amount of rent does not warrant any expenditures. Sometimes an old building is divided into two or the upper floors in the business block are turned into flats without a thought of the comfort and health of those who are to occupy them. The result is that we often find a bedroom or a bathroom and closet without any provision for light or ventilation except from another room. Premises without a water supply or without sanitary conveniences separate from their neighbours are frequently found. In one case a landlord has the front part of a house divided into two parts to be let to different parties, while the kitchen (a small one at that) is used in common. Many other conditions of a similar nature could be brought to your notice that are not conducive to the welfare of the poor people. We are trying to improve matters as far as we are able. There are many difficulties in the way as you gentlemen know; perhaps the greatest is the need of houses suitable for the working class that will be cheap enough and still situated near enough to the different factories.

The hotels, restaurants, boarding houses, baker shops, butcher shops, fruit stores, slaughter houses, laundries and dairy farms have been systematically inspected. A number of written reports of the conditions found have been presented to you during the year and the work that we are trying to do has met with your approval. In all cases we are insisting on general cleanliness of the premises and of the employees, proper sanitary conveniences, properly situated, and a freedom from flies as far as possible.

By-laws That Were Passed.

During the year several health by-laws were passed by the Council on the recommendation of the Board, and others were resurrected. The compulsory sewer connection by-law will make it easier to secure proper sanitary conveniences in places where nuisances exist. The by-law prohibiting the dry sweeping of the sidewalks is another important piece of legislation and will help to promote the comfort and health of the citizens. We attempted to enforce the regulations with regard to the exposure of food products, but found that our jurisdiction in this respect did not extend within the street line. If such is the case we hope to secure the desired result in another way. Spitting on the sidewalk and in public places is a dirty, dangerous habit. The fight against tuberculosis has brought this more forcibly to our minds and it was desired to secure a by-law prohibiting it. With this in view, as well as to educate the people generally of the danger, metal signs are to be purchased with an appropriate caution. These will be distributed around the City.

Further indications of progress are shown in the extension of the garbage system, the building of an incinerator, the installation of sanitary drinking fountains in the schools and on the streets, and the application of the gross dirt test to the milk.

Before closing, I would like to make a few recommendations for your consideration:

1. That an assistant be secured for the Sanitary Inspector.
2. That the plumbing inspector be placed under the control and direction of the health department.
3. That the area in which garbage is collected be extended.
4. That the scavengers or night-soil men be licensed and work under the control of the Sanitary Inspector.
5. That the following licenses be issued by the Health Department: Milk Vendors, Boarding and Rooming Houses, Scavengers, Dog.
6. That the Health Department disinfect at the expense of the department all premises where infection has occurred or where it is thought necessary.
7. That the Board of Health recommend to the City Council that they consider at an early date the necessity of a municipal abattoir.
9. That the Health Department publish a short bulletin in the City papers once a month.
10. That milk be delivered to private houses only in bottles.
11. That a smallpox hospital be built.

Medical Officer of Health.

As will be noted, the report closed with a number of recommendations, chief among which was the extension of the garbage collecting area, a municipal abattoir, milk to be delivered to private houses in bottles, and a smallpox hospital.

Adverse to Fads.

"There are two things that I refuse to support," remarked Mayor Buller. "One is that an assistant be secured for the Sanitary Inspector, and second that milk be delivered to private houses in bottles only." The Mayor also intimated that he would require some additional information respecting a municipal abattoir.

Continuing, he said: "The Isolation Hospital is an expensive luxury, and I think a cheaper institution could have been built. Now we have the tuberculosis sanitarium coming along, and that means another high touch. You speak of delivering milk in bottles. Why not take the butter supply into consideration, I am averse to the introduction of fads. We have been eating butter and drinking unbottled milk for years, and not one death can be traced to infection by that means. If you want to get better sanitary conditions go to the dairy farms."

A copy of the report will be sent to the Provincial Board of Health, with a note to the effect that the Board were not unanimous in regard to the recommendations.

Dr. Amys was not convinced that bottling the milk was the best method. He favoured a municipal milk distributing station. He also believed that a concentration of the offices of Plumbing, Wiring and Sanitary Inspector would be more advantageous, and cheaper for the City.

ECZEMA ITCHED AND BURNED

Rash on Legs and Back. Scratching Irritated Breaking Out. Used Cuticura Ointment. Disease Vanished.

Kentville, N. S.—"For about five years I was bothered with a light rash, which would appear most heavily on my legs and back. This troubled me most in the spring of the year. They said it was eczema. The eczema itched and burned and my scratching irritated the breaking out. After it broke out I could not obtain more than three hours' sleep each night it pained me so. My legs and back were a solid mass of itching sores.

"I was given some salve and after using this preparation about a week the disease became worse and I could not obtain any rest at night. I used all the patent preparations on the market but they only seemed to increase the suffering and afforded me no relief whatever. About this time a friend recommended Cuticura Ointment to me. However, I had lost faith in all remedies and told him so, but he insisted that I try Cuticura Ointment so I purchased a box. The first application gave relief and in about a week the sores were healing and I was able to obtain a good night's rest, the first I had enjoyed for many months. I continued the treatment for another month and by that time all signs of the disease had vanished." (Signed) Willard F. Allen, May 16, 1913.

For more than a generation Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment have afforded the most economical treatment for affections of the skin and scalp that torture, itch, burn, scale, and destroy sleep. Sold everywhere. Sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Dept. D, Boston, U. S. A.

Local Poultry Being Shown In Outside Places

One hundred and seventy-five birds of the purest breeds left the City yesterday, to be shown in outside poultry shows, where it is expected that they will capture a share of the honours, as they have been doing in all shows this winter. Fifty, belonging to Messrs. J. Meharry, R. D. Robson, J. J. Cunningham and Geo. Buller were shipped to Oshawa.

One hundred and twenty-five were taken to Gananoque, where they will be exhibited in the poultry show there. They are owned by Messrs. Gross, Kelly, Pilling, Breault, O. Kidd, Abbot and Lush, all local poultry fanciers.

This seems to be one of the most successful years for Peterborough poultry raisers, who claim they have a collection of birds that cannot be beaten in the Province, and it is anticipated that they will bring back a goodly share of the laurels to Peterborough. The birds now being shown in Gananoque will be also shown at the Kingston Poultry Show.

ATTENTION MOTHERS

If You Have or Know of a Delicate Child Read This Letter.

"My little daughter Louise, age 9 years, has always been delicate, anaemic, had no appetite and seemed listless, and we could not seem to find anything that would help her, until we were advised to give her Vinol. She started taking it six weeks ago and inside of two weeks she showed a marked improvement both in appetite, vim and looks. Being so well pleased with the results, I continued giving it to her, and words fail to express my gratitude, and faith in Vinol both as a blood maker and body builder. As my child was an anaemic for so long makes the reason all the stronger for me to recommend it to others in similar condition." Geo. E. Munro, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Vinol restores health and strength in conditions like this because in a natural manner it increases the appetite, tones up the digestive organs, enriches the blood and strengthens every organ of the body.

Every bottle of Vinol is guaranteed to give satisfaction or money refunded.

TO TRY SUIT AGAINST GORE

Special Wire to The Examiner:

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Jan. 28.—When the district court of Oklahoma county convenes for the February term next week, one of the first cases that will be brought up for tria, according to present expectations, will be the $50,000 suit filed by Mrs. Julien R. Bond of this city against United States Senator Thomas P. Gore, Oklahoma's "blind man eloquent." Both sides in the case hint that the trial will develop some sensational features that were not brought to light when the charges against Senator Gore were aired in Washington a year or more ago.

Mrs. Bond, the plaintiff, is thirty-one years old, and is the wife of Julien R. Bond of this city. She is of medium size and rather striking appearance. Her first husband was a dentist, whom she married at 18, while he still had another wife. After her first marriage had been annulled sh became a teacher of shorthand and was thus employed when she met and married Bond.

In her suit against Senator Gore, the woman asks $50,000 for alleged damages to her reputation following alleged advances made to her in Washington when she called to see the Senator in the interests of her husbands' candidacy for the position of internal revenue collector.

Mrs. Bond said that when she first saw Senator Gore in his private office he seized hold of her hands, and her mesh bag, and that when he seized hold of one of her feet as she sat talking to him she thought it time to go. The second time they met in a room at her hotel, she said. At that time he attempted to seize hold of her as she sat on the bed, she testified, and that when her glasses had been broken in trying to avoid him she called for help and left in company with men who came to her assistance.

Friends of Mr. Gore have not hesitated from the start to declare their belief that the whole affair, as described by the woman in her testimony in Washington, was a "plant" framed up by the political enemies of the blind senator to ruin his public career. Others ascribe the woman's action to a desire for revenge upon Senator Gore because he did not secure for her husband the political appointment he sought.

In view of the fact that Senator Gore is now a candidate for re-election the approaching trial and its outcome are awaited with keen interest in political circles in Oklahoma. Many persons well known in Oklahoma political circles are involved in the case. James Jacobs, formerly chairman of the Democratic central committee of Oklahoma, and who has been prominent in politics for more than twenty years, is one of the chief witnesses against Senator Gore. Another is Kirby Fitzpatrick, land title attorney to the State board of public land commissioners and a brother of the late Congressman Fitzpatrick of Tennessee.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

The highest seas known on the Pacific coast since it was charted and lighted for navigation by the U. S. Government, were recorded during the recent series of gales.

An invention for rubber-plating battleships is being experimented with by the British Admiralty according to The Globe, usually well-informed on naval matters.

The Yankee is being ousted from the farms of Massachusetts by settlers of foreign blood, according to the state board of agriculture's annual report issued yesterday.

Three small children of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Rowland at Haleyville, Ala., are dead to-day, the result of eating rat poison while their parents were away from home visiting.

Nine men were injured, seven seriously, when the engineer at Sandford mine No. 1, four miles west of West Terre Haute, Ind., lost control of the mine cage and let it fall 200 feet.

Mauling by a lion caused the death at Nairobi, East Africa, yesterday of Frits Schindler, a member of an American moving picture expedition engaged in taking pictures of wild animals.

"Reports of my illness are greatly exaggerated," said Sir George Ross at the Chateau Laurier in Ottawa yesterday. "I am suffering from cold and fatigue, but there is no cause for alarm."

It is stated that Jack Bennett, wanted for two years for murdering a woman on the Indian reserve at Brantford, and who eluded arrest at the time, has returned to the reserve, where he is hiding.

Burglars entered the store of J. C. Champagne, 151 Dufresne street, Montreal, and carried away a 500-pound safe. They were likely disappointed when they opened it, for it contained only $10.

Because Chief of Police Laing of Welland had no warrant when he placed Frank Farr of Wainfleet under arrest, his charge against the man for resisting an officer failed when it came before the magistrate yesterday.

The 1913 salmon pack on the Pacific Coast was the largest on record.

LENSES

She was stout and must have weighed nearly 300 pounds. She was learning roller skating, when she had the misfortune to fall. Several attendants rushed to her side, but were unable to raise her at once. One said soothingly:

"We'll get you up all right, madam. Do not be alarmed."

"Oh, I'm not alarmed at all, but your floor is so terribly lumpy."

And then from underneath came a small voice which said: "I am not a lump, I am an attendant."

MABEL'S CHITCHAT

Dinner Guests' Idea of a Really Beautiful Woman.

LATEST KINK IN TEAPOTS.

What Fur and What For Are the Two Most Timely Questions Apropos of the Rainbow Hued Pelts of the Season—Looked Upon at First as a Joke.

Dear Elsie—The other evening Dick and your humble scribe were guests at a very highbrow dinner, and, between you and me, we were bored to the last gasp of extinction until some other frivolous creature broke up the conversational solidity by asking the table at large, "Have you ever seen a beautiful woman?"

"Why, women are the living embodiment of all the best in art!" Dick snickered audibly at this, thinking, the wretch, of the feminine art one sees with painted and plastered faces on Broadway here in New York.

"There's no such thing as beauty," finshed the cynic, with the unlovely sneer with which he cloaks the kindest heart, in reply to the above sentimental definition.

A perfect battle of protest stopped the cynic, every one of us speaking at once except the highest browed lady, who smiled a decorous smile as though to disarm any male creature of the absurd impression that he might take a particle of the word "beauty" to himself.

"Beauty is comparative," continued the cynic, undaunted, "which proves that it is nonexistent. You see. If there were only one woman on earth she might either be exquisitely lovely or a perfect fright. It would be all the same. You couldn't label her because the standard isn't fixed. What you call beauty is a matter of personal taste and—well, and climate. In Egypt, for instance, the Arabs hail a fat woman as rapturously lovely. In Europe she is considered a freak. If she is fat enough she can earn her living in a sideshow, whereas in some countries it would enable her to qualify for queenly state."

"A woman's beauty is not an affair of color or line," indignantly interrupted the philosopher, while we gaspingly absorbed the cynic's speech. "When I am asked about a woman's beauty I feel inclined to quote the famous dictum, 'Wait and see.' The beauty's hair may be red or black, her eyes blue or gray—it's all the same. But if you should be privileged to be near her day after day and feel something spiritual in her smile, something restful and vivid in her presence; if your vitality is renewed by talking to her and a fine, strong courage to meet life comes to you through her influence, you may know that that woman is very, very lovely." So said we all.

Talking of dinner reminds me of tea, or, rather, teapots. Irish and still more Irish, isn't it? Well, the impression I am trying to convey is that in telling you about the dinner conversation reminded me of a teapot—a novel sleeping teapot—I saw at a friend's house while partaking with her of the cheering cup. This pot, which is made of artistic earthenware, has an earthenware sieve across half of the neck of the pot. Tea leaves are placed on the sieve and boiling water poured in the lower part. Then the teapot is turned on its side, which allows the boiling water to reach the leaves, but does not admit of the leaves straying into the teapot. When sufficiently drawn the teapot is turned up to an upright position and the tea poured.

You see, dear, making tea in this way one does not have to bother with any mussy "ball" or strainer. The teapot is quite inexpensive and deserves to be better known to the housewife.

You scorned the idea of rainbow hued furs when I wrote you about them not long ago, but if you could see a perfectly darling "eggplant" broadcloth frock of mine trimmed with moleskin dyed a beautiful harmonizing shade of mauve, with some ecru lace as a relieving tint, you would fall a victim to this absurd craze.

Paul Poiret, who started the pelt innovation, must have done it to have his little joke. Yet all the fashionable dressmakers have taken it up seriously. Poiret went pretty "fur," but they are going "further," as 'twere. The most violent of the dyed skins are in canary toned collar and cuff sets of white (?) fox on white evening wraps and the new long coats of emerald green moleskin. A purchase of the latter would simply mean the exchange of long green for long green. Forgive me this, dear; it IS awful.

One really must have a touch of fur on everything this winter to be smart. Even high shoes and the new Russian boots to wear with slit skirts have bands of fur at the top. One, too, must have among her millinery at least one fur trimmed or all fur hat, while one's negligees and evening frocks have a peltry trimming, and I presume in a few weeks we'll have our nighties adorned with fur.

Tell me in your next letter what you'll select for the trimming of your robe de nuit if worse comes to the worst. Devotedly, MABEL.

New York.

Observations of Li Hung Chang.

In the diary of which a partial translation was issued last year Li Hung Chang condemns the habit of early rising. At the close of his visit to St. Petersburg, the Chinese statesman wrote: "I have learned that we start early to-morrow morning. I would much prefer to begin the journey now and sleep on the train. To arise so early in the morning seems to be a foolish western practice, foolish especially among men of state, who could so much better transact their affairs at night, when all is quiet and the mind is most alert. But from all I can learn, these statesmen and lawgivers look for their pleasures at night, going to banquets, theatres and fancy parties. To this I attribute much of the intrigue known to these courts. Women cannot enter the council chambers nor make speeches in Parliament, but they work their wiles at the parties and operas."

High Finance.

An amusing story comes from Paris in connection with M. Jules Claretie, the famous manager of the national theatre, the Comedie Francaise.

One of the "supers" failed to appear at a performance of "Phedre" the other evening. He had only to walk on with the crowd, but M. Claretie keeps an eye on all these details, and next morning the "super" received a letter signed by M. Claretie saying that he would be fined two francs for having been absent without leave.

The resourceful "super" promptly went to an autograph collector and sold M. Claretie's letter for 10 francs, thus making a profit out of his own negligence!

His Card.

E. H. Sothern, the actor, confesses to a habit which sometimes has its disadvantages. It is his custom to make memoranda of things which occur to him from time to time on his calling cards or other odd bits of paper he may have in his pockets. He tells this as one of his experiences: "I had occasion to call at the home of Grover Cleveland, and I sent up my card. In a few minutes Mrs. Cleveland came in to receive me, the card still in her hand and about her mouth a rather odd smile.

"'I think perhaps I had better return this to you,' she said.

"I took it. On the back I had written: 'Socks, pajamas, one dozen collars.'"—New York Tribune.

A Hearty Welcome.

Mrs. Clay telephoned to a friend that she would come down and spend the day.

"Well, here I am!" she exclaimed cheerily as the little daughter of the hostess opened the door.

"Yes," replied the child; "I'm glad to see you, and I know mother will be glad, too, for she said this morning when you phoned that she was thankful she was going to have the visit over with."—Lippincott's.

Little Buttin Hamlet—Yes, 'n' the chicken came outer our own garden too. Pa said he bet the folks next door would keep their hens at home after he caught a few more of 'em.

The fact that Doan's Kidney Pills are the original Kidney Pills has not prevented the placing of other preparations in pill form upon the market under the name Kidney Pills. It is necessary, therefore, that all wishing to secure the curative effects which have made Doan's Kidney Pills so popular everywhere, should see that the trade mark, the Maple Leaf, appears on the wrapper. Without this trade mark you are not getting the genuine Kidney Pills as originally placed before the people by Mr. James Doan, as shown by the following declaration.

DOMINION OF CANADA, PROVINCE OF ONTARIO, To Wit:

In the matter of Doan's Kidney Pills.

I, James Doan, of Kingsville, in the County of Essex, Druggist, do solemnly declare that Doan's Kidney Pills were first manufactured and sold by me on the 14th day of February, A.D., 1885.

And I make this solemn declaration conscientiously believing the same to be true, and knowing it is of the same force and effect as if made under oath and by virtue of "The Canada Evidence Act, 1893."

ORIGINAL GENUINE Horlicks Malted Milk

Instantaneous Lunch. Invigorating.

The Food-Drink for All Ages — Highly Nutritious and Convenient

Rich milk, with malted grain extract, in powder form—dissolves in water—more healthful than tea or coffee. Used in training athletes. The best diet for Infants, Growing Children, Invalids, and the Aged. It agrees with the weakest digestion.

Ask for "HORLICK'S"—All Chemists, Hotels, Cafés and Stores.

Don't travel without it. Also keep it at home. A lunch in a minute. In Lunch Tablet form, also, ready to eat. Convenient—nutritious.

Oil on the Waters.

Oil may be applied to the sea in a hundred ways. In emergencies it may be pumped overboard. It may be emptied through the scuppers, through the ship's drains or by means of her pumps. Where it spreads the slapping, tumbling motion of the water ceases, though the swell of the sea of course continues. Navigators for centuries have found oil of great value in preventing great brushes of water that sweep vessels in a gale. With the combers reduced the vessel will ride the swell instead of running in danger of being swamped beneath it.

That Terrible Cow.

She was even more afraid of cows than most girls, so when she spied a placid animal recumbent under a tree peacefully chewing its cud she at first refused to go through the pasture at all. Her husband calmed her fears to some extent and they started by, when the cow slowly commenced to get up, hind legs first, as they always do. At this the little lady shrieked with terror and said:

"Oh, Bob, hurry, hurry! He is getting ready to spring at us."

Playing House.

Little Susie—Let's play housekeeping. You be the papa and I'll be the mamma.

Little Harold—Aw, what's the use? We won't get started good before you'll commence crying.

Susie—No, I won't. Just you play nice, Harold, and don't bang the table and slam the doors.

WHY KEEP ON COUGHING?

Here Is A Remedy That Will Stop It

Do you realize the danger in a neglected cough?

Then why don't you get rid of it?

Yes, you can shake it off, even though it has stuck to you for a long time, if you go about it right.

Keep out in the fresh air as much as you can, build up your strength with plenty of wholesome food, and take Na-Dru-Co Syrup of Linseed, Licorice and Chlorodyne.

This reliable household remedy has broken up thousands of hacking, persistent coughs, which were just as troublesome as yours, and what it has done for so many others it will do for you.

Na-Dru-Co Syrup of Linseed, Licorice and Chlorodyne contains absolutely no harmful drugs, and so can be given safely to children, as well as adults. Your physician or druggist can confirm this statement, for we are ready to send them on request a complete list of all the ingredients.

TWO OLD FAVORITES.

Southern Recipes Which Have Stood the Test of Time.

Chicken pie made in the good old southern fashion is a piece de resistance for the dinner table that is hard to eclipse by any of the newfangled dishes.

To turn out this pie in the approved fashion, says Good Housekeeping, make a good paste, preferably puff paste, roll to one-half inch in thickness and cut a cover to fit the size of the dish—if liked cut out fancy shapes for the cover—and bake all in a quick oven fifteen minutes. Cut up two chickens in pieces for serving, put in a kettle with just enough water to cover and cook slowly until chickens are tender, adding salt and pepper to taste. Remove chicken, roll each piece in seasoned flour and place in baking dish, cover with the liquor, cook half an hour. Slip on the pastry cover, and when thoroughly heated the pie is ready to serve. Or make a rich baking powder biscuit dough and use instead of the pastry.

CHICKEN PIE AND SAMP WITH BACON.

Samp and bacon is another Dixie dish of note. Baltimore samp is made of white corn. It is very much coarser than grits or fine hominy. Cover the samp with boiling water, let it boil for six minutes, then drain and rinse. Cover again with boiling water and cook slowly till tender, adding boiling water as needed. When nearly cooked season nicely with salt and pepper. Serve hot with rolls of dried bacon.

The Care of Porch Floors.

The best way for cleaning porch floors in the fall or early winter is a question that taxes the patience of mistress and maid alike. Mistress insists, and maid objects. Each is right.

Fortunately there is a way to clean floors that will solve this problem of the mistress and maid to the satisfaction of each. Make a strong solution of soap and very hot water. Have the water at a temperature of at least 180 degrees F. Hot water in the fall or winter is necessary because cold water freezes and produces icy steps and floors. Then with the aid of a good mop go over the porch floor rapidly. Use plenty of hot water and wipe the floor well. Go over it quickly. The hot suds will take up the dirt. Start at the farther end of the porch and back up toward the steps so as to avoid tracking up the cleaned floor.

A good mop wringer will not only save time, but will save the hands, temper and energy. It will cause a more even distribution of the moisture and allow scalding water, which is so desirable because more cleansing, to be more freely used.

Hot Bread For Breakfast.

Twin Mountain Muffins.—One-quarter cupful butter, one-quarter cupful sugar, one egg, three-quarters cupful milk, two cupfuls flour, four teaspoonfuls baking powder. Cream the butter. Add the sugar and egg well beaten. Sift baking powder with the flour and add to the first mixture, alternating with the milk. Bake in buttered tin gem pans for twenty-five minutes with the temperature of 400 degrees F.

Graham Muffins.—One cupful graham or entire wheat flour, one cupful flour, one egg, one to three tablespoonfuls melted butter, one teaspoonful salt, one cupful milk, one-quarter cupful sugar, four teaspoonfuls baking powder. Mix and sift dry ingredients. Add the milk gradually and the egg well beaten. Then add the melted butter. Bake in hot oven (temperature should be 400 degrees F.) in buttered gem pans for twenty-five minutes.

New Idea In Window Seats.

In the bedroom of a small apartment where every foot of space must be utilized there may quite well be a window seat of the sort which come all ready to put in position. This new type of convenience is shaped like a short bench with low arms at both sides and is upheld by four short legs grooved and fitted with two shelves long enough to accommodate four paper shirt waist boxes. It isn't much trouble to procure fancy paper covered boxes and fit them in front with little glass knobs, so that they may be easily drawn forward when one wishes to get at their contents.

Baked Cream Scones.

Sift two cupfuls of flour with three rounded teaspoonfuls of baking powder and half a teaspoonful of salt. Mix four level tablespoonfuls of butter with them and then lightly stir into the mixture half a cupful of sweet cream and two beaten eggs. Cut the dough into triangles and bake in a hot oven until a delicate brown.

IT IS A WORLD TONGUE

ESPERANTO GIVES INTERCHANGE BETWEEN RACES.

Dr. Zamenhof's Universal Language Has Evidently Come to Stay Despite Its Slow Recognition by Scholars — Remarkable Results Have Been Secured—Grammar Is Easy and Vocabulary Large.

It cannot be too clearly stated that Esperanto has not come to supplant any natural language. What it does do, however, is to supply an easily acquired means of intercourse between all the nations on the face of the globe. In other words, we of this country use English at home and Esperanto abroad. That is the idea.

It is a dreary truth that the thoughts of nine-tenths of the people of the world are as a closed book to us. Yet it is manifestly impossible for one to become really fluent in even a small number of the many languages spoken in Europe alone. It is equally hopeless to expect the countries of the world to adopt any existing language as a common tongue, for, apart from the difficulty of acquiring a foreign language, there would be the insuperable objection of racial prejudice.

This is where Esperanto comes in, for it is a neutral auxiliary language that can be learnt with ease in three months by devoting one hour a day to study, at the cost of sixpence for a text book.

Dr. Louis Lazare Zamenhof presented Esperanto to the world in 1887 after years of patient labor. He was not a linguist by profession, but an oculist, though his knowledge of several languages made the invention of Esperanto possible.

In 1889 the first Esperanto Society was formed in St. Petersburg, and its members met with the ridicule and indifference that greets pioneers of every kind. About this time, however, it was taken up by Swedes, Germans, and a few students in other countries. Ten years later the French Esperantists had become sufficiently numerous to form a National Association. Since then Esperanto has rapidly spread until today there are over 2,000 societies in all parts of the world. In 1889 the publications in Esperanto numbered 29, which figure has now been increased to the respectable total of 2,000 volumes of translations and original works.

The vocabulary of Esperanto is international, and English-speaking people are able to recognize something like two-thirds of the words. Frenchmen, Germans, Russians, and indeed all Europeans, are pleasantly surprised by the familiar appearance of the language. And it is so easy!

The Esperanto grammar contains only sixteen rules, and no exceptions! It is absolutely phonetic, and has an agreeable sound not unlike Italian; it is easy to write and to speak, and is pronounced in the same way by all nationalities.

Esperanto has created a new masonry, and the green star worn by Esperantists (though this, of course, is optional) from London to Shanghai is a sign that the person wearing it is ready to befriend you, as well as willing and able to talk to you.

To know Esperanto is a sign of culture. It, moreover, puts you in a position far superior to that of the most brilliant linguist, for, no matter to what part of the world you may go you will find men and women to whom you can talk freely. In this way Esperanto abolishes frontiers, and, to a great extent, "foreigners," and puts to flight that terrifying institution "the language," which prevents so many people, who would otherwise do so, from traveling.

Here is an instance out of many. A little while ago a Russian Esperantist, who was totally blind, traveled alone from Moscow to London. Through the medium of the Universal Esperanto Association he communicated with fellow Esperantists, with the result that he was met at all important points of his journey and received every assistance, thus being enabled to reach his destination in perfect comfort.

Of course, on the continent, where so many languages are spoken, the need for Esperanto is most keenly felt (in Russia alone there are nineteen separate and distinct languages!). But to the Britisher, who is so notoriously slow at learning a foreign tongue, Esperanto is invaluable.

A short time back an Esperantist in Sweden, who was interested in the study of butterflies, asked in "The British Esperantist" (which is the official organ of the British Esperanto Association) for people to correspond with him on the subject of butterfly collecting. He received over fifty replies from all parts of the world, and, of course, gained a fund of knowledge he could not possibly have obtained otherwise. For you must remember that the paper is read by Esperantists all over the world.

Esperanto is a practical proposition. It means that your power of obtaining information on, or knowledge of, any subject is no longer limited by your ignorance of two or three dozen languages.

Thus Esperanto, providing a common ground for the interchange of thought between all people, breaks down narrow prejudice, and tends to create a better understanding that must inevitably lead to fellowship and goodwill among men.

Spread the Plague.

In the days of King Charles II news traveled slowly in England, and before the people of Cornwall knew about the terrible plague in London there came to Bodmin itinerant traders with pack mules laden with silk and satin gowns, rich robes, plumed hats and expensive laces, which were offered for sale at ridiculous prices. The countryside rushed to purchase, and the merchants, having disposed of all their stock, departed. Then within a day or two the purchasers were attacked by a strange sickness and died by scores. The gaudy clothes had been stripped from the bodies of those who had died of the plague in London.

He Made Sure.

Mr. Lloyd George has been telling some stories bearing on his own unpopularity with his political opponents. One of them is about a man who was presented with a testimonial for saving someone from drowning. The hero modestly deprecated the praises showered upon him.

"Really, I have done very little to deserve this reward," he said. "I saw the man struggling in the water, and, as no one else was by, I knew he would be drowned if I didn't save him. So I jumped in, swam out to him, turned him over to make sure that he wasn't Lloyd George, and then pulled him out."

Sage Tea Puts Life And Colour In Hair

Don't Stay Grey! It Darkens so Naturally That Nobody Can Tell

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost over night if you'll get a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy" at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old, famous Sage Tea Recipe are sold annually, says a well known druggist here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray, becoming faded, dry, scraggly and thin have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful—all dandruff goes, scalp itching and falling hair stops.

This is the age of youth. Gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur to-night and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.

Beneficial Exercise.

Exercise to be beneficial must do these things:

First.—It must slightly increase the strength and force of the heart beat, so as to improve the circulation and do away with any tendency to sluggishness.

Second.—It must slightly quicken and deepen the breathing rate so that more pure air is drawn into the lungs and less impure air is left behind.

Third.—It must stimulate into normal activity the myriads of glands in the skin whose duty it is to rid the body of a part of the poisonous substances constantly being formed within us.

Practically any exercise, if carried out with the correct degree of moderation, will accomplish these results and so deserves the term "beneficial exercise." The trouble is that indulged in past moderation almost every form of exercise can do more harm than good.—New York World.

Well Named.

THE white hair and wrinkled faces of our busy men and women tell of doubt, fear and anxiety—more than disease or age. Worry plays havoc with the nervous system—so that digestion is ruined and sleep banished. What oil is to the friction of the delicate parts of an engine—is to the delicate organs of the body. It's a tonic and body builder—because it stimulates the liver to vigorous action, assists the stomach to assimilate food—thus enriching the blood, and the nerves and heart in turn are fed on pure rich blood. Neuralgia "is the cry of starved nerves for food." For forty years "Golden Medical Discovery" in liquid form has given great satisfaction as a tonic and blood maker.

DR. PIERCE'S
Golden Medical Discovery

Now it can be obtained in tablet form—from dealers in medicine or send 50 one-cent stamps for trial box. Write R. V. Pierce, Buffalo.

DR. PIERCE'S PLEASANT PELLETS Relieve constipation, regulate the liver, and bowels. Easy to take as candy.

To Smokers.

You know that unpleasant, dry, "thirsty" feel after a hard smoke? Peps will remove it. Some smokers try gum, but gum has no effect whatever upon the membranes of the throat. Not only so, but that chewing habit is so disagreeable.

When next you have a sore mouth, "smoker's throat," or a heavy breath, try Peps! One little Pep allowed to dissolve on your tongue will liberate pleasing pine essences which will bathe the inflamed throat membranes in a medicinal vapour bath. This will give you instant ease, and at the same time will sweeten the breath.

For a bad cold, sore throat, bronchitis, asthma, or any allied trouble, Peps is the latest and best treatment. They are "the breathing treatment." When throat and lungs are ailing, don't you see how useless it is to swallow medicine into your stomach—an entirely different and unconnected organ. Get to the lungs and throat direct, and Peps alone do that.

SHE FORSWORE LOVE.

For the Sake of a Moral Ideal, Heroine Lived Alone.

As in the case of every famous woman who has chosen to live out her life in maide solitude, the world has always wondered just why Florence Nightingale never became a bride. The reason was revealed recently in a fascinating biography by Sir Edward Cook, which makes it very clear, that in the breast of the "ministering angel," "The Lady With the Lamp," raged a conflict between the desire for the love of a certain man, home and children and a passion for a life passed wholly in the pursuit of a moral ideal—and the latter won.

This moving self-revelation is shown in letters to her friends and entries in her diary. At the age of 30, after she had formed one deep attachment, she renounced all ideas of marriage. She made the declaration on her birthday in her diary of 1850, as follows:

"I am 30, the age of which Christ began his mission. Now, no more childish things, no more vain things, no more love, no more marriage. No. Lord, let me only think of Thy will."

The name of the man who inspired the passionate love of this most remarkable woman— a love that her "moral and intellectual nature would not find satisfaction in his life," she cast aside—is not given. He is spoken of as "the stranger." For years he pressed his suit and for years Miss Nightingale felt the power of his pleading, was constantly tempted to yield to her craving for his protection and the joy of his society—but always, when it came to the point of accepting or refusing his proposal 'something within her made marriage to him seem not quite possible." Her friends could not understand her—she could scarcely understand herself—for aside from the happiness which the union seemed to promise it would have been a brilliant one.

Had Florence Nightingale gone the way followed by womankind since time began, the world at large undoubtedly never would have known the beauty of her soul, her utter selflessness. But the one individual whom of all the world she held most dear would have known her heart. One cannot help but pity, even though one may fail to get her point of view, this fragile little "Lady With the Lamp" this gallant fighter who "went about doing good" under the bleakest, most difficult circumstances, while the lights of her heart's home constantly beckoned her to rest and happiness.

Must Be Moved.

The statue of King Charles I. that stands between the Strand and the Admiralty Arch in London will soon have to be moved. This is the result of a bill that is being introduced into Parliament for widening the approach to the Mall.

This historic monument is not only the finest equestrian statue in London, but for generations it has been the rallying ground for those who still cherish a fondness for "lost causes and forsaken beliefs and impossible loyalties." Every January 15 it is green with garlands—the votive offerings of enthusiasts who have not forgotten to reverence the memory of the "White King."

The monument was cast in 1633, but before it could be erected the civil war had broken out. It was then disposed of as "scrap" to a brazier of the name of Rivet. For many years Rivet did a thriving trade in "relics" from the statue, and the number of knives and forks with bronze handles which he pretended were manufactured from the effigy were legion.

Rivet, however, was a good man of business, and all the while the statue remained intact in his back yard at Holborn. After the Restoration it reappeared, to the surprise of many, and in 1674 was set up on the site of the old Charing Cross, where it has since remained.

Cleverness and Stupidity.

There is no harm in being stupid, so long as a man does not think himself clever; no good in being clever if a man thinks himself so, for that is a short way to the worst stupidity.—Macdonald.

A Rather Novel Complaint.

An English traveler once met a companion sitting in a state of the most woeful despair and apparently near the last agonies by the side of one of the mountain lakes of Switzerland. He inquired the cause of his sufferings.

"Oh," said the latter, "I was very hot and thirsty and took a large draft of the clear water of the lake and then sat down on this stone to consult my guidebook. To my astonishment, I found that the water of this lake is very poisonous! Oh, I am a gone man! I feel it running all over me. I have only a few minutes to live. Remember me to"—

"Let me see the guidebook," said his friend. Turning to the passage, he found, "L'eau du lac est bien poissonneuse" (The water of this lake abounds in fish).

"Is that the meaning of it?"

"Certainly."

The dying man looked up with a radiant countenance.

"What would have become of you," said his friend, "if I had not met you?"

"I should have died of imperfect knowledge of the French language."

Said What She Meant.

"Oh, I am so awfully ashamed of myself!" said Edith Jones to her dearest girl chum. "When Henry proposed to me last night I intended to say, 'So sudden!' but I quite lost my head and exclaimed, 'At last!'"

First War Correspondent.

The London Herald was the first English newspaper to employ a war correspondent. This was George Borrow, who wrote of the Carlist fighting in Spain in 1839.

8 BOXES CURED PSORIASIS

Mrs. Nettie Massey, Consecon, Ont., writes: "Three doctors described my trouble as psoriasis, and one said I could never be cured. The disease spread all over me, even on my face and head, and the itching and burning was hard to bear. I used eight boxes of Dr. Chase's Ointment and am entirely cured—not a sore to be seen. I can hardly praise this Ointment enough."

The Greeting of Democracy.

The story that the kaiser loves most to tell his intimates, declares Mr. William Armstrong in the Woman's Magazine, concerns the visit of his brother, Prince Henry of Prussia, to America.

The incident happened just as the prince was landing at New York. Beside him on deck stood Admiral von Tirpitz. On the dock was a dense crowd. From its midst a stentorian voice called, "Henry, Henry!"

The prince did not understand that the hail was meant for him until the admiral, smiling broadly, said, "Your royal highness, I think some one wants to speak to you."

Then Prince Henry looked over toward the human megaphone, who still continued to bawl out his name. Seeing that he had caught the royal gaze, the owner of the voice shouted, "How's Bill?"

Not Sam's Fault.

Sam Snedeker, the commissary man and held in the community to be a good churchman, annoyed the minister extremely by getting up and walking out of the church while the sermon was in progress. The preacher spoke to Sam about it.

"It isn't my fault, doc," Sam protested. "It's a sort of affliction I got."

The preacher told Sam he'd better see the camp doctor. A few days later the preacher met the doctor.

"Did Sam Snedeker come to you for advice?" asked the preacher.

"Yes," said the doctor, "but I told Sam I couldn't do anything for him."

"What was Sam's affliction?"

"Affliction! He didn't say anything about that. Sam said he'd been troubling you by walking in his sleep."—New York Post.

Pythagoras.

Undoubtedly Pythagoras was one of the greatest men of all time. We know very little of him, but we know enough to warrant us in giving him a place in the front rank of the world's thinkers. He was the first moral philosopher and one of the earliest of the world's mathematicians. It would require too much space to go into the details of the celebrated theory of "numbers," but by "numbers" Pythagoras meant nothing more or less than mathematics, as though he had said, "The first principle of all things, physically speaking, is mathematics."

Reassured Him.

He was a young man—a candidate for an agricultural constituency—and he was sketching in glowing colors to the audience of rural voters the happy life the laborer would lead under an administration for the propagation of sweetness and light. "We have not yet three acres and a cow, but it will come. Old age pensions are still of the future, but they will come." Similarly every item of his comprehensive program was indorsed by the same cry. Then he went on to talk of prison reforms. "I have not yet personally," he said, "been inside a criminal lunatic asylum." Then there was a voice from the back of the hall, "But it will come."

Chinese Sweetmeats.

The Chinese are very skillful in making confectionery and possess the reputation of having some secrets, the knowledge of which our own confectioners would find very desirable. They are able to empty an orange of its pulp entirely and then fill it up with fruit jelly without the being able to find the smallest cut in the rind or even a tiny hole. Indeed, they even empty an egg in this manner and fill it with a sort of almond nugget, without one being able to find the slightest break or incision in the shell.

The Classified Egg.

"When I arose to speak," related a martyred statesman, "someone hurled a base, cowardly egg at me, and it struck me in the chest."

"And what kind of an egg might that me?" asked a young man.

"A base, cowardly egg," explained the statesman, "is one that hits you and then runs."

Gone Again.

At a certain public school it was the custom for the teachers to write on the blackboard any instruction they desired the caretaker to receive.

One evening, while cleaning a room, the caretaker saw written:

"Find the greatest common denominator."

"Hullo!" she exclaimed. "Is that darned thing lost again?"

Took the Advice.

The head of a large business house bought a number of those "Do It Now" signs and hung them up around his offices. They were effective beyond expectation, and yet it can hardly be said that they worked well. When, after the first few days, the business man counted up the results, he found that the cashier had skipped off with £5000, the head bookkeeper had eloped with the typist, three clerks had asked for a rise in salary, and the office boy had set out to become a highwayman.

CALLAHAN—

Garage Proprietor—Yes, I can let you a touring car. Three dollars for the first hour and two dollars for the second.

Charlie Swain—All right. Let me have it for the second hour, then.

Martha Was Pleased.

She was a splendid servant, but she didn't know anything about gas to cook with. So that she could see how the gas stove was operated, he lit each of the many burners.

While still explaining, a message called him from the kitchen, and he left her, saying: "I hope you will find that it will work all right now, Martha."

He didn't see the cook again for four or five days, then upon entering the kitchen he said:

"Well, Martha, how's that range doing?"

To his utter consternation she replied:

"Indeed, sir, that's the best stove I ever did see. The fire you lit for me four days ago is still burning, and it hasn't even lowered once."

The Retort Courteous.

One day a learned professor was accosted by a very dirty little bootblack: "Shine your shoes, sir?"

The professor was impressed by the filthiness of the boy's face.

"I don't want a shine, my lad," said he, "but if you'll go and wash your face I'll give you a sixpence."

"A' richt, sir!" was the lad's reply, as he went over to a neighboring fountain and made his ablutions. Returning, he held out his hand for the money.

"Well, my lad," said the professor, "you have earned your sixpence. Here it is!"

"I dinna want it, auld chap," returned the boy, with a lordly air. "Ye keep it and get your hair cut."

Wage It.

Wife: "Yes, in a battle of tongues a woman can always hold her own."

Husband: "Perhaps she can; but she never does."

Expressing Himself.

An indignant letter dictated by a clever old gentleman, ran thus:

"Sir, my typist, being a lady, cannot take down what I think of you. I, being a gentleman, cannot express it; but you, being neither, can readily divine it."

Clinging Gowns.

The two women were discussing the fashions.

"Did you say that your husband was fond of those clinging gowns?"

"Yes, indeed; he likes one to cling to me for about five years."

Better Still.

"It is better to have a light purse than a heavy heart," quoted the Wise Youth. "Yes, but it is still better to split the difference," added the Simple Mug.

Pity the Editor!

"What's the matter?" inquired the foreman as he entered the sanctum for copy, and noted the editor's swollen forehead, puffed red eye and tattered, dusty coat. "Did you fall downstairs?"

"No—only that," replied the editor, pointing with his finger to a paragraph in the paper before him. "It's in our account of the Crapley-Smith wedding. It ought to read 'Miss Smith's dimpled, shining face formed a pleasing contrast to Mr. Crapley's strong, bold physiognomy.' But see how it was printed."

And the foreman read: "Miss Smith's pimpled, skinny face formed a pleasing contrast to Mr. Crapley's strange, bald physiognomy."

"Crapley was in here just now," concluded the editor sadly.

Three Wishes.

To the great god Buddha came the representatives of the Catholic, Protestant, and Jewish religions to pay him homage. Buddha, very flattered, told each of them that if they would express a wish, it would be fulfilled. "What do you wish?" he asked the Catholic. The answer was: "Glory." "You shall have it," said Buddha, and turning to the Protestant, "What do you wish?" "Money." "You shall have it." "And you?" This to the Jew. "I do not want much," quoth he, "give me the Protestant's address."

Lending a Name.

"Waiter," asked the impatient customer, "do you call this an oyster stew?"

"Yessuh," replied Mr. Erastus Pinkley.

"Why, the oyster in this stew isn't big enough to flavor it."

"He wasn't put in to flavor it, suh. He is jes' supposed to christen it."

Blunt.

A visitor who had an exalted opinion of his golf ability was extended the courtesy of the club, and the first day he went over the beautiful course in the Highlands, accompanied by a bright caddy. He had succeeded in burying his ball in every bunker, gulley, and burn on or near the links, when he turned to the caddy and said: "Really, this is the most difficult course I have ever played on."

"Hoo dae ye ken?" asked the caddy gravely. "Ye havna played on it yet."

First Aid—"Keep his feet warm, while I go for help. . . . more than half an hour."

"Shaking" a Bum.

"Excuse me, sir," said the seedy one in the hotel lobby, "but tho a stranger to me, your face seems familiar. Have you any relatives in Atlanta?"

"Not one," was the reply. "Years ago I floated down the Chattahoochee River on a raft, leaving all my relatives behind. The raft was wrecked in a storm and I had to swim ashore, with a forty-pound catfish in tow. I traded the fish for a week's board, put an 'ad' in the 'lost' column, recovered my wrecked raft and started a lumber yard."—Atlanta Constitution.

An Idea.

The stout man of the fourth row was attentively following the parson's sermons.

"Let us, then," said the exhorter, "break the bonds of custom and throw off the shackles of self, and acknowledge our debt to life's fundamental lessons. Let us deduct from the year's balance sheet those obligations which we are morally bound to assume."

At this point the stout man suddenly chuckled and slapped his leg with considerable force. After the sermon he was overtaken by the pastor.

"You seemed greatly pleased with one section of the sermon," he said.

"Yes," replied the stout man. "What you said reminded me of a ripping new scheme for beating the income tax."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Try This.

"No, George, I am afraid I cannot marry you. I want a man who possesses a noble ambition; whose heart is set on attaining some high and worthy object."

He: "Well, don't I want you?"

She: "Oh, George! I am yours!"—Ladies' Home Journal.

Doubtful.

William Tell and the Austrian governor were discussing the morrow's target practice.

"I can shoot that apple off with my eyes closed," said the Swiss hero confidently.

The Austrian smiled grimly.

"You never can, Tell," he answered dryly.—New York Sun.

Joshing Waldo.

It was at a Tammany dinner, just after Mayor Gaynor had appointed Rhinelander Waldo police head. Ex-Controller Herman A. Metz was present. Metz is about as formal as a Bowery lad. "Well, 'Rhiney,'" he said, holding out his hand, "you've got a hard job ahead of you. I hope you make good. But don't forget what you're up against."

"Well, its my intelligence against theirs; my intelligence against theirs," replied the police commissioner, and he pointed to himself significantly.

"'Rhiney, you lose," retorted Metz.—New York Tribune.

He Was Quite Slow.

A shy young man had been calling on the sweetest girl in the world for many moons, but, being bashful, his suit progressed slowly. Finally she decided it was up to her to start something, so the next time he called she pointed to the rose in his buttonhole and said: "I'll give you a kiss for that rose."

A crimson flush overspread his countenance, but the exchange was made after some hesitation on his part. Then he grabbed his hat and started to leave the room.

"Why, where are you going?" she asked, in surprise.

"To the—er—florist for more roses," he called from the front door.

Foiling Chris.

Columbus had returned to Spain bringing news of wonderful new lands across the sea.

"How much shall I write on it?" queried the maritime reporter of the Cadiz Evening Bulletin, who had brought in the story.

"Don't write anything," replied the editor. "Let Columbus pay for his advertising if he wants any. It's probably a real estate promotion scheme."

"You ought to typewrite your poetry," said the harsh editor.

"Great Scott!" replied Mr. Penwiggle; "if I were expert enough to do that kind of typewriting, do you think I'd be putting in my time on poetry?"

What Is Coming?

Whitney Warren, at the recent New York horse show, nodded toward a young man in tight morning coat and rakishly tilted top hat, and said:

"That young millionaire has already had three wives. Yet he is received, yet he is even lionised, everywhere. What is the world coming to?

"What is the world coming to?" Mr. Warren pursued. "As I look about me at the tolerant, the too tolerent society of today, I think of the horse thief.

"'Yours is a very serious crime, my man,' a judge said sternly to a horse thief. 'Fifty years ago it was a hanging matter.'

"'Well, your honor,' said the horse thief calmly, 'fifty years hence it mayn't be a crime at all.'"

Who's Who.

Many people wonder how the really great folk amuse themselves. The pages of next year's Who's Who reveal their secrets. George R. Sims "plays battledore and shuttlecock," and Miss Horniman, of the Manchester Repertory Theatre, "mends her own clothes when she has time." A. W. Gattage "is assistant commissioner for the Holborn Boy Scouts," and Coulson Kernahan, the author, "looks for the humorous side of life"—at Hastings of all places. Herman Finck's pet weakness is "Bibliography," if you believe him.

The Easiest Way.

Speaking of the splendid work being done by the Carnegie Foundation, which recently held it annual meeting in New York, Jacob Gould Schurman, president of Cornell University, said in Ithaca:

"The generosity, the intelligent and unselfish devotion which Mr. Carnegie has shown this philanthropy have won for him the esteem of the whole nation.

"The esteem of one's fellow men—not an easy thing to win; but, as Mr. Carnegie has proven, not so difficult, either, as the sage considered it to be.

"A youth, you know," continued President Schurman, "sought a sage and inquired of him:

"'What shall I do, oh sage, to have my fellow men speak well of me?'

"The sage's reply was:

"'Die.'"

"I pulled pa's leg to the tune of $100."

"Have you had the air copyrighted?"

"Get me a cop," panted the excited stranger. "Somebody stole my coat."

Ups and Downs.

Miss Belle de Costa Greene, the $10,000 librarian of the Morgan collections, was talking in New York about her campaign in behalf of her underpaid sister librarians.

"Women are to blame in a way," she said, "for the underpayment that prevails among them. They must change their attitude.

Praise Indeed.

William C. Brown, the president of the New York Central lines, began life on the farm, and now, resigning the post which he has filled so brilliantly, he is going back to the farm again—a superb stock farm, where he will raise Percherons.

Praising farm life, Mr. Brown said the other day:

"I'm like Mrs. Maximilian Forrester. I can't be too high in my praise.

"Mrs. Forrester, you know, stood one day before the Apollo Belvedere in Rome. She considered the statue calmly and attentively and then she said to a woman near by:

"'Excuse me, I'm Mrs. Maximilian Forrester of Yonkers. Is this the Apollo Belvedere?'

"'Yes, madam,' replied the other.

"'Considered a pretty fine statue?'

"'Finest in the world, madam.'

"'Well,' said Mrs. Forrester, pursing her lips, 'I've seen the Apollo Belvedere, and I've seen Maximilian Forrester. And give me Forrester!'"

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

THE AERONAUTS

How a Girl Went Up In the Air and How She Came Down

By MARION ATWATER

"By the bye, Mrs. Grosvenor," said Mrs. Effingham, "your nephew, Jack Kenworthy, comes of age soon, does he not?"

"In a week from today."

"How nice to be coming of age and into a splendid property at the same time!"

"Jack will not enjoy his inheritance long."

"Not enjoy it long? Why, what do you mean?"

"Jack, like other wealthy young men has been inoculated with the aviation fever. For the past year he has been thinking of nothing else. He has made a number of trips and learned all about aeroplanes and how to fly them. He has ordered one finer than any that has been produced to be made for him. It is finished, and he is only waiting for his estate to be turned over to him to pay for it. These aviators do not live on an average more than two or three years and are liable to get killed at any time while they are flying. It's too bad about Jack. He will have a splendid fortune. He is very bright and has a fine future before him."

"Has no one any influence over him to show him that death is the inevitable end to his flights if he persists in them?"

"I am his only living near relative. I have pleaded with him to desist from aviation, to study a profession, to fit himself to live rather than to take measures for death. I have not produced any impression on him."

"Don't you think that if you could get him married his wife might accomplish that in which you have failed?"

"I've thought of that, but Jack is not a ladies' man at all. He won't consent to my introducing him to girls. Indeed he won't have anything to do with them. Several women who have got the aviation craze have begged me to intercede with Jack to take them for a ride in the air. He scouts the idea. 'Do you suppose,' he says to me, 'that I'm going to take up a woman to have her head at the slightest jar in the machinery, grab me like a drowning person and land me a mass of pulp on the earth hundreds of feet below? No such!'"

"Does he take men up with him?"

"Only such as he is sure will not get rattled."

Edith Effingham, aged nineteen, was sitting on a window seat concealed by curtains, with a novel on her lap, listening to this dialogue. She had caught the aviation fever and was much interested in this Mr. Kenworthy, who skimmed about in the air at the risk of his life, who disliked girls and who was about to step into a fortune. Could there be any combination better calculated to impress a girl in her teens? But when we consider that Miss Effingham was desirous of flying among the clouds herself we have conditions that are likely to produce results.

"Mamma," she said after Mrs. Grosvenor's departure, "I have a curiosity to see this man who has no more sense than to risk his neck by trying to make a bird of himself and who prefers to get smashed against the earth instead of living to enjoy his fortune."

"Good gracious, Edith, what do you know about Mr. Kenworthy?"

"I was sitting in the window seat when you and his aunt were talking about him and heard all that was said. Please ask Mrs. Grosvenor to bring him here to dinner. But don't say anything about me, or he won't come."

"I'll do no such thing. I don't wish you to have anything to do with such a man; you'll be going up with him in his machine."

"How can I do that when he won't take a girl up with him?"

"Why do you wish to see him?"

"For curiosity's sake."

When a girl of nineteen wishes to get her clutches on a young man, her mother is not the best person to stand in her way. Mrs. Grosvenor was invited to dinner and asked to bring her nephew with her. Since she had brought him up from a boy of twelve, she had sufficient influence to induce him to accept the invitation. At Mrs. Effingham's suggestion, prompted by Edith, Mrs. Grosvenor told Jack that there were only children in the Effingham family, and for that evening the young lady appeared with her hair hanging unconfined down her back and robed in a becoming snow white dress, the skirt of which reached only midway between her knees and her ankles.

Upon her entrance into the dining room, where Mr. Kenworthy, much bored in his efforts to please his aunt, sat waiting for dinner to be announced, his attention was immediately fixed on this fairy-like child who made him a courtesy and began immediately to chat with him in a very animated fashion. Kenworthy, judging from her appearance, thought her to be about thirteen, but he had never known a child of that age to talk so much like a woman.

Miss Effingham refrained from any mention of Mr. Kenworthy's especial bent until she had succeeded in impressing him with the fact that she was a very attractive child. After the dinner had been finished and the two elderly ladies were chatting over a cup of tea, with childlike simplicity she inveigled the aeronaut into the window seat, where she had heard all about him, and turning on the switch set him going on the subject of flying, listening while he talked as fast as he was accustomed to skim through the air. Her interruptions were few, but struck him as being made to the point.

Shortly before the guests departed Miss Effingham, putting her finger on her lips as a sign of caution, whispered to her companion that she was dying to fly. Would he take her with him?

The temptation was great, but the resistance was sufficient to overcome it. "I never take women up with me. I am aware of the danger I incur, but have no inclination to take the responsibility of hurling others from a height of a thousand feet to the earth. I have on one or two occasions taken a man friend with me, but I draw the line at women."

"And children?" asked Edith, fixing her blue eyes on him appealingly.

"I would rather take a child than an adult," was the reply. "The younger the person the greater the insensibility to danger. If anything should happen with you beside me I should not expect you to wreck the machine by interfering with me."

"Indeed, I would not."

"In your case I must refuse solely on the ground that I would have no right to permit you to risk your life."

"Will you take up my brother?"

"I didn't know that you have a brother."

"Will you grant me for him what you have denied me for myself?"

Edith threw all the pleading of which she was capable into her expressive eyes.

"I will."

"When?"

"After I have got my new machine that has been building for me and have tested it in trial trips."

"Very well; when you are ready notify me, but say nothing about the matter to any one. If mother should hear of it she would prevent it."

She took his hand and pressed it fervently. The pressure went straight to his heart.

Mr. Kenworthy carried away with him a very attractive picture, a young girl in short dresses, with her hair down her back and withal sufficiently developed both physically and intellectually to please one who had come to manhood. Moreover, the picture did not fade. The fancy once caught is very tenacious. Kenworthy did not go to see Edith again, for he could find no valid excuse to visit a child, but not a day passed without his seeing her in his mind's eye.

One day she received a note from him saying that he had thoroughly tested his new aeroplane and was ready to keep his promise to give her brother an airing. He would start from a field in which stood the shed covering his machine the next afternoon at 3 o'clock. When that hour arrived a boy jumped the fence and strode toward the aeronaut. On reaching Kenworthy he said that his sister, Edith Effingham, had sent him, saying that he would be taken up in an aeroplane.

"You're the image of your sister, only you are dark and she is light. Are you twins?"

"Yes," faltered the boy, quailing under the inquisitive gaze.

Kenworthy's mind being intent on his preparations for his flight, he turned away and when they were completed invited the boy to a seat beside him. They rose slowly, the latter holding to the machine with a grip which if strong enough would have crushed it. The aeronaut cast a glance aside and noticed that the hand was white and shapely. But one guiding a machine rising higher and higher has no time for other observations than those connected with his flight, and Jack having a neck at risk besides his own felt an extra amount of responsibility resting upon his shoulders. His companion sat still, displaying no fear, but feeling a great terror. The hills and the houses grew smaller and smaller below them and they seemed hung upon nothing. The air which had been quiet below was blustering above, and suddenly the machine tilted like a bird changing its course. A suppressed cry escaped the boy.

"I've kept my promise to your sister," said Jack, "and I think we had better descend."

No objection being raised, the aeronaut began the descent. All went well till they were within 100 feet of the ground from which they started, when something snapped and the speed of the propellers was visibly reduced. It was evident from the aeronaut's sudden pulling upon levers that something had happened. Indeed, he found it necessary to glide on an incline down upon the earth. He succeeded in doing so, and when the machine stopped running on its wheels the arms of his boy passenger were clasped tightly around his neck.

He unclasped them, and then found that the boy had fainted. Kenworthy took him in his arms and laid him on the grass. Thinking to rouse him, he ripped open his jacket and unloosened his collar.

The secret was out, or, rather, it began to come out, for though Jack knew the boy was a girl he did not know a great many other things that he learned afterward. That was his last trip in an aeroplane. Edith Effingham in her own appropriate costume as a young woman, after a courtship, consented to be his wife, but only on condition that he would never sit in an aeroplane again.

SUFFERED AGONY WITH NEURALGIA

Nothing Helped Her Until She Tried "Fruit-a-tives"

CAMPBELLVILLE, Ont., May 5th, 1913.

"I cannot speak too highly of "Fruit-a-tives". For over thirty years, I have suffered from Chronic Neuralgia and Constipation, experiencing untold agony. The Neuralgia settled in my lungs and I took bottle after bottle of medicine without relief. The doctor told me I would not get better but "Fruit-a-tives" proved that the doctor was wrong, by giving me quick relief and finally and completely curing me.

I would not have my present health if it was not for "Fruit-a-tives" and I am glad of the opportunity of giving you this letter about such a splendid remedy as "Fruit-a-tives", for the guidance of other women who may be similarly affected"

Mrs. NATHAN DUNN.

"Fruit-a-tives" is the only medicine made from fruit juices and is particularly suited to women because of its mild action and pleasant taste.

"Fruit-a-tives" is sold by all dealers at 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c, or may be obtained from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

WAS TROUBLED WITH BOILS AND CARBUNCLES.

There is no more frequent source of illness than that arising from bad blood, for when the blood becomes impure, it is only natural that boils, pimples or some other indication of bad blood should break out of the system.

Boils in themselves are not a dangerous trouble, but still at the same time are very painful, and the only way to get rid of them is to cleanse the blood of the impurities. Cleanse it thoroughly by the use of Burdock Blood Bitters, that old and reliable blood medicine that has been on the market for nearly forty years.

Mr. James Wilds, Plaster Rock, N.B., writes:—"I was greatly troubled, a few years ago, with boils and carbuncles, and the doctor told me I was in a bad condition. My appetite failed me, I began to lose strength, and was pretty well run down when one of my friends recommended Burdock Blood Bitters. After using three bottles I began to feel like another man. My troubles soon left me, and to-day I can certainly give Burdock Blood Bitters a high recommendation to my friends."

He Had a Millionaire's Privilege.

They had just become engaged.

"Oh, Will," she said, moving a trifle closer to him, "I am so glad you are not rich! They say that some of those millionaires receive threatening letters saying that something dreadful will happen to them if they don't pay the writers sums of money."

"Oh, is that all?" replied Will. "Why, I get plenty of such letters."

Paper From Seaweed.

Seaweed paper has been invented by an English chemist. A Liverpool newspaper states that it is fireproof, waterproof and odorless, and is expected to "have considerable effect on the present system of wrapping perishable goods for transport."

Miller To Be Unmolested.

OTTAWA, Jan. 21.—It is said to be highly improbable that Richard C. Miller, who last session won notoriety as Canada's state prisoner and underwent an incarceration in the Carleton County jail from February to June, will be brought up again this session before the public accounts committee.

The courts have since offered Miller to give an accounting, but this is the subject of an appeal now before the Supreme Court here.

THE CLEANLY ISLANDS.

Delightful Canaries Known to the Ancients as the Fortunate Isles.

Fortunate Islands, the ancients called them. What measure of good fortune they associated with cleanliness is, indeed, uncertain. From the duration and elaboration of their baths, one might presume that the Romans—not the holy, but the pagan Romans—placed it at least a degree above godliness. Yet some influence surely must have traversed the law of heredity, for they scarcely seem to have transmitted this disposition to their posterity.

Whether, however, the title of Fortunate, given to these islands, had or had not a reference to this quality, which we place proverbially upon next to godliness, the quality itself is strikingly conspicuous.

The islands had other names. The Hesperides is the most familiar of them, and in Teneriffe the original "dragon" tree may be seen, beneath which that sleepless dragon coiled himself, who acted as watchdog for the sleeping maidens guarding the golden apples. To-day we call "golden apples" oranges—in the language of the country, narangas.

We have changed the name of the islands, too, and call them the Canaries. No canary birds seem to live in them, however, and there is a notion that the name is derived ultimately from "canis," the dogs, especially those of the island of Lanzerote—the most easterly—being famous.

The flora of the island is subtropical, with palms, bananas, eucalyptus, cactus and the aforesaid "golden apples." Luxuriant vegetation is the glory of Teneriffe; a climate wonderfully equable is common to them all, but Grand Canary is especially blessed in its dryness and freshness. At Orom is more grandeur of gardens and spacious hotels! at Las Palmas, facing the northeast trade winds, is the constant fresh breeze off the sea, accommodation as comfortable as could be desired and the quality of cleanliness in its superlative degree.

This is the more surprising because the place is pervaded by a fine dust; but the very dust is of cleanly, almost of a cleansing, nature. It lies in powder on the banana groves and palm trees; after a country drive it may make a dark coat look as if its wearer's profession had to do with a flour mill. But a shower of rain sweeps it off the foliage, and a shake and a brush off the garment, and they are all more spotless than they were before.

Timing Her Finish.

"You certainly have grown thinner in the last few months, my dear. Are you taking an anti-fat cure?"

"Goodness, no! It's only the anger the new cook is causing me that does that."

"And are you not giving her notice?"

"Of course not. I want to worry down to seventy kilos. Then out she goes!"

Green Vegetables.

Many cases of poisoning have been known to be caused by eating lettuce or uncooked cabbage which was not thoroughly washed. All the green vegetables are necessarily sprinkled heavily with paris green, slug shot and other mixtures, and often careless washing will leave traces of these substances on the food, which, if eaten uncooked, will result seriously.

Radway's Ready Relief

E. L. Haddock of McGee, Mo., writes: "I had muscular rheumatism six weeks. Had three doctors, but did not get much relief. A friend insisted on me trying R. R. R. and sent me two bottles. In twenty minutes after the first application I could turn in bed with ease. Have used two bottles and am well."

Rheumatism

Apply the Relief externally to the part or parts affected, as briskly as circumstances will permit. Benefit will also be derived from Radway's Pills, their alterative action being peculiarly suited to this disease. Where the joints are swelled, stiff or contracted, the Relief, with sweet oil, is an admirable liniment.

Famous English Chronogram.

The chronogram was not, in England, always composed of Latin, though it was a device borrowed from the later Romans revived during the renaissance. Perhaps the most famous chronogram in English was that on the death of Queen Elizabeth: "My Day Closed Is In Immortality." That is, MDCIII. (1603), the year in which she died. This is neater than most Latin examples, as the numerals appear as capital letters at the beginning of the words and so do not spoil the symmetry of the inscription. But it does not fulfill the condition that, "no letters of numerical value" shall be "employed superfluously," since "D," "M" and "I" are numerals.—Manchester Guardian.

A Book Accident.

When M. Henri, a quaint and crabby miser of threescore and ten, died in Paris some time ago the closest search for treasure revealed nothing more valuable than two shelves of dingy looking books, which were sold, with his few sticks of furniture, to pay his funeral expenses. When the buyer of the books examined his purchase he discovered, to his amazement, two volumes of rare value—absolutely unique in the whole history of books—every page in each of them consisting of a five-pound sterling note of the Bank of England. In all there were 320 pages in the two books, a neat accident of $20,500.

Mixing It Pleasantly.

Small Willie was entertaining his big sister's beau in the parlor.

"Mr. Green," he asked, "how many pennies have you got?"

"I haven't any at present, Willie, I'm sorry to say," he replied.

"Then mamma was right," continued the little fellow. "She told sister last night that you didn't have any more sense than a rabbit."

Mercenary Love.

Two little cousins had quarreled and the mother of one of them tried to make peace.

"Amy," she said, "why did you tell Bobbie you wouldn't be his little sweetheart?"

"Cos he didn't ask me," replied Amy indignantly, "till he knowed I had a new sixpence!"

STOP, MOTHER! IT'S CRUEL TO FORCE OIL OR CALOMEL INTO SICK CHILD'S STOMACH

"California Syrup of Figs" can't harm tender stomach, liver, bowels

Look back at your childhood days. Remember the "physic" that mother insisted on — castor oil, calomel, cathartics. How you hated them, how you fought against them.

With our children it's different. Mothers who cling to the old form of physic simply don't realize what they do. The children's revolt is well founded. Their tender little "insides" are injured by them.

If your child's stomach, liver and bowels need cleansing give "California Syrup of Figs." Its action is positive, but gentle. Millions of mothers keep this harmless "fruit laxative" handy; they know children love to take it; that it never fails to clean the liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach, and that a teaspoonful given to-day saves a sick child to-morrow. It should be the first remedy given us it always does good, never any harm.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on each bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. See that it is made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

Auto Thieves Admitted Guilt.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—Two chauffeurs, John Chandler and Chester Curtis, members of a band of automobile thieves, charged with stealing cars worth $100,000 during the last two years, pleaded guilty yesterday. They were indicted for stealing a $5,000 automobile here last May. They promised to help the district attorney to bring other members of the gang to justice, and will go before the grand jury, now in session. Sentence was deferred.

Has First Woman Judge.

CALGARY, Alta., Jan. 28. — The first woman judge to be appointed in Canada is Mrs. R. R. Jamieson, president of the Local Council of Women of Calgary, who has been appointed by the Attorney-General Commissioner of the Juvenile Court in Calgary. She will have the same powers as a police magistrate and judge of the district court, but will only try cases where the accused are under eighteen years of age.

HOW I MADE MY HAIR GROW

Woman With Marvellously Beautiful Hair Gives Simple Home Prescription Which She Used With Most Remarkable Results

I was greatly troubled with dandruff and falling hair. I tried many advertised hair preparations and various prescriptions, but they all signally failed; many of them made my hair greasy so it was impossible to comb it or do it up properly. I think that many of the things I tried were positively injurious and from my own experience I cannot too strongly caution you against using preparations containing wood alcohol and other poisonous substances. I believe they injure the roots of the hair. After my long list of failures, I finally found a simple prescription which I can unhesitatingly state is beyond doubt the most wonderful thing for the hair I have ever seen. Many of my friends have also used it, and obtained wonderful effects therefrom. It not only is a powerful stimulant to the growth of the hair and for restoring grey hair to its natural colour, but it is equally good for removing dandruff, giving the hair life and brilliancy, etc., and for the purpose of keeping the scalp in first-class condition. It also makes the hair easier to comb and arrange in nice form. I have a friend who used it two months and during that time it has not only stopped the falling of his hair and wonderfully increased its growth, but it practically restored all of his hair to its natural colour. You can obtain the ingredients for making this wonderful preparation from almost any druggist. The prescription is as follows:

Bay Rum, 6 oz.; Menthol Crystals, ½ drachm; Lavona de Composee, 2 oz. If you like it perfumed add 4 drachm of your favourite perfume. This, however, is not necessary. Apply night and morning; rub thoroughly into the scalp.

DR. HUGHES ARRESTED.

Gait Man, In Custody In Edmonton, Will Be Brought Home.

TORONTO, Jan. 28.—Two of the men wanted for conspiracy in connection with the stocks of the Union Life Assurance Co. are in custody, one is being held under surveillance in a sanitarium at Guelph, and the fourth is in Paris, France, having left Toronto two weeks ago.

Dr. F. G. Hughes was taken into custody by the police at Edmonton at one o'clock Tuesday morning. He will be brought back to Toronto as soon as possible.

Dr. Millichamp is at the Homewood Sanitarium at Guelph, but is being guarded by a doctor and two orderlies. He will also be brought back as soon as he is sufficiently recovered, orders having been sent out by the authorities of Toronto to that effect. It is hardly likely, however, that he will be able to leave the sanitarium for some time. Dr. A. T. Hobbs of the institute states that if Dr. Millichamp were placed under arrest or removed from the sanitarium he could not answer for his life.

It was the Ontario Government that ordered the investigation, and, so far as is known, the conspiracy charge was laid independently by the Attorney-Genera'. The Government officials have kept in touch with the proceedings all along, and when events warranted a criminal charge being laid, they acted.

CONFESSES TO OUTRAGES.

Young Black Hand Operator Placed Sixteen Bombs.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28. — Alfred Lehman, an under-sized youth scarcely out of his teens, sat in the witness chair yesterday and confessed to having partaken in 16 bomb outrages, revealed knowledge of 80, cleared up the mystery of two murders and furnished information concerning a number of lesser crimes, including arson and burglary.

Lehman was called as a witness in the trial of Angelo Sylvester, accused of one of the bomb outrages. Lehman told the court of the burning of two Brooklyn houses for the insurance money and many other lesser crimes. He said the bomb outrages usually brought the men doing the work $50.

"The gang I worked for," he said, "were blackhanders. The boss would write letters demanding money under threats of death to well-to-do Italians. When they did not 'come across' I was sent with a bomb. They usually paid up after the explosion of the bomb. If they didn't, we went after 'em again."

INDIGESTION, GAS OR SICK, SOUR STOMACH

Time It! — "Pape's Diapepsin" makes your upset, bloated stomach feel fine in five minutes

"Really does" put bad stomachs in order—"really does" overcome indigestion, dyspepsia, gas, heartburn and sourness in five minutes—that—just that—makes Pape's Diapepsin the largest selling stomach regulator in the world. If what you eat ferments into stubborn lumps, you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food and acid; head is dizzy and aches; breath foul; tongue coated; your insides filled with bile and indigestible waste, remember the moment "Pape's Diapepsin" comes in contact with the stomach all such distress vanishes. It's truly astonishing—almost marvelous, and the joy is its harmlessness.

A large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin will give you a hundred dollars' worth of satisfaction or your druggist hands you your money back.

It's worth its weight in gold to men and women who can't get their stomachs regulated. It belongs in your home—should always be kept handy in case of a sick, sour, upset stomach during the day or at night. It's the quickest, surest and most harmless stomach doctor in the world.

PEACE CENTENARY PLAN.

Scholarships Will be Given to Anglo-Saxon Women.

LONDON, Jan. 28. — A movement to commemorate the Anglo-American peace centenary by establishing a series of scholarships for women tenable at Girton, Newnham or Bedford College, London, is being instituted by a section of the League of Empire. The proposal is for scholarships organized similarly to the Rhodes scholarships and would be open to women of the English-speaking nations between the ages of 21 and 26, and would have an annual value of £250, tenable for two years.

Madame Thayer, honorary secretary of the Women's Scholarships Committee, explaining the proposal yesterday, said: "The scholarships would be a living memorial to the hundred years of peace. The experiment has already been tried successfully, for in 1910, when Miss Points, an American girl sent over here for two years by the General Federation of Women's Clubs to complete her education, the same machinery which examines the Rhodes scholars was utilized in her selection, and we are informed that this machinery will be at our disposal if the scholarships we propose are founded. The scholarships will also strengthen the Imperial scheme and our friendship with the United States."

FAVORS BRITISH VIEW.

Pres. Wilson Said To Be Against Discrimination In Canal Tolls.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—How to dispose of the Panama Canal tolls question was the subject uppermost in discussion about the capitol yesterday when the attitude of President Wilson, outlined to the Senate foreign relations committee Monday night became public. The President's position was asserted to be that the provision of the Panama Canal Act, granted toll exemption to American coastwise vessels is in violation of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty, which proclaims that the canal shall be free and open to the vessels of commerce and war of all nations "on terms of entire equality," and that "charges of traffic should be just and equitable."

Before any definite action is taken in Congress, it was said last night by administration leaders, a public statement from the President on the question will be awaited. President Wilson himself, after the night conference with the Senators, said he would proclaim his views on the subject at a future time."

Goethals Now Governor.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28. — President Wilson signed yesterday an executive order making Col. George W. Goethals governor of the Panama Canal zone.

LABORITES BUNDLED OUT.

Ten Principal Union Leaders Deported From South Africa.

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, Jan. 27.—The Government has decided to deport ten of the principal labor leaders, including President Watson and General Secretary Bain of the Trades Federation. Under a strong escort the men were taken yesterday from Transvaal to Natal and late last night were put aboard a steamer, which sailed this morning, stopping at no port until it reaches England.

This action was taken by virtue of martial law, which is still in force in Natal, from which province the deportation can legally take place. Measures will be taken to prevent the men's return to South Africa.

Assassin Kills Himself.

Dies From Smallpox.

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., Jan. 28. —With the first death in the history of the city from smallpox yesterday when Philip Wagner died from blood poisoning superinduced by smallpox, Niagara Falls faces a possible quarantine by Canada. Dr. H. R. Elliott and F. W. E. Wilson of Niagara Falls, Ont., were yesterday appointed inspectors by the Dominion authorities to prevent all unvaccinated persons from entering Canada from this city. There are one hundred and twenty-seven cases of smallpox recorded here to-day.

Schooner Runs Down, Sinks.

BOSTON, Jan. 28. — The Boston fishing schooner Olive F. Hutchins sank in the harbor early yesterday two minutes after she had been run down by the steamer George A. Hibbard, owned by the City of Boston. Capt. Merton P. Hutchins and five of the crew jumped to the steamer's deck.

Trolleys in Holy City.

JERUSALEM, Palestine, Jan. 28. —A concession for the construction of a street car line running from Jerusalem to Bethlehem and also for the lighting of Jerusalem by electricity was granted yesterday by the Turkish Government to the Franchise Bank.

HOW TO PREVENT ACID STOMACHS AND FOOD FERMENTATION

By a Stomach Specialist.

As a specialist who has spent many years in the study and treatment of stomach troubles, I have been forced to the conclusion that most people who complain of stomach trouble possess stomachs that are absolutely healthy and normal. The real trouble, that which causes all the pain and difficulty, is acid in the stomach, usually due to, or aggravated by, food fermentation. Acid irritates the delicate lining of the stomach and food fermentation causes wind which distends the stomach abnormally, causing that full bloated feeling. Thus both acid and fermentation interfere with and retard the process of digestion. The stomach is usually healthy and normal, but irritated almost past endurance by these foreign elements — acid and wind. In all such cases — and they comprise over 90 per cent. of all stomach difficulties—the first and only step necessary is to neutralize the acid and stop the fermentation by taking in a little warm or cold water immediately after eating, half a teaspoonful of bisurated magnesia, which is doubtless the best and only really effective antacid and food corrective known. The acid will be neutralized and the fermentation stopped almost instantly, and your stomach will at once proceed to digest the food in a healthy normal manner. Be sure to ask your chemist for the bisurated magnesia, as I have found other forms utterly lacking in its peculiarly valuable properties.—F. J. G.

Two Honored Islanders Dead.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., Jan. 28.—Newfoundland lost its only two companions of the Imperial Order of St. Michael and St. George yesterday by the death of James Pitts, a prominent financier, and Judge Woodley Prowse. Pitts was a legislative councillor, former Cabinet Minister and one of the wealthiest men in the colony.

Prowse retired some time ago as judge of the district court on account of old age.

NOSE AND HEAD STOPPED UP FROM COLD OR CATARRH, OPEN AT ONCE

My Cleansing, Healing Balm Instantly Clears Nose, Head and Throat—Stops Nasty Catarrhal Discharges. Dull Headache Goes.

Try "Ely's Cream Balm."

Get a small bottle anyway, just to try it—Apply a little in the nostrils and instantly your clogged nose and stopped-up air passages of the head will open; you will breathe freely; dullness and headache disappear. By morning! the catarrh, cold-in-head or catarrhal sore throat will be gone.

End such misery now! Get the small bottle of "Ely's Cream Balm" at any drug store. This sweet, fragrant balm dissolves by the heat of the nostrils; penetrates and heals the inflamed, swollen membrane which lines the nose, head and throat; clears the air passages; stops nasty discharges and a feeling of cleansing, soothing relief comes immediately.

Don't lay awake to-night struggling for breath, with head stuffed; nostrils closed, hawking and blowing. Catarrh or a cold, with its running nose, foul mucous droping into the throat, and raw dryness is distressing but truly needless.

Put your faith—just once—in "Ely's Cream Balm" and your cold or catarrh—will surely disappear.

GUNMEN ARE NERVOUS.

They Have Broken Down Under the Strain In Jail.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—According to their guards at Sing Sing Prison "Lefty Louie" Rosenberg, "Whitie" Lewis, "Gyp the Blood," and "Dago Frank," the four gunmen convicted with former Police Lieut. Charles Becker, of the murder of Herman Rosenthal, have broken down under the strain of waiting for the decision on their appeal, which they expect will be delivered within a few days.

Whenever the door of the death house opens they spring up from their cots, expecting a man has come with the announcement. Disappointed, they throw themselves back and rail at the guards. Becker, on the other hand, is bearing up well under the ordeal, it is said.

Had Five Beaver Skins.

PORT WILLIAM, Ont., Jan. 28.—After admitting in the provincial court yesterday morning that he had in his possession five beaver skins, John J. Baker, factor for the Hudson Bay Co. at Nepigon, was fined $100 for each skin, or sentenced to serve fourteen days in the provincial jail on each account. An appeal taken against the decision was based on a clause in the company's old charter, which, counsel said, gave the company the right to purchase beaver skins from Indians at all seasons.

Resignations Sequel to Zabern Row.

BERLIN, Jan. 28.—Count Charles von Wedel, governor-general of Alsace-Lorrain, and Baron Zorn von Buelach, Secretary of State, are about to resign, according to The Cologne Gazette's well informed Berlin despatch. The resignation of these two officials, if carried into effect, will be the result of the recent difficulties arising between the civil and military authorities at Zabern.

Pole Dead From Bullet Wound.

OTTAWA, Jan. 28.—Geo. Brown a Pole, until recently employed in Ottawa, died at Pembroke Monday night while being removed from a train to the local hospital as the result of a bullet wound in the abdomen, inflicted in a fight at Whitney Ont., on Sunday night. John Worenki, of Whitney, a fellow-countryman, is under arrest there charged with the shooting.

PROGRESS GRATIFYING.

Sir James Has Best Day Since Illness Began.

TORONTO, Jan. 28.—"Sir James has had a good day, and is resting well to-night. His progress is gratifying."

With the announcement of this official bulletin last evening, Dr. Alexander McPhedran also said that yesterday was the best day Sir James Whitney has had since his return from New York.

Dr. McPhedran said that no artificial aid to sleep had been administered to Sir James last night, and they hoped he would get through the night without it. He had been taking his nourishment well, and had talked with members of his family, whom he knew.

Great improvement is noticed over Sir James' condition at this time last week, and the longer the improvement continues without a relapse the more encouraging his condition becomes.

Seventy Men Indicted.

NEWARK, N.J., Jan. 28.—Seventy indictments for "high misdemeanor" were returned yesterday by the grand jury which has been investigating the wrecking last August of the Roseville Trust Co. While the names of those indicted could not be learned last night, it is understood that several prominent men, whose notes were found in the bank, are included in the list. Action in their case was taken, it is said, because it was alleged they had entered into a conspiracy with the bank officials to become depositors provided their notes would be accepted should they wish to make a loan.

Kaiser Wilhelm Is 55.

BERLIN, Jan. 28. — Emperor William celebrated his 55th birthday yesterday, hale and vigorous in body and mind and able still, as was shown by his recent woodchopping exploits, to undertake the physical work of a man in the prime of life. All classes of his subjects joined in observing the day, a celebration being held by the university and technical school students, by the academies of arts and sciences, by army and navy officers, by civic organizations and by municipalities and veteran associations throughout the Empire.

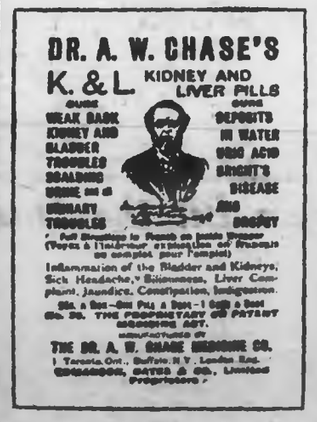
Court Gives Damages For Fraudulent Imitation

Bold Attempt to Deceive the Public with an Imitation of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

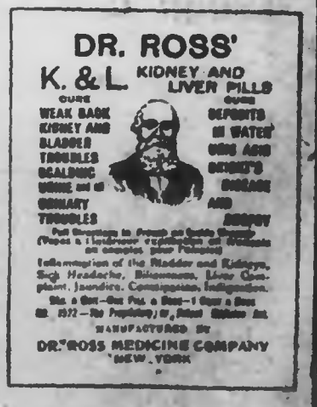
You can scarcely imagine an imitator with sufficient audacity to put on the market an exact imitation of a medicine so thoroughly well-known as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. And yet this is exactly what was done a few months ago in the city of Montreal.

A study of the wrappers reproduced on this page will show you that the imitation is a direct steal, word for word. The only difference being in the portrait which takes the place of that of DR. CHASE and the name DR. ROSS. The company name at the bottom was, by the way, purely fictitious as was also the registration number. Not only were the wrappers the same color, but the pills, the wooden boxes, the inside labels, were all just as like Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills as they could be made.

THE ORIGINAL



THE IMITATION



Our object in telling you about this is to show how particular one must be when buying Dr. Chase's medicines. While not many dealers will take the chances of punishment which Mr. Ethier did by directly imitating the medicines, very many have some substitute to offer and will try to talk you into accepting it in place of the genuine. Why? There is only one reason. More profit. Medicine is one thing on which you cannot afford to take chances. Always remember that an imitation is like the original in name only and insist on getting what you ask for.

PETERBOROUGH, WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 28, 1914

MANIAC KILLS FATHER, MOTHER, AND THEN SHOOTS HIMSELF DEAD

Edgar Simpson, Armed With a Heavy Rifle, is the Principal in a Revolting Double Murder at Orangeville.

WOUNDED A NEIGHBOUR

ORANGEVILLE, Jan. 28. — The Simpson homestead in East Garafraxa Township, fourteen miles from here, was the scene early yesterday of a revolting double murder and suicide by which Hugh Simpson, a much respected farmer, and his wife, Elizabeth Simpson, were shot to death at the hands of their son, Edward Simpson, who, in an insane frenzy, barricaded himself in the house, withstood the attack of a posse of armed farmers who had surrounded him, and finally took his own life by turning his weapon upon himself.

When High Constable Marshall and Constable Dawson, of Orangeville, entered the farm-house, they found young Simpson's dead body on the floor. Fire, originating from his own self-inflicted shot, had burned off all his clothing and ignited the flooring.

Monday morning Mrs. Simpson was left alone in the house with her son, her husband having gone to Hillsburg, a few miles away for a load of chopped feed, while her daughter, Miss Margaret Simpson, had gone across the road to the Gibsons', a neighboring farm. Young Simpson apparently became insane with very little warning. As the father was returning with his team, and the daughter at the same time entered the gate on her return from the neighbors', they were horrified to see Mrs. Simpson rush out of the house, crying "I'm shot, I'm shot!"

Her husband jumped off his load and ran towards his son, who turned around and fired one shot, which struck his father in the breast, killing him instantly. The daughter, Margaret, jumped into the sleigh, and lashing the horses to a gallop, hurried down the road to alarm the neighbors. Miss Myrtle Gibson, who was accompanying Miss Simpson back to her house, ran to Mrs. Simpson's assistance, despite the fact that the insane murderer stood over her with his rifle. His mother pleaded with him not to shoot any more, but he turned the rifle on her again and emptied it five times into her body. Miss Gibson stood by, a terrified witness of young Simpson's terrible action, naturally expecting that she would be his next victim. She implored him not to shoot. He pointed the gun in her direction, and then, evidently thinking better of it, he started off towards the house, whereupon Miss Gibson ran for her life. Before he entered the house the young maniac turned round again and aped a shot in Miss Gibson's direction, but it missed her.

By this time the neighboring farmers, armed with rifles and shotguns, had begun to assemble, and the murderer from his vantage point in the house shot at them several times while they were removing Simpson senior's body. Mrs. Simpson, although wounded five times, lay moaning in the yard, and by taking a circuitous route, members of the posse were able to remove her from danger.

After the removal of Simpson's dead body and that of his dying wife the farmers proceeded to surround the house in such a way as not to let the murderer escape. By this time the posse numbered nearly a hundred, several of whom took up a position in the barn, while others got behind the front gate and the fences.

They kept up a regular fusilade of bullets and shot in the direction of the house, in the hope of drawing the fire of the imprisoned lunatic for more than an hour.

Telephone messages to Orangeville finally brought Coroner Henry and Dr. T. H. Henry, who were quickly followed by High Constable Marshall and Constable Dawson. Young Simpson was still in the house, but had ceased firing, apparently from lack of ammunition. The high constable at once decided upon an approach from the rear, and ordered the farmers with guns to continue firing, in order to divert the maniac's attention toward the front. When they entered, the two constables found Simpson dead.

Mrs. Elizabeth Simpson in her wounded condition was taken to the home of the Depews, a nearby farmhouse. She was shot five times, one bullet penetrating the breast, a second through the head, a third the right side of the neck, a fourth through part of the ear entering the head, and a fifth through the right side of the face. She survived her husband by a bare two hours.

The tragedy caused tremendous excitement in Orangeville and surrounding villages. It appears that the unfortunate murderer of his father and mother, had returned from the west not long ago, and had since complained of pains in his head, and had received medical attention. For some time he had exhibited an irascible and cranky temperament, but no violent form of his trouble was anticipated.

SUPPORT RUDDY FOR JUDGESHIP

County Council Pass Recommendation in Behalf of R. Ruddy for Waterloo County—Other Communications

ASK FOR HIGHER SALARIES

There were several vacancies in the ranks of the County Council this morning. The minutes of the previous meeting were read.

Moved by Dr. Kindred of Havelock seconded by Mr. Squire of Norwood that Mr. R. Ruddy be recommended for the vacant judgeship in Waterloo County.—Carried.

J. H. Burnham wrote asking for information regarding the Gannans' Narrows Bridge project.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Beavis, Superintendent and Matron, respectively, of the House of Refuge, wrote asking for an increase of $25 each in their salaries.

Wm. Nelson and other residents in the vicinity of Villiers applied for $85, which was withheld from the Government grant for the term, September, 1912, to June, 1913, because of a teacher engaged whose qualifications were not up to requirements. It was stated in the letter that every effort had been made to secure a teacher, but they had not been successful.—Referred to Schools Committee.

The Hospital for Sick Children, Toronto, asked for the usual grant.

The Peterborough Times asked that the matter of supplying County maps be taken up.

A request was received from the Salvation Army for a grant to their rescue homes.

The Trustees Association of Ontario requested that a delegate be sent to their convention in Toronto on April 14, 15 and 16.

The Municipal Railway Taxation Association asked that a representative from the Council be appointed.

The annual meeting of the Ontario Good Roads' Association will be held in Toronto on February 2, 4, 5, and 6, and the Council was informed that it should be represented. — Roads and Bridges Committee.

THERE ARE THIRTY MORALITY OFFICERS IN THIS CITY

And Some Are Asking for One Little Policewoman to Supplement Their Efforts, Says Local Man

A local professional man, opposed to the appointment of a police woman, supplied the Examiner with the following reasons for his position this morning:

"There are in this City 30 morality officers, one bishop, six or eight priests, innumerable holy women, five Methodist ministers, two Baptist ministers, four Anglican ministers, one Christian Science teacher, the pastor of Bethany Tabernacle, five or six other preachers, making in all about thirty, as well as several hundred Sunday school teachers. All the ministers are supported by the people of this City, and there is no doubt but what they are doing a splendid work, but they realize that there is yet vice and immorality in the City, and are asking for help in the form of a little police woman, who not with the club or gun, but with the sweet power of love and sympathy will gather the few remaining black sheep into the fold, thus completing the work of the large number of ministers and the few policemen.

It is well they have a consciousness that there is something more to be done to supplement their cort, yet the people are asking: "If the little police woman is appointed, will sin be eradicated from the City and the millenium ushered in?"

GAVE LIQUOR TO A GIRL

Local Young Man Fined $50 and Costs in This Morning's Police Court

CHINAMAN FINED $25

In this morning's Police Court Ye You, a local Chinaman was charged with selling cigarettes to a minor. He pleaded guilty. The Magistrate imposed a fine of $25 and costs.

A local young man was charged with supplying liquor to a local girl who was under the age of 21, contrary to the provisions of the liquor license law. He was defended by Mr. G. N. Gordon and pleaded "guilty" to the charge. "The fine will be $50 and costs," said the Magistrate. "This is just the sort of thing the people of the City are complaining about." The fine was paid.

Ernest Kennedy, a local man, was charged with being drunk while on the black list. He pleaded guilty, and was remanded for a week.

Denounced U. S. Papers

Special Wire to The Examiner:

WASHINGTON, D.C., Jan 28— Officials of western newspapers' union and publishers of big newspapers in Chicago and New York were scathingly denounced in the Senate to-day on admitting that they had received forty-two thousand dollars a year from the Canadian government to advertise Canada in write-ups supplied to newspapers and published by them in the guise of news telling how big fortunes were being made on Canadian farms by former United Statesers

MAY INSTALL NEW SYSTEM

The Fire, Water and Light Committee of the City Council will consider the feasibility of installing a new generating plant with which to operate the fire alarm system. If accepted it will cost in the neighbourhood of $1,700. At present the system is supplied with power by the Bell Telephone Company, but owing to the increasing number of fire alarm boxes a larger system is necessary than the Company is prepared to provide.

ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY ENDORSED MOTHER'S MEETING

The open meeting of the Mothers' Club of the Y. M. C. A. was a decided success. Over one hundred and fifty were present, and the idea of the parents' meetings to be held in connection with the various schools was received with enthusiasm by all present. Mr. Jas. Connal was Chairman.

Mr G Galley gave a report of the work that was being done in the Y.M.C.A. It showed that much was being accomplished. Mr. P. M. McCarrell gave a brief speech on "How the Mothers' Club might Aid the Boys' Department and Co-operat with the Y.M.C.A. officers.

Mrs. J. C. Davidson, President of the Local Council of Women, read an exceedingly interesting paper on the organization of Mothers' Clubs in the Public Schools. The object of this was to get the parents and teachers in closer touch with each other, and cooperate for the welfare of the pupils. The idea was given hearty endorsement last night, and the first of the meetings will be held soon.

Miss Jean Hill and Miss Ruby Carr contributed delightfully to the musical portion of the programme.

Botha's Action Is Regretted

Special Cable to The Examiner:

LONDON, Jan. 28.—Botha's deportation of the labour leaders, while anticipated by all who knew South Africa, is received with general regret by English Liberal circles. The Daily Chronicle describes the act as a grievous blunder and forecasts that a dozen will arise to take the place of each of the deported men. The Daily News says: "If this is legal, then the liberty of the British citizens becomes a meaningless name."

PRINCE WILLIAM OF WIED.

Grafting a King on the People of Albania.—Great ceremony planned. It is planned by the European powers, who selected Prince William of Wied as King of Albania, to have him enter Durazo and other ports with great pomp and show. His rival for the throne is Essad Pasha who with 15,000 troops is virtually in charge of the country. Essad Pasha, it is said, has agreed to support Prince William, in which event the enthronement will be an occasion of great show.

DEMAND THE RECALL OF GLADSTONE

British Labour Party Bitterly Condemn the Action of the South African Government

CONFERENCE IS HELD

Special Cable to The Examiner:

GLASGOW, Scotland, Jan. 28.—On motion of Ramsey MacDonald, M.P., the fourteenth annual conference of the British Labour party here to-day demanded the recall of Lord Gladstone, Governor-General of South Africa and bitterly condemned the action of the South African Government as being contrary to British freedom and justice. Mr. MacDonald will present a resolution to parliament next month.

Stormy scenes at the opening of the gathering of the Labour party conference yesterday are significant of the disappointment permeating the working classes as a result of Labour parliamentary activity. Ramsay MacDonald, a parliamentary Labour leader, in his opening speech vainly attempted to placate critics by emphasizing the political independence of the party. Delegates charged their parliamentary representatives with lack of holy zeal, subservience to the Government and lack of initiative 'They have left the orange boxes on the street corners to sit on soft cushions in the House of Commons," said one.

"There is too much garden party, lardy darding, doing the grand about them. They neglect their work in order to ape dukes."

A resolution, calling on on the parliamentary representatives to adopt a more militant, independent attitude and to preserve a stricter discipline, was adopted.

The extremists working in cooperation with the syndicalists, are working hard to make trouble over the by-elections. MacDonald has, however, the leading trades unions behind him.

Must Show Certificate Of Vaccination

Special Wire to The Examiner:

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Jan. 28.—Because of the prevalence of small pox here the Canadian Public Health authorities have issued a regulation that every passenger from this City boarding a train to cross the border must show a certificate of recent vaccination.

$70 For The City's Unemployed

The Woodmen of the World held most successful basket social in their hall last night. The proceeds, amounting to $70, will be used in alleviating the suffering of the families whose bread earners are out of work.

That the affair was a success is due to the splendid floral baskets so kindly provided by the ladies who attended. Their efforts in such a commendable cause, were deservedly rewarded, and the beautiful baskets auctioned at a good figure.

Mr. Clare Jarvis, Head Clerk of the Order, was present, and acted as Old Eggs.

A Lawrence (Kan.) professor declares that eggs three years old are edible. That's a strong statement. But whether or not they are edible, they are being eaten every day by 999 out of every 1,000 The other one doesn't eat ...

THE ESTIMATES FOR THE FIRE DEPARTMENT

Were Investigated by the Fire, Water and Light Committee—Reduced by About $2000

THE BOARD OF WORKS

The estimates of the Fire Department have been reduced from $23,829 to $21,587. This is the net result of a meeting of the Fire, Water and Light Committee that was held last evening. Ald Green, Chairman of the Committee, presided. Assisting him in the pruning festival were His Worship Mayor Bradburn, Ald. Anderson, Stratton, Saunders and Duffus. Fire Chief Howard was an eye witness of the attempt to make the estimates conform to the convictions of the Aldermanic mind. The Finance Committee of the City Council have also promised to give the estimates consideration before they are finally approved of, so that further reductions are anticipated. The estimates for wages amounts to $12,500; this provides for a substitute man to place men who are on their holidays and four additional firemen. The estimate of $510 for winter uniforms was accepted; also $30 for an overcoat to protect the Fire Chief from the chilly blast of next winter. Summer uniforms for the Brigade, at a cost of $315 was left over for further consideration.

The Committee allowed $50 for shirts, an indispensible article of apparel, also $40 worth of uniform caps. Fifty dollars were allowed for rubber coats and boots. The cost of linen for the fire hall was fixed at $35. A reduction of $15. The estimate of $400 for fuel was pruned down to 375. Feed for horses is estimated at $730. The Board of Works Department have up to the present two horses stabled at the Fire Hall, which have always been available for drawing the engine. The Board has hitherto paid one-half the cost of the hay and oats required at the fire hall as their share of the feed for the two horses maintained by the Fire Department. The Board of Works have intimated that they will insist on a more equitable adjustment of the feed account.

Other Estimates.

$700 is the accepted estimate for fire hose.

Light and gas will cost $125.

Telephones will cost $65.

For lumber, $40 is allowed.

$15 is allowed for brooms.

Fire alarm power is estimated at $150.

Fire alarm supplies is estimated at $125.

The Chief asked $750 for fire alarm boxes. This was pared down to $375 and allows for the addition of three new boxes.

For setting three alarm boxes $50 was allowed.

$20 allowed for lunches for the firemen.

Extra help was estimated at $25.

Accounts left over from last year amounted to $50.

Hardware supplies figured at $100.

Veterinary services were figured at $15.

Painting of No. 1 hose waggon was estimated at $75 and left in abeyance.

Cartage, freight and express will cost $28.

The Chief asked for $50 for varnishing the fire hall. This was shaved down to $25 for only absolutely imperative work.

Chief Howard asked $200 for expenses in attending the convention of Fire Chiefs at New Orleans. As the convention is to be held at so distant a city and entailing so much expenditure for attendance, this item will probably be cut out.

$10 for [illegible] for committee was cut out.

Teachers—21.
Inspector's visits—22 half days.
Average salary—$478, an increase of $23 over 1912.
Decrease in government grant, $1,462.80 below previous year.
Only 4 pupils out of 1704 attended every day.
The best attendance is where the best teachers are, and the poorest where the cheap teachers preside.
Our of 75 rural teachers, 73 changed schools in the year.

The following report on the schools in the Inspectorate of East Peterborough was presented to the County Council this morning by Mr. Rich. Lees:

There were in operation during the year, 71 rural schools with 76 teachers, and three village schools with 21 teachers. In the performance of my duties, I made 220 half-day visits, spending at lease two-half days in each school with the exception of No. 13 Methuen and No. 1 Chandos, which I visited but once, they being closed at the time of one of my visits to their respective districts.

Qualification of Teachers.

It is with pleasure that I note a slight improvement in the qualification of the teachers. Of the 76 teachers in the rural schools last term, 2 held First, 26 Second, 21 Third Class, and 24 Temporary Certificates. The remaining three held no certificates. As compared with a year ago, this is an increase of 6 in the number of qualified teachers.

In the villages, the four Continuation School teachers were all properly qualified and of the rest, 16 held Second Class and one a Third Class Certificate. There was in the inspectorate 25 teachers with no professional training as compared with 31 a year before. These 25 were distributed as follows: Asphodel, 2; Belmont and Methuen, 8; Burleigh and Anstruther, 4; Chandos, 8; Dummer, 2; N. Monaghan, 1.

Salaries.

The salaries continue to increase in a manner that promises better things in the future. The average salary for the inspectorate based on the rate being paid during the fall term of last years was $478, an increase of $22 over 1912. Were this based on the amount actually paid for the year it would be about $15 lower, which is very little in excess of the average for all the rural schools of the province in 1911, the last year for which we have complete returns. At the rate at which increase has been taking place the average for 1913 will probably be at least $50 above the average for this inspectorate. It is obvious that we can never hope to command the services of even the average teachers till we pay salaries that are at least equal to the average.

The increase by townships is shown in the following table:

	1911	1912	1913
Asphodel	$491	$514	$536
Belmont & Methuen	391	483	448
Burleigh and Anstruthers	332	371	380
Chandos	395	344	395
Douro	438	509	530
Dummer	421	458	503
N. Monaghan	475	520	535
Otonabee	505	525	553

The Grants Show Decrease.

For the past year, the grants were somewhat of a disappointment. The grant to rural schools on account of salaries and certificates is based on the qualification of the teacher and the amount of salary paid, being 40 per cent. of the salary in excess of $350 for ordinary townships, and in excess of $150 for townships where the average assessment is less than $30,000 per school section. This applies to 28 schools in the inspectorate.

The rapid increase in salaries has been causing a great annual increase

DR. ROBERTSON WILL SPEAK

A Treat is in Store for the Member of Canadian Club To-morrow Night

DINNER AT 6:30 P. M.

To-morrow (Thursday(evening, at 6.30, the Canadian Club will hold a regular meeting in Coleman's restaurant, and will have as its guest of honour, Dr. Jas. W. Robertson, Chairman of the Royal Commission on Technical Education. Dr. Robertson has the reputation of being an extremely interesting speaker, and is much in demand at Canadian Club meetings.

Dr. Robertson came to Canada from Scotland at the age of 15, and settled on a farm near London, Ont. His first official appointment was that of Professor of Dairying at the Guelph Agricultural College, where his good work brought him to the attention of Sir Wm. Macdonald with the result that through Sir Wm. Macdonald's generosity he established Manual Training, Consolidated Rural Schools, and afterwards the Macdonald Institute at St. Anne and the Macdonald School for Domestic Science at Guelph.

INFORMATION IN REGARD TO PARCELS POST

Special Wire to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 28.—Additional parcel post information issued today indicated that the Ontario schedule of rates has five classifications. Within twenty miles radius the rates are, as described in morning papers, for any post office beyond the twenty mile radius, but within the province of Ontario the rates will be ten cents for first pound, with an additional four cents per pound on each subsequent pound, making fifty cents for maximum weight of eleven pounds to any post office. In Quebec or Manitoba, the rate will be ten cents for the first pound, with an additional six cents for each subsequent pound, making seventy cents for eleven pounds. In Saskatchewan or the Maritime Provinces the charge will be twelve cents for the first pound, with an additional eight cents per pound for each subsequent pound, or 92 cents for eleven pounds. To Alberta the rate will be twelve cents per pound for the first pound, with an additional twelve cents for the second and ten cents for each successive pound, or a total of $1.14 for eleven pounds. To British Columbia twelve cents for the first pound and an additional twelve cents for every subsequent pound, making a total of $1.32 for eleven pounds.

POST NUPTIALS OF MR. CHAS. SMALLEY

One of the pretty social affairs of the season was that of yesterday, when Mrs. Charles Edward Smalley, 168 Winnipeg Avenue, held her post nuptial. The bride was becomingly attired in her wedding robe of white silk net embroidery over cream satin and minon, with trimmings of seed pearls. Receiving with Mrs. Smalley was Mrs. Raymore in white satin; assisting as tea room hostess was Mrs Hull Austin. Mrs. (Rev.) G. K. B Adams poured tea, while Mrs. Patton poured coffee. Mrs. Stinson of Fort William, cut the ices. The serving assistants were Misses Margaret Fisher, Lyla Young and Helen Austin. The rooms were prettily decorated with pink carnations, the table being particularly attractive. Sixty or more friends called during the afternoon. Miss Armstrong attended the door.—Port Arthur News. Mrs. Smalley (nee Miss Tura Moore), is a former Peterborough young lady. A short time ago Mr. and Mrs. Smalley were presented with a handsome chair by the directors of the Y.M.C.A., of which Mr. Smalley is a director.

THE EXAMINER'S BIG NEWS BOY'S COMPETITION

See To-morrow's Examiner For Particulars of the Contest

The Examiner to-morrow night will contain particulars of the Newsboys' competition to be conducted by the Examiner. In this competition every boy in the City will have an opportunity to earn some good money prizes and the profit on the papers he sells as well. Every boy should look for this advertisement. They all start off on an equal footing, and every one who enters is bound to make some money. Mothers and fathers, read the advertisement over with your boys to-morrow night, and you will see where they can more than earn enough to keep them by selling Daily Examiners. Some boys are doing that now without the inducements we will offer to-morrow night.

WEDNESDAY, JAN. 28, 1914

WARDEN SHAW.

The Examiner cordially congratulates Mr. Robert Shaw, the veteran reeve of Harvey, upon the honour of being elected a second time, warden of the County of Peterborough. For about a quarter of a century he has continuously represented his township, and the confidence of his constituents in his ability as a representative, is reflected in the confidence bestowed upon him by his fellow members of the County Council, the second time in twenty years. Mr. Shaw has been a good and acceptable reeve, he has shown the same qaulities as a member of the County Council, and has justified his selection as presiding officer. That he will discharge the duties effectively and satisfactorily, as he did at the first, strengthened as he will be by the intervening experience of twenty years, is certain. The County Council has honoured itself as well as Mr. Shaw, in elevating him to the position of Warden of the County of Peterborough.

THE PUBLIC HEALTH.

No one will refuse acknowledgement of the inestimable value of health; nothing can take its place; without it all other things lose importance and value. This means that the most important activity that can get consideration is that of promoting and preserving the public health. Our civic Board of Health is, rightly regarded, one of the most important, if not the most important branch of our civic service. From its constitution and powers the Board of Health, owes its too limited administrative and executive effectiveness, to the vigilance and activity of the Medical Health Officer and to the real executive officer, the Health Inspector. No one can read the comprehensive and excellent second annual report of Health Inspector Spence without being impressed with the seriousness with which he takes his responsibility or the wide range of inspection and oversight he is supposed to exercise, and as a matter of fact, does exercise. When we note that the Inspector during the year made nearly four thousand acts of inspection, many of them covering considerable ground and demanding considerable time, we can see that Inspector Spence—making an average of seventy-five visits or inspections per week—has by no means been idle. Especially when to these are added the clerical work of correspondence, records of milk tests, grading of dairy farms, and records of detailed inspection work, we get some idea of his energy and activity. He is acknowledged to be amply capable as far as education and technical knowledge go, for the duties of his position. One has only to read his last report to be convinced of this; or to get the widest and most detailed knowledge of the city and other conditions that have to do with the important matter of administering our public health interests, and arousing intelligent popular interest in their promotion. If Inspector Spence is doing good work, and no one, aside from prejudice, will deny it; if he is intelligently and zealously discharging the duties of his office, which nobody will deny; if he is doing good work, in protecting the citizens in their dearest interest, which is admitted, his services should be practically appreciated. We believe our city fathers have outgrown the old feeling of regarding the Board of Health and health interests as minor matters, and have come to appreciate their importance. For the credit of the city's good name the amount of Inspector Spence's salary is not mentioned; but it is entirely inadequate, as even an aproximate equivalent for the services of a man of education, technical knowledge and experience, that place him in these respects, in the professional class; and it is out of all proportion to the remuneration of other city officials, with possibly lesser qualification and possibly doing less, and less important, work.

WHY IS IT?

Why is it that all governments, federal, provincial and civic, are so everlastingly slow to effectively act? In Peterborough we voted, three years ago nearly, by an overwhelming majority, in favour of Hydro-Electric. And we haven't anything settled to-day; we are still, as far as the public know, in the dark, as to what even the approximate cost of the system will be. Four or five years ago a Dominion commission was appointed to investigate the merits of technical education. It investigated, travelled the world over at a large expense; the commission reported and still nothing to implement the recommendations of the commission or make legislative or administrative use of the valuable, or at least, costly, information it provided. Now, nearly seven years ago, the revision of the statutes were due, and the Whitney government hasn't completed the "job" yet. We have for years been suffering from the unwise waste of our forest wealth by governments since and before Confederation, and no legislative nor administrative action that counts has been taken to remedy this waste.

Why is it that governments are so slow to move? We boast of our progress and prosperity; but we don't owe it to governments. A private individual or firm that would apply to his or their own business the dilatory methods of governments, wouldn't accomplish much. The sheriff would be after them before they woke up. In another column on this page is reprinted an article upon the "neglected waste lands of Ontario." Wasted lands would be a more fitting term; for the forests with which they once were clothed, that covered our highlands, as Ruskin would say, "like the shadow of God," have been swept away. There are in Ontario hundreds of thousands of acres unfit for tillage or even pasture, but capable of producing forest growth, for they were once covered with magnificent timber. These lands, where not in possession of the government, should be acquired and planted to forest. Of course, the returns would be slow; but fifty or a hundred years is a small space of time in the life of a province or nation.

We owe a duty, in this regard, to posterity. Posterity as represented relatively to our ancestors, by the present generation is suffering from the misdeeds of those who went before us. If former governments, which consented to the waste of our forests, had simply provided, as is done in progressive countries, that for every tree cut another should be planted and protected, their posterity, the present generation, would be reaping a harvest. Germany is now receiving revenue from forests cut over for centuries and still bearing a crop from just such a simple act as supplementary replanting. As the article on this page points out, and as the Examiner has frequently done, there are thousands of acres, in especially the highlands of Ontario, where reforestation, and to a large extent afforestation, could be easily practised. The only thing that prevents is the condemnable dilatoriness and neglect of the government, which is as slow to act as a pine tree is to grow.

No actuarial skill can estimate the value that would come in many ways from reforesting our waste lands—in the way of providing permanent and considerable revenue, and in the way, if reforestation were general, of modifying climate, promoting regular rain fall, and improving agricultural conditions.

If the County Council of Peterborough should energetically do as Hastings is said to be doing, acquire waste lands of this county, unfit for nothing else but tree growth, and plant them to forest, with all that implies—protection and care—in the course of fewer than fifty years, a revenue from this source would be derivable, sufficient to meet all the expenses of county government. Private individuals look out for the interests of those they will have left behindthem, and the same duty is incumbent upon governments of all kinds. If governments would do, instead of dream about, such matters; if they would decide, instead of dawdle, Ontario and Canada would be infinite gainers.

A Word To The Wise

The exceptional conditions prevailing during the last year have made it possible for us to offer to shrewd investors some great bargains in real estate.

You can purchase through us several properties at from one-half to two-thirds their real value, that will in the Spring be in demand for building purposes owing to their location in the heart of the section which saw such phenomenal building activity last year.

Reports show that business in all lines is picking up and 1914 is said to promise the greatest development for Canada that she has yet enjoyed.

Few acts For All Who Want To Make Money

Wise and rich men advise their friends to buy lots in the way of a growing City. Plain, common sense endorses that advice.

All must acknowledge that Peterboro is growing rapidly South and West.

It is generally known that I own a very desirable block of high land half mile South and West from C. P. R. Works, overlooking the South End Churches and School, the C. P. R. G. T. R., and Street Car line, also the big Factories. I have subdivided this land into blocks of two lots, 50 x 123 feet to a lane 12 feet, each lot containing 3075 square feet. These lots would be excellent value at $300, each but because of my desire to be freed from business I have decided to sell for $175 and accept deposit of $5.00 on one or two lots, to which I will add a bonus of $5.00, giving receipt for $10.00, no interest nor any further payments required, until May, when official plan will be registered. All lots properly staked and balance of Streets Cattermoor, Ford Avenue and Western Avenue graded to the Gravel Road Restrictions. Brick Brick Veneer, Concrete or Stone houses, only permitted.

Other lots 50 x 157—3810 square feet for $150, and $200, on same terms. Title Deed and perfect title. Plans and all particulars at office. This offer will never be repeated.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

GETTING A START

By NATHANIEL C. FOWLER, JR.

(Copyright, 1914, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Half of the people in business, and out of it, in the factory, and in the shop, and even in the professions, are clockmen, automatons, who work on schedule, who start on time or behind time, and stop on time. Others think for them. They do what they are told to do, or what they have to do, and are controlled more by instinct than by mind.

Many clockmen are faithful and honest, and may be depended upon to do their prescribed and staked out duty, and neither to loaf nor to spurt. They are of the "stay there" rather than of the "get there" class. They locate themselves within the smallest circle and either fill the space allotted to them or rattle around in it.

As clockmen go, they earn their living and are usually able to support their families in moderate comfort. They are more or less accurately running wheels in the great machine of business and of social life, and few of them run down until they wear out.

You know where they are, you know what they are doing, and you know what they will do. You can diagnose their activity or inactivity, their successes and failures, with a considerable degree of accuracy. You are reasonably sure that they will be trustworthy, and you feel that, collectively, the world can use them to its advantage; yet you, and all thinking others, are of the opinion that not one of them is indispensable. If he drops out, another will take his place, and nobody will notice the change. At best he is a sort of interchangeable part in the machinery of trade, which can be purchased by number in the open market.

Clockmen are human machines, that is all. They are automatic and systematic, each doing his part without thought of connections, each playing his little role upon the stage of the world, taking his cue from the last speaker, without interest in what is to be said by the other actors. Their brains, capable of thinking, think not. Their hands, competent to do better work, never reach beyond the bench of their self-made or accidental environment. They are guided by the hands of the clock, and allow time to master them, without a thought of mastering themselves.

Don't be a clockman. Be a man. Don't be an automatic machine. Think while you work, and understand why this is right and why that is wrong. Do as you are told, if you are an employee, but understand why, and don't work blindly.

Success depends upon the co-operation of brain and hand. Either without the others has little value in any market. Together they are responsible for all accomplishment.

Don't watch the clock. The clock will take care of itself.

Watch yourself. Render unto yourself that which is due to yourself, and render unto others that which is due to others, remembering that he who doesn't take care of himself is unfitted, physically and mentally, to take care of others.

DEATH WAS DUE TO NEGLIGENCE

Jury Investigate Death of Six Children Who Were Cremated at Coboconk

COBOCONK, Jan. 28.—At the coroner's inquest into the death of the six children of Mrs. Weatherby, of Coboconk, who were burned to death, which was held at Coboconk, the jury brought in a verdict to the effect that death was due to negligence on the part of the two other occupants of the house, Mrs. Weatherby (the mother), and Allan Fountain (a boarder), who made good their escape from the burning building without making an effort to save the six children.

The inquest, which was held before Coroner Dr. Johnston, of Fenelon Falls, attracted a large crowd, the hall being packed to the doors.

Evidence was given by Mrs. Weatherby, Mr. Fountain, Bert Ingram (a nephew of Mrs. Weatherby), Dr. Austin, and Robt. Wood, the latter being the first outsider to arrive at the scene of the fire.

In giving evidence Fountain stated that as soon as he got out of the house he ran for a ladder, but that by the time he returned he was unable to re-enter the dwelling owing to the dense smoke.

It was pointed out that Mrs. Weatherby was sleeping in one room with her oldest child, while two others were sleeping in the same room as Fountain, and three others in another room. Mrs. Weatherby first noticed the fire and instead of awakening the child with whom she was sleeping, ran to Fountain's room and awakened him. It was also pointed out that in order to get out of the window the two who escaped had to cross the foot of the bed wherein two other children were sleeping.

Dr. Johnston, coroner, will forward the report to Crown Attorney Devlin at Lindsay.

Big Audience Cheers Martin Harvey at Ottawa

The Ottawa Journal says of Martin Harvey, who comes to the Grand on Feb. 4th and 5th:

It has been said, and rightfully so, that Martin Harvey knows his audience. Last night at the Russell Theatre a remarkable demonstration showed that the audience knew Martin Harvey; that the impressions created years ago remained to-day, and as the curtain rung down on "The Only Way" it was evident that only a speech from the celebrated actor would satisfy and silence the continued applause. Without any word parting or embellishment, Mr. Harvey tendered his thanks for the enthusiastic reception accorded to him, and when the curtain finally dropped, the audience dispersed with feelings of a renewed friendship to which had been added the cultured charm of intervening years.

Surely, no better example of dramatic contrasts could be found than in Martin Harvey's impersonation of "Sidney Carton" in "The Only Way."

The play in question is a dramatization of Dicken's immortal story of the French revolution, "A Tale of Two cities," and it may be said that the master touch of sheer human understanding common to all the great novelist's creations has given the play and the character of its hero no small share of the unique regard and affection in which both are held.

Mr. Harvey has made many changes since he first played the part, not departures from his original conception of it, but delicate touches here and there, which are the outcome of his matured art. In facial expression alone his delineation of the role is a wonderful study, so marked is it by emotional strength. The subtle inflections, the delicate nuances in speech, the slight—so slight, but so suggestive—gestures, and the charm of personality which he reveals, all contribute, of course, to the success of his impersonation. But it is the spiritual beauty which characterizes the revelation of the uplifting influence of his hopeless passion upon Sidney Carton's manhood that makes Mr. Harvey's portrayal of this character so memorable. It stamps Martin Harvey as a true student of the late great Irving.

His supporting company acquitted themselves with distinction. Miss N. de Silva as "Minnie" is a pathetic little figure. In appearance she might have stepped out of the pages of mediaeval romance, and her suggestion of tragedy was an intense and as real as anything yet revealed to an Ottawa audience. She was the incarnation of pathos as she sank down by the curtain behind which Lucie Manette lay sleeping while Carton passed slowly out of the doorway to his sacrifice.

Mr. Kenneth Black was impressive as "Dr. Manette," Mr. Eugene Wellesley made a thoroughly satisfying "Charles Darney," while Miss Maud Rivers as "Lucie Manette" gave a most sympathetic reading of her role.

Last, but not least, praise must be given the vividly realistic and at times strikingly effective staging.

ESTIMATES FOR FIRE DEPT.

$85 for laundry was allowed to stand.

$3.2 for linoleum was erased.

Horse shoeing and blacksmithing was allowed to stand at $75.

$100 was allowed for general repairs.

The Chief asked $300 for an exercise waggon. This was cut down to $100 for repairing the old waggon.

$50 for fire extinguisher supplies, and $30 for grocery supplies, passed committee.

Chief Howard asked for a new horse at a cost of $300 to establish another hose company.

A pulmotor at $200 will be supplied.

The Chief's recommendation for two smoke helmets, costing $250 was rejected.

$45 for a new departure bell was left in abeyance.

$1700 for a new fire alarm telegraph battery was left in abeyance.

$35 for office supplies stood.

Incidentals at $100, passed muster.

$20 for newspapers stood.

$25 asked for electric lamps and supplies was cut down to $15.

$7 for insurance was allowed.

$21 for three department lanterns was cut out.

$25 for repairing chairs was considered needed.

The paring of the above estimates reduced the appropriation asked by Chief Howard from $23,829 to $21,587.

From the expressions of the Committee as a whole, it is almost certain that four additional men and another horse asked for by the Chief will not be allowed this year.

The whole schedule of estimates was left in abeyance pending enquiry and report by his worship and chairman Ald. G. Walter Green.

Chief Howard is also advocating adjustment in and increases of salaries for firemen of which ther is considerable doubt as to endorsation by the Comittee this year.

EX-PRESIDENT IN TORONTO

Special Wire to The Examiner:

TORONTO, Jan. 28. — Ex-President William Howard Taft and Professor of Law at Yale University, arrived here this morning on his first visit to Ontario. He was met by a delegation of prominent citizens and escorted to Government House, where he will be the guest of Sir John Gibson, Lieutenant-Governor, during his stay in the city. To-night he will address the Toronto University students in Convocation Hall. To-morrow he will address the Empire Club at noon, the American Club and several women's organizations in the afternoon, and the Canadian Club at night. He goes to Ottawa Friday and returns to the U. S. on Saturday.

Notes From County Council

The County Councillors were buried this morning in a study of last year's minutes, which were handed out yesterday.

County Clerk Ed. Elliott is as indispensible in the Court House proceedings as is S. R. Armstrong around the City Hall. Mr. Elliott not only has the records on his books, but he has most of the detailed work for years back fixed in his memory. Mr. Elliott talks debentures as fluently as the ancient who invented them.

C. J. Durling was talked of as a possible Warden, but it is said assured some of the members before the opening that he was not looking toward the dais.

The same Warden Shaw is just about as shrewd a business man as can be found in the County.

And speaking of Councils, the farmers of Peterborough County are represented by a body that work smoothly and systematically. They may not always begin business when the horn sounds, but once under way they cut through the work like a mower through a level field of hay.

The water jug was on intimate terms with some of the Councillors this morning, but no one suggested that it was a "morning after" thirst.

The provisions for the press are the most thoughtful of any around these parts. Even leather upholstered and cane swivel chairs form part of the equipment. There are associations, etc., etc., of so called urban "savoir faire" that might well take a look at this item of the Councils methods.

The Munroe House is the Ritz or Waldorf for the Councillors. It has always been thus. The members from distant points register with Mine Host Munroe and remain for the week.

HAY AND WOOD ON MARKET

Upwards of thirty loads of hay and wood were offered for sale on the market this morning. The demand was inclined to be a little weak with the result that many of the farmers were behind the schedule in getting back to the broad acres.

The popular fodder for horses sold at from $18 to $20 a load, while a few loads of straw were disposed of for $7 and $8 a load.

Soft wood sold at $4 and $5 a cord and hardwood netted the owner $6 and $7.

HOLLY SHEPARD

The man who makes minstrels. Always produces a good show. Some times a great show.

Holly Shepard is back with the Belmont Club putting on their big Cabaret Minstrel performance again this season. He comes this time with all new stage settings and new ideas. His stage settings are not surpassed by any minstrel organization in America. The songs are right off the press, full of ginger, yet gems of tunefulness. Ginger will be the slogan, and the show will be filled with it from curtain to curtain. All the old time favourites will appear with a great many new ones. No long waits, but something doing every minute. Some of the specialties that will be introduced, will border upon the novel. This season there will be thirty ladies introduced which will be an innovation for attractions of this kind. A clean, refined and up-to-the-minute production that will smack so of the professional if you were not acquainted with the actors you would doubt that you were witnessing a local performance is what the club's many friends can look forward to.

ARE REVISING THE REGULATIONS

His Honour Judge Huycke is in Toronto Attending Session of Board of County Judges

The Board of County Judges, comprising Judge McDonald, of Brockville; Judge Chadwick, of Guelph; Judge Hardy, Brantford; Judge Huycke, Peterborough, and Judge Harding, Lindsay, began the revision of the regulations and forms for use in the Surrogate Court at the Parliament Buildings, Toronto, yesterday. The regulations which were adopted in 1893 are being brought up-to-date and incidentally more liberal provision made for solicitors and registrars.

The new tariffs for the Surrogate Court, which have been approved by the Chief Justice and the judges of the Surrogate Court on the recommendation of the Board of County Judges, will come into effect on March 2. In most cases the fees are increased, while some charges are lessened. The session will last three or four days.

SIDELIGHTS ON THE CONVENTION

At the recent convention of the Peterborough County Temperance Alliance, it was stated by Mr. McTavish, Field Secretary for Central Ontario, that with the elimination of the three-fifths clause it would be possible to put the whole of Ontario on the dry may in two years.

Statutory Holidays.

The convention expressed its approval of the amendment to the act respecting the closing of the bars on Christmas day. Steps will be taken to have this further amended so as to include all statutory holidays.

The Three-Fifths.

During the last local option campaign, the three-fifths clause prevented the closing of two hundred and forty-five bars, or a total of eight hundred and eighty-five licenses. "Would we have held our ground without the three-fifths clause?" enquired Rev. R. G. Peever. To which Dr. McTavish replied that local option was adopted by one hundred and ten municipalities prior to the introduction of the three-fifths clause.

Law Enforcement.

Mr. G. W. Powell referred to the recent controversy between Chief of Police Thompson and License Inspector Stewart, and at the same time stated that he had witnessed more drunkenness on the streets of Peterborough during the last two or three years than during any previous period. He inferred that the officials were not properly enforcing the law.

A Query from Mr. Moss.

Mr. George Moss asked why a hotel man was permitted to turn a man out into the street in an intoxicated condition. He advocated the establishment of a vigilance committee.

A Rowell Supporter.

Mr. A. B. Cunningham—"Personally I am a Conservative, but I would vote for Rowell or anyone else in order to facilitate the removal of the three-fifths clause."

Vote of Thanks.

A vote of thanks was extended to the management of the Oriental Hotel for their action in eliminating the bar from the hotel premises. It was stated that the hotel had proved to be a paying proposition since the innovation.

The Crown Attorney

The need for a vigourous crown attorney was pointed out by Dr. McTavish. He implied that Mr. Wearing, who is acting for Crown Attorney Wood for this County, was a strong temperance advocate.

A Little Libation.

A delegate asked what should be done in a case where men were known to frequent a barn with the supposed object of procuring liquor. Dr. McTavish replied that a police magistrate should be called upon to consider whether the men were going into the barn for their health.

Question of Discrimination.

The meeting was agreed that the evidence which is offered in the initial trial of an offender of the license act should serve the purpose of the court in case an appeal is entered. As it is at present the defendants have the privilege of submitting new evidence. This privilege is said to be withheld in other cases.

CHILDREN OF MR. AND MRS. TODD

In connection with the building, in 1894, of the Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, Boston, Massachusetts, there was a society of small children called Busy Bees, who contributed to the Mother's Room, Mrs. Eddy, in her dedicatory sermon, referred to this society, saying:

"Even the children vied with their parents to meet the demand. Little hands never before devoted to menial services, shoveled snow,—and babes gave kisses to earn a few pence toward this consummation. Some of these lambs my prayers had christened, but Christ will rechristen them with his own new name. "Out of the mouths of babes and sucklings hast Thou perfected praise." The resident youthful workers were called Busy Bees.

Sweet society, precious children, your loving hearts and deft fingers distilled the nectar, and painted the finest flowers in the fabric of this history—even its centre piece—Mother's Room in The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston. The children are destined to witness results which will eclipse oriental dreams. They belong to the twentieth century. By juvenile aid, into the building fund have come $4,460. Ah, children, you are the bulwarks of freedom, the cement of society, the hope of our race."

Page 14. Pulpit and Press, by Mary Baker Eddy.

In accordance with Mrs. Eddy's request this society disorganized.

By way of encouragement Mrs. Eddy deeded in trust to The Mother Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, the sum of four thousand dollars to be invested in safe municipal bonds for the children contributors. The disbursal of the above amount with accumulated interest, was to take place when the children had arrived at legal age, each then to receive equal shares.

The Treasurer of The Mother Church, Adam H. Dickey, is now preparing to distribute this fund, which according to the Christian Science Sentinel of Jan. 24, 1914, is now approximately $6,840.

This is another proof of Mrs. Eddy's wise and generous spirit.

The children of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Todd were all members of the Busy Bees and will share in the distribution.

Easy to Get Along With.

"How are you getting along with your neighbours?"

"Fine! They don't seem to care what our children do to theirs."

Wash Fabrics For Spring Are Making Their First Appearance

And are Winning Admiration From all Sides, Because of The Lovely Materials and New Patterns Amongst Them.

Crepe Crepon

This excellent French material possesses a marked resemblance to both Ratine and Crepe, but has a finish that is far brighter than either.

It is 27 inches wide, and comes in pure white, with a fine black stripe.

With its close weave and soft texture it promises to be one of the favourite fabrics for summer, and is moderately priced at 30c a yard

A New Cotton Crepe

It is a golden chocolate shade, and is patterned with satin spots which from certain points of view appear as as a stripe. This fabric is also an instance of the new skeleton weave, and comes from France in 27 inch widths.

It launders perfectly, and being of a solid colour, it looks very becoming, trimmed with material of lighter shade. Price 35c a yard.

Fancy American Rep

A well known and sturdy fabric, which enjoys a decided preference for Waists, Skirts and Suits.

And no two patterns could be more suitable for garments of this kind than the single black and double black stripes we are showing.

Rep is guaranteed to wash nicely, is 27 ins. wide, and is also of substantial quality, with a pliable texture. The price is 20c a yard.

The 1914 Prints

Surely one was never before confronted with such a host of really choice patterns as the new prints are showing. Patterned in stripe and figure designs,they range from white and the lighter colours, to those of darkest hue; amongst which will be see many of the old reliable prints.

Being all English goods, their quality is above suspicion of any defect, and they are selling for 12½c.

Ladies' Home Journal Patterns 15c.

Pure Down Comforts $5.90

We have a few English Down-Filled Comforts which are 72 inches square, and covered on the top side with art sateen in bordered designs. Colours are blue, green, flame and red; our regular $7.00 Comfort reduced to $5.90

Men's Bible Classes Endorse Request For A Policewoman

Resolution To That Effect Passed at Mass Meeting in the Charlotte Street Church Last Night---Addresses Given

That we fully approve of the request of the Women's Council for the appointment of a Police Woman for the City of Peterborough and that we express the hope that an early and favourable reply be given by our Police Commissioners.

The above resolution was passed unanimously at the mass meeting of the Men's Bible Classes of the city, held in the Charlotte Street Methodist Church last night, at which Mr. R. F. Downey presided. The motion was proposed by J. H. Moss and seconded by Mr. Rambo.

A committee of seven were appointed as a deputation to wait on the Board of Police Commissioners at their next meeting and adise them of the motion. The deputation will consist of Messrs. Downey, Cunningham, Rambo, Joy, Kingdon, Cowan and Colling.

Mrs. James Kendry was the first of the four speakers to address the meeting. She said that when a human being went under, some one or some system had blundered. The temptation to many young women to-day was greater on account of economic conditions. The Nation should strive to preserve a strong, virtuous womanhood. How much of the responsibility rested on them for the future of each young girl?

The women were doing something for the State. In this city several women's organizations were active. The Y.W.C.A. with its physical culture classes, loyalty club and girl guides; there were the women's institutes in the rural districts, the nurses of the local Health Association who taught personal hygiene, the mothers' clubs, and the educational committee of the Women's Council. How much better is this positive work than the cure when the worst has come to the worst!

A young girl trapped and ruined might be brought back to a realization of right and wrong—might even be reinstated socially, but who could restore her lost dignity?

The present moral conditions were the result of the let-alone policy. What was needed was not the proposed multiplication of penitentiaries, but of preventative legislation. If there were more of the "mother spirit" in the government, there would be less need for rescue homes and numerous jails.

In her recent address here Mrs. Alice Wells had pointed out conclusively that a woman with the authority of the police was best able to save the young girls from being led astray.

Speaking of the Women's Council Mrs. Kendry said that only recently two of them offered to open up their homes for an intoxicated woman at the C.P.R. station. She had been given the opinion of an eminent man this afternoon that a Police Woman would more than earn her salary if she just remained in the Police Station and interviewed all who wished to see her.

The Women's Council were anxious to get the co-operation of the Bible Classes in the matter. They had not by any means given up the fight and hoped in the near future to secure a Police Woman for Peterborough.

Adjutant McElhinney was the second speaker. While many things of appalling immorality were to be found here, he didn't think that Peterborough was as bad a city as many people were howling about. It was not bad morally compared with other cities.

There were instances of gross immorality but he had seen worse in smaller places. At th same tme there was no reason to allow them to exist.

As the former speaker had said these conditions had been created by a "let-alone" policy. That was the suicidal policy from a moral standpoint.

He spoke of a girl from whose house he had just come. Both her mother and father had died drunk and now she had been betrayed and needed protection. It seemed to him that some girls were to blame as well as the young men. For there were a lot of silly, frivolous girls that ought to be taught better by somebody. And that "somebody" was the mother and father of the child. It was the home life that had to be dealt with. The making light of the things of good was loosening things up all round. Three-quarters of our social and moral problems should be dealt with through the home.

The Adjutant suggested a vigilance committee so that the police would have men as well as women behind them. More police would solve a great many of the problems. A morality inspector was needed, and a municipal rescue home.

The third speaker, Mr. H. B. Cowan, said that he was by no means a pessimist, but he was almost forced at times to take a pessimistic view of these problems. He was staggered by the kind of fiction published in monthly magazines of to-day. We could keep these books out of our own homes, but could not keep our children from seeing them in other homes. He was pleased to hear Adjutant McElhinney say that things were due partially to economic reasons. No more girls could be sent to outside rescue homes, as they were already filled with girls from this city and other places. This showed that conditions were the same everywhere, and owing to the 400,000 immigrants pouring in every year, things threatened to get worse instead of better.

Mr. A. B. Cunningham also spoke, emphasizing the fact that although the homes could be dealt with as a remedy for some cases, it must be remembered that in this city there were thousands who had no homes. Hence the need of police protection.

One of the men present wanted to know that if, in spite of a largely signed petition from the ratepayers, the city's hands were so tied that three men could say we will not do it, even though you want it and are prepared to pay for it, and if they must submit to the way of these three men.

Adjutant McElhinney defended the Police Commissioners. After some discussion the motion given above was passed unanimously.

Mrs. Kendry, who spoke early in the evening, left immediately after her address and was not present during the discussion that took place later in the evening.

Dress-Making Taught

Learn The Practical Tailoring System of Cutting, Fitting and Making

PRIVACY FOR SOLE SURVIVOR OF TRAGEDY

Special Wire to The Examiner:

ORTON, Ont., Jan. 28. — Strictest privacy is being accorded Margaret Simpson, the sole survivor of the unfortunate Garafraxa family, in which a double murder and suicide occurred late yesterday. The girl is at the home of David Johnson, her uncle. There is not the slightest evidence that young Simpson ever before has been insane. There are no traces of insanity in the history of the family, which has for a long time occupied a position of prominence in the district. The value of the Simpson farm, which consists of 100 acres fully cultivated, is placed at $20,000, including a large amoont of stock.

Revery of a Stranger

When in Petersburg, Va., the players visited the famous battlefields of the Civil War in that neighbourhood, particularly the one known as "The Crater," in which many thousands of lives were lost. Adjoining the battlefields is Blandford Cemetery, another historic Southern spot, with a chapel erected in 1735. Elmer Steele copied the following beautiful poem from the wall of the chapel, where it had been written over forty years ago, and when the chapel was in a state of decay:

Revery of a Stranger.

Thou art crumbling to the dust, old pile;
Thou art hastening to thy fall,
And 'round thee in thy loneliness
Clings the ivy to thy wall.
The worshippers are scattered now
Who knelt before thy shrine,
And silence reigns where anthems rose
In days of "auld lang syne."

And sadly sighs the wandering wind,
Where oft in days gone by Prayers rose from many hearts to Him,
The Highest of the High.
The tramp of many a busy foot
That sought thy aisles is o'er,
And many a weary heart around
Is still forever more.

How doth Ambition's hope take wing,
How droops the spirit now;
We hear the distant city's din,
The dead are mute below;
The sun that shone upon their paths
Now gilds their lonely graves;
The zephyrs which once fanned their brows,
The grass above them waves.

Oh! could we call the many back
Who've gathered here in vain—
Who've careless roved where we do now
Who'll never meet again;
How would our very souls be stirred
To meet their earnest gaze
Of the lovely and the beautiful,
The lights of other days.

—A Stranger.

NEGLECTED WASTE LANDS OF ONTARIO

Less than a sixth of the area of Ontario is profitably occupied. In the very heart of the most productive portions of the Province are to be found drifting sand dunes that are a menace to the surrounding countryside. Back from the lakes where the ribs of the Laurentians begin to show, there are millions of acres from which the timber has been cleared, but which will never be arable or even furnish good pasture. The only profitable crop that will ever be grown on these waste lands is timber, and as there is still a large area of "virgin" timber in the north no one pays much heed to the advocates of reforestation.

The disposition to let posterity look after itself is almost universal. For four hundred years the white man has been looting the North American continent. He has not yet exhausted its marvellous resources. There are still great forests, rich fisheries, fertile, untilled prairie lands, and mines that yield their ores to the most unscientific exploiter. The timber nears exhaustion. Posterity may do much with the aid of science, but it cannot replace the forests of America. All it can hope to do is to preserve a few timbered areas from which an annual crop can be secured by careful selection. If the people of Ontario were mindful of the needs of the future they could leave for coming generations one of the most valuable heritages in the world. The steady acquisition and afforestation of the waste lands that are now neither forest nor farm, would cost relatively little, and the financial result would be incalculably great.

Surely it is not too much to ask that of all the revenue derived from the forests the Government of Ontario shall be encouraged enough and honest enough to return at least a tenth to the perpetuation of the timber resources. Sir John Stirling-Maxwell, who although a Conservative member of the Imperial Parliament, has been vigorously defending the Asquith Government's afforestation policy, points out that all over continental Europe there are not only State-owned forests but timbered lands belonging to municipalities and other public bodies which are conserved and systematically cropped. He points out that Great Britain requires to import over $175,000,000 worth of timber yearly, and that much profitable employment could be given by producing a large part of the required supply within the United Kingdom. Sylviculture, Sir John says, distributes a great deal more in wages than the rough pasture it replaces. It employs ten men for every man employed in connection with hill razing. It saw mills, pulp-mills, etc., be included, the difference is further enhanced. No one who knows the Vosges or the Jura, Saxony or Bavaria, or the Belgian Ardennes can doubt that forestry is the one sure anchor of rural life in a rough hill country. In the highlands of Scotland it offers the only reasonable hope of settling small holders in the glens when they are out of reach of sea fishing, because it is the only industry to which they can turn for winter employment.

This is as true of the highlands of Ontario as of the highlands of Scotland. The Provincial Government should devote the best energies, not of one or two men, but of one or two hundred to the development of scientific forestry and its adaptation to the waste lands of the Province.—The Globe.

Didn't Consider Him.

"What did you tell that young man in back of you when he asked you to remove your hat?"

"Oh, I told him if I held it in my lap I couldn't see the moving pictures myself."

Cut Wife's Throat Then Tried To Kill Himself

Special Wire to The Examiner:

TORONTO, Jan. 28. — Despondent through unemployment, Robert McCutcheon, aged 37, a Scotsman in Canada for eleven months, this morning cut his wife's throat with a razor and then attempted to end his own life the same way. She will die but he may recover. The terrible discovery was made by Mrs. McCutcheon's mother, who was summoned from the kitchen to the bedroom by her daughter's screams. Upstairs four little McCutcheon children, the oldest aged nine, slept peacefully unconscious of the awful bereavement McCutcheon had been out of work two months. He accused his wife yesterday of infidelity and threatened the very act which he accomplished this morning.

GRANT TO EAST PETERBOROUGH SCHOOLS, ETC.

in this grant, and to meet this it has been necessary to increase from year to year, the apportionment for that purpose. Last year this was not done, but instead all the grants were cut down to the extent of 28 per cent., to make the total come within the amount apportioned.

The net result was that the inspectorate received under the head of salaries and certificates, $1,826.20 less than if the schedule had been adhered to, and $1,462.80 less than the previous year.

The question naturally arises, if the total amount distributed to the province was the same as in 1912, why did Peterborough East get less. For this there are two reasons. First, we have not kept pace with the general increase in salaries and improvement of qulification throughout the province. Second, there are 28 schools that get a fixed grant of $30 each and $80 as percentage on the salary between $150 and $350, making a sum of $110 per school that is practically fixed. This suffered the 28 per cent. reduction along with the rest, hence there was a decrease of $30.80 each on 28 schools that was entirely unaffected by the general increase of salaries. This accounts for $862.40 of the falling off. The remaining $600 must be due to the fact that our schools are not keeping up with the general progress of the province.

Work of the Schools.

In most of the school where properly qualified teachers are employed, good work is being done. A considerable proportion of these teachers are young and without much experience, but many of them are teaching with a vigour, enthusiasm and freshness that goes far to compensate for lack of experience. There are, at present, in the inspectorate, a larger number of teachers that I consider above the average that at any previous time since I assumed the duties of inspector. A number of trustee boards hve made very gratifying and commendable efforts to get qualified teachers and increase the efficiency of their schools. These efforts are all the more appreciated when contrasted with others where the teaching is still of a very poor character. There are a few cases where trustes are paying to teachers that are almost useless, salaries that ought to command the services of fair teachers. This is sometimes owing to unfortunate circumstances, but more often to lack of diligence or from choice. It is not only a waste of public money but is inflicting on the children of these sections an injury that cannot be reckoned in dollars.

Irregularity of attendance.

Next to the lack of efficient teaching comes irregularity of attendance as a hindrance to the progress of the schools. An attempt was made at the end of the year to get definite information on this point. While it would seem that there is not a large number of children of school age who do not attend school at all, yet a large number attend so irregularly as to render the efforts of the school in their behalf of little avail.

Reports have been received from 55 schools with 1,704 pupils. Of these 485 attended less than half of the time for which they were enrolled. One hundred and sixty-eight attended more than 50, but less than 60 per cent of the time, 153 between 60 and 70 per cent., 250 between 70 and 80, 355 over 80, but less than 90, and only 284 attended more than 90 per cent. of the days. Only four pupils out of 1,704 attended every day.

Attendance and Good Teachers.

The most noticeable feature of the reports is that the best attendance is where the best teachers are and the poorest where the cheap teachers preside. This would indicate that one remedy at least would be to make the schools more worth while. This is not all that should be done, however, as even the best schools might have a much higher average attendance and there are few of the schools that are not better than none at all. They are being maintained, for the benefit of the children at a considerable cost and the children should not be deprived of the benefit of them through the greed, selfishness or indifference of parents. The truancy act should be vigourously enforced and not be a mere dead letter as at present.

Changes of Teachers.

Another fruitful source of loss and inefficiency is the frequent changes of teachers. That this is a serious matter will be shown by the fact that of 75 rural school teachers in the inspectorate at the beginning of the year, 17 changed with the opening of school, 8 between that and midsummer, and 48 at midsummer, making a total of 73 changes in the year. Many of the changes were needless, and could have been avoided had good judgment and a regard for the best interests of the schools always prevailed. It is doubtful, however, if we need hope for much improvement in this respect as long as the present antiquated and out-of-date system of school government and organization by school sections lasts.

All of which is respectfully submitted by

RICHARD LEES,
P. S. Inspector.

FIRST VOTE TAKEN

Government Rejects the Amendment to the Address

FURTHER PROPOSAL COMING

OTTAWA, Jan. 28.—By a vote of 108 to 64, a Government majority of 44, at a few minutes after midnight in the Commons, the forces of Conservatism rejected the amendment of Liberalism, as proposed by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, to add to the address in reply to the speech from the throne an expression of regret that the Government had failed to give any assurance of prompt or courageous action to remedy the existing economic depression in the country and meet the steady increase in the high cost of living by fiscal revision.

A further amendment will be made by Dr. Neely, who adjourned the debate, early this morning. He will propose a specific remedy for the state of affairs.

A number of bills were introduced and given first reading, including Mr. Lesperance's bill for the immediate repeal of the Laurier Naval Service Act of 1910.

Another bill introduced yesterday by Mr. Aikins (Brandon) seeks to amend the Dominions Land Act by making inalienable all water powers and mineral deposits including coal, gas, oil and stone. It also forbids homesteading and pre-emption on surface rights of mineral lands and on lands containing water powers or necessary for the development of water powers.

The debate upon the address was resumed by Postmaster-General Pelletier. He denied that the Government had adopted the spoil system. Many Liberals, he declared, had been removed so as to reinstate Conservative office holders unjustly removed from office by the Laurier Government.

Mr. Pelletier denied that there were 100,000 people out of employment in this country. He said that a careful investigation showed that the number did not exceed 17,000, including the 5,000 men laid off by the Canadian Northern upon the completion of their line between Sudbury and Port Arthur.

He declared that it would be the height of folly to reduce the cost of living by withdrawing the protection now given to the Canadian farmer by the Canadian tariff. The farmer could be best served, in his opinion, by the technical education.

The high cost of living, he said, was largely due to the middleman. A long step will be taken towards bringing the producer and the consumer together by the establishment of the parcel post. The Minister announced that the parcel post would be in operation by Feb. 10.

Mr. D. D. McKenzie (Cape Breton) criticized the Postmaster-General, the Minister of Finance and the Solicitor-General because, he said, they had utterly failed to deal in any effective way with the present economic situation. "The truth is," said he, "that the Minister of Finance has cold feet, and his colleagues have found it catching."

Mr. H. Bennett (Con., East Simcoe) urged the Government to increase the protection now given to the iron and steel industries and the shipbuilding industry. We imported iron and iron products from the United States to the extent of $1,000,000 per year.

"Parliament," he continued, "is wasting its time discussing party issues twenty years old, while a great basic industry is perishing."

W. F. Maclean (South York) complimented Mr. Bennett upon his speech and regretted that more members had not discussed live issues and economic subjects in a nonpartisan way. At the same time he took occasion to compliment the Postmaster-General upon his announcement respecting a speedy inauguration of the parcel-post system.

SUFFERERS FROM PILES!

ZAM-BUK HAS CURED THESE!

Friction on the hemorrhoid veins that are swollen, inflamed and gorged with blood, is what causes the terrible pain and stinging and smarting of piles. Zam-Buk applied at night will be found to give ease before morning. Thousands of persons have proved this. Why not be guided by the experience of others?

Mr. Thomas Pearson, of Prince Albert, Sask., writes: "I must thank you for the benefit I have received from Zam-Buk. Last summer I suffered greatly from piles. I started to use Zam-Buk and found it gave me relief, so I continued it, and after using three or four boxes I am pleased to say it has effected a complete cure."

Mr. G. A. Dufresne, 183-185 St. Joseph Street, St. Roch, Quebec, P.Q., writes: "I can highly recommend Zam-Buk to everyone who suffers from piles."

Magistrate Sanford, of Weston, King's Co., N.S., says: "I suffered long from itching piles, but Zam-Buk has now cured me."

Mr. William Kenty, of Upper Nine Mile River, Hants Co., N.S., says: "I suffered terribly from piles, the pain at times being almost unbearable. I tried various ointments, but everything I tried failed to do me the slightest good. I was tired of trying various remedies, when I heard of Zam-Buk, and thought as a last resource I would give this balm a trial. After a very short time Zam-Buk effected a complete cure."

Zam-Buk is also a sure cure for skin injuries and diseases, eczema, ulcers, varicose veins, cuts, burns, bruises, chaps, cold sores, etc. 50c. box from all druggists and stores, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. Refuse harmful imitations.

Messrs. Nichols and MacNab Appear Before Quebec House

TAKE ALL RESPONSIBILITY

QUEBEC, Jan. 28. — In the presence of all the members of the Quebec legislative council, and with a big crowd occupying every inch of standing space, M. E. Nichols, president of The Daily Mail Publication Co. of Montreal, and B. A. MacNab, editor of The Mail, which for several days past has been publishing allegations of bribery on the part of J. O. Mousseau, M.P.P., L. P. Berard, M.L.C., and Achille Bergevin, M.L.C., to secure the passage through the Legislature of a decoy bill incorporating the Montreal Fair Association, appeared at the bar of the Legislative Assembly yesterday afternoon in response to a summons from Speaker Delage.

The most dramatice feature was furnished when Mr. MacNab, in reply to demands that he name members of the Legislature not specified in The Mail's charges, named De Varennes, and Gillman, members of the Legislature.

After a further examination at night, Premier Gouin announced that the newspaper men would be called before the Bar of the Upper House.

Messrs. Nichols and MacNab walked together to the Bar in front of the Speaker, Mr. MacNab carrying several rolls of paper in his hand, upon which had been written a summary of the charges published in The Mail, and certain portions of the evidence collected by the detectives, which, the newspaper has claimed, substantiate the allegations.

In answer to questions submitted through the Speaker of the House, the newspaper men read the following written declaration: "We desire to state that the charges which have been made against certain members of the Legislature in the columns of The Montreal Daily Mail, were published by us in good faith and in the public interest.

"We believe, moreover, that these charges were true, and that if the Legislature do desire, evidence can be produced to substantiate them. (Signed) M. E. Nichols, B. A. MacNab."

Questions were urged demanding who were the members of the Legislature whose names were left in blank in The Daily Mail reports.

Mr. MacNab: Inasmuch as a committee of the Legislative Council has been appointed, we would prefer to go into the matter there, but if we are ordered here to give names, we will do so.

Mr. Lavergne moved that such order be given, and the motion was at once carried.

Mr. Nichols: Is it understood that it is an order of the House that this question be answered by us?

[illegible] this House.

Mr. MacNab then answered as follows: "Four hundred dollars paid to Mr. Mousseau by David W. Hyland, in room 369, Chateau Frontenac, at 8.05 p.m., Tuesday, Jan. 13, 1914. This sum Mr. Mousseau said was for Mr. De Varennes, and $600 on Wednesday, Jan. 14, at 6.30 p.m., in room 369, Chateau Frontenac, to Mr. Mousseau by Mr. Hyland for Mr. De Varennes; $150 paid Mr. Bergevin by George Simpson, on Friday, Jan. 16, was, Mr. Bergegin said, to reimburse him for money he paid to Hon. Mr. Gillman."

Mr. Nichols said: "My answer is the same."

Further enquiry was then adjourned until the evening session and then after another brief examination was adjourned until to-day.

LIVE STOCK MARKET

Special Wire to The Examiner:

TORONTO, Jan. 27.—Union Stock Yards.—Receipts were light. 30 cars, 569 cattle, 417 hogs, 146 sheep and lambs, 56 calves.

Cattle—The cattle market was again very dull with prices lower. Cattle selling at $8.25 to $8.50 last week, were down to $7.75 and $8.00, and hard to sell at these figures. Choice butchers' steers, $8.00 to $8.25; good butchers' steers, $7.75 to $8.00; medium butchers' steers, $7.00 to $7.50; common butchers' steers, $6.00 to $6.50; choice butchers' heifers, $7.75 to $8.00; common butchers' heifers, $7.00 to $7.50; choice cows, $6.75 to $7.00; good cows, $6.25 to $6.50; canners, $3.00 to $4.50.

Feeders and Stockers—Few feeders or stockers were offered and prices were firm. Choice steers, $7.00 to $7.50; medium steers, $6.50 to $6.75; stockers, $6.00 to $6.25.

Milkers and Springers—Receipts light, at $50 to $90 each, bulk sold at $70 to $80 each Calves—Market firm and unchanged. Choice veals, $10.50 to $11.50, and common to good $7.75 to $9.00.

Sheep and Lambs—Market firm for good quality, but too many heavy lambs are being offered. Sheep, $5.50 to $7.00; culls and rams, $5.50 to $6.00; lambs, choice ewes and wethers, $9.00 to $9.35.

Hogs—Were firmer. Selected, fed and watered, $9.25 and $9.00 f.o.b. cars, and $9.50 weighed off cars.

MILES OF CABLE

Lindsay Post—A gang of Bell Telephone men under Foreman P. J. Roach, of Peterborough, arrived in town yesterday to make improvements to the local plant. They will string a large amount of aerial cable, which will take probably five months' work.

Don't forget the Big T. A. S. At Home to-night. Commences 8.30 sharp.

Uncle Rebus Back To Town

Bless me, Polly, there's that bell again.

It it's the paper-boy, Rebus, invite him in to get warmed; for it's an awful cold night.

Hello, UncleRebus, have a paper to-night?

Sure, sure; come 'way in little man, and get your corns toasted.

Thanks, I guess I will.

Hello, Aunt Polly, how are you?

I'm well, my boy, and what's your name?

My name?

Yes.

Don't you know my name?

No. You see we're strangers to near everybody in town.

Why, my name is Jeff.

Jeff! Are you anything to Mutt and Jeff?

Sure thing; I'm the real Jeff, the real thing, you know.

Well, well, if that doesn't beat all. Yes, Aunt Polly, it's just like a man sitting down to the dinner table with nothing but a beet on it; that beet's all.

And is there a real Mutt?

Well, I guess yes.

Does he live in Peterborough, too?

You bet he does. He's a clerk in a hotel.

And who takes your pictures?

Oh, "Bird" just draws us.

Mutt's an awfully mean fellow—the way he uses you.

Not on your tintype. Mutt's the best natured fellow alive; he's a decent chap, Mutt is.

Well now, you wouldn't think so to look at your pictures.

Well, you see, Aunt Polly, we're something like the restless man in bed and the lawyer: First we lie on one side and then we turn around and lie on the other. We just do those funny stunts to make people smile.

I think people like you better than they do Mutt. At least I do.

Well, that's only natural, Aunt Polly. I'm told the girls are simply daft on me. You see I'm like the girl and the apple—I'm the main squeeze.

What do you mean, my boy?

Well, the one you have to squeeze to get cider, the other you have to get cider by squeeze; and then—

He sighed, and
She sighed, and then
They sighed, side by side,
Down by the river side.

Ah, Jeff, you're a funny one.

Oh, I'm not half as funny as Mutt. Well, if he's any funnier than you I'd like to see him.

I'll bring him up some night, if you like.

How much longer are you going to be in the paper, Jeff?

I don't know, Aunt Polly, really; I guess we'll stay with it until, like the duck and the doctor, we stop quacking.

SHAREHOLDERS OF C. P. R. ARE MANY

The new issue of note certificates by the C. P. R., from which to purchase raising $42,000,000, draws attention to the wide diffusion of the stock of the company—a diffusion which has given it the remarkable stability of the shares and which at the same time guards it from predatory attack by reckless speculators or unscrupulous syndicates.

The C. P. R. in fact is the third in its companies in respect numbers of its shareholders, Pennsylvania and Telephone lead the list. The number grows every year. For instance, in 1902 the number was 41,200, whereas every year it was 42,000. The Atchison has 12,000 more shareholders than the C.P.R.

There is probably not a country on the civilized world in which the stockholders of the C.P.R. are not found. In India, the Hindu merchant has shares of C. P. R. as in China, Japan even Persia, the home of the company has grandeur and thirty people have put their surplus money into C. P. R. stock.

The C.P.R. shareholders are found in the South American republics. They are not always fugitives. They take time to study the markets and have a spy at C. P. R. Even in Mexico, which is topsy turveydom at present, there are many shareholders of the company.

The record shows that: Atchison has 30,451 shareholders; C. P. R. 48,-113; Central of New Jersey, 730; C. B. & Q., 331; C.M.P.M. and O.M., 1,121; Delaware and Hudson, 2,573; Louisville and Nashville 4,386; Missouri Pacific $5,038; C.R.I. & P. railway, 486; Rock Island Co., 4,158; Pere Marquette, 1,662, Southern Railway 11,398; Texas and Pacific 1,243. Altogether, these aggregate properties have 124,088 owners at present, with aggregate share capitalization of $1,484,892,039. Each holder has an average of 119.6 shares. The increase all over the properties during the year was 15,128 stockholders. Three of the companies made additions to share capitalization during the year. Atchison by the conversion of bonds, had $21,000,000 more stock outstanding on June 30 this year than on the same date last year. The C.P.R. added nearly $28,000,000 to the amount of publicly owned stock, but by quite some of its own shares.

The Snow Plough

Editor of The Examiner:

That was a nice letter written in praise of the snow plough men, but it is hardly the correct statement of officers. Six o'clock is no hour for a snow plough man to get out of bed to do his work. On Monday morning there was no snow plough track on Euclid Avenue, or up to Auburn till about 7.30 o'clock. What kind of work is that? It is getting paid for doing nothing. The road to Auburn is that crooked that it would break a snake's back to follow it.

Yours truly,
Auburn Employee.

CONDITIONS IN CALGARY

Mr. Wm. Bell Gives Examiner Some Interesting Information

In renewing his subscription to the Examiner Mr. Wm. Bell of Calgary writes to say that they have had a very fine Autumn and winter in that district until a short time ago. For a few days before the date of his letter, Mr. Bell says that the thermometer was down to ten degrees below zero, but this did not seem cold, owing to the dry climate. "I would rather have it 20 below here than 10 below in Ontario," says Mr. Bell. Conditions have been quiet in Calgary, especially in the real estate line, but at that some splendid buildings have been erected, several of them ten-storey buildings. The coming summer, it is expected, will be very busy as two more railways are coming into Calgary.

First Meeting Held

The first meeting of the newly-formed A.Y.P.A. was held in St. George's Church on Wednesday evening, Jan. 21, 1914.

The proceedings were of a decidedly social character and a very pleasant evening was spent.

Mr. A. Pitchford, President, occupied the chair, and after a few well chosen remarks invited the company to put away all formalities and have a real evening's enjoyment. A musical programme was rendered by members of the society, who were greatly applauded for their efforts.

A series of games completed the evening's enjoyment. The committee is to be commended for their efforts to help the young people in the south end to spend their evenings in such a pleasant and instructive manner.

Next Wednesday the members will please meet at corner George and Charlotte at 8 p.m., bound for the toboggan slide at Jackson Park. Everyone come and bring your friends.

EXAMINER PATTERN SERVICE

DAILY FASHION HINT.

Lady's Apron.

This pattern provides for both apron and dust cap. The apron can be made with or without sleeves. It is a becoming model as well as a practical one. Gingham, percale, chambray or lawn may be used for development and the same fabric is used to fashion the dust cap. The trimming is of contrasting material.

The pattern, No. 5,960, is cut in sizes 32, 36, 40 and 44 inches bust measure. Medium size requires 6¾ yards of 27 inch material or 5 yards of 36 inch material for apron and cap with ⅝ of a yard of 27 inch contrasting goods.

The above pattern can be obtained by sending 10 cents to the office of this paper.

Will Vote Down The Free Wheat Amendment

Special Wire to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, Jan. 28.— Owing to the illness of Premier Borden, the Conservative caucus which was to have been held to-day, has been postponed until next Tuesday. The Prime Minister is still confined to his home, and is not expected in the House for some days. The Liberals' free wheat amendment will almost certainly be downed by a straight party vote with the possible exception of a bolt on the part of McLean, the member for South York, though there are certain western Conservative members, notably from Manitoba, who feel very strongly on the question. As leader of the House in the absence of Premier Borden, Hon. Geo. E. Foster will urge that the free wheat amendment be defeated as constituting a motion of want of confidence in the government. He will also contend that during the budget debate, and not now, is the proper time for the introduction of such an amendment. It is certain that the Liberals will put forward their resolutions on that occasion also, and thus give every member in the House an opportunity of voting upon them.

SENATOR COX IS MOURNED

Toronto Board of Trade Passes a Resolution of Sympathy

TORONTO, Jan. 28.—The Board of Trade Council yesterday passed a resolution deeply regretting the death of the late Senator George A. Cox, a life member of the Board of Trade, and extending its sincere sympathy to the members of the family in the trying hour of their bereavement.

The resolution in part contained the following eulogy:

"Senator Cox, during a long and successful career distinguished by sterling integrity and extraordinary business ability, enjoyed the confidence and esteem of his fellow citizens, and by his foresight, energy and perseverance contributed in a pre-eminent degree in establishing and building up many of our large monetary institutions which have made Toronto the great financial centre of the Dominion."

WEDDING BELLS

HENRY—STENTON.

The marriage was solemnized on Tuesday afternoon at the parsonage by the pastor, Rev. R. J. Peever, of Miss Eva C. Stenton, the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Stenton, to Mr. Victor Henry, of this city, formerly of Lindsay. Mr. and Mrs. Henry left on the 5:35 train, and on their return they will reside in the city. Their many friends will extend them hearty congratulations.

STARR—MAXWELL.

Last night at the Rectory, Rev. Canon Davidson united in marriage Mr. Henry Starr and Miss Annie Maxwell, 708 Concession Street. The bride was attended by Miss Louise Meeks and Mr. Albert Elliot was best man. After the ceremony the happy pair drove to their new residence, 961 Reid Street.

Mr. C. S. Cummer, Accountant of the Merchants' Bank, Meaford, is spending two weeks' vacation in the City, the guest of his sister, Mrs. W. H. Wilson, 700 Water Street.

CURLING

The District Cup competition held yesterday, resulted in the Lindsay and Peterborough Quartettes winning out for the final clash, which will take place to-morrow.

In the first round of the competition Peterborough put Norwood out of the running, and Keene defeated the two Hastings rinks. In the second round the Lindsay curlers doubled the count on the Port Hope rinks, and the veteran stone-sliders from Keene were beaten by the locals.

This leaves Lindsay and Peterborough in the running for the cup. The local rinks engaged in the competition are:

A. Archibald L. Hall
J. Skinner A Kay
W. McCracken R. Cameron
J. W. McDermid, skip W. Taylor

The scores were as follows:

Stock Markets

A. H. Stratton & Co., Brokers, report the following:

To-morrow will probably see a hustling market, as a whole, with special bullish tactics and some offering of stock by professionals, who are bearishly inclined. We believe conservative purchases on recessions will bring good results. The growth of confidence seems to be steady. It is gradual and brilliant on account of the shaking to which it has been subjected in the past year. The clearing of the freight rate and the Mexican situation would add radically to the ranks of the optimists, but at the same time evidence is coming to hand showing increasing confidence by insiders and the inquiries from outside sources both for investment and speculation and notably expanding. Discrimination is the order of the day, but industrials, as well as rails, appear to be attracting buyers.

The activity of U. S. is doing much to attract attention to the best industrials and coppers. The latter is under strong accumulation, according to Boston interests.

U. P., S. P., Atch., B. O., N. P. St. Paul, L. and N. Southern Railway will be exceptionally well taken on all recessions. This is indicated by the inquiries in commission and wire houses. Bull pools are preparing to raise their operations later quite extensively.

Journalists Refuse Names in Quebec Investigation

WHENCE CAME THE MONEY?

QUEBEC, Jan. 29.—Chief interest in the Quebec scandal yesterday centred in the appearance of Messrs. Nicholls and Macnab before the Bar of the Legislative Council. The proceedings here were practically a repetition of what occurred in the Assembly on Tuesday, and the newspapermen would make no direct charges on their own responsibility against any other councillors but Hon. Messrs. Berard and Bergevin, though they repeated the names of Hon. Messrs. De Varennes and Gilman as having been furnished the Burns detectives by Mr. Mousseau, chairman of the Private Bills Committee in the Lower House.

Messrs. Nicholls and Macnab said that they had no personal knowledge of the party or parties who originated the attempt to investigate the manner in which legislation is enacted at Quebec, and later on employed the Burns detectives. They professed the same ignorance as to who had furnished the money to retain the services of the detectives and purchase the influence of legislators.

There was some commotion when the Mail men were detained at the Bar for refusing to give a straight "yes" or "no" answer as to whether they had accusations to lay against any other members of the House but Berard and Bergevin for having received bribes in connection with the passage of the Montreal Fair Bill.

The question, however, was finally altered, and Messrs. Macnab and Nicholls said they would take no personal responsibility for any accusations against other members than the two specifically mentioned.

This concluded the examination in the Upper House, and the scene now shifts in both Houses to the special committees of investigation, where the fullest evidence will be given. It is generally considered that the examinations before the Bar have been somewhat in the natgre of a curtain-raiser, and that the real charges will not be filed out until the detectives appear to explain their operations.

To-day the editors are to appear before the Investigation Committee of the Council.

Lemieux Wants To Testify.

OTTAWA, Jan. 29.—Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux has wired Premier Gouin of Quebec asking to be summoned before the investigation committee. The wire was as follows: "As The Mail mentions my name in connection with the fair bill, I want to be summoned before investigation committee."

City's Expenditures And Receipts For 1913

And a Few Conditions That Point to Larger Demands When the Appropriations Are Made Up--Some of the Departments Face Growing Expenses.

The statement of receipts and expenditures for the year 1913, as tabulated by City Treasurer Adams, is given below. It was referred to briefly in a recent issue, but a brief analysis may be of interest. In the first place, Mayor Buller and his assistants have stated their desire to travel lightly this year, to cut expenditures as much as possible. But a review of the figures brings out the fact that there are likely to be increased demands which may be termed unavoidable and others that are necessary. In the first place the Board of Education's demand is $6,200 above last year's. The Fire Department's amount may be higher. The 1913 margin between expenditures and appropriation was a slight one, and Chief Howard may ask for $22,000. While there may be many necessities for the Department, they will have to be Simon Pure needs to get a pleasant look from the Finance Minister under present sentiments and circumstances.

Police Department.

The Police Department's allotment was exceeded by $175, and with recent demands for more police protection and prospective salary increases, the 1914 appropriation will likely run over $10,000.

Street Watering.

The cost of street watering went $110 over the estimate and a number of demands for the extension of this service have been reported.

In the list is given the total amount paid into the police court, the taxes paid, rents collected, taxes refunded, etc.

Special Accounts.

The special accounts include the Hydro-Electric expenses, totalling $21,726.61, and the incinerator expense of $8,178.57. Street paving work cost the City $21,416.00. Then there are the payments in connection with three new factories.

The entire list should receive the attention of those who are interested in the City's business.

Auto For The Health Inspector

The Hamilton Board of Health held its first meeting of 1914 on Tuesday at 4 o'clock and discussed the question of estimates for the coming year. The greater part of the meeting was spent in passing accounts, after which it was decided definitely to procure an automobile to be placed at the disposal of Inspector Shain in order to facilitate his trips to the surrounding country dairies to inspect the milk. This system, the members declared, was far better than that of hiring rigs, the cost of which amounted to $260 for last year alone. With the auto in his possession it was thought that the inspector would be able to devote three days of the week to the market and the other three to the country dairies.

The other estimates for 1914 are: Stationery, $125; drugs, $300; printing, $250; telephones, $120; clothing, $175; sundries, $200; fuel, $650 cents; office, 100. Last year's salary estimate was $7,630, but the expenditure was $9,008.84. The salaries as usual will be fixed by the board of control.

TO HELP UNEMPLOYED.

Provincial Government Will Extend Assistance.

TORONTO, Jan. 29.—The Provincial Government is prepared to aid in relieving the pressure of lack of employment in Ontario. Following an appeal from the workless army in Toronto, the numbers of which are increased daily by recruits from all parts of the province, the Cabinet last evening issued a statement favoring the general trend of the requests for co-operation. Whether a money grant will be advanced depends on the results of an immediate investigation of existing conditions. If the city desires to set men at work housebuilding upon civic lands without an approach to the ratepayers, a detailed proposal will be welcomed.

The conference with the Cabinet in addition to representatives of the unemployed, included Mayor Hocken, Controllers Simpson and Church, and President Watt of the organized labor interests, each of whom urged the Government to take some immediate action.

The suggestions in summary were that the city be allowed to place men at work upon city property in the building of huts or shacks. The Cabinet was asked to veto the statute calling for the sanction of a public vote, to advance $100,000 to relieve the present distress. This sum, on a basis of ten dollars per month to each of the 5,000 unemployed, would serve for the coming two months and tide over the crisis for the men.

In the neighborhood of 5,000 men took part in yesterday's demonstration. This consisted of a parade, which formed at the Labor Temple, in the afternoon at 2.30, and marched to the Parliament Buildings, via Church, Wellington and Simcoe streets, and University avenue. After circling the Parliament Buildings, the army marched down University avenue to the armories, assembling in the open space there.

The parade was orderly and nothing of a disagreeable nature occurred.

Government Outwitted in Fight Against Tariff Reform

MOTION FOR FREE WHEAT

OTTAWA, Jan. 29.—There is heartburning and anxiety to-day among Government supporters representing large rural and industrial votes regarding the tariff issue. All yesterday morning pressure was brought to bear on the Ministry by certain of its following to "do something," and it was in a far from amiable and unanimous frame of mind that the Government benches were filled when the House reassembled at two o'clock yesterday afternoon to hear Dr. Neely of Humboldt, in a vigorous speech, propound his free wheat amendment.

When Dr. Neely had ended the Government virtually admitted that it had been outmanoeuvred. The administration during the first part of the debate on the address had been lured into giving away its fiscal attitude and when the Liberals had secured the desired information Dr. Neely's amendment was brought in. The Government's only reply was that such an amendment as Dr. Neely's upset all precedent.

Dr. Neely, in moving his amendment, said it was important, for many reasons, to give the western farmer free access for his wheat to the American market. Our crop for 1913 in the west was 205,000,000 bushels. Allowing 60,000,000 for home consumption and assuming that the British market could absorb 90,000,000 bushels, the farmer of western Canada, found himself with a surplus of 60,000,000 bushels. Why should he not be allowed to dispose of this surplus in the big market next door? By removing our customs duties upon wheat and wheat products imported from the United States we automatically open the United States market to Canadian wheat. As matters now stand the wheat had to be rushed out before the close of navigation and dumped on the British market for whatever it would bring. The crop of 1913 was the finest ever grown, yet it sold at a lower price than wheat had sold in Liverpool for many years.

He did not think free flour would hurt the Canadian miller and he read from Government reports to show that Canadian flour was driving American flour out of the foreign markets.

"In two ways the Canadian farmers will benefit," he said. "They will benefit by the competition of American railways and they will benefit by the fact that the millers will have to come up to the scratch and give them more for their Canadian wheat if they want to grind it in their mills."

Hon. Robert Rogers said he could only account for the Neely amendment being proposed at this stage of the session by supposing that the Opposition was ashamed of the Laurier amendment, which, in his opinion, could only be described as "silly twaddle." He said it was unheard of for any member to move an amendment to the address which dealt with the tariff. Tariff changes should only be announced by the Government in the budget speech, and no announcement would be made until that time. He added that, although the action of the Government could not be properly foreshadowed at this time, it was quite unlikely that the wheat and flour duties would be removed unless stronger arguments were presented to the Government than those which had been advanced by the member for Humboldt (Mr. Neely).

Hon. Frank Oliver cited a precedent in the British Parliament to prove that an amendment dealing with the tariff question might be properly presented in the debate upon the address. At any rate, this was no time for hair-splitting. The Government should have removed the wheat and flour duties months ago by order-in-council. The shortage of money in Canada might have been prevented had our farmers the additional three or four million dollars which they would have obtained by selling at American instead of Canadian prices.

Mr. Thomson (Lib., Qu'Appelle), quoted market figures to show that the farmer got a higher price for his wheat, and the miller a lower price for his flour in the United States. The Canadian miller took toll at both ends, paying the farmer less and charging the consumer more.

Mr. McCraney (Lib., Saskatoon) went over the arguments used against free wheat in the reciprocity campaign, in 1911. Was it not plain, he asked, that there was a crisis demanding free wheat when the men who used these arguments, from Sir Rodmond Roblin down, are now urging the removal of the wheat and flour duties.

Mr. Molloy (Lib., Provencher) followed and Mr. McNutt (Saltcoats) adjourned the debate.

Electric Cars Collide.

BUFFALO, Jan. 29.—Two crowded suburban cars on the Buffalo, Lake Erie and Western Railroad collided head-on at high speed at Lackawanna yesterday. John Doyle, one of the motormen, was crushed to death and all of the 75 passengers on the two cars were badly shaken up. Several suffered slight injuries from flying glass.

The accident was caused, according to railroad officials, to Doyle's neglect to set a block signal, and the fog hid the cars until it was too late to avoid the collision. The vestibules of both cars were wrecked.

CUTS WIFE'S THROAT.

Then Draughtsman Attempts Own Life—Woman May Die.

TORONTO, Jan. 29.—Robert McCutcheon, a draughtsman living at 44 Laughton avenue, West Toronto, attempted to murder his wife, Christina, by cutting her throat yesterday, and when he saw that he had not been successful applied the razor to himself, attempting to suicide in a similar manner. McCutcheon and his wife were taken to the Western Hospital by Speers' motor ambulance. While McCutcheon is expected to recover, the gashes inflicted upon Mrs. McCutcheon by her husband may prove fatal.

For several weeks McCutcheon has been in poor health from a nervous breakdown.

McCutcheon has until recently been employed at the Canada Foundry Co. and on the advice of Dr. Mooney left his work to take a rest. The family have been in Canada eleven months, coming from Glasgow.

ARRESTED ON RELEASE.

Mrs. McKenna Must Face Further Fraud Charges.

BROCKVILLE, Jan. 29. — When Mrs. Elizabeth McKenna, alias Freda Helen Howard, alias Dorothy Smith, was released from the Cornwall jail yesterday morning on parole, the chief of police of Brockville, who was in waiting with a warrant, immediately placed the woman under arrest on a charge of defrauding the Brockville branch of the Bank of Toronto out of $400 on June 4, 1913.

Upon her arrival here it was evident that the woman was suffering from a nervous breakdown, her condition being such that the attendance of the police surgeon was necessary.

The operations of Mrs. McKenna in the banking line at points in Eastern Ontario in the month of June last created widespread attention, and it was only after several clever stunts had been pulled off that she was arrested at Spencerville one week following a visit to Brockville, which netted the prisoner $400.

Shows How Easy It Is To Get Rid Of Kidney Trouble And Lame Back

Bell Rock, Frontenac Co., Ont. "For 15 years, I could get nothing to help my Kidneys, they were so bad. The pain went all through my back and shoulders and down my legs. When I would sit for a while, I could not straighten up until I had walked a rod or more. A neighbor advised me to take GIN PILLS. I did so and six boxes cured me. It is about two years since I quit GIN PILLS. My back is now all right. No pain in back or legs and I can walk all right. GIN PILLS are worth their weight in gold to anyone suffering with Kidney Trouble". D. A. YORKE.

Never mind what other people say about "never being able to get anything to help them." They have probably never tried GIN PILLS, you may be sure, or they would be well. GIN PILLS will always cure the Kidneys and Bladder, Uric Acid Poisoning and Stone in Bladder and Kidneys. Remember, every box of GIN PILLS is sold on a spot cash guarantee of satisfaction or money back. 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, at all druggists. The rainiest region in the world is the Khasia Hills, 200 miles north of the Bay of Bengal, where the annual precipitation frequently exceeds 400 inches. (Greenock, Scotland, had better look to her laurels, as one or two folks in our city thought all along the old town was the rainiest under the sun.)

For four years West Virginia has led the states in the amount of natural gas produced and supplied for consumption, most of it being piped to adjoining states.

Vary Cautious Birds.

One day in my walk I came upon two phoebes' nests under overhanging rocks, both with half fledged young in them, and in neither case were the parent birds in evidence. They did not give their secret away by setting up the hue and cry that nesting birds usually set up on such occasions. I finally saw them, as silent as shadows, perched near by, with food in their beaks, which they finally swallowed, as my stay was prolonged. And the nests, both on a level with my eye, were apparently filled only with a motionless mass of bluish mold. As I gently touched them, instead of four or five heads with open mouths springing up, the young only settled lower in the nest and disposed themselves in a headless, shapeless mass. The phoebe is evidently a very cautious bird, though no birds are more familiar about our porches and outbuildings.—John Burroughs in Atlantic Monthly.

The Way of the World.

"I was walking down the street with a friend of mine the other morning," relates a man who is more than ordinarily observant. "And on our way we met another man, who was evidently acquainted with my friend. My friend addressed him cordially, but he responded rather distantly, I thought. But I said nothing about it. The next morning I again walked downtown with the same friend. And again we met the man we had met the day before. This time it was he who spoke cordially, and my friend who answered coldly. Indeed, my friend came very near to cutting him dead. This time I needed an explanation of the mystery.

"'Are you paying him back for his coldness of yesterday?' I asked.

"'No,' answered my friend. 'You see, I have owed him money for some time. And last night I paid it.'"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

It Shocked Dickens.

Survivors of great railway accidents do not readily forget the experience. Charles Dickens did not, when on June 9, 1865, a train fell through the bridge at Staplehurst, England, and the carriage in which he was traveling hung over the side. He acted with great coolness and courage, helping to extricate the wounded and then scrambling back to rescue the manuscript of "Our Mutual Friend." But, though uninjured, he never recovered from the shock. Afterward, when traveling, as his daughter relates, "he would often suddenly fall into a paroxysm of fear, clutch the arms of the railway carriage, large beads of perspiration standing on his face and suffer agonies of terror." Dickens died on the anniversary of the accident, five years later.

Dewey on Farragut.

Farragut has always been my ideal of the naval officer—urbane, decisive, indomitable. Whenever I have been in a difficult situation or in the midst of such a confusion of details that the simple and right thing to do seemed hazy, I have often asked myself, "What would Farragut do?" In the course of the preparations for Manila bay I often asked myself this question, and I confess that I was thinking of him the night that we entered the bay and with the conviction that I was doing precisely what he would have done. Valuable as the training of Annapolis was, it was poor schooling beside that of serving under Farragut in time of war.—George Dewey's Autobiography.

FOR YOUNG FOLKS

A Queer Water Jug Seller on a Paris Boulevard.

BASQUE IN NATIVE DRESS.

Remarkable Race of People Who Dwell in France and Spain—A Jolly Game For Boys—Many Things That Children Like to Read About.

The odd looking little man and his heavily loaded little donkey is a Basque water jug peddler, and he was plying his trade on a Paris boulevard when the camera man took his picture. The jugs he sells possess the peculiar property of keeping liquids fresh and cool no matter how warm the weather.

A BASQUE WATER JUG PEDDLER.

They are made of a clay found in the Pyrenees mountains and are much sought for by the Parisians.

The Basques are a remarkable race of people, dwelling in the southwest corner of France and in the north of Spain, on both sides of the Pyrenees. They are supposed to be descendants of the ancient Iberians, who occupied Spain before the Celts. The Basques preserve their ancient language, former manners and national dances.

Feet in the Ring (Boys).

Divide the children into squads of about eight. For each squad draw on the ground a circle about two feet in diameter. Boy No. 1 comes forward, places one foot in the ring, bending the knee and having the weight of the body over this foot. He then folds his arms and waits the attack of boy No. 2, who, also having his arms folded, hops forward. No. 2 hops around No. 1, who keeps changing his front to where No. 2 is, until the latter finds a chance to attack No. 1, and while hopping, push him out of the circle. If he succeeds, he wins, and takes the circle, No. 3 coming forward to attack him, and so on. If, however, during the contest No. 2 gets both feet on the floor he loses and No. 3 then comes forward to attack No. 1. The player in the ring, so long as his foot is in the circle, may cause the attacker to fall by evading or dodging him. The arms must always remain folded and the pushing must be done with the shoulders and never with the raised arms. An exciting contest is had by putting two attackers against the one in the ring.

About Money.

Over 1,000 series of Greek coins, issued by independent cities, are said to exist.

In the fifth century B. C. refined copper is said to have been as highly prized as gold.

During the reign of Numa Pompilius, 700 B. C., an experiment was made with wooden money.

Brass money was coined in Rome by Servius Tullius as early as 578 B. C.

The Romans issued private or consular coins which bore the names of leading Roman families.

Julius Caesar was the first man who put his own image on a coin.

Aristotle says, "Money exists not by nature, but by law."

A Dutiful Boy Scout.

"I am a crossing watchman," writes a man from Philadelphia, "at Second and Girard avenue, and a cripple. I have a signal on a high post, and every evening I have to put a lighted lamp up there and take it down in the morning to refill it. It is hard work and risky for me, for I have only one leg. So there is a little scout who passes every morning at 6 o'clock, serving milk for his uncle. He takes my lamp down for me. He told me it was his duty—every scout was to do a kind act every morning of his life. Three cheers for the boy scouts!"—Jacob A. Riis in Outlook.

Peg Away!

Peg away, my lad; peg away
If you the prize would win.
'Tis only poor, faint hearted chaps
Who talk of giving in.

Success may be long in coming,
But come it surely will
To those who grind on steadily
At Perseverance mill.

Peg away, my lad, at your games.
Don't think they're not for you.
Consider the deeds of others
And show what you can do.

Should the task or game seem lost
Don't admit that you are "done,"
But play it out to the end, lad.
That's how success is won.

Yes, peg away all through your life.
Let that your motto be,
For steady, honest effort's bound
To bring the victory.

WOMAN TOOK FRIEND'S ADVICE

And Found Health in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Windom, Kansas.—"I had a displacement which caused bladder trouble and I was so miserable I didn't know what to do. I suffered from bearing down pains, my eyes hurt me, I was nervous, dizzy and irregular and had female weakness. I spent money on doctors but got worse all the time.

"A friend told me about the Pinkham remedies and I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and was cured. I cannot praise your remedies enough for I know I never would have been well if I had not taken it."—Miss MARY A. HORNER, Route No. 2, Box 41, Windom, Kansas.

Consider Well This Advice.

No woman suffering from any form of female troubles should lose hope until she has given Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial.

This famous remedy, the medicinal ingredients of which are derived from native roots and herbs, has for nearly forty years proved to be a most valuable tonic and invigorator of the female organism. Women everywhere bear willing testimony to the wonderful virtue of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

Two Readings.

A well known Parisian antiquary while on his holidays in Normandy came across an old farm which had a curious carving in the form of an armorial bearing over one of the stable doors. Beneath the carving was a wooden bar inscribed with a date. Examining it closely, he found the latter to be 1081. All his antiquarian passions were aroused, needless to say, and after some bargaining the farmer sold him the carving for quite a nice sum. The next day the farmer brought the trouvaille to the antiquary's villa. "This isn't what I bought!" exclaimed the purchaser. "It bears the date of 1801. I don't want it." "Excuse me, sir," replied the farmer, "it's the same, right enough. But the farmer who recently repaired it replaced the bar upside down, and I thought I ought to put it right for you." The antiquary was sporting enough not to go back on his bargain, but the facts of the case do not seem to speak highly of his antiquarian knowledge.—London Globe.

How to Make Better Cough Syrup than You Can Buy

A Family Supply, Saving $2 and Fully Guaranteed.

Sixteen ounces of cough syrup — as much as you could buy for $2.50—can easily be made at home. You will find nothing that takes hold of an obstinate cough more quickly, usually ending it inside of 24 hours. Excellent, too, for croup, whooping cough, sore lungs, asthma, hoarseness and other throat troubles.

Mix two cups of granulated sugar with one cup of warm water, and stir for two minutes. Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a 16-ounce bottle, then add the Sugar Syrup. It keeps perfectly. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

This is just laxative enough to help cure a cough. Also stimulates the appetite, which is usually upset by a cough. The taste is pleasant.

The effect of pine and sugar syrup on the inflamed membranes is well known. Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, rich in guaiacol and all the natural healing pine elements. Other preparations will not work in this formula.

The Pinex and Sugar Syrup recipe is now used by thousands of housewives throughout the United States and Canada. The plan has been imitated, but the old successful formula has never been equaled.

A guaranty of absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex, or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

JOKE ON MRS. NEWLYWED.

The Bride's First Dinner to Her Admiring Family.

The dear little Dresden-like bride had but recently returned from her wedding trip. For the time being, while the intricacies of housekeeping in a flat were mastered, romance was crowded out. The woman who sees and hears was invited to dine and found the bride in a most jubilant mood.

"The whole family came to dinner the other night," she confided. "I had a roast, etc. Everything was so tiptop they were surprised. Mamma said she didn't think I had it in me, but I showed them!

"And I'm getting so saving! Why, today I ordered half a watermelon for 30 cents. It was too much for us, but Will loves it. But later I passed another store and saw the dearest melon for 10 cents. I ordered it and canceled the other one. Wait till you see it. The slices will just fit those darling green plates that Luella gave me. I'll let Will cut it."

The watermelon was brought forth. Will made a slash and chuckled; little bride looked puzzled, and for a moment the woman who sees and hears longed to melt into obscurity.

TAN LEATHER SHOES.

An Original Treatment For This Fashionable Footwear.

Tan shoes, though pretty when new, are often a problem to keep in trim condition. Possibly this knowledge often deters some would be buyer from selecting them. When new they are apt to be scarred and have to be polished sooner than a pair of black shoes would under the same conditions. Polishing tan shoes darkens the leather, changes their appearance and takes away their fresh look. A girl recently originated a novel treatment for them which may prove a valuable suggestion to others. After melting paraffin which was left after sealing preserves she coated her shoes thoroughly with it, rubbing it in well. When the wax was dry she beated a cloth and polished the shoes with it. Apparently this treatment has made them stain proof, yet has not darkened nor hurt the leather.

SILVER CLEANING PAN.

A New Way to Accomplish an Old Household Task.

"To clean silver in such a way is plainly impossible," said a woman. She was like the good old farmer who stood looking straight at the giraffe and still declared, "There ain't no such animal."

However, this silver cleaning pan is about as practical a thing as ever was invented to do away with one of the most disagreeable chores of housekeeping.

The apparatus consists of an ordinary vessel made of sheet zinc, to the bottom of which is soldered a grating, made of tinned iron wires. The solution, one tablespoonful of baking soda and one tablespoonful of ordinary table salt dissolved in water and poured into the pan, generates a galvanic action which detarnishes silverware and jewelry when placed in the pan without action on the metal by simply acting on the tarnish. This action is rapid and removes the tarnish from the inside of hollow ware as well as deep recesses in embossed silver. This method doesn't take any of the silver away. That is the advantage over polishing. It simply reverses the process of oxidization, to which all silver is subject. Tarnish is not dirt and not a deposit. It is the color change of the surface of silver exposed to the atmosphere. Action of the silver cleaning pan is based on the electric relation of all metals, known as the electric potentiality of metals, which knowledge is as old as the knowledge of electricity itself. The cleaning action is based on this principle and brought about by the use of an electric current.

THE NEW CLEANER.

A Pickle Secret.

At last has been disclosed the secret of a housewife famous for her well flavored crisp pickles. She has herself divulged the secret of their crispness, which proves to be nothing more than the addition of fresh grated horseradish to the contents of the pickle jar.

Lacking In Distance.

The electric fan was invented by an electric engineer, to whom the idea came while experimenting with a propeller for an electric boat.

The inquisitive traveler kept poking his head out of the window of the car to the great annoyance of the conductor who several times stopped to warn him against the danger. At length he tapped the careless one on the shoulder and said:

"Pardon me, but this time I must insist that you withdraw your head."

Insolently the traveler spoke back over his shoulder without complying with the request:

"Why?"

"Oh," said the conductor, nettled, "we are coming to a bridge, and I don't want any of the girders damaged by your head."

Japan Censors Books.

In Japan the censorship of novels is not exercised by the libraries, but by a government official who is empowered to prosecute offending authors as well as forbid the sale of their books. Not long ago the author of a Japanese novel called "The Great City" was brought before the courts for giving too realistic a description of life in Tokyo. His counsel used the old arguments about the indefensible rights of literature and the ennobling of everything by art. But the case was given against the author. Even some of Moliere's works have been forbidden to circulate in Japan, the ground of offense being the lack of respect shown by wives toward their husbands and by sons toward their fathers.

A Merciful Farmer.

A young lady from the city was going one summer to make her first visit to a cousin in the country. At the station she was met by the cousin, and after a half hour's drive he told her they were approaching his farm.

In one of the broad fields that met the young lady's attentive eye stood a windmill, and gathered around it, some standing and some reclining, were several hogs.

"Well, that beats anything I ever heard of!" exclaimed the fair one. "I didn't know that you farmers were so considerate."

"What does?" queried the country cousin.

"That over yonder," replied the city girl, pointing a pretty finger. "Just think of having a fan out in the field to keep those hogs cool!"—Christian Endeavor World.

Courage of Despair.

Professor McCoy of Melbourne university in a book about snake experiments tells a strange story illustrating the courage of despair. Putting a mouse into a box that contained one of his captive cobras, he watched the reptile glide slowly toward it. The mouse shrank terrified into a corner, and then when the cobra's flattened head was within an inch of it it sprang into the air and alighted on the back of the neck of its foe. It sat there and clinched its sharp little teeth in the reptile's flesh. The cobra could not shake it off, and it bit deeper and deeper until the cobra lay dead.

An Irish Bull.

An Irishman was trying to lead a bull. He tied the rope to his wrist, and the bull took the lead. He took it with a vengeance. As the Irishman was flying around the corner a friend shouted, "Where are you going, Pat?" "I don't know," he replied. "Ask the bull."—Exchange.

Mangled Names.

I remember one London critic telling me, writes E. N. in the Birmingham Post, how he had wired to a Glasgow paper the news that the great Nikisch had just arrived and would conduct the London Symphony orchestra on such and such a date. The telegraph operator, as usual, spelled the unfamiliar name along the line of least resistance. The Glasgow subeditor, not being a musical man, had never heard of Nikisch, but, as the adjective "great" was prefixed to the name, he naturally assumed that he must be a Scotchman, so the Glasgow public was informed the next day that the great McKish had arrived in London.

I remember also a London colleague reduced to a state of collapse by discovering that he had been made to say that Andrew Black had sung "Ninepin Andrew" instead of "Non piu andrai."

For Sunday School Teachers.

A teacher in a mission Sunday school in a Scottish town has some interesting stories to tell, in the Missionary Record of the United Free church, of the answers which have come from infant lips to her Bible questions. Sometimes one gets a perfectly natural but wholly unexpected reply. Asked what Naaman did after washing in the Jordan before he returned to his native land, one mite gave the obvious answer, "Dry hisself." The class was told the story of the little Shunamite, his sunstroke and his restoration by the prophet, and wishing to inculcate gratitude the teacher asked what the mother would do when she got him back. "Pit a bannet on his heid," shouted immediately a practical youth.

Left to Itself Eczema Spreads

When left to itself, eczema, as a rule, runs on indefinitely. Even with careful treatment it is often obstinate in resisting curative measures.

The cause is often difficult to find, but you can readily obtain relief from the dreadful itching by the application of Dr. Chase's Ointment. This treatment cleanses the sores and soon sets up a process of healing which leads to complete cure.

Patient and persistent treatment is necessary in severe cases, but as you can readily see the improvement from day to day as Dr. Chase's Ointment is applied you will be encouraged to keep on until you have driven out the disease and restored natural, healthy skin.

Attention to the genral health is advisable in order that the cure may be lasting, but you can depend on Dr. Chase's Ointment to stop the itching and heal the skin. So well does it accomplish this that many cures it brings about are almost like miracles. Put it to the test and you will be surprised and delighted with the results.

Abuse of an Autograph Fiend.

Autograph hunting sometimes proves a profitable pursuit. A French bohemian of the second empire, Ludovic Picard, made a steady income out of it for some years. His most successful coup was accomplished with a letter in which he posed as "one of the unappreciated who is meditating suicide and seeks for counsel and aid in this hour of sore distress." This effusion drew a number of celebrities, including Beranger and Heine. Lacordaire sent ten closely written pages, which were promptly converted into cash. Dickens also fell a victim and took the trouble to answer in French. Eventually Picard was shown up in the press by Jules Sandeau and had to seek another occupation.—London Chronicle.

THE BURDENS OF AGE

The kidneys seem to be about the first organs to wear out and fail to properly perform their work. The result is weak, lame, aching back, rheumatic pains and failing eyesight. Many people of advanced years have recovered health and comfort by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. They ensure the healthful action of liver, kidneys and bowels.

Goethe and Stage Animals.

Goethe severed his connection with the Weimar theater owing to the appearance of an animal on the stage. For twenty-seven years he ruled there as a despotic director. "The direction," he wrote to his chief assistant, "acts according to its own views and not in the least according to the demands of the public. Once for all understand that the public must be controlled." When at length he forbade any expressions of approval or disapproval on the part of his public only the court and the Jena students continued to attend the theater.

The crash came when Duke Karl August invited an actor who had scored heavily with a performing poodle in "The Dog of Montargis" to play at Weimar. After the first rehearsal he declined to have anything more to do with a theater the boards of which had been desecrated by the presence of an animal.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Nose Tip Vaccination.

The young Japanese diplomat pointed to his father, the marquis.

"That's father," he said, "the old fellow with the saucer shaped scar on the tip of his nose. All Japs of the older generation have that scar."

"Yes?" said the debutante.

"Yes, it's a vaccination mark. In the old days, when compulsory vaccination first began, we Japs vaccinated everybody on the tip of the nose. Why? Well, because it was a good place, where there's no movement to rub off the scab, and also because a vaccination scar on the nose was easily identified by the medical officers of the government. A man didn't have to take off half his clothes in order to prove that he'd been vaccinated.

"Yes, the nose tip vaccination had its good points, but before the modern hankering after beauty it had to go."—New York Tribune.

Snapdragon and Halloween.

Many of our Halloween customs come to us from England and Scotland, and a most popular one is called the "snapdragon," which is brought in when refreshments are served, generally at the last before leaving the table. The lights are all turned out and the platter containing the snapdragon is brought in. Why it is thus named I know not, but it is made this way: Place large table raisins quite closely and evenly on the platter, sprinkle with salt and cover with good alcohol. Just before bringing in light the alcohol and a most ghastly greenish white light will be the result. Pass it around the table, and each guest is to try to grab a raisin from the flame. Now, don't ask me why and wherefore regarding this strange custom, for I do not know, only my earliest recollections of a Halloween party, and I regret to say that it is many years ago, we had a snapdragon, and an English lady told me how to make it. Sometimes ghost stories are told while the dragon burns on the table.—St Louis Globe-Democrat.

Changes.

"You will admit a wise man sometimes changes his mind?"

"Yes," replied Senator Sorghum. "He also changes his wardrobe. But in doing so he avoids popular attention as much as possible."—Washington Star.

HEART WAS SO BAD Could Not Do Her Housework

Many women get run down and are unable to look after their household duties owing to the heart action becoming impaired or the nervous system unstrung. To all such sufferers Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills will give prompt and permanent relief.

Mrs. Thomas Melville, Saltcoats, Sask., writes:—"I thought it my duty to write and tell you how much your Heart and Nerve Pills did for me. My heart was so bad I could not sleep, eat nor walk about the house. I could not do my housework at all, and what my husband could not do had to go undone. I had two small children depending on me besides three men to cook for, and it worried me to not be able to do anything. My husband had taken some of your pills some years ago, and insisted on me trying them, so I started, and before I had taken them two weeks I was considerably better, and before I had taken two boxes I was doing my own work again. Any one suffering from heart or nerve trouble should just give your pills a trial. If anyone cares to write me I will gladly give them all the information I know concerning your wonderful medicine."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50 cents per box, or three boxes for $1.25, at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

THE COLLEGE GIRL ATHLETE

SPORTS FOR THE MODERN COLLEGE GIRL.

SINCE most of the colleges for women have put the ban on intercollegiate games to a large extent the fact that college girls of to-day are quite as eager to excel in athletic games as are their brothers of the men's universities is frequently little known outside of the families of the girls who are straining eagerly to make a record in basketball or hockey or to achieve distinction in track athletics. Oddly enough, it is when they are taking part in the very sports which before the days of the college girl would have been looked upon as entirely outside of the realm of woman that the college girl of to-day is most closely guarded from the eyes of the public. While she is permitted to race about the field madly struggling to bring success to her class, or to her college in the few instances where intercollegiate games are allowed, while her clear soprano notes, carrying the defiance of her class clean across the campus, rise unchecked by faculty or parents, while she jumps and races and hurdles to her heart's content, still all this freedom is permitted only within the shielding enclosure of the college, and in many instances no masculine eye, save that perhaps of the professor of the university or her even more privileged masculine trainer, is ever permitted to behold her at her sports.

This conventual seclusion entailed upon her even more strictly at many of the women's universities than in some of the most exclusive private schools which are supposed to stand for a more conservative education adds a quaint note of old fashioned "prunes and prisms" to her emancipation. She may play baseball, but not without a chaperon. She may hurdle, but nobody shall see her at it. She may wear bloomers, but oh, what a twittering of soft, excited voices there would be upon that college campus should aught but femininity seek to gaze upon those bloomers! For all that "Muggsy" McGraw knows, there may be growing up behind the sheltering wall of some woman's university a pitcher far more formidable than "Christy" Mathewson, or a base runner who will make "Ty" Cobb look like the "every-stop local" when the express train goes by, but since no opportunity for seeing these youthful wonders of the girls' college diamond is offered to Mr. McGraw he is forced to wait patiently to see what the future will bring forth.

As for the man with a camera, "woe be unto him" who ventures to appear with this hated instrument on the field of a woman's college on athletic day. He is warned off with all the swiftness which characterizes the method of a park policeman who discovers a particularly small infant invading the grass, and his only redress is to betake himself to the nearest knothole in the fence and snap them as they run.

Although the department of physical culture at Barnard College, Columbia University, is so inadequately provided for from the standpoint of physical equipment that it is forced to depend upon the kindness of the neighboring institution of Teachers College for the use of a gymnasium, it is nevertheless a very important department of the college, and during the first two years of a girl's course at Barnard she is obliged to take regular work in the department and to make a required number of points in physical training. Her failure to do this is looked upon with no more tolerance by the college authorities than if she had failed in mathematics or the classics, and, although there are interchangeable activities which will count for her as physical training quite as much as those which are prescribed by the course, still the student is not permitted to go her own sweet way, even in the realm of sports, but must make a strict accounting to the head of the department for every occasion when she substitutes one exercise for another.

When a girl enters Barnard she is thoroughly examined in the department of physical education and advised as to the physical work and treatment she should go in for in order to improve her condition and to develop her body so that it will be an instrument for wholesome self-expression which is the ultimate aim of the department in all of its training. After this Miss Mary Porter Beegle, the head of the department, consults with each girl once a month, so as to keep in touch with her general condition.

During the first two years there is regular instruction in hygiene and physiology. Special corrective treatment is advised for those who have poor posture or spinal curvature, and for girls who are suffering with weak hearts special classes are held, so that they may get precisely the exercise which they require without the danger of going a little further than their condition permits.

Games and dancing are the principal means by which the girls of Barnard achieve physical development. The exercises through which this development is to be obtained must be not only useful, in Miss Beegle's opinion, but they must also be extremely interesting to the girls, and they must be possible to girls who live in the cities. One of the particular aims of Barnard, because it is the college most patronized by girls of the city, is to introduce the girls to sports and games in which they may take part after they leave college. That they should form the strongest habits of taking these enjoyable exercises is deemed absolutely necessary among city girls, who, finding fewer opportunities for outdoor exercises at their doors than do the girls who live in less closely settled places, might be inclined to drop all forms of outdoor exercise on leaving college unless they have become really devoted to some particular kind of game.

The students' Athletic Association is extremely active in organizing the sports of Barnard, for which credit is given in the physical education department, although they are conducted entirely as games. The major sports of the Athletic Association are baseball, hockey and basketball. Of these basketball has the largest number of followers, and the game is played all through the year in the Teachers College gymnasium.

Miss Marjory Hillas, who is the president of the Athletic Association, is one of the best all round athletes of Barnard. She is captain of the varsity basketball team and also captain of the junior basketball team. She is also the star catcher of the varsity baseball nine and won the honors for discus throwing in the last Greek games.

Miss Winifrid Boegehold is the vice president of the Athletic Association Miss Carrol Weiss is secretary and Miss Pauline Gubner is treasurer.

The varsity basketball team plays six games a year, its opponents being the Teachers College team and the Barnard Alumnae team. The four class teams have as captains, in addition to Miss Hillas, the junior captain, Miss Helen Alexander, freshman; Miss Ruth Salon, sophomore, and Miss Winifrid Boegehold, senior.

Miss Lucy Petri is the varsity baseball nine's star pitcher, and Miss Edna Hess, as second base, and Miss Eleanor Mayer, first and third base, are among the best of the Barnard baseball players. The baseball schedule includes six games annually, also played with Teachers College and the alumnae nine.

Miss Dorothy Stanbrough is captain of the varsity field hockey team, whose record is a matter of great pride to the Barnard undergraduate body, as the team won all but one of the autumn games.

Among the other games and sports in which the students take an active part are running, hurdling, high jumping, discus throwing, swimming, riding, skating and tennis.

All work in the first two years leads toward the big contest for class supremacy, which takes place in April. One of the favorite champions of the junior class is Miss Helen Gilfeanbeau, who has held the tennis honors since she entered college. Miss Eleanor Halsell, whose brother is captain of the Columbia crew, holds the record for shot putting, and Miss Sallie Piro, who was graduated last June, has not yet been surpassed in racing, high jumping and hurdling by any of the present undergraduate body.

In addition to the usual interclass competition, where records are made on speed, length of jump, &c., Barnard has a competition peculiar to itself, called the Greek games, in which all students taking part appear in Greek costumes and where the laurels go not so much to those who can jump the furthest or the highest or who can run the swiftest, but to those who display the most nearly perfect form as well as the greatest amount of skill in their performances. Laurel wreaths are bestowed upon the victors in these games, which are among the most beautiful and the most picturesque exhibitions of this nature that are to be seen in this country.

Dancing is one of the important features of physical training at Barnard. The dance is taught by Miss Beegle from a basis of rhythm, feeling, expression and idea. It is not merely a series of graceful poses copied without understanding, but is an art form especially devised to express something which is felt by the dancer. The theory on which the movements of these dances are based is that they shall all follow the natural movements of the body. The accent is on the upward lift of the body. The chest is held high and the movements are large and free. Miss Beegle has found that dancing has more beneficial effects on girls than other forms of exercise. This kind of dancing taught at Barnard is believed to have a beneficial effect upon the circulation, the respiration, the digestion and the muscular development of the body, as well as enhancing grace of movement.

During the dancing lessons every effort is made to awaken the girls to the real joy of dancing, and especially to the joy of self-expression through the dance.

Until Christmas time the Barnard athletes play out of doors on their campus and on sunny days in the winter they also take to the open air for their sports. Skating is always considered an equivalent for other forms of exercise, but it is in winter in the Teachers College gymnasium that basketball flourishes at its best. Of course, it is pretty hard for a whole college of girls to be obliged to go visiting when they want to have their daily exercise, and that is why Barnard girls have now come to the conclusion that it would be a very good idea to have a gymnasium of his own. The land is already in the possession of the college as a part of the campus and may be used for this purpose without destroying the opportunity for outdoor play. With a view to raising money for the gymnasium the spring game contest will be an admission affair this year, as it was last.

A BRIEF CHAT ON LIVE TOPICS OF INTEREST TO WOMEN.

THE girl who is in business must keep a more watchful eye on herself than any other kind of a girl because the minute she becomes undesirable in character she becomes undesirable as an employe. The girl who works in her own home may make herself disagreeable to her family and her friends by unpleasant speeches and habits, but she does not endanger her own livlihood and perhaps the living of others dependent on her by these same manners as the business girl does.

One of the most pernicious of habits for the working woman to fall a victim to is gossip. It is woman's real nature to gossip. We may deny it under the critical ears of the stronger sex. We may even deny it to ourselves, but, nevertheless, the average woman loves to gossip with or about her friends, and deep down in her heart she knows that this love is really a part of her. She may call it a chat or a little talk, she may disguise it under the number of fancy names, but gossip under any name is a pernicious fault.

The gossiping habit may be forgiven in the housekeeper, whose ordinary world is bounded by the four walls of her home. She learns of the doings of the outside world principally through the papers and the news brought to her by her friends. If she is a spiteful gossip, she is only despised by all her acquaintances, and even the good natured gossip comes in for a great deal of adverse criticism by the more conservative of her friends.

However, in a home worker gossip is only a failing, a weakness, which should be eliminated, but is often excused if the talker has other more lovable qualities.

In the business woman, however, the habit of gossiping is not only excessively foolish, but dangerous as well. The housewife has nothing to lose by her gossip, except the good will of her friends, but the office worker runs the risk of losing not only these things, but her position as well.

No man is willing to have an employe in his office who talks too much. This is especially true of the private secretary or stenographer. He knows that all his business affairs are open books to his stenographer. His letters must all go through her hands. It is absolutely essential, therefore, that his employes are trustworthy, that he can rely on their silence as to his affairs.

The stenographer who forms the habit of gossiping about her employer and his business little realizes what she is doing. In the first place every woman should cultivate a feeling of loyalty to the firm for which she is working and to each member of the staff. She should keep faith with them at least to the extent of refraining from talking about personal affairs to the other workers and the employes of other concerns.

The reason so many business men engage male stenographers for their private secretaries is because women talk too much and they are afraid to trust them with the private letters of the firm. The working girl who is wise makes up her mind that this need never be true in her case. She proves to her employer that she not only can and will keep his business and personal secrets, but is also loyal in every way to the interests of his business.

She should not fall into the habit of gossiping even about her fellow workers, for her employer will probably think, and justly, that a girl who discusses her girl friends will certainly not be silent about his affairs. So each worker should keep a firm hold on her tongue and guard each word as if it were a pearl.

IN these days when the decollete gown is worn to a greater extent than ever before, it behooves the girl who cares a straw for her good looks to see that her neck is in perfect condition before she bares it to public view. Half the beauty of a low cut frock is ruined by an ugly throat. And no throat need be ugly, at least so far as the whiteness and texture of the skin is concerned, provided that the worker is willing to take a little trouble in order to make her throat beautiful.

Of course if nature has endowed one with neck and shoulders of an ugly shape there is little that can be done. But this does not mean that a too fat or a too thin neck need be tolerated, for both conditions can be decidedly improved by the right treatment.

For the thin, scrawny neck nothing is as good as a massage with cocoa butter or olive oil. This sounds disagreeable, but as a matter of fact the treatment is very pleasant and the effect decidedly beneficial. The cocoa butter or oil should be rubbed in at night, the neck and shoulders first having been thoroughly cleaned with warm water and the pores of the skin having been opened by the application of cloths wrung out in very hot water. Then the oil or butter, which ever is decided upon, is rubbed in gently, but thoroughly, in a way that would be apt to rub away any fleshy covering that already was there. It goes without saying that the skin may be kept in the best condition by the sparing use of any nourishing grease.

An Early Postal Experiment.

As long ago as the seventeenth century the attempt was made to prepay letters by using stamps. In 1653 Paris tried a system that even provided pillar boxes for the letters, which were to have a billet, price 1 sou, attached to the letter or parcel. The experiment met the usual experience of the pioneer—ridicule. Mice were dropped into the letter boxes, and when the letters came to be collected it was found that the animals had made a hearty meal of them. As nobody could be sure of the fate of the parcels, the experiment came to a sudden end.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

THE TWISTED VINE

A Story of the Orinoco

By CLARISSA MACKIE

It was very quiet in that jungle along the upper reaches of the Orinoco river.

Charles Goodell, orchid hunter for a rich Philadelphia collector, stood on the high bank of the river and looked longingly up at the cluster of mauve orchids clinging to the top of a rotted tree trunk that overhung the river. It was a lofty tree, and, bowed with disease and age, it bent its head, decked with the delicate butterfly blossoms, over the slothful river that it would bridge when it crashed down in the hurricane season.

Goodell's Carib Indians had refused to climb the tree and were now squatting sullenly around a little fire on which a bird was cooking.

The mauve orchids tempted Goodell beyond discretion. He decided to mount the tree and secure them himself, although he knew the risk he ran in doing so.

If the tree should fall under his weight he would be flung into the river, a prey to the vicious alligators or the venomous snakes that abounded

But the securing of this particular specimen would not only be a triumph, but it meant a liberal sum of money added to the store he was saving up for a home and the girl he expected to make his wife on his return.

He had examined the orchid through his fieldglasses, and he was convinced that it was the long lost specimen that Mr. Clay, his employer, had offered $10,000 for. There were the delicate mauve outer leaves with the hearts of flaming crimson and orange, with marvelous stripings of black.

There were two ways of reaching the mauve orchids. One was to climb the tree trunk with the risk of weighting it down to destruction when he reached the upper part. This way was hindered by a tangle of great vines that must be cut through with a machete before he could reach the coveted prize.

The other way was to climb up the great twisted vine that hung downward from the very point where the orchids clung to the tree. The vine swung almost within his reach now, and its lower end touched the surface of the water.

"The twisted vine," he decided at last, and, tossing aside his hat, he pulled on heavy gauntlets, saw that his leather puttees covered every exposed portion of his lower limbs and took hold of the twisted vine.

His Indians gathered around the tree with the eager curiosity of children in the performance of his difficult feat. As he pulled himself up by the strength of his massive arms and shoulders his legs and feet were twined about the thick vine.

Suddenly the Indians uttered shrill cries of alarm and disappeared in the jungle.

Goodell, glancing down, saw nothing to frighten them, and, noting that his specimens were safe, went stolidly up on his perilous climb; the vine swayed now and then under his weight, but its upper tendrils appeared to be firmly fastened to the tree trunk, while its roots were strongly intrenched in the river bottom.

Goodell did not know when he felt a change in the character of the vine up which he was climbing with the orchids ever growing nearer to his eager touch.

First the twisted vine had been slightly rough, but its bark appeared to be smooth now, sometimes almost slippery to the touch, and once Goodell would have sworn that it moved. But it was cold and clammy. Once his face touched it, and he drew back with a feeling of sickening revulsion. He felt faint and dizzy, and he closed his eyes.

When he opened them again it was to confront the real horror of the situation.

No wonder his Caribs had fled in terror. Later they would come back, peering fearfully to gain possession of the specimen cases because their employer would never need them again.

THE BULLET WENT OVER ITS HEAD.

The heavy vine twisted upward to the orchids now only fifteen feet above his head. He looked at them with starting eyes because swaying above them was the monstrous, threatening head of a boa constrictor whose great body was twisted around the vine to which he clung.

How his keen eyes had failed to detect the body of the great snake as it twisted up and around the large trunk of the giant vine he never knew.

Death stared him in the face. If he dropped into the river the monster's tail could catch him ere he fell, and, failing in that, the deadly water serpents would put him out of existence.

Already the body moved sluggishly, but his fascinated eyes did not leave the hideous head among the orchids. The flat eyes regarded him with cold hatred; the ugly mouth grinned.

He heard the distant shouts of his Indians. Even if they had come to him they could not help him.

His first downward movement would be the signal for the beginning of the end.

He closed his eyes and prayed. He thought of his mother and of Alice Blake, the girl he was to marry.

His grip loosened on the twisted vine, so dreadfully imbued with life; his feet slipped.

The vine moved.

He looked up and saw that the ugly head was lowered.

Again he slipped down and again the vine moved.

Cold sweat broke out on his body and his face dripped.

Now he bent his body and looked down at the tail of the serpent. It had loosened from the vine and was moving to and fro like the pendulum of a clock.

Death above and death below! Well, he would die fighting.

His hand found his revolver, and he wriggled around until he could see the head again.

It had flattened itself among the orchids and was regarding him coldly as before. He would wait until it lifted again, and when its throat was presented to view he would try to blow the head off. It would be difficult at that distance with a single shot, and the death agonies of the reptile might involve his own death.

Goodell closed his eyes again and muttered a prayer as the strongest men do in moments of danger. The head was lifting again and resumed its swaying movement. Higher, higher it went, until the mottled throat was revealed.

Spat!

The bullet went over its head. His arm was unsteady; he must try again. Again he raised the automatic revolver, and again it sounded on the heavy jungle air.

Spat!

The head of the reptile wagged violently and all outlines were lost as the bullet found its mark. The great body trembled violently, the tail lashed to and fro, and the vine slipped downward.

Charles Goodell slipped down, his eyes ever on the horrid specter of the descending head.

Once he glanced below and saw that the tail was lashing the water. He took courage and slipped farther down. The great body of the dying reptile came down with him.

Three feet above the river bank he could stand the horror no longer, and he dropped, clutching at a young green vine that swung harmlessly near.

The green vine held and broke his fall. He swung violently to and fro, and when a favorable opportunity presented itself he loosened his hold and fell upon the ground close beside his heap of specimen cases. Then he fainted away for the first time in his adventurous life.

He recovered consciousness almost immediately, for the shots had brought back his frightened Indians, and they gathered about him with scared looks and pointing fingers.

He took out his emergency flask and restored in a measure his shattered nerves. He sent them to the river to look at the dead carcass of the boa constrictor, but always they came back and gazed at him as though upon a spirit from another world.

Looking at his watch, he found that three hours had passed since he had climbed the twisted vine. It had seemed like fifteen minutes. No wonder he felt like an old man under the consuming fear of those three horrible hours.

The continued wonder of his guides excited his impatience, and he drew out a pocket mirror and looked at himself.

His face peered at him pale and haggard. His abundant hair was white as snow.

The wondering Indians now climbed the tree without protest, and the mauve orchids which had blanched Goodell's hair to obtain were packed away in the specimen cases, and the little expedition turned down the river.

Many weeks later Charles Goodell appeared in Philadelphia and delivered his consignment of valuable orchids to his employer. But the case of mauve orchids came last.

"How about these?" demanded Mr. Clay eagerly.

"Those," said Goodell slowly, "are the price of my nerve and a portion of my youth. I shall never hunt another orchid, Mr. Clay. The price of the mauve orchids is $25,000."

"I will pay it," said the rich man quickly, "and afterward you may tell me the reason why you value them so highly."

So Charles Goodell told him the story of the twisted vine as I have told it to you.

Two Doctors Said He Had Consumption.

DR. WOOD'S NORWAY PINE SYRUP CURED HIM.

Mrs. John Elliff, St. John's West, Ont., writes:—"My little boy was very bad with whooping cough and severe cold. I went to two doctors with him, and they said he had Consumption. I could get no relief for him, he would cough all night long, with a dry hacking cough.

I was persuaded to try Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and was surprised to see the first bottle did him good. I have had five bottles, and they cured him, he rests well at night now, and is well and hearty. If he gets a cold we always give him Pine Syrup and he is soon better. I did not think I could raise him, but I am thankful to say Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup saved him from being a consumptive."

Too much stress cannot be laid upon the admonition to all persons affected by the earlier stages of throat and lung trouble, as failure to take hold at once will cause many years of suffering, and in the end that terrible scourge "Consumption."

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is without an equal for all affections of the Throat and Lungs.

THE MODERN CARPET OF BAGDAD

THERE are few people who do not know the story of the wonderful carpet on which the owner had but to sit, wish to be at some place and, lo! immediately he found himself there.

Some agents of this nature would be appreciated by many a manufacturer in jumping the demand for his product into a thousand places, a thousand miles away from his factory. Apparently to such a man there is no means of "getting there" and placing his name and his goods right into that territory, except by slow, laborious bit-by-bit acquaintanceship—and mouth-to-mouth testimonials.

But he has overlooked the modern Carpet of Bagdad.

It is Newspaper Advertising.

Fanciful? you say?

Did you ever hear of Edwards' Soups? Well, the genial old cook who forms the trade mark just jumped right from Ireland to a thousand places in Canada in a week—on the Carpet of Newspaper Advertising.

Ever hear of Tillson's Oats? The "braw Scot" who stands for this product stepped over night, as it were, from a small town in Ontario to practically every town and village in Canada.

Wrigley's Gum—Sunshine Furnaces—Comfort Soap—all have taken advantage of this Modern Carpet of Bagdad—Newspaper Advertising.

If you are doing a local business talk over your advertising problems with the Advertising Department of this newspaper.

If you are doing a provincial or national business it would be well for you to have the counsel and assistance of a good advertising agency.

A list of capable advertising agents will be sent you on request, without cost or obligation, by the Secretary of Canadian Press Association, Room 99, Lumsden Building, Toronto.

TO THE MANUFACTURERS OF CANADA:

If you have a name and a product that you wish placed in demand throughout Canada, take advantage at once of the modern carpet of Bagdad—Newspaper Advertising.

Such Ingratitude!

Briggs—So Mudge is getting better? Braggs—Yes. He will soon be all right now. But, talking about sells, you know we had nearly $100 raised to put up a nice monument for him, as no one thought he could recover. And now he comes round and wants to borrow it to help pay his doctor's bill. What do you think of that?

Suitable Motto.

A newly rich Englishwoman once consulted a friend about having a coat of arms. She explained that her husband was a pork butcher, but he had royal warriors among his ancestors.

"Well," said the waggish friend, "how would you like the motto 'The pen is mightier than the sword?'"

Famous For Its Wines.

Jerez, Spain, is famous for its wines No place in the world has been able to produce sherry like Jerez. This is due to the climate and soil. The vineyards in Jerez are planted in a white argillaceous soil, with a good deal of lime in the clay. It is a stiff soil. The heat in summer is intense, the winter rainfall heavy, and the atmosphere almost always full of moisture. The sherry of the past has been a natural product of the white grape grown in this calcareous soil, in the humid air, with plenty of winter rain and summer heat. In good sherry there is no sugar added to increase the alcoholic fermentation, nor is the wine "baked" in an oven at all. The grape takes up sufficient saccharine matter and the juice does its own fermentation, aided by the natural heat of the climate.

He Couldn't Help It.

"Dear me," remarked the good-looking lady visitor to the superintendent of the lunatic asylum, "what a vicious look that woman we just passed in the corridor gave me. Is she dangerous?"

"Yes, at times," replied the other, evasively.

"But why do you allow her such freedom then?"

"Can't help it," was the answer.

"But isn't she an inmate under your control?"

"No, she's not under my control; she's my wife."

SOAP ON YOUR HAIR CAUSES DANDRUFF; SCALP GETS DRY, THEN HAIR FALLS OUT

Girls! Get a 25 cent bottle and try a "Danderine Hair Cleanse"

After washing your hair with soap always apply a little Danderine to the scalp to invigorate the hair and prevent dryness. Better still, use soap as sparingly as possible, and instead have a "Danderine Hair Cleanse." Just moisten a cloth with Danderine and draw it carefully through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will remove dust, dirt and excessive oil. In a few moments you will be amazed, your hair will not only be clean, but it will be wavy, fluffy and abundant, and possess an incomparable softness and lustre.

Besides cleansing and beautifying the hair, one application of Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; stimulates the scalp, stopping itching and falling hair. Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating and life-producing properties cause th hair to grow long, strong and beutiful.

Men! Ladies! You can surely have lots of charning hair. Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and tryit.

COMPLICATION ARISES.

Premier Whitney Suffering From Inflamed Knee.

TORONTO, Jan. 29.—"Sir James has rested well to-day. He has been sleeping quietly for two or three hours. Some swelling with redness appeared in his left knee this afternoon, with some fever. He is taking nourishment well."

This was the bulletin issued by Dr. Alexander McPhedran last night. The inflammation in the knee, he said, indicated some new disorder, the nature of which they were not quite sure. Consequently there was a possibility of a change for the worse today. The same condition appeared while Sir James was in New York, and at the time the doctors thought it was rheumatism, but it passed away. In the present weak condition of the Premier any infection is to be feared.

Otherwise, Dr. McPhedran said, there was little change from the previous day. If anything, Sir James was looking a little better.

HOUSE OPENS FEB. 18.

Ontario Assembly Will Convene With Hon. Mr. Foy Leading.

TORONTO, Jan. 29.—The Ontario Legislature has been summoned to meet on Feb. 18. This announcement was made after a Cabinet Council yesterday, and the proclamation from the Lieutenant-Governor will issue at once. The House is usually opened on a Tuesday, but the date is put back one day this year to meet the convenience of all parties concerned.

Sir James Whitney will not lead the House this session. Hon. J. J. Foy, Attorney-General, as senior member of the Cabinet, will have charge of the Government program. The absence of the Prime Minister from the Legislative Assembly of a province is not unusual. Hon. Walter Scott, Premier of Saskatchewan, recently took a prolonged vacation owing to ill-health, and was absent for an entire session of the House.

WARNING TO CANADA.

Dominion Should Avoid Rash Legislation Says ex-Pres. Taft.

TORONTO, Jan. 29.—A warning to Canada to pause before emulating some of the United States in adopting the "nostrums" of excessive popular government was uttered in Toronto last night by William Howard Taft in his address at the University Convocation Hall. Mr. Taft had little but ill to say of the initiative, the referendum and the recall, holding that the best practical application of the theory of government by the peoples lies in a rule by a minority which adequately represents the majority.

W. H. TAFT.

Mr. Taft saw grave danger of the devices of direct action being enthusiastically received by voters of limited intellect when skillfully proselytized. "They are catching proposals," he said, "because it is difficult to convince people that they are not competent to do anything, and to pass on complicated laws or to discuss nice constitutional questions and to vote right upon them does not appeal to their self-love or to their appreciation of their own capacity.

Mr. Taft, who is in Toronto on a two-day visit, was warmly welcomed by a large audience.

Here is the Secret of Long Life

While looking forward to health and long life it is possible that you are unaware of the conditions necessary to attain healthful old age. Careful eating, and consequent preservation of the health and vitality of the digestive and excretory organs, is of the greatest importance.

Overeating is the usual cause of torpid, sluggish liver action, and when the liver fails additional work is thrown on the kidneys and they break down. Kidney disorders are the great source of suffering in old age. Rheumatism, bodily pains, aching arms and legs, backache and lumbago are the result.

By the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to regulate the liver, kidneys and bowels, as occasion requires, you not only overcome the suffering, inconvenience and unpleasantness of attacks of biliousness, indigestion and constipation, but you actually prolong life by keping these organs in good, healthful condition. This medicine is a wonderful source of comfort for people in old age.

OFFICIALS RESIGN.

Government of Alsace-Lorraine Quits In a Body.

STRASSBURG, Alsace-Lorraine, Jan. 29.—Baron Zorn Von Bulach, Secretary of States, announced in the Diet yesterday that the entire civil government of Alsace-Lorraine had resigned as a result of the difficulty which recently arose between the civil and military authorities at Zabern.

Berlin Not Surprised.

BERLIN, Jan. 29. — The resignation yesterday of Governor-General Charles Von Wedel, and the Alsace-Lorraine Ministry, excites no surprise in Berlin, as it is known that the Governor-General at his audience with Emperor William last week emphasised his strong disapproval of the manner in which the military authorities had handled the Zabern incident, and at the same time also tendered his resignation to His Majesty.

Hold-Up Attempt Fails.

ZANESVILLE, Ohio, Jan. 29.—An attempt to rob Baltimore & Ohio passenger train No. 105 was frustrated near here yesterday morning by passengers.

Four men boarded the train at Bellaire, Ohio, and when near here one of them attempted to rob a woman passenger, while the other three demanded money from other passengers. Persons in the car went to the woman's assistance in such numbers that the robber was captured, while the other three jumped from the train. At the police station the man gave his name as Harry Warner, but refused to tell anything about himself.

Damage Suit for Dismissal.

LONDON, Ont., Jan. 29.—Charles Jeffrey Alexander Lefroy, who was recently asked for his resignation from the position of secretary of the London Club, yesterday commenced action against the London Club Association to recover $5,000 damages for alleged wrongful dismissal.

Eva Booth Very Ill.

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—Eva Booth, head of the Salvation Army in this country, who for more than a week past has been ill in the Salvation Army barracks here after a nervous breakdown in Elmira, was reported last night to be in a grave condition. She suffered an attack of influenza, which developed into pleurisy and tonsilitis, intestinal troubles have complicated her case, giving grounds for anxiety.

QUIT MEAT WHEN KIDNEYS BOTHER

Take a Glass of Salts if Your Back Hurts or Bladder Troubles You

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which excites the kidneys, they become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood, then we get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessnesan durinary disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, stop eating meat and get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been neds for generations to flush and stimulate the kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active, and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

THE MARKETS

CHICAGO, Jan. 28.—A fear that a predicted cold wave might bring disaster to the winter crop had a good deal to do today with a bulge in the price of wheat. The market closed nervous at an advance of ⅝c net. Corn showed a gain of ⅝c to 1⅛c and oats a rise of ⅛c to ⅜c. In provisions, the outcome carried from 2½c decline to an upturn of 10c.

WINNIPEG GRAIN MARKET.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 28.—Trading on the wheat market in futures was very quiet, transactions being few and far between. Prices opened steady, following which there was a fractional advance on stronger Liverpool cables and in sympathy with American markets. Over the winter wheat belt of the southwest the temperature has dropped somewhat, causing considerable alarm. Wheat opened unchanged to ⅛c higher, and closed ⅛c higher for all months. Oats closed unchanged to ⅛c up. Barley unchanged. Flax ⅛c higher.

CATTLE MARKETS

UNION STOCK YARDS.

TORONTO, Jan. 28.—Receipts of live stock at the Union Yards were 51 cars, comprising 493 cattle, 1956 hogs, 98 sheep and 208 calves.

Butchers

One load good to choice butchers', 1270 lbs., sold at $8.15; good butchers', $7.25 to $7.60; medium, $7 to $7.25; common, $6 to $6.50; choice cows, $6.50 to $6.75; good, $6 to $6.25; medium, $5.50 to $5.75; common, $4.50 to $5; choice bulls, $6.75 to $7; good bulls, $6 to $6.25; common bulls, $5.50 to $5.75.

Stockers and Feeders

There was a light delivery of stockers and feeders. Prices remained steady. Choice steers, $7 to $7.25; good steers, $6.50 to $6.75; stockers, $5.50 to $6.25.

Milkers and Springers

A moderate supply of milkers and springers sold at firm prices, ranging from $55 to $90; the bulk selling at $60 to $75.

Veal Calves

Receipts of calves were light, not being enough to supply the demand. Choice calves sold at $10.50 to $11.50; good, $9 to $10; medium, $7.50 to $8.50; common and rough, $5.00 to $6.50.

Sheep and Lambs

Receipts of sheep and lambs were light, only 98 lambs, but there were some heavy lambs held over from Tuesday. Sheep, light ewes, $6.50 to $7; heavy ewes, $5.50 to $6; rams, $5.25 to $6; heavy lambs, $8 to $8.75; good to choice lambs, $9 to $9.50.

Hogs.

Hog prices were higher. Selects fed and watered sold at $9.25 to $9.50, $9.75 weighed off cars, and $9 f.o.b.

MONTREAL LIVE STOCK.

MONTREAL, Jan. 28.—The supply of cattle today was much larger than was generally expected by the trade, as there was very little improvement in the demand from butchers and packers, an easier feeling prevailed in the market and prices were generally lower, but even at the lower range the trade was slow. The top price realized for choice steers was $8, but the bulk of the trade was done in good stock at $7.25 to $7.75, while the lower grades sold from $6 to $7 per 100 pounds. The demand for butchers' cows and bulls was rather limited.

There was no change in the small meats market, prices being steady on small offerings. Lambs sold at $8 and sheep at $5 to $6 per 100 pounds. The demand for calves was fairly good at prices ranging from $3 to $12 each as to size and quality. The tone of the market for Ontario and Quebec hogs was

Farm and Dairy Market Report

Toronto, Monday, Jan. 26.—If one were to judge by the bank reports he would say that business in Canada must be in a flourishing condition. The annual report of the Bank of Commerce, published in this issue, shows that that institution has had a record year. Other banks have similar reports to hand. It would seem, are specially favored. Business men generally do not reflect the optimistic spirit that newspaper reporters are endeavoring to inculcate. The truth of the matter is that the business this last few months has not been up to the mark, and retailers will be obliged to carry large stocks over. Money too is still tight, with call loans steady at six and one-half per cent.

The farmer, however, has been enjoying record prices. During the past week the general tendency has been to lower levels, but not to any appreciable extent except in the case of live stock, where the falling off is quite noticeable.

WHEAT

A reported falling off of 32,000,000 bus. in the Australian wheat crop has not had as much effect on the market as was anticipated. The advance of half a cent in the past week has been only a reasonable and normal one. Quotations now are: No. 4 Northern, 86c; No. 3, 84½c; all-rail, 4½c more; Ontario No. 2, 87c to 88c outside; 91c to 92c here.

COARSE GRAINS

Half a cent has been clipped off of Western oats in the past week, and an equal amount added to the Ontario oats. Buckwheat has taken the most decided jump of any grain. Quotations follow: Oats, C.W. No. 2, 40½c; No. 3, 39½c; Ontario No. 2, 35c; corn, 70c to 74c; buckwheat, 70c to 73c; malting barley, 50½c to 53c; No. 3 feed, 47c; No. 4, 44½c; rejected, 38½c; feed, 38c.

Montreal reports 14 car loads of United States cold storage eggs purchased by local concerns: Straight cold storage, 30c to 31c; selects, 34c to 35c; new laids, 40c.

Quotations on dressed poultry are: Fowl, 12c to 15c; alive, 12c to 14c; dressed spring chickens, 16c to 18c; alive, 13c to 16c; geese, 13c to 15c; dressed 15c to 18c; alive, 13c to 15c; turkeys, 17c to 22c and 14c to 17c.

HIDES AND WOOL

Quotations on hides are: Cured, 13½c to 14½c; part cured, 12½c to 13c; green, 11c to 12½c; horse hides, $4 to $4.50; horse hair, 28c to 30c; calf skins, 17½c to 18c; deskins, $1 to $1.20; lamb skins, $1 to $1.25. Wool quotations are: Unwashed, coarse, 16½c to 17c; fine, 17½c to 17½c; washed, rejects, 19c to 19½c; coarse, 23c to 24½c; fine, 29½c to 30½c.

DAIRY PRODUCE

The supply of butter coming in from country points is steadily increasing and seems to be sufficient for local needs. Shipments to the West are becoming less and less a feature of the trade as New Zealand butter is there preferred to the Ontario article, because of its greater uniformity and mild salting. Quotations are steady at the old levels. Farmers' separator prints, 30c to 32c; dairy prints, 28c to 30c; creamery prints, fresh, 32c to 34c; solids, 28c to 30c; storage, 26c to 28c. Cheese quotations are: New large, 14½c; twins, 15c; old large, 13c to 13½c; twins, 13½c to 13¾c.

LIVE STOCK

The course of the live stock market during the past week was altogether unexpected by the drovers. The whole week was marked by fairly heavy shipments and weakness developed right from the first. Most of the stock offered was fair to good, but very little could be classified as choice. When beef prices got to the point that they have attained in Ontario, higher now even than the United States prices, it takes a very small increase in receipts to upset the balance of the market. Quotations are as follows: Choice butchers, $6.20 to $6.75; com. to good, $5.60 to $6.25; heifers, med. to choice, $5.50 to $6.25; choice cows, $5.00 to $7.00; com. to good, $4.00 to $5.00; butcher bulls, $4.00 to $7.25; feeders, $5.00 to $7.40; stockers, $4.00 to $7; canners and cutters, $3.75 to $4.75.

Milch cows have been in the usual good demand: Choice, $65 to $105; com. to med., $40 to $65; springers, $40 to $100. Veal calves run $9.00 to $11; inferior, $6 to $9.00.

Mutton is firm at last week's prices: Wether lambs, $9 to $9.60; buck lambs, $8.25 to $8.75; ewes, $6.25 to $6.75; culls, $3.50 to $5.

Hogs have eased off somewhat. On the final market of the week over 2,200 hogs were offered, some of these coming from Western Canada. Packers quote $8.90 to $9.05 f.o.b.

MONTREAL HOG MARKET

Montreal, Saturday, Jan. 24.—There was a firmer feeling in the market for live hogs this week, and prices were quoted at $9.20 to $9.75 a cwt. for selected lots. The market for dressed hogs is also firm, but there is no change in prices. Supplies were rather light and sales were made at $12.75 to $14.

MONTREAL BUTTER AND CHEESE MARKETS

Montreal, Saturday, Jan. 24.—The only feature of the cheese trade this week worth noting has been the enquiry from the United States for white cheese, and it is generally acknowledged that two or three car-loads have been shipped across the line to supply the demand in the United States for fancy cheese. The only drawback to our cheese is the fact that they are such large shapes, the American trade being accustomed to small cheese. Bats and twins, weighing from 28 to 35 or 40 lbs. Some of the cheese that have been shipped from here have been cut in two, with fresh cloths put on in order that they might pass for twin cheese. Pretty full prices have been paid for these, and it would be difficult to buy a white cheese on this market to-day under 14c. A few small shipments are being made to the other side of the water, the market over there being very strong, owing to the small stocks in existence; and, although there will be a larger make of New Zealands this year, it will not be sufficiently large to bring about much, if any, reduction in prices for the next month or two at any rate.

Market for butter is steady, with prices unchanged; stocks are being steadily reduced; and, as there is now no prospect of any importation of any New Zealands, we may look for a steady market from now until the advent of fresh milk butter in the spring. Finest fall-made creamery is quoted at 29½c; finest June at 27½c, with undefinet ranging all the way down to 25c, according to quality.

selected lots were made at $9.65 to $9.75, and straight lots at $9.40 to $9.50 per 100 pounds weighed off cars, but the market for Manitoba hogs was weaker, owing to the increased arrivals, and prices declined with sales at $9.35 to $9.40 per 100 pounds weighed off cars.

EAST BUFFALO LIVE STOCK.

EAST BUFFALO, Jan. 28.—Cattle—Receipts, 125 steady; prices unchanged.

Veals—Receipts, 50; active and steady; $4 to $12.

Hogs—Receipts, 2500; slow and 10c to 15c lower; heavy, $8.65; mixed, $8.65 to $8.70; yorkers, $8.50 to $8.70; pigs, $8.40 to $8.50; roughs, $7.75 to $7.90; stags, $6 to $6.75; dairies, $8.50 to $8.65.

Radial Conference Next Month.

LONDON, Ont., Jan. 29.—A conference of the representatives of the various municipalities interested in Hydro radials will probably be held in London some time in February.

Gordon Philip, commissioner of industries, will make the local arrangements, and invitations will be sent out to all the municipalities west of Brantford and Stratford desirous of entering into the scheme. Hon. Adam Beck and F. A. Gaby, chief engineer of the Hydro-Electric Commission, will be present on this occasion and will discuss the question.

Michigan "Blue Sky" Law Upset.

DETROIT, Jan. 29.—The Michigan "blue sky" law is unconstitutional, according to a decision filed in the U. S. District Court here yesterday afternoon. It was held that the Michigan law would act in restraint of commerce of all kinds and would be a burden on the Interstate Commerce Commission, which the Government would not permit.

Death of Milling Man.

TWEED, Jan. 29. — Richard Rayburn, managing director of the Deseronto Milling Co. at Tweed, died at midnight in his 72nd year. He has been ailing for some time past. His wife predeceased him a few months ago; his son, Charles, perished in the great lakes storm. In religion Mr. Rayburn was an Anglican and a Conservative in politics.

Refused To Allow Title.

PARIS, Jan. 28.—Officials of the French Chamber of Deputies yesterday declined to permit the prefix prince to be used in connection with the name of the son of Prince Victor Napoleon in a question addressed to the Government.

Deputy Fernand Engeraud put a written question to the Minister of the Interior asking whether "Prince Napoleon Louis," who was born on Jan. 23, was exiled from France under the provisions of the act of 1886, forbidding the heads and heirs of former reigning families of France to enter the republic.

Paul Deschanel, the Speaker, requested the depu., to amend his question, which he did.

No response has yet been given.

ATTENDANCE IN RURAL SCHOOLS NOT THE BEST

Mr. G. E. Broderick, Inspector for West Peterboro' Township Presents Reports to County Council —Statement of Attendance and Teachers' Salaries.

GRANT SHOWS DECREASE

The report of G. E. Broderick, Public School Inspectr for the Inspectorate of West Peterborough, was presented to the County Council on Wednesday.

The following is a statement of salaries and certificates of teachers at the beginning of 1914:

SMITH.

S.S. No.	Teachers Certif.	Salary
1	2nd	$600
2	2nd	600
3	2nd	600

GALWAY AND CAVENDISH.

No. 1 school closed by Board for winter.

Gal. 2	Dist. Extend.	$475
4	No. Certif.
7	District Lim.	350

A comparison of the above statement with that given a year ago, will show a decrease in the number of Second Class teachers in some parts of the Inspectorate, but a distinct improvement in other parts. The supply of teachers for the Province may be scarce, but the experiences of the year have shown that in this Inspectorate at least the getting of properly qualified teachers depends upon the prompt, energetic, business-like procedure of the school boards.

Progress of Pupils.

The proficiency of pupils depends upon the qualification and skill of the teacher, upon reasonable permanency in the term of engagement and upon regularity of attendance. The whole purpose of the present system of professional training was to secure for rural schools teachers having the same scholarship, the same training and the same certificates as were found in urban schools. The old system of Model school with its brief professional training and its certificates limited to three years made the shifting of teachers inevitable. The present system with its longer training and its permanent certificates should, and it is hoped will, make for greater permanence and prevent the frequent changes of teachers in rural schools.

Attendances.

The following figures indicate the school section, number on roll, the average attendance and the percentage:

S.S.	Harvey.	Ave.	Per Cent.

2	50	36.58	68.5
3	33	15.55	50
4	52	36	65
Totals	..167	104.99	63

It will be seen from the above figures that about 25 p.c. of the total enrollment of pupils attend school less than fifty per cent. of the time, during which they should attend. Many of them a good deal less than 50 p.c. And when it is known that in some communities there are children of school age who do not attend school at all it becmes a matter of concern. The causes of irregularity of attendance are various. The most effective remedy would be found in the Township Councils availing themselves of the compulsory Education Act, and in their requiring township assessors to perform their duties in the matter of making the records required in the school census book

Your obedient servant,

G. E. BRODERICK.

Warmest Balloting in History of Welland, Peel and Huron is Going On To day

"DRYS" EXPECT A WIN

Special Wire to The Examiner:

TORONTO, Jan. 29. — Despatches from Goderich, Welland and Brampton, county capitals of the counties, are to-day in the throes of temperance elections. They report the warmest balloting in the history of these respective counties. Every effort is being made in all the municipalities interested to get out the electorate. Both sides are working strenuously, and the temperance people declare that the liquor men are spending all kinds of money. Prohibitionists say the indications in Huron and Peel are that the Act will carry there with good majorities. They are not sure of Welland, where influences from across the border have been actively at work. "If Church members vote as they preach," said one worker to-day, "all those counties must go dry." In every county the liquor interests have been presented on the platform considerably by United States' speakers. This has done their own cause much harm, as the people are resenting the importation of outsiders to help them make up their minds.

At The Grand

Mr. Tom Terriss' Charles Dickens' English Players

"A CHRISTMAS CAROL AGAIN.

On Saturday afternoon and evening the young English actor, Mr. Tom Terriss, repeated his triumph of Friday night in the role of Ebenezer Scrooge, the miser, in an adaptation of Charles Dickens beautiful story: "A Christmas Carol."

During Mr. Terris' engagement of three performances I saw his Scrooge three times, and I am willing to confess that not for one moment did it lose its power over me. Indeed, so persuasive is Mr. Terriss' psychology and so close his study of the objective as well as the subjective effects of avarice; how it narrows the eyes and contracts the chest and turns the hands into claw-like members fitted no longer for giving and blessing, but only for clutching and malediction; that the familiarity I acquired with his methods seemed only to increase my interest in what seems to me to be a genuinely artistic performance.

The genius of Charles Dickens, too, how it came "across" by means of the little drama. There are those who accuse Dickens of being too entirely a creator of types. These affirm that his whites are too white and his blacks too black to be convincing; that he is in essence a didactic fictionist, rather than a creative artist, and that in order to point his moral or to get out his diatribe, he throws together, pell-mell, Frankenstein-like creatures such as never were, on land or sea; or he fashions angelic beings who smack but little of our humanity.

This charge Mr. Tom Terrias' visualization of the character of the miser Srooge should go a long way to disprove. Scrooge is sunk in a state of moral unconsciousness and inertia produced by the fact that he has allowed his acquisitive and his assiduous faculties to run riot and so stifle and make of no effect his benevolent and his mediative powers. This is simply fanaticism of a certain order; and all fanatic passions that it is impossible for them to get a general or comprehensive view.

Then came the Dream—and Scrooge, stricken down almost as Paul was stricken down while yet he breathed out threatenings and slaughter against the gospel of Love; arose with his blind eyes open and his soul filled with cosmic vision of unity and brotherhood.

It is the cosmic quality that seems to my mind the essence of "A Christmas Carol." Dickens himself, in all probability, never knew how far ahead of his times he was when he wrote the story. But for all that, it remains a detailed account of a cosmic experience.—Dramatic Editor, London Free Press.

MEETING OF THE COMMISSIONERS

Was Held at the Residence of Mr. W. H. Moore Mr. Matthews Was Re-elected to Chairmanship

OTHER BUSINESS

The inaugural meeting of the Water Commissioners was held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mr. W. H. Moore, 310 London street. The object of holding the meeting at Mr. Moore's residence is that Mr. Moore, who is a member of the Board is incapacitated due to an accident which he sustained several weeks ago. The Commissioner's injuries consist of a broken ankle bone, caused by slipping on the sidewalk.

Those present at the meeting were Messrs. T. F. Matthews, W. H. Moore and R. Hicks. The latter, who was elected to the Board at the last election, was welcomed by the other members of the Board.

Was Re-elected.

On motion of Messrs. Moore and Hicks, Mr. T. F. Matthews was re-elected chairman of the Board.

A petition asking for the extension of the water main to Victoria Heights was referred to the Superintendent, Mr. A. G. Fawcett.

A letter was received from Mr. J. W. Kelly, clerk of Smith Township, stating that the Township Council was willing that the Commissioners should keep cords of the stone that was taken from the trench in which the new main was laid and that they would require space to crush the stone. The matter was laid over.

A communication was received from the William Hamilton Company asking that the rates at 263 Water street be cancelled as the houses were pulled down. The matter was referred to the Collector, Mr. F. Adams, who will be requested to submit a report.

No action was taken in respect to the request of Mr. L. B. Tracey, 547 Downie street, who asked for a discount on the rates for October quarter, upon the grounds that he did not receive his bill prior to October the fifteenth.

Mr. J. P. Pulkinghorn wrote the Commissioners stating that he had reduced the number of stalls in his livery stable. The Superintendent will be asked to make a report on the matter.

The Collector will also be asked to make a report concerning a meter rate at the Armouries.

ANOTHER SOLUTION IS NOW PROPOSED

Property Values Have Increased Since It Was Learned That C. G. E. Would Build Locomotives Here

WANT RIGHT OF WAY

The City Council received a proposition from the Canadian General Electric Company last year to take up the manufacture of electric locomotives at their works here, and expend $150,000 for that purpose, provided they could obtain a right of way upon which they lay a track for testing these locomotives. This would be an important addition to the factory, and give considerable employment. Steps were taken to secure such a right of way in North Monaghan, but some of the property owners whose land would be required, have placed such a high price upon the land required that those having the matter in hand have had to drop that plan, and at a suggestion from the Company are giving their attention to another solution of the matter.

It is understood that the Company is preparing plans for the construction of the locomotives.

Lord Denman—Governor General of Australia, who has announced his intention to resign. Ill health is given as the cause.

The Board of Management of the County House of Refuge presented their annual report to the County Council yesterday as follows:

We, the Board of Management for the House of Refuge for the year 1913 respectfully submit to you our report.

In printing our report we would draw your attention to the fact that living costs more at the present time than it did a few years ago and by comparing the figures with those of other years you will be satisfied that such is the case.

We made the usual visits and inspections and are pleased to report everything satisfactory. We trust the permanent improvements will meet with the approval of all ratepayers, the same being conducive to the successful handling of stock.

In computing the cost of maintenance we left nothing that was chargeable to that account for 1913.

Dr. McMurchy On Care Of The Feeble-Minded

An interesting discussion took place at the annual meeting of the Children's Aid Society in reference to the case of the feebleminded, and if any impression was gained that the Society alone is taking an interest in the matter, it is not warranted. The Local Council of Women are also deeply concerned in the problem arising from the growing number of feeble minded, and the necessity of practical measurs of dealing with it. As evidence of the interest of the Local Council of Wemon, it is stated that under its auspices, at an early date Dr. Helen McMurchy of Toronto, who has devoted a great deal of study, professional and altruistic, to the question, will deliver in Peterborough a lecture upon the general subject of the Care of the Feeble Minded.

3 KILLED IN A WRECK

Special Wire to The Examiner:

JOHNSTOWN, Penn., Jan. 29. — Conductor Alexander Ritchie, aged 35, married; Brakeman Harry Lichter, aged 22, married; Flagman H. B. Parnell, single, were all killed today and three others hurt, when a Pennsylvania passenger train plunged into an empty engine running in the same direction, two miles east of Johnstown. Mistakes in signals were the cause of the accident.

The men killed were in the caboose. The passenger train was made up of steel coaches. Nobody was hurt.

FARMERS MUST AID THE HEALTH OFFICERS

CONFLICTING STORIES ARE TOLD COURT

Clarence Proffitt is Charged With Wounding a Valuable Dog With An Axe.

JUDGMENT RESERVED

The case in which Clarence Proffitt was charged with maliciously injuring a valuable deer hound, the property of C. K. Lech of this city, came before Magistrate Edmison in County Police Court yesterday.

It seems that one day last week, Roy Wilson was pasing through Mr. Proffitt's woods near Jackson Park with the dog, and it is stated that Clarence Proffitt hit the animal on the head with an axe. The result was the laying of an information against Proffitt, and the case yesterday. Mr. S. T. Medd conducted the case for the complainant and Mr. V. J. McElderry for the defendant.

In the witness box Wilson swore that he was passing through the woods in question, the dog running ahead of him. He saw Clarence Proffitt cutting at a tree on the path down which the dog was running. The dog was 20 feet away from Proffitt and running toward him. A second later he heard a yelp of pain and running up found the animal with its head cut open. Proffit had called to his father, who was cutting wood near him: "I got him on the head."

The defendant, in the witness box, said that he was cutting a tree on the edge of the sleigh path, and the dog came running by, passing within four feet of him. When the dog had gone some thirty or forty feet, he threw the axe at it, intending to frighten it off the property. But the axe hit the dog on the head. He had no intention of hitting the dog when he threw the axe. He did not cry "I got him on the head." He did not turn round and hit the dog with the axe, as it ran by.

The defendant's father, who owns the woods in question, testified that he didn't want dogs prowling around the place because he wished to protect the game and his sheep. Some months ago he had lost a sheep which had been killed by a dog, and as he had still many valuable sheep he was anxious to keep dogs off the place. Two years ago he had seen Wilson on the place and ordered him off. Last October he put up signs prohibiting trespassing.

"If Mr. Wilson's father swears he was in Saskatoon two years ago will you admit you were mistaken as to seeing this young man in your woods?" asked Mr. Medd.

"Yes. Mr. Wilson's word is good," answered the witness.

Mr. Wilson called, swore his son was in Saskatoon two years ago.

In summing up the defence Mr. McElderry submitted that the defendant's act was justified if he had 'legal justification or colour of right" for hitting the dog. The law provided that if signs were put up, or the intruder previously warned, that was legal justification.

"But there were no signs up, and Mr. Wilson had never been warned," said Magistrate Edmison.

"Mr. Proffitt said he put signs up in October."

"Yes, but he also said they had been torn down."

Then Mr. McElderry quoted precedents to show that if he honestly believed he had warned Wilson off the place he had colour of right.

Mr. Medd said that the Court had before it two contradictory stories, one given by the plaintiff and the other by the defendant. The weight of evidence was against the defendant's story, and seemed to bear out the plaintiff's contention that Proffitt hit the dog as it passed him.

Magistrate Edmison said that he felt he must find the defendnt "guilty," but he would reserve judgment for a week. He would also consider the matter of damages, which would be light as the veterinary surgeon had sworn that the dog might recover completely.

MILLIONAIRE IS BEING HELD FOR RANSOM

Special Wire to The Examiner:

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 29.— F. Lewis Clark, the millionaire of Spokane, is being held by kidnappers in the mountains for seventy-five thousand dollars ransom, according to letters received by the police to-day. Clark is missing since January seventeenth, when he saw his wife off on a train and was thought to have gone with her. Witnesses now say that unknown persons drove up in an automobile and took him away.

Dr. Clinton Addressed County Council on Importance of Reporting Contagious Diseases—More Attention Must Be Given to Children

COUNTRY'S GREATEST ASSET

Dr. Clinton, District Health Officer, had a little heart to heart talk with th members of the County Council this morning in regard to sanitation in rural sections. From the conference it was apparent that the Provincial Board of Health is striving to extend into the counties the preventive measures that have during recent years been widely carried on in cities.

"My object in meeting all the Reeves of this County," Dr. Clinton said, "is to secure their co-operation in order to enforce the Health Act. If it is to become a success it must have the support of the local officers, and they in turn must be assisted by the public. The Act says you must fix the salary of your Medical Health Officer. They may not have had much to do in the past, but there are many things which can receive their attention.

They should visit the schools in their districts at least twice a year. The Act does not cover the medical inspection of children, but we want to change it so as to provide for this. It has been found that the inability of some children to learn as rapidly as others has been due to poor sight, hearing, breathing, bad teeth or some similar defect which escaped the attention of the parents. The dull child retards the progress of his class, and it will be for the benefit of the rural schools if we can secure this change.

More Attention to Children.

At present we have to get the consent of the trustees for inspection. All that the M.H.O. can do is inspect wells, closets, etc. Parents should demand a fair start in life for their children, but too often they do not stop to think of the importance of this point. You have an idea of the attention given to the securing of thoroughbred cattle and the amount of money spent on them in rural communities. But what is spent on the children? They are the greatest asset of any community. Ten years from now the school children will be the young men and women of any place.

Not Detectives.

In many places schools are swept but once a week. How many of you would tolerate the sweeping of your kitchen but once a week. The M. H. O. could give more attention to the lighting, heating and ventilation of the schools. Our whole object is to unite with the people for their own good. Sometimes we meet people who are obstinate, who say that what their grandfathers had and did is good enough for them. Fortunately they are very few. We want the people to feel that we are not detectives and spies, but assistants and helpers."

Slaughter Houses Bad.

One of the worst features, said the Doctor, are slaughter houses. These should have cement floors and the walls should be cemented at least part of the way up. Pens and sheds should be removed at some distance. Dr. Clinton referred briefly to the manner in which the food and offal should be treated.

Reporting Cases.

Dr Clinton in urging upon the assistance of the public, gave instances of deaths of children from contagious diseases which spread through communities and which might have been cut short if homes had been quarantined, and if the people first visited by the disease had reported to the Health authorities.

Mr. Squire—Do you say that schools are swept only once a week?

Dr. Clinton—In some cases, yes.

Mr. Squire—This is rather serious.

Dr. Clinton—It is, and to get efficient work, caretakers of schools should use wet sawdust on the floors when sweeping.

There were other important points mentioned, and at the conclusion Dr. Clinton received a vote of thanks from the Council for the information given by him.

FUNERAL OF MRS. LEAHY

The funeral of the late Mrs P. D. Leahy was held yesterday morning from the family residence, Lot 6, Concession 4, Dover, to St. Joseph's Church and thence to St. Joseph's cemetery.

A very large funeral cortege testified to the high esteem in which she was held. Deceased leaves to mourn her loss seven sons and three daughters, also her mother, Mrs. J. Dwyer, Dover, five brothers and three sisters. Her husband predeceased her seven years ago.

BIRTH.

MACLEOD—At Nicholls Hospital, Peterborough, on Thursday, Jan 29th, 1914, the wife of Mr. E. C. Macleod, manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia, Kingston, Jamaica, and formerly of Peterborough, of a son.

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unparalleled."

THURSDAY, JAN. 29, 1914

ON HIS DIGNITY.

The Mayor of Ottawa is on his dignity. He objects to riding in street cars as below the dignity of his office. He objects to personally receiving newspaper reporters as undignified. And he at last considers it undignified for the Mayor of Ottawa to have his office stationery printed in red ink—too much like the Fire Department. Now we could understand it if our Mayor insisted on having his office stationery printed in coal black ink. We are glad we are not in Ottawa. We are not afraid of having our Mayor spoiled by the fuss and feather atmosphere that surrounds a vice-regal court and is breathed in by civil service society.

FORTUNATE PETERBOROUGH.

Peterborough is fortunate in situation, with a broad, clean river flowing through the city providing at once a supply of pure water for city purposes, and also supplying power for distributing water through the mains system. To better appreciate the advantage of this power, it is only necessary to recall that Toronto's water pumping costs that city nearly $100,000 per year—from $7,000 to $8,000 per month is paid for Hydro power, not to speak of the expense of steam used at certain hours, with one steam pump continually in operation. Of course, Toronto pumps more water than Peterborough, but one can easily see how much we save by having our own awter power for pumping purposes.

FAIR PLAY.

An Ontario village is advetrising for a man to be assessor, collector, constable, janitor of the town hall, caretaker of the fire engine, weed inspector, truancy officer, collector of the poll tax and enforcer in general of all village by-laws. It is also expected that this highly compound official will devote his whole time to the discharge of these few duties and at a salary that would not be extravagant remuneration for properly attending to one of them. While economy in civic matters is, like a motion for adjournment, always in order, it can easily degenerate into false economy. The labourer is worthy of his hire, and a civic servant will give all the better service for being decently paid. No taxpaying citizen who receives the benefit of such service will kick against seeing a fellow citizen fairly well paid; nor feel comfortable in practically penalysing a fellow citizen in respect of services whose benefit he enjoys.

SIR JAMES GETTING WELL.

Sir James Whitney, as well as his thousands of frieids, and the Province at large, is to be congratulated upon the promise of his restoration to health. It is stated that his condition is steadily improving, and all the more hope is felt from the fact that no visitors are allowed, with the attendant danger of ill results from the well meaning, if inopportune gratification of personal interest, or in some cases mere curiosity. It is altogether unlikely that Sir James will be able to take any part in the deliberations of the Ontario Legislature, which is called to meet on Wednesday, February 18th. It is assumed that Hon. J. J. Foy, as senior member of the cabinet, will be titular leader of the house, but it is possible that that duty will be divided. The News states that the announcement of the opening of the legislature "was made this morning from the offices of the Attorney-General and Provincial Secretary."

PARCEL POST FOR CANADA.

A Canadian parcel post definitely promised for inauguration on February 10th next, will, the Globe explains be a welcome extension of postal facilities. The American limit of eleven pounds will be adopted, but to provide against a sudden rush of business before the machinery for handling is complete a limit of six pounds will be maintained for three months. The Dominion is to be divided into seven zones, the Maritime Provinces constituting one, Quebec another, Ontario another, and thus on to the coast. Charges will be in proportion to the zones traversed. There will also be a local zone system, ignoring Provincial boundaries, and providing for specially favorable rates for distances of twenty miles or less.

The local rate is five cents for the first pound, with one cent per pound additional to the limit. The American charge is graded according to the eight zones into which the country is divided. In the first zone it is five cents for the first pound and three cents for each additional pound. There is an increase for each zone of one cent on the first and also one each additional pound. The Canadian system provides a difference between the twenty-mile zone charges and the rates for the Provincial zones, and this will be of advantage to local merchants mailing goods. This plan for utilizing the postal service is in accord with modern ideas. The use of Governmental machinery for the handling of mail matter is a comparatively recent development, and its success has fully warranted further extensions of its usefulness. When the outlined parcel post system is established it will mark a stage in progress toward public highways and public means of shipment and communication.

WHY THEY SEETHE.

We read in the despatches that the Republic of Haiti is threatened with anarchy. There's nothing astonishing in this. The republics of Central and South America are in a perpetual fever of revolution of some kind, mostly butchery and bloody. This condition is so chronic that it attracts comparatively little attention. We loosely ascribe this to the fickleness and fieriness of the Latin nature, most of these states being, ethnically, dominantly of Latin origin. But that does not seem to be the real reason, which more likely is that they have never been trained to self-government, such as obtains among peoples of British origin. In the abstract the republican form of government may be the ideal expression of the democratic principle. Theoretically this may be true, but it needs the balance wheel the constitutional counterpoise, represented by the democratic principle, modified by constitutonal monarchy, as it obtains in Great Britain. The United States Republic still stands, and has stood for nearly a century and a half—largely by virtue of the training of the dominant element of the people in self-government as it is in Great Britain. Great Britain and the congeries of self-governing dominions that compose the Empire are proof that the democratic idea, applied through a constitutional monarchy, is the best and safest and surest way. The republics of South and Central America instead of being hot-beds of revolution and unrest, would have been peaceful progressive communities if the republics had been composed of people trained in self-government. The worst of all tyrannies is the tyranny of a people lacking the restraints of, and the respect for, constitutional authority ingrained in the character of people born and brought up under a wise and liberal form of limited monarchy.

NO SENSATIONALISM.

Some supporters of the Government are too nervous and sensitive about allusions to the slackness of business. The language of the speech from the throne was surely an invitation to discuss the quest ion, and why should Parliament be silent as to a matter which is the subject of conversation at the fireside and wherever men meet? What is Parliament for but to consider the state of the nation?

Of course the discussion ought to be fair and free from exaggeration. It was quite right for Mr. Borden to utter his opinion that the farmers are better off than the dwellers in cities and towns, and if that should lead to an exodus from town to country, the result would be good. But the other side ought also to be frankly set forth.

As a matter of fact there has been little or no exaggeration. The slackness was a topic of general conversation long beofre it occupied a prominent place in the newspapers. In this city publicity became absolutely necessary in order that distress should be relieved and employment found. Neither in Parliament nor in the press has there been any attempt to manufacture a sensation out of facts which were matters of general observation.—Toronto Star.

Orchard And Garden Notes

Begin to plan for a better garden next year. It should include fruit, flowers and vegetables.

Squashes should be stored in a dry place at a temperature of about 50 degrees. Do not lay more than one deep on shelves.

Go over all garden tools and see that they are repaired or replaced with new ones before next season's work begins.

Orchard and lawn trees may be pruned at this time of year on warm bright days, but spring pruning is better.

Do not plant more apple trees unless you are taking good care of what you have. A few well cared for give better returns than many given over to insects and disease.

Onions should be stored in a cool, well-ventilated building. They should be piled not over a foot deep on shelves or in bushel boxes made of slats. If they are frozen, they should remain frozen until used, as this softens the bulb and causes a rough skin.

A Word To The Wise

The exceptional conditions prevailing during the last year have made it possible for us to offer to shrewd investors some great bargains in real estate.

You can purchase through us several properties at from one-half to two-thirds their real value, that will in the Spring be in demand for building purposes owing to their location in the heart of the section which saw such phenomenal building activity last year.

Reports show that business in all lines is picking up and 1914 is said to promise the greatest development for Canada that she has yet enjoyed.

Few acts For All Who Want To Make Money

Wise and rich men advise their friends to buy lots in the way of a growing City. Plain, common sense endorses that advice.

All must acknowledge that Peterboro is growing rapidly South and West.

It is generally known that I own a very desirable block of high land half mile South and West from C. C. E. Works, overlooking the South End Churches and School, the C. P. R. G. T. R., and Street Car line, also the big Factories. I have subdivided this land into blocks of two lots, 50 x 123 feet to a lane 12 feet, each lot containing 3073 square feet. These lots would be excellent value at $200, each but because of my desire to be freed from business I have decided to sell for $175 and accept deposit of $5.00 on one or two lots, to which I will add a bonus of $7.00, giving receipt for $10.00, no interest nor any further payments required, until May, when official plan will be registered. All lots properly staked and balance of Streets Cottonmore, Ford Avenue and Western Avenue graded to the Gravel Road. Restrictions Brick Brick Veneer, Concrete or Stone houses only permitted.

Other lots 30 x 157—3810 square feet for $150 and $200, on same terms. Free Deed and perfect title. Plans and all particulars at office. This offer will never be repeated.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

BRITAIN IS ROUSED

Deportation of Labour Men Causes a Big Sensation

BOTHA CENTRE OF STORM

LONDON, Jan. 29.—The deportation of the strike leaders from South Africa secretly to England has caused a tremendous stir here. Opinions on the matter are widely divergent, and those who discuss the South African Government's action are very cautious about expressing final judgment, pending a full explanation, which the close censorship in South Africa has prevented from reaching this country.

The Laborites and Radicals are in an indignant rage over the "kidnapping." The Radical Daily News and Leader says:—

"The disease of arbitrary anarchy which Gen. Botha planted in South Africa will spread to England unless it is grappled with immediately. We are in the presence of one of the gravest events that can befall a state."

The Daily Telegraph in an editorial, which does not hesitate to accuse Hain and his colleagues of having started a revolution and failed, justifies Gen. Botha on the ground that he faced the danger of a native rising. At the same time The Telegraph realizes that a very delicate and difficult situation has arisen for the Imperial Government. "It is useless to deny," says The Telegraph, "that it is a new thing for British subjects to be deported in this summary fashion by one of the dominion Governments, and, if, as alleged, the deportation is illegal, it will be difficult for the Imperial Government to acquiesce without a request for an explanation and for justification."

Demand Gladstone's Recall.

GLASGOW, Jan. 29.—Resolutions strongly condemning the Government of the Union of South Africa for the deporting of the labor leaders who had been prominent in the recent strike, and demanding that the British Government recall Viscount Gladstone, the Governor-General, were passed unanimously yesterday by the annual labor conference, sitting here.

Heated speeches were delivered, in which denunciations were expressed of the "violation of the most elementary rights of British citizenship" by Gen. Louis Botha, the Premier of South Africa.

James Ramsay MacDonald, a Socialist and Labor member of Parliament, described the South African Government's action "a very cynical conclusion to the South African war."

Ignored Court.

PRETORIA, Union of South Africa, Jan. 29.—Leave to apply to attach the Ministers of Justice, Defence and the Interior of the Union of South Africa for contempt of court in deporting the labor leaders was granted yesterday by the Supreme Court judge, Sir John W. Wessels.

THE "EVENING EXAMINER" WISHES TO ADD 500 NEW SUBSCRIBERS BEFORE MAY FIRST

THE EXAMINER'S MONEY MAKING COMPETITION FOR LIVE NEWSBOYS

Starts MONDAY, Feb. 2nd Ends TUESDAY, April 30th

27 PRIZES IN CASH 27
Payable at the completion of the competition to the boys who make the most gains in new customers.

24 PRIZES IN CASH 24
3 payable each week to the boys who make the most gains in new customers each week during competition.

51—CASH PRIZES—51

EVERY BOY WILL START OFF MONDAY NEXT, FEBRUARY 2nd on an equal footing, no matter whether you have been selling papers or not. The boy with 50 Customers at the present time is in no better position than the boy just starting in. The boy starting with 50 customers has to make his gain above 50 to secure the prize, which is for the most New Customers each boy gets.

REMEMBER

NEW BEGINNERS as well as our regular newsboys who enter this contest will start scoring together on Monday Evening, February 2nd.

Papers are ready for Boys shortly after Four o'clock.

Boys attending school can sell papers and lose no time and with a hustle will soon have a Savings Bank Account.

We will keep a record of every boy's sales up to the End of the Contest.

The Examiner is easy to sell and is a good money maker for any boy.

AN IMPORTANT CONDITION

IN ORDER that protection may be given to each boy who is entering in this Competition, it is a condition that no one will secure a prize who does not honestly earn it. If a boy applies for a Weekly Prize, who has not bought the papers for his own use and sale, it will be turned over to the boy who has honestly won it.

CASH PRIZES

First Prize	$25.00
Second Prize	20.00
Third Prize	15.00
Fourth Prize	10.00
Fifth Prize	5.00
Sixth Prize	4.00
Seventh Prize	3.00
Eighth Prize	2.00
Ninth Prize	2.00
Tenth Prize	2.00
Eleventh Prize	2.00
Twelfth Prize	2.00
15 Prizes of	1.00

27 Boys to get final prizes.

UNDERSTAND

THE WEEKLY PRIZES

IT'S the largest individual increases weekly that counts. If one boy who has been selling papers starts on Monday next with ten regular customers and increases his list to 20 at the end of the week, and another boy with 20 regular customers has only increased to 25, the first boy wins the First Weekly Cash Prize, because he has added 10 to his list while the second boy has only added 5 to his list. If a boy is not now selling Examiners and next Saturday has 16 new customers, he wins the prize as he has gained more new customers than either of the other two boys.

There are three prizes distributed each week for the biggest gain for the week, whether you have been selling papers in the past or not, does not make any difference.

Canvas those who are not taking the Examiner. They will read it if you get them started.

No boy has any advantage over any other boy. It's all in the hustle.

PARENTS

WHO would like to encourage their boys to earn sufficient pocket money to keep them, are urged to give them a start of a few cents for their first lot of Papers. There are many young men now holding good positions who made their first money by selling the Evening Examiner.

Any boy can start at any time, but he should start on Monday, February 2nd, with the rest so as to give no handicap for the large prizes.

Any further information regarding this competition will be given at the Examiner Office.

Discount Rate Is Lowered

Special Wire to The Examiner:

TORONTO, Jan. 29.— An easing up in the tight money situation all over the world was indicated this morning when the Bank of England dropped its discount rate from four to three per cent., and the Bank of France lowered its rate from four to three and a half per cent.

Two Women Beheaded

Special Wire to The Examiner:

BERLIN, Germany, Jan. 29. — One woman who murdered her stepmother and another who killed her husband, were executed this morning in Prussia by the axe and block, which method still prevails in that part of Germany.

T. A. S. Societies Held "At Home"

The combined Total Abstinence Societies of the Sacred Heart and St. Peter's parishes, gave a splendid At Home in the St. Alphonsus Lyceum last night. The attendance reached over the 300 mark, and ample as were the provisions for the guests, the accommodations were taxed to the limit.

The committee in charge of the affair had made every possible arrangement to ensure the guests a plesant evening, and their efforts were rewarded last night. Every guest spent a thoroughly enjoyable evening, and the hosts, who represented the two societies, were liberal with their hospitality.

The first few hours of the evening were spent in progressive euchre. Many interesting games resulted in Mrs. R. Gordon winning the ladies' prize, and Mr. T. Turcott the gentlemen's trophy.

Delicious refreshments, prepared and served in a delightful manner, were enjoyed by those present after the euchre games. The refreshments were followed by dancing in the large hall. The terpsechorean diversion was entered into with enjoyment until the early hours of this morning.

The proceeds of the At Home last night will be a contribution to the Peter's Pence fund, which will be delivered to the Pope by His Lordship Bishop O'Brien, during his visit in Rome this year.

NOTES OF THE COUNTY COUNCIL

The Council's Road and Bridges Committee was billed for work this afternoon which means that the Gannon's Narrows bridge will be up, and letters from Mr. Peck and Mr. Burnham will be read.

Dr. Kindred presented County Clerk Elliott with a big box of chocolates yesterday and they went the rounds. The Reeve of Havelock is a good judge of sweetmeats.

One of the Councillors strolled into the Council Chamber this morning with an empty quart bottle protruding from his coat pocket. A cigar replaced the cork stopper. The bottle had contained only Stephen's Ink.

There was an odor of stale cigar smoke about the Chamber this morning. Like the heads of most corporations they do much of their thinking behind a glowing weed, and even pass the box to the press. The County Council deserves a press medal for the many evidences of their thoughtfulness, even though we don't smoke during working hours.

It might have been a nice idea if the County and City Councils could get together once a year at this time. There are many things in which both are interested, and a little supper or a plain business meeting would bring them together.

There has been nothing said about the uniformed constables for the County Court. Judge Huycke expressed himself in favour of this recommendation, and the dignity of a court is enhanced by the appearance of authority.

The request for an increase in the salary of the superintendent and matron of the House of Refuge has simply been filed.

Recognizing the increase in the market price of meat, the Board of Management of the House of Refuge added $12 to the account of W. J. Waldon for meat supplied.

Reeve Howden was one of the most interested listeners to the remarks by Dr. Clinton. The township to the south has its own little problems and is preparing to face them all.

Reeve Squire of Norwood, the man who defeated Archie Breault, has been initiated and received into the fold. The Council is somewhat like a big league ball team. The newcomers are regarded as bushers to a certain extent, and they do not break in all of a sudden. The election for Warden proved that Reeve Howden was rather widely regarded as a prospect for the chair, until it came to a show down. As one man remarked, "But Billie should be ripe for next year."

One of the Councillors wants to know whether Mr. McKee uses Herpicide or Booster. Speaking of J. H. Garbutt's running mate from Smith it might be remarked that he has the finest head of hair around the Council. And that is going some, for there are no bare pates since a certain gentleman from the north has been missing from the Council.

RICHARD HALL & SON LIMITED

Lent Begins This Year Three Weeks Later Than Nineteen Hundred And Thirteen

How the Date is Arrived At---It is to the Council of Nicea That We Owe the Perpetuation of the Present Method of Reckoning Easter---Amendments to the Calendar.

Lent begins this year three weeks later than last year, being of course based upon the date of Easter, which is April 12 this year, as against March 23 in 1912. Very few people can tell why Lent varies so from year to year and why Easter may come as early as March 22 or as late as April 25.

It is something of an anomaly from the religious point of view that the anniversary of Christ's death may fall on any one of thirty-five dates, while the anniversary of His birth is always on the same. It is no less of an anomaly from the astronomical standpoint, for there seems no reason why we, having adopted the solar year as the basis of our calendar, should cling to the lunar year merely for the establishment of one date.

It is a mystery why, when the date of Christ's birth was fixed as Dec. 25, some dates in April were not at the same time settled upon as those of His death and resurrection. That would have been logical and would have banished from the calendar a lunar cycle that has long been abandoned by all civilized peoples.

Fixing the Date.

It should not be difficult to fix the rational date for Easter. If Christ was crucified on the fourteenth day of the March moon astronomers ought to be able to calculate on what date this fell. They say that in all probability it fell on April 7 of the year 30 of the Christian era. Why, then, not fix Easter once and for all as the first Sunday after April 7?

It is to the Council of Nicea that we owe the perpetuation of our anachronistic method of reckoning Easter. This council decreed that it should be the first Sunday after the first full moon that occurs after the vernal equinox, March 21. Pope Gregory XIII. undertook at that time to reform the Julian calendar, which had been in use ever since Julius Caesar, in 46 B. C., had prescribed that a year should consist of 365 days, every fourth year having 366.

An Old System Still.

This Julian calendar was a reform of a still more ancient system based upon the emotions of the moon, which system varied widely in different lands. In Rome it had originated with Romulus, who established a year of ten months, having alternately thirty-one and thirty days, making 304 days in all. Numa Pompilius added the months of February and January, and in the year 452 B. C. the Decemvirs placed them where they now stand.

When Pope Gregory undertook to reform the Julian calendar, that had by that time become incorrect by about ten days, the revolution of the earth around the sun was not yet fully understood, so instead of making a change that would be thoroughly scientific, the present form of year was adopted, the Julian calendar being modified by calling Oct. 5, 1582, Oct. 15, and by making all terminal years of centuries, 1700, 1800, 100, etc., common years of 365 days, except, when the year was a multiple of 400, as 1600, 2000, etc., which should be leap years.

Movable Feasts.

In those days they were so accustomed to movable feasts that it never occurred to the reformers of the calendar that a day might come when their movability should be inconvenient. They knew so little about the relations between the sun and the earth that they did not want to renounce the lunar year entirely and so upset the order of feast days that had from time immemorial been based upon the movements of the moon.

Though the Gregorian calendar was issued in 1582, prejudice against anything that came from Rome was so strong in England that it was not adopted there until by an act of Parliament, passed in 1751, Sept. 3, 1752, was reckoned as Sept. 14 and New Year's Day was set back from March 25 to Jan. 1 beginning with 1753.

To fix one definite date for Easter would require a decree from the Pope. The whole Roman Catholic world and all Roman Catholics elsewhere would at once adopt it, and there is little doubt that the Protestant churches would follow. As it is a purely religious feast, this is all that would be necessary.

In Russia and Greece the Julian calendar is still in use, so their dates are now twelve days different from ours.

DECEMBER WAS DULL MONTH, SAYS LABOUR GAZETTE

The correspondent to the Labour Gazette has the following to say of local conditions during December:

The conditions of the labour market during the month of December was not as satisfactory as last month. Owing to the mild weather, outside work was carried on with but slight interruption, so that the building trades and unskilled labourers were much more generally employed than is usual at this season. The Christmas trade was active, and many were given temporary employment. The merchants report a good year in most lines. Skilled labour was not as well employed as at this time last year, the number on out of work being mainly confined to those coming from the old country. The Hydro-Electric power was turned on during December; only the business section has so far been provided for, but the work will be continued with a view to supplying commercial lighting. $120,000 was voted by the people for this purpose about a year ago. The city is making application for the expropriation of the Peterborough Light and Power plant. The City Council refused to renew the franchise of the Otonabee Power Company, which expired January 1, 1914. It has about six hundred houses and arrangements had to be made to provide them with light until the city can do so by the Hydro system. The new freight sheds for the Canadian Pacific Railway were opened during the latter part of the month, and the old sheds were taken over by the International Harvester Company to be used as a distributing centre.

The mild weather during the first half of the month has enabled the farmers to do some ploughing which could not be done in the first part of the autumn owing to the dry weather. There is considerable hay coming in at present, the price being $16 to $20 per ton.

Lumbering operations are in full progress, and there is a fair demand for men for the shanties.

Most of the factories were running short-handed, and some short time. Conditions generally were not as good as last year.

A TEARFUL AFFAIR

There was a time, not very long ago,
When if I asked Diana, Maude or May
(Or any other girl) to any show
A crush or Exhibition or a play,
Her eyes would gleam, she'd hurry off to dress
And come at once be weather foul or fair.
But now she hesitates, remarking "Yes—
But do they Tango there?"

I used to write: Dear Mabel, Min or Flo"
Whichever at the moment might be dear
Meet me at five-fifteen, and we will go
To some illustrious restaurant, to hear
The orchestra. With sweet, contented glance
She would be waiting on the spot for me;
But now, alas! she whispers: "Do they dance?
Is it a Tango Tea?"

GOVERNMENT REFUSES TO PAY

For Record Compiled by J. J. Kelso, Superintendent of Children's Aid Societies

The Ontario Government has declined to pay a bill amounting to close on $300 for the publication of a book entitled "Protection of Children," by J. J. Kelso, Ontario Superintendent of Children's Aid Societies. This is a short history of the humane and children's aid movement in the Province, and is a record of Mr. Kelso's connection with these movements. The preface bears Mr. Kelso's picture at the top, and the last page contains another picture of Mr. Kelso at the bottom of the page. "This book," says its author, "is not intended for general circulation, for one for the information and encouragement of fellow-workers, and for the preservation of records that, with the passing years, would be increasingly hard to collect together."

In this little work Mr. Kelso tells how he left a career as a journalist and accepted a position under the Ontario Government at $1,500 a year and expenses. Mr. Kelso now draws $2,400 and expenses.

According to officials, the order for the book went down with the Government printing in the usual way from the Childrens Aid branch of the Provincial Secretary's Department. The account for this was held up by Provincial Auditor Clancy, with the result that, after dragging along for several months, Mr. Kelso was ordered to pay the account himself, as the book was not within the purview of Provincial printing.

SAYS GIRLS HAVE THEMSELVES TO BLAME

The Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—A good deal has been said and written lately in public, and through the columns of the daily press, about the conduct of men towards women on our streets. It is said that men accost and annoy strange women, and a police woman is asked for, presumably to arrest these men.

Now, I do not want to emulate the example of that arrant arch-coward Adam. I feel ashamed to own him as a man. I don't want to say it is all together the woman's fault. But what I do say is this, that it is partly—at any rate—the fault of some women if they or other women find themselves accosted by strangers on the streets.

When a man sees girls on our streets, not only in summer time, wearing skirts scarcely worthy the name, low necked dresses, bare arms, more or less loaded with, frequently imitation jewellery, can it be altogether wondered at if he is apt to associate these only partly dressed travesties of noble woman with women of a class we will not mention here, yet who have existed as temptresses from the world's earliest history.

Then again the manners, or rather want of manners, of some of these empty-headed, silly, giggling girls on the public streets cannot fail to attract attention from a certain class of male. And their manners are intended to do this. These girls may only be looking for something to flatter their vanity, a certain amount of admiration (frequently of disgust) or for an innocent, if vulgar, flirtation. "How stuck up; how haughty; will he never speak?" are remarks a man may hear made about himself as he walks through the streets of Peterborough during the evening. "I'm going to speak to him. I wonder how he will take it." "Oh he's too stuck up to speak to us, 'and so forth ad nauseam. These remarks I have known to be made on more than one occasion, supplemented by purposely effected nudges, to say nothing of the "killing," "chase me boys" glances accompanying the action.

No man, strictly speaking, has any business to speak to any woman to whom he has not been formally introduced. Yet, when a girl goes out of her way to attract a man's attention, in any way, is it to be altogether wondered at if he is apt to reciprocate.

Is it altogether to be wondered at that ignorant or conceited youths who have no power of discrimination, when they hear these sort of things, accompanied by flashing glances from the eyes of girls who simply feed on admiration, accost girls? Their very ignorance is blinding them, as to discriminating between flirty, albeit not impure, girl, and the quiet, well-conducted, chaste woman, who as a rule is not the victim of these accosters and offenders against all rules of good manners.

Now, so far as I have been able to observe they are not as a rule "men" who accost or speak to girls as they are walking along the street. The offenders belong usually to that indiscriminate class of hobbledehoy, neither man nor boy, varying from seventeen to say twenty-two years of age. Just the age when they think they are "doing the grand" or "going the pace."

Yours faithfully,
A Mere Man.

Country Dangers.

"I haven't seen Hemmandshaw for a week."

"No; he hasn't been out of the house since his accident."

"Was he seriously injured?"

"No; but he feels the disgrace deeply."

"Disgrace?"

"Yes. After living in the heart of the city all his life, he went to the country one day last week and was run over by a milk waggon."

PARCELS POST RATES KNOWN

Territory Within 20 Mile Radius of Every Post Office Will Enjoy Special Rates

TRYOUT OF SYSTEM

OTTAWA, Jan. 28.—On February 10th the long-promised parcels post system will be inaugurated in Canada, according to the announcement made by the Postmaster-General.

The service was promised for January first, but was held up by the inability of the Department to make a satisfactory arrangement with the railways to carry the service. The railways demanded a total of six millions. It is understood that an agreement was finally reached whereby the railways will be paid three millions a year for carrying all the mails, including those by parcels post.

Local Zone System.

The rates so far announced deal only with the "local zone." The territory around every post office within a 20-mile radius will constitute a local zone, within which local rates will prevail. These local zones will overrun Provincial boundaries wherever the post office is located within 20 miles of such boundaries.

The local zone rate is expected to be of considerable benefit to merchants in small centres, who will thus have the advantage of posting at a lower rate than that paid by the large stores of the big cities beyond the 20-mile zone. The local zone rates will be:

	Cents
One pound	5
Two pounds	6
Three pounds	7
Four pounds	8
Five pounds	10
Six pounds	12
Seven pounds	14
Eight pounds	16
Nine pounds	18
Ten pounds	20
Eleven pounds	22

Eleven Pounds Weight Limit.

Eleven pounds is the weight limit under the new system. It will be noted that after four pounds the rate increases by two cents per pound. For the first three months of the parcels post the Department will accept parcels up to a six-pound weight only. This is to provide against a rush of business at the outset before the facilities for handling the parcels post have been fairly tested.

In connection with the regulations regarding the system there will be full instructions for farmers and others regarding the methods of sending farm produce, such as butter, eggs, vegetables, and fruit.

The parcels post rates will be, of course, very materially lower than the prevailing express rates on parcels of corresponding size.

Other Rates.

To any post office belond 20 miles, but within the province—One pound, 10 cents; two pounds, 14 cents; three pounds, 18 cents; four pounds, 22 cents; five pounds, 26 cents; six pounds, 30 cents; seven pounds, 34 cents; eight pounds, 38 cents; nine pounds, 42 cents; 10 pounds, 46 cents; and 11 pounds, 50 cents.

To any post office in Quebec or Manitoba—One pound, 10 cents; two pounds, 16 cents; three pounds, 22 cents; four pounds, 28 cents; five pounds, 34 cents; six pounds, 40 cents; seven pounds, 46 cents; eight pounds, 52 cents; nine pounds, 58 cents; 10 pounds, 64 cents; 11 pounds, 70 cents.

To any post office in Saskatchewan or the Maritime Provinces — One pound, 12 cents; two pounds, 20 cents; three pounds, 28 cents; and eight cents extra per pound up to the 11-pound limit.

To any post office in Alberta—One pound, 12 cents; two pounds, 24 cents; and 10 cents for each extra pound.

To any post office in British Columbia — One pound, 12 cents; two pounds, 24 cents, and 12 cents for each extra pound.

New Swiss and Hamburg Embroideries

Flouncings, Edgings, Beadings, Insertions and Strappings in the Prettiest and Newest of Designs.

Glancing over the immense assortment of Embroideries that have just come in, one is convinced that there is not a design amongst them but what possesses a distinct charm in its daintiness and originality.

One very pretty pattern in solid work which is made liberal use is made of, is the Rose and Leaf design, while a dainty reproduction of the five petal Lily also forms an excellent ornamentation in many instances.

Then there are countless star and circle designs in eyelet work, and dozens of pretty patterns in beadings and strappings. These are all of varying widths, from the plainest styles to the most elaborate; and of course edgings and insertions are matched. While worthy of special mention are the new Flouncings which are both plain and spotted, in Swiss and Muslin. Some are finished with hemstitched border, others being most handsomely wrought in all the beauty of fine embroidery, while between the two extremes is a delightful field of choice. With the completeness of stocks that is now open to your inspection, we feel sure that every personal preference in Embroideries can be met with satisfaction. The dept. is situated in the centre of Main Floor

Separate Skirts $2.69

They are of Voile, Panama and Serge, in colors of black & navy, with one or two of light grey patterns. Each skirt is skilfully made, and is finished with self and button trimmings.

They are all $5 to $10 garments which, being somewhat wider than prevailing modes, are heavily reduced to $2.69

Flannel Blouses $1.98

A number of French Flannel and Wool Delaine Shirt Waists in plain colors and stripe patterns of tan, navy and brown shades.

These have been selling in regular stock for $2.25 and $2.95 and the balance are being cleared at this much-reduced figure $1.98

The Snow Removal System Discussed By Board Of Works

Who Advance Suggestions Respecting Proposed Improvement---Committee Will Endeavour to Settle Claims --Petition For Street Watering--"Two Men Drowned"

Th mid-week meeting of the Board of Works was held last evening. Among the items which appeared on the agenda was the question of improving the present system of snow removal from the City's streets. This contentious little matter was introduced by Ald. Johnston, who incidentally commended the half-dozen men who have charge of the snow ploughing contracts, for the manner in which they had fulfilled their obligations. The "man at the switch" declared that something ought to be done to ameloriate the present condition. He suggested an appeal to the good nature of the populace who might be induced to shovel the sidewalks out to the regulation width after the snow-ploughs had performed the initial operation. This, Ald. Johnston believed, would be preferable to adopting a compulsory snow-cleaning by-law.

The widows and the aged claimed the sympathies of Mayor Buller and Ald. Johnston. They contended that a compulsory snow-cleaning by-law would constitute a hardship upon the widows and old people, especially where large frontages were to be considered.

Ald. Green—"The trouble is the contractors do not get out early enough and often enough."

Ald. Duncan cited a case of where the Inspector had to practically pull one of the contractors out of bed. This occurred in the North Ward at 8 o'clock in the morning.

Robert Nichols was proclaimed to be the best contractor ever employed by the City. It was stated by Mayor Buller that he frequently worked all night and often times had his beat complement by 6 o'clock in the morning.

The Dickson Street Sewer.

City Engineer Parsons was instructed to secure estimates respecting the construction of a sewer on Dickson Street.

Sidewalk Petitions.

A couple of petitions for new sidewalks were shelved for future reference. They will be dealt with at some future meeting, when the first instalment of work for 1914 is arranged.

A New Sub-Division.

Plans concerning a new sub-division to be opened up by the Dickson Company, at the corner of Hunter and Burnham Streets were submitted to the Board. Steps will be taken to have the plans approved of and registered. The property comprises about two acres.

Street Signs.

It is an unfailing sign that Spring is at hand when the Board of Works revives the question of street signs. Mayor Buller would attach the signs to a suitable post in preference to the buildings. Ald. Green was of the opinion that the street corners should be more clearly defined. The City Engineer will be asked to report upon the number of signs that would be required together with the estimated cost of signs and posts.

The Indispensable Committee.

Comprising Mayor Buller, Ald. Duncan and City Engineer Parsons, was instructed to deal with the matter of widening Princess Street. A portion of the thoroughfare is the regulation width of 60 feet and the remaining portion 46 feet. Arrangements are being made to widen out the street to the full width.

Two Men Drowned.

According to Mayor Buller this fatality occurred on Stewart Street. The statement prefaced a request for some repair work on the aforesaid street. The damage to the road was caused by the recent thaw.

Will Notify the C.P.R.

City Engineer Parson will notify the Canadian Pacific Railway to fill in the roadway at the south-east corner of Romaine Street and Monaghan Road.

Rent for Wood Yard.

A bill for fifty dollars from B. F. Ackerman and Son for the rent of a lot used by the City was referred to Mayor Buller and Ald. Duncan for adjustment. The City decided to dispense with the use of the yard one year ago, but the Charity Department continued to pile wood on the lot, hence the bill.

Street Watering.

Residents on Walton Street have submitted a petition for street watering. The matter will be dealt with later on.

Will Investigate.

Mr. Morrison wants one hundred feet of filling done on Bolivar Street, and a change in the surface drainage. As it effects the Monaghan Road the Board of Works will confer with Reeve Howden of Monaghan Township in regard to the matter.

Street Numbering.

Some exception has been taken to the manner in which the streets are numbered. George Street, from Lake Street south, and from Lake Street north, needs attention. City Clerk Armstrong states that it is about twenty-three years since the present sysem of street numbering was altered. A change now would mean that the whole City would have to be renumbered.

Referred to Committee.

The claims of J. R. Scott and C. E. Adams were referred to a committee comprising Mayor Buller, Ald. Duncan and the City Engineer. The claimants assert that their property was damaged by reason of the construction of the C. P. R. siding that serves the Vermont Marble Company's plant.

Application Granted.

The application of the Peterborough Light and Power Company to lay a gas main across King Street, to serve property owners residing on Margaret Avenue, was granted.

Must Notify the City.

The City Engineer was instructed to notify light and power companies and others who use the City's streets of the City's intention to repair certain streets, so that the companies may prepare to lay whatever services they may deem necessary before construction work is undertaken by the City. It was pointed out that the Water Works Department invariably fail to notify the City of their intention to lay water mains on the City's streets. This oversight will be investigated.

THE ESTIMATES

Special Wire to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, Jan. 29.—By the middle of next week the committees of the Commons will all be busy and the real business of the session will be under way. This morning all the committees met and elected chairmen, as follows: Privileges and Election, Samuel Barker, East Hamilton; Railways and Canals, A. E. Lancaster, Lincoln; Private Bills, Major Sam Sharpe, North Ontario; Standing Orders, Dr. Pauluet, Lisle; Printing, Major J. A. Currie, North Simcoe; Public Accounts, W. S. Middleboro, North Grey; Banking and Commercial, Hrebert B. A. Ames, Montreal; Agriculture, J. H. Sexsmith, East Peterborough; Marine and Fisheries, Clarence Jamieson Digby, N. S.; Mines and Minerals, F. H. Sheppard, Nanaimo; Forests and Water Powers, David Blain, Peel; Debts, J. D. Taylor, New Westminster.

The second division on the debate on the address will take place in the Commons before 6 o'clock this afternoon, according to the present arrangements between the whips. Several Western members including Thos. Minutt of Saltcoat, Robert Cruise of Dauphin, W. Buchanan of Lethbridge, and Dr. Warnerk of McLeod still desire to speak on the free wheat motion before a division is taken. There will be no further amendments and the debate on the address is expected to close shortly before six. In such case the main estimates for the coming fiscal year will be tabled in the House before adjournment. Supply will take up the attention of the House from this onward. With the end of the fiscal year not far distant the Government is anxious to get down to business, and the Opposition has determined that every item of supply will be carefully scrutinized before being allowed to pass.

A meeting of District Orange Lodge will be held Friday Evening at 7.45 sharp. All members please attend. H. Stenson, District Master. 2d-24

A PLEA FOR POLICE WOMAN

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—Allow me a little space in your valuable paper to reply to an article in last night's issue to the effect that there were thirty morality officers in this City. Some people of profession are very narrow-minded folks and can't see beyond themselves. They think the ministers, priests and the bishop of this City should be walking the streets in order to look after moral conditions as they exist in the City of Peterborough. Might I ask the question, "Is this City better than other cities and towns that have welcomed the appointment of a police woman, or are we so far beyond redemption that there is no use trying to suppress the great evil, but as the evil existed long ago, as some people say, still let it go as it will. Then prepare rescue homes for the ones who have or may be deceived by many of the so-called young men of Peterborough. If there was some measure of punishment, and they were made an example of a few times, they would not be so willing to bring the opposite sex so low in the moral scale. They themselves seem to pass off in society as though there was not a stain on their character. I am in favour of a police woman, and do know that there will be good results accomplished here, as in other places, where there has been one appointed.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your valuable space.

Yours truly,
Taxpayer.

SEVEN YEARS FOR REID

Special Wire to The Examiner:

WINNIPEG, Man., Jan. 29.— Constable Joe Reid of the city police force, was given seven years' sentence in penitentiary by Magistrate Macdonald for participation in the escape of Krafchenko, the Plum Coulee bandit. Reid is a native of Lucknow, Ontario, and was for a short time on the Toronto police force.

Old Rivals Side By Side

Special Wire to The Examiner:

TORONTO, Jan. 29—Sir James Whitney, Premier of Ontario, and Sir Georger Ross, leader of the Opposition majority in the Senate of Canada, to-day occupy adjoining suites in Toronto General Hospital. It is a peculiar coincidence that they are old political oponents, for it was Whitney's party that ousted Ross from power at the Ontario Legislative Buildings just a stone's throw from the Hospital. This morning Ross's condition is reported serious and Sir James' as satisfactory.

South Dakota and South Carolina are the only States in which tin is reduced.

The Work Of Local Health Association

The work done by the Peterborough Health Association during the month of December was, according to the reports presented by the nurses, not only extensive but most effective. One nurse has had under her care thirty patients; to these she has paid one hundred and thirty-five visits of longer or shorter duration. Out of the thirty cases twenty-one were suffering from pulmonary tuberculosis. Thirty of these visits were paid for by the families visited, which shows a commendable disposition on the part of those who have little to render whatever self help they find themselves able to give.

The report of another nurse shows 23 cases under her charge, principally among the very poor.

Those who were present at the meeting for the first time could not fail to be impressed with the excellent work being done by this Association. The history of some of the cases of tuberculosis is distressing in the extreme. The following clauses from the report, presented by one of the nurses, will give some idea of the need of this ministry and the nature of the work done by the nurses from day to day.

"I found the patient amid very squalid surroundings; a small room with one very small window, which lacked several pieces of glass, which had been replaced by some old, cast-off garments for fear any air might enter."

In another case where he father is the patient: "One room was used as a sleeping room for the entire family; the other as the general living room. There are only two rooms in the house."

In another case, the nurse says in her report: "This is the case of a mother. She has six children. The husband has just returned to his work after a long period of unemployment. The mother spent some time in Gravenhurst and returned somewhat improved, but has lost ground recently. One of the children shows unmistakable symptoms of tuberculosis."

These facts should be known to our entire community. While thousands of dollars are sent out of our City annually for benevolent purposes we should surely let the charitably disposed know that we have at our very doors those that sorely need our help Great credit is due to the Association which has been rendering this service in a quiet way. When the appeal comes for a modest sum for a local Sanatorium the people will delight to meet their responsibility.

A SLUR ON A DECENT DANCE.

To the Editor, The Examiner:

Sir,—In The Examiner of January 26th, I read a report of a sermon on "How to improve the morals of a City?" delivered by Rev. Mr. Peever, of George Street Church. I can only hope that a portion of that gentleman's eloquent address was distorted in the report. This talented pastor is quoted as having said:

"Thirdly, the low moral life was due in a measure to the large place that was given to the public dances in the life of the city. You may tango them, or you may not tango them, public dances belonged to the ideals of fifty years ago. The freight sheds could not be opened without a dance being held, just as fifty years ago a barn dance was held when a barn had been erected."

Now, Mr. Editor, I decidedly take exception to having the dance held in our freight shed conflict in the same paragraph as that denouncing the "tango." Whether the reverend gentleman intended it or not there is a direct insinuation that the "tango" was danced at our function. This is absolutely false. I gave distinct instruction that neither the "tango," "turkey trot," or any similar dance would be allowed, and no such dances were in evidence.

I consider that any one who would take offence at any dance held in our freight shed is either morbidly sensitive, has a diseased imagination, or would whip the people under the yoke of such old time blue laws as when women were burned as witches.

I might add that many of the reverend gentleman's parishioners were among those present at our dance. They saw nothing objectionable, and helped by their attendance to swell the sum we presented to local charity as a result of the dance.

(Signed) W. S. DODD.

40TH BIRTHDAY OF ROCKEFELLER THE SECOND

Special Wire to The Examiner:

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., reached his fortieth birthday anniversary to-day, having been born January 29, 1874. There was no ostentatious celebration of the anniversary at the Rockefeller home. Surrounded by the members of his family, Mr. Rockefeller passed the day with little variance from his customary routine. Presents and messages of good wishes were received from relatives and intimate friends, while some called in person to offer their congratulations.

If he lives, and he is in the best of health now, young Mr. Rockefeller will some day undoubtedly be one of the richest men in the world. As the only son and principal heir of John D. Rockefeller he will inherit the bulk of the collossal fortune which the latter has accumulated in the oil business, in coal, iron and copper mines, in railroad and steamship lines and in almost countless other industries. The extent of the fortune can only be roughly estimated. The owner himself is reported to have said that he could not estimate his wealth within ten or fifteen million dollars.

And yet, the heir to this vast wealth is scarcely known to the general public. From time to time, mainly because of his activities in connection the Bible class of the Fifth Avenue Baptist Church, his name has appeared in public prints, but he has attracted far less attention than most men of his prominence.

The Standard Oil magnate had already laid the foundation of his wealth when his only son was born. Of the boy's early days little is known, except to members of his immediate family. He was educated by private tutors and then was sent to Brown University. This university was chosen, it is said, to keep him from the temptations of larger colleges. At Brown the young man was known as a hard student, but not as a recluse. He was fond of swimming and skating and was manager of the football team. He was not over robust at that time and this fact probably kept him from active participation in the more strenuous sports.

Soon after leaving college he entered the offices of the Standard Oil Company in this city, and for years thereafter he worked as hard as any of the clerks. Here he gained practical experience in many phases of business and finance, and soon became sharer of his father's business burdens. He astonished Wall Street in 1900 by engineering a deal in United States Leather, whereby he is credited with making $1,000,000. Following this he directed a copper and transportation deal which largely advanced freight rates and gave the Rockefellers control of the shipping of the Great Lakes. He became a director in many of the great corporations in which his father was interested.

The private life of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., is as correct as his father's has been. He has never smoked or drank, or indulged in any weakening dissipation. He has the same implicit faith in the Christian religion, as taught and practiced in the Baptist Church, that has distinguished his father. He cares little for society, outside of the church, although he does not ignore it altogether. He is fond of music and loves to fiddle. He plays the violin very well and it is one of his chief solaces. He is devoted to his family, but his great passions are the church work and the making of money.

Although keenly interested in the great educational and philanthropic projects fostered and financed by his father, young Mr. Rockefeller has been very little identified with public affairs. In 1901 he was one of the Committee of Thirty-six to arbitrate labour disputes appointed by the National Federation In 1908 he was foreman of a grand jury, and again, a year or so later, he was made foreman of the grand jury appointed to inquire into the "white slave" traffic. In this capacity he did work which brought forth many commendations from fellow jurors and from officials with whom he came in contact.

Mr. Rockefeller was married in 1901 to Abbey Green Aldrich, daughter of Senator Aldrich of Rhode Island. They have had five children, the eldest being a daughter who was named for her mother, born Nov. 9, 1903. The next child is a son, born March 22, 1906, and named for his father and grandfather, John D. Rockefeller, III. The third child is another son, named for his maternal grandfather, Nelson Rockefeller. A third son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Rockefeller in 1910, and a fourth in 1912.

The marriage of Mr. Rockefeller and Miss Aldrich in Providence was one of the great events of that season. One thousand people were present and the gifts were valued at $700,000. In deference to Mr. Rockefeller's opinion on the liquor question, wine was barred at the wedding feast.

PLAYS AND PLAYERS

Walker Whiteside has sailed for Europe.

Margaret Anglin has been meeting with great success in Canada.

Laurence Irving will open his Canadian tour in Montreal early in February.

The new Viennese musical comedy, "The Laughing Husband," will have its New York opening on February 2.

"The Crinoline Girl," featuring Julian Eltinge, will be presented for the first time in Atlantic City February 9.

Edgar Selwyn, one of the most successful of present-day American playwrights, is at work on a play called "Rolling Stones."

James Forbes has written a comedy called "Stung," in which the leading part will be taken by Zelda Sears.

"The House of Bondage" is soon to be produced with Elita Proctor Otis, Tully Marshall and Cecil Spooner in the cast.

Prof. Brander Matthews has written a play called "The Welcome Guest," in which Amelia Gardner and Mrs. Louis James will have parts.

Anita M. Baldwin, daughter of "Lucky" Baldwin, wrote the incidental music for "Omar, the Tentmaker," now appearing in New York.

Elsie Ferguson in "The Strange Woman" will begin a tour of the large cities of the East and Middle West following the close of her New York engagement.

Beginning next week New York will have an opportunity to see Blanche Ring in "When Claudia Smiles," in which she has already toured New England and Canada.

George Arliss, now engaged in a successful Western tour in "Disraeli," plans to appear in the character of Nero in a new play built around that emperor.

Eugene Walter, from whom little has been heard recently, has completed a new play which is said to deal with the attitude of the men of "big business" toward an associate who incurs popular displeasure in his domestic affairs.

A rather notable cast is appearing in "The Rule of Three," the new farce written by Guy Bolton, and based on the humour of easy divorce laws. Among the members of the company are Katherine Grey, Orrin Johnson, Ann Meredith and Maude Granger.

While playing hockey on Saturday afternoon Master Fronk Moore had the misfortune to have his shoulder bone broken.

Dr. Sharpe, of New York, has been the guest of Dr. and Mrs. W. T. Harrison the past week.

Mr. John Wedlock visited his sister, Mrs. Boyle, at Hastings last Thursday.

The masquerade ball given by the manager of the rink last Friday night was a splendid success. Mrs. Richard Elmhirst was given the prize for best dressed lady.

Mr. and Mrs. William Wedlock, Sr., and Mrs. Zankey spent Sunday with friends at Villiers.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Howson, of Peterborough, spent Sunday at the home of Mr. Howson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Howson.

Word has been received by the friends of Mr. James Quinn, that he is ill at the home of his brother, at Rochester, N. Y.

Misses Adrienne Vanluver and Laura Mcfarlane are visiting friends at Toronto.

The Keene Hockey team played with the Hastings team, at Hastings, on Thursday night, and was beaten by a score of 5 to 3.

Mr. Duncan Macfarlane spent the week-end with friends at Peterborough.

The sale of stock, farming implements, etc., of Mr. Herbert Miller on Monday, was largely attended, and every thing brought a good price.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Rennie entertained the Young Ladies' Bible Class and the teacher, Mr. David Edwards, at their home, Lake View, last Friday evening.

The Hiagatha Gun Club and members of the Keene Gun Club attended the shooting tournament at Cobourg on Tuesday.

FORMERLY RESIDED IN PETERBOROUGH

Death is Recorded in Toronto of Mr. R. S. Grundy

TORONTO, Jan. 28.—A well-known citizen of Toronto passed away Monday in the person of R. S. Grundy, who died at his residence, 137 Victor Avenue.

Mr. Grundy was born in Ashby-de-la-Zouche, England, 72 years ago, coming to Peterborough, Ontario, when a young man. Later he went to Brooklin. Twenty-five years ago he came to Toronto and has remained here since.

In lodge matters, Mr. Grundy was prominent, having been recording secretary of Broadview Lodge, I.O.O.F., for 15 years, retiring from the office two years ago. He was also a member of the Sons of England. For the past two or three years he has been an inspector in the Medical Health Department.

The deceased is survived by two brothers in the States, a sister in Kingston, the widow, one son and four daughters, all of the children living in Toronto.

"CASCARETS" CLEANSE LIVER AND BOWELS

Cure Sick Headache, Constipation, Biliousness, Sour Stomach, Bad Breath—Candy Cathartic

Get a 10-cent box now.

Are you keeping your liver, stomach and bowels clean, pure and fresh with Cascarets—or merely forcing a passageway every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil? This is important.

Cascarets immediately cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system the constipated waste matter and poison in the bowels.

No odds how sick, headachy, bilious and constipated you feel, a Cascaret to-night will straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep. A 10-cent box from your druggist will keep your head clear, stomach sweet and your liver and bowels regular for months. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a gentle cleansing, too.

FRY'S Cocoa—"Good For Building With"—

DELICIOUS in flavor, and tempting for little folks, FRY'S Cocoa undoubtedly is. But its goodness more than matches its taste—for FRY'S is all nourishment. For instance—nearly one-fifth its bulk is albumen, and albumen is only another form of flesh. Fat, it has, in large proportion—for the making of energy. Little bodies thrive—cheeks bloom with health—when FRY'S is used regularly. Made from a selection of the world's choicest growths of cocoa beans—and by methods matchless after 200 years' experience—FRY'S has no peer amongst cocoas.

IS LEAVING FOR COLBORNE

Principal of Public School at Hastings Has Resigned

Examiner Special:

HASTINGS, Jan. 26.—The Ladies' Aid of the Methodist Church are busy practicing for an entertainment to be given some time in February.

A number from this district attended the public auction sale at Mr. McDonald's farm near Norwood on Wednesday last. A large crowd was in attendance and prices ran high.

The soft weather of the past week took away some of the snow, but there still is plenty left.

Some of our young ladies have been out for a snow-shoe tramp and report a lively time; others are making the most of the skating season. The manager of the rink is arranging for a grand carnival to be held about the end of the month if the ice is in good condition.

Mr. Roy Watson, of Norwood, spent Sunday in town.

Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Baker spent Thursday last with friends in Warkworth.

Mr. Geo. Horne is disposing of his household effects, intending to leave Hastings in the near future.

Miss Jennie Mundy, of Toronto, has been the guest of her sister, Mrs. F. English, of Asphodel.

Rev. Fr. McCarthy, of Peterborough, spent a few days during the past week under the parental roof.

Mrs. H. Collins, of Asphodel, has been visiting at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Geo. Douglas,.

Miss Florence Tyler, of Toronto, is holidaying with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Tyler.

Rev. D. A. Thomson was in Peterborough during the past week attending a meeting of the Presbytery.

Miss Ruby Comstock, of Peterborough, spent the week-end at her home near Hastings.

Mr. and Mrs. J. McNaughton, of Norwood, gave us a call on Saturday.

Mr. G. R. Mikel, of Colborne, spent Saturday and Sunday with friends here.

Mr. Robert McKee, of Western Canada, is the guest of his brother, Mr. T. McKee.

At the close of the Sunday School session in the Methodist Church on Sunday morning, a high tribute of respect was paid to Mr O. Ostrander, principal of the Public School, and one of the teaching staff of the Sunday School. Much regret is expressed at losing him from our midst. Mr. Ostrander leaves in the near future to take a position in Colborne.

Miss Hilda West has been visiting friends in Ottawa and vicinity.

Our local merchants are busy stock-taking and bargains in remnants are being offered to the public.

Miss Locke, of Campbellford, was in town on Thursday.

Globular Lightning.

According to Professor W. M. Thornton of Armstrong college, globular lightning descends slowly from a cloud, generally after a violent clap of thunder, in the form of a brilliant bluish ball. It bounds from the earth when it touches and then moves off a few yards horizontally. These balls readily follow an electric conductor—a gas pipe, for instance—and burst when they touch water or sometimes in the open air. The ball then disappears instantaneously with a violent explosion, which may do damage and which produces a strong smell of ozone.

Thornton believes with reason that globular lightning is made up principally of a mass of ozone. This hypothesis explains why the color of the ball is usually bluish, why the tendency is always downward through the air, ozone being of a density about 1.7 times that of air, and finally why the instantaneous disappearance of the ball is accompanied by an explosion, for the transformation of ozone into oxygen liberates a great quantity of energy.

PARALYZED LIMBS

To-day it is sleeplessness, headaches, digestive trouble, and irritability. Next thing you know some form of paralysis has developed. Mr. Alex. Honsburger, 18 Moore Street, St. Catharines, Ont., writes: "Nervous trouble developed into paralysis of the limbs so that I became helpless. Doctors failed me, but after using ten boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I resumed work, and now feel better than I did for 10 years."

ITEMS OF NEWS FROM CHEMONG RESERVE

CHEMONG, Jan. 27.—Last Sunday Mr. Bell, of Toronto, occupied the pulpit. He preached on Temperance.

On Sunday, January 18th, to Mr. and Mrs. I. D. Taylor, Jr., was born a son.

Messrs. Moses Marsden and James Loukes, of Alderville, were here last week on a short visit to Albert Wheeler.

Owing to the inclemency of the weather, the Chemong Choir failed to attend the Sunday School convention at Wesley Church, North Smith, held on Wednesday, the 21st. The Chemongites were snowbound for many hours following the recent snowstorm.

Messrs. Alf. McCue and H. C. Bell have attended the Sunday School convention at Wesley Church. Mr. Alf. McCue, of Chemong, was elected to the presidency of the Sunday School Association of North Smith and Harvey townships, and also Chemong, while Mr. Samuel Woods, of Buckhorn, was made secretary.

The Chemong band is going to have a tea and concert Jan. 29. A big crowd is expected.

Mr. Peter Crowe, of Alderville, is expected to be present at the entertainment, and will give an interesting speech, all in English. Don't miss it.

The day after the tea meeting, the Alderville, Hiawatha and Scugog and Chemong bands are going to have a big council.

ALGEBRA TO BE MADE INTO POETRY.

It is reported that a French teacher has invented a system for teaching algebra in poetry. About 55 years ago there was an educational system in vogue by which a considerable share of the academic curriculum was set to music and sung by the teachers and classes. Even the multiplication table was one of the songs with the fives column as a chorus, sung to the tune of 'Yankee Doodle.'

Woolwich Arsenal Secure High-Class Players

Leading Scorers

The enterprise of Woolwich Arsenal in securing players of the class of John Rutherford and Robert Benson is bearing fruit, for the excellent position the club is now in is in a great measure due to the steadying influence of these players. The support being accorded to the club is most gratifying, the gates averaging well over $3,500 per match, which is a tremendous improvement on what the club took at Woolwich. Perhaps the most gratifying feature is that the success of the Arsenal has in no way injured Tottenham Hotspurs, as the latter have taken for the first half of the season well over $10,000 more than they did last year.

Few Glasgow players are worth less than $10,000 when English managers inquire after their health.

Colin Veitch thinks the kidney punch should be put out of action in fotoball as well as boxing.

Manchester City's victory over Newcastle United on New Year's Day was in a great measure due to Lawrence.

It is said that Henry, the Manchester City full back, will shortly be seen in the ranks of Aston Villa.

During the first four months of the season from September 1 to December 29, the leading scorers of goals during the campaign come out thus, according to our statistics:

D. Shea, Blackburn Rovers	20
W. Reid, Airdrieonians	18
P. Dawson, Hearts	18
S. Stevens, Hull City	17
J. G. Peart, Notts County	16
Jas. Robertson, Falkirk	15
F. Smith, Crystal Palace	15
H. Barnes, Derby County	14
H. King, Northampton	14
G. W. Elliott, Middlesbrough	13
G. Lillycrop, Bolton	13
J. Kitchen, Sheffield United	13
Jas. Smith, Bradford	13
T. Little, Bradford	13
W. Reid, Glasgow Rangers	13
R. M. Morton, Queen's Park	13
S. Fazackerley, Sheffield United	12
W. M'Leod, Leeds City	12
S. Richards, Notts County	12
A. Stonley, Woolwich	11
W. Miller, Brighton	11
G. A. Davidson, Coventry City	11
H. Fleming, Swindon	11
A. R. Leafe, West Ham	11
P. Gallagher, Glasgow Celtic	11
Jas. Hendren, Hibernians	11
G. Anderson, Manchester United	10

HOLLY TO MANAGE TORONTO

Crack Shortstop Will Lead the Queen City Canadian Leaguers

TORONTO, Jan. 29.—Eddie Holly, the former Toronto International League shortstop, was last night appointed to the management of the Toronto Canadian Leaguers. Holly broke into the National League with Brooklyn, playing afterward with Rochester, Montreal and Toronto. He has had some managerial experience and has shown marked aptitude in that capacity. As a player he is resourceful and a fighter. The Toronto Canadian Leaguers and President Fitzgerald of the league are to be warmly congratulated on the acquisition of Eddie Holly.

TURNED TABLES ON OSHAWA TEAM

WHITBY, Jan. 28.—Whitby O. H. A. intermediates sprang a surprise on Oshawa here to-night and walked away with the long end of a 4 to 1 score. The game was exceedingly fast, and was fought every inch of the way. The half-time score was 2 to 0. The second period saw a determined onslaught on the Whitby goal, which netted only one goal for Oshawa. The line-up:

Oshawa. The line-up:

Quinn and Freeman; centre, J. Smith; rover, W. Fair; wings, Murphy and Canning.

Whitby—Goal, Jubb; defence, B. Smith and McIntyre; centre, Rice; rover, Lavery; wings, C. Blanchard and Watson.

Referee—Harvey Sproule.

HOCKEY.

The Aura Lee Club accept the challenge of the Bell Telephone Co. to a game of hockey.

BOXING

Jim Flynn, the Pueblo heavyweight, is taking them on in New York as fast as he can sign for the bouts.

Some more soft money in sight for Johnny Kilbane. He is going to Philadelphia Feb. 2nd to box Eddie Moy again.

Eddie Murphy is to get a chance to box Freddie Welsh, if a St. Louis promoter can bring the pair together.

The boxing game opens in Youngstown, O., Feb. 2, with George Chip and Leo Houck furnishing the star bout of the evening.

Promoter Coffroth of San Francisco, has signed Gunboat Smith and Jess Willard for a battle July 4. Smith defeated Willard in a 20-round bout at Fresno last May.
